Drug charges quadruple in 1998

Grafton, ND - The number of drug citations issued by Grafton Police Department more than quadrupled last year.

Statistics from 1998 indicate that 45 citations were issued to adults for possession of a controlled substance or paraphernalia, compared to ten in 1997 and only four in 1996.

Police chief LeRoy McCann attributed the increase to increased activity by the department's drug task force. Liquor violations also increased significantly from 50 citations in 1997 to 97 in 1998. The Walsh County Record

Union/Lake Sarah Assn. approves pumping method

Erskine - Union/Lake Sarah Outlet Committee approved HDR's recommendation to pump excess water out of the west end of Union Lake into the Sand Hill River.

The lake water would flow through about half a mile of pipe to cross federal wildlife land and then flow through natural drainages to the river about five miles to the southwest.

The pumping option was favored because it could be accomplished at a quicker pace, perhaps as soon as this fall. The Erskine Echo

Good Samaritans at large in Bemidji area

Bemidji - When three young Bemidji men found a wallet recently at the Paul Bunyan Mall, they went looking for its owner who turned out to be a Texas woman who was on vacation and visiting her parents in Fosston.

Dealing with two tired toddlers and distraught over having lost her wallet, Kelly Shank forgot to ask the young men's names.

Shank's vacation had been riddled with bad luck—missed and delayed flights, lost luggage and more—to the point where she wished she'd stayed home. The act of kindness by the three young men, however, changed Shank's attitude. "... everything bad was magically erased," she said. The Pioneer

Former McIntosh man receives military honors

McIntosh - After more than 50 years, veteran Bernie Nornes knows what it's like to have his medals pinned to his chest. Nornes and six other World War II veterans were honored February 16 at a ceremony in Fargo, ND.

Before an audience of more than 100 family members and friends, the awards were presented by Senator Kent Conrad and Hershel Gober, the deputy secretary of Veterans Affairs.

Nornes flew unarmed cargo planes over India, Burma and China, bringing supplies to allied troops. He was awarded the Air Medal, Good Conduct Medal, American Campaign Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal, two Bronze Stars, a WWII Victory Medal, an Honorable Service lapel button, and a Marksman badge with carbine and pistol bars.

For his 400 combat flying hours, Nornes was awarded the Army's eighth highest award, the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Bernie Nornes lives in Fargo and was a 1940 graduate of McIntosh High School. The McIntosh Times

T.R.F. Fire Department makes 162 calls in '98

Thief River Falls Fire Department recorded 162 calls during 1998, up nine calls from 1997, and only one call away from its all time record of 163 recorded in 1996.

Thief River Falls Fire department consists of seven full-time staff and about 25 volunteer firemen. The department has averaged about 130 calls per year for the past 15 years, but the average has been going up every year.

The Thief River Falls fire district covers 198 square miles. It includes the six townships of Excel, Norden, North, Rocksbury, Silverton and Smiley. The fire department also has mutual aid contracts with eight neighboring fire departments within 40 miles of Thief River Falls — Crookston, Goodridge, Middle River, Newfolden, Plummer, Red Lake Falls, St. Hilaire and Warren.

The 162 calls recorded in 1998 consisted of a diverse variety of calls. In all, there were 31 structure fires, 13 vehicle fires, 17 grass fires, two mutual aid calls, 22 smoke calls and good intention calls, 14 public service calls, four electrical fires, nine spills, leaks or hazardous conditions, 14 home, apartment and garage fires, and 13 appliance fires.

The largest number of calls was due to false alarms. Of the 47 false alarms reported, 10 were due to children pulling alarms. The most frequent location for false alarms (due to system problems) was to the depot.

There were no civilian fire deaths or injuries during 1998, but there were several vehicle accident injuries. One injury became a fatality.

Of the 31 structure fires recorded in the fire district, three were due to friction or clogged machinery, one to a woodstove, three to smoking materials, seven to cooking, nine to electrical, three to heating devices, and two to juveniles playing with fire. The estimated dollar damage was placed at $870,000, which is far less than $859,000 recorded in 1997, and $993,500 in 1996.

The fire department responded to 33 incidents in the townships in 1998. Rocksbury had 10, North 8, Smiley 5, Excel 5, Norden 3, and Silverton 2.

During the year, fire fighters participate in extra training. During 1998, training totaled 796 hours.

Public Relations

A large part of the job of firefighter involves public service. During 1998, firemen assisted at safety camp, the Demolition Derby, witnessing fire drills at Challenger, providing tours of the fire station including tours for kindergartner students in the community during Fire Prevention week, providing demonstrations to such places as Discovery Place, Head Start, and Pre-school functions. The fire department also took part in Career Days, fire extinguisher demonstrations, on-site inspections and parades. The fire department even hauled water for a log rolling show and to build a kitty-cat snowmobile race track.

In their annual report to the city council, Rick Jensen and Barry Fellman stated, "We hope to continue to operate an effective and safe department. Obviously, our goals are to eliminate loss of life and injury and to minimize losses. We have excellent personnel and good equipment, but fire can be very dangerous and unpredictable."

Job Fair '99 scheduled March 17 at TRF armory

Open to job seekers and explorers from high school students to experienced workers presently employed, Job Fair '99 will be presented Wednesday, March 17, from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls.

Co-sponsoring the event are Thief River Falls Jobs Inc., Northland Community and Technical College and the local Minnesota WorkForce Center located at NCTC.

Approximately 25 booths will be arranged by a variety of area employers seeking workers with diverse skills. Demonstrations and mini-sessions will also be conducted during the day, according to Jeff Gustafson and Pat Bjerknes, who are coordinating the fifth annual event.

Mini-sessions during the morning include "Job Application Completion" at 10:30 a.m., "Interviewing Tips" at 11 a.m. and "Building a Resume and Writing a Cover Letter" at 11:30 a.m.

Afternoon demonstrations feature "America's Talent Bank" (an electronic resume service) at 1 p.m. and "Choices CT" (career exploration) at 1:30 p.m. Throughout the day there will also be demonstrations on "Labor Market Information" at the WorkForce Center booth and "Minnesota Career Information System" at the Northland Community and Technical College booth.

"Many of the employers who are participating in the Job Fair are in search of workers ready to begin immediate employment," Jeff Gustafson said. "There are worker shortages in a number of areas throughout northwest Minnesota and many available positions are not entry level production jobs."

"People presently employed but wanting to change or upgrade their employee status may be surprised at the number and types of positions available," Pat Bjerknes added. "The diversity of employers taking part in the Job Fair is an indication of the variety of workers needed to meet demand.

"Among the positions which Job Fair participants have indicated they need to fill are Registered Nurses and Licensed Practical Nurses, office personnel, CAD drafting, designers, engineers, purchasing agents, quality assurance engineers,

Larry and Marge Bjorsness: Valley Farmer and Homemaker

By Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Being selected as Marshall county's Valley Farmer and Homemaker took Larry and Marge Bjorsness by surprise.

"They don't know what kind of homemaker I am," Marge laughs. She attributed the award to Larry's community involvement. Larry, on the other hand, said that Marge's name was listed first on the envelope of the letter that notified them of the award. "So, I figured I was the tag along," he jests.

In actuality, it was the contributions of both Larry and Marge that spurred Marshall county extension officials to honor them with the annual Valley Farmer and Homemaker award.

Every year, couples from 16 Minnesota counties are selected for the award sponsored by the Red River Valley Development Association, formerly sponsor of the Red River Valley Winter Shows.

The Bjorsness' thoroughly enjoyed the 61st annual awards banquet held at noon at the University of Minnesota, Crookston, on Saturday, February 27. Honorees were asked to submit the photographs that were used in a slide presentation, and Bob Bergland spoke after receiving the 1999 Builder of the Valley award. Marge and Larry especially enjoyed the entertainment provided by UMC's choir and Resonance, a Thief River Falls quartet.

Larry Bjorsness was born and raised on the farm southwest of Newfolden that was homesteaded by his grandparents, emigrants from Norway. Larry's father was born and spent his entire life on that farm as well as having the foresight to purchase an adjoining farm.

Larry bought the neighboring farm from his dad in the early 1950's. His brother John farms the original land, a Century Farm. Larry's farm consists of 1,130 acres. John has about the same amount of acreage, and the brothers share equipment and, along with some part-time seasonal employees, the work.

Larry went to grade school at a country school and after graduating from Newfolden high school attended the School of Agriculture in St. Paul, a two-year post-high school program affiliated with the University of Minnesota.

He married Margery Christensen Sollom, a young widow who had grown up on a dairy farm east of Thief River Falls. They will celebrate their 37th anniversary next month. A question about whether their decision to marry in April had anything to do with spring's farm work brought a chuckle. In addition to that, it was also a time, Easter vacation, when Marge had a few days off from her teaching duties.

Twenty of Marge's 25-year teaching career were spent in Newfolden, first as a fourth grade teacher and then teaching elementary remedial education. Marge retired in the spring of 1984.

The couple has three children. Oldest daughter Joydell Skjerven lives just down the road, and their second daughter, Carol LaFrance, lives in Fargo. The couple's son, Michael Sollom, lives in Holland, Michigan. They are the proud grandparents of 11 grandchildren.

Up until 15 years ago the couple raised beef cattle and sheep. Marge misses the lambs, especially in the springtime, but neither of the Bjorsness' miss the work that accompanies livestock.

For the past two years, canola has been their chief crop along with some wheat and barley. Larry spent a couple of years researching canola before planting it and is very pleased with the results. Besides growing his best crops ever in the past two years, he's excited, too, that technology has resulted in a new Roundup spray that will wipe out weeds without killing the canola.

At this time of the year Larry

Larry and Marge Bjorsness of rural Newfolden were named Marshall county's Valley Farmer and Homemaker for 1999. The couple was honored along with couples from 15 other Minnesota counties at a noon banquet at the University of Minnesota-Crookston, on Saturday, February 27.

Ericksons earn Farmer, Homemaker recognition

Snooky's farming career was cut short in 1977. It was a mild, rainy day, and he thought it would be a good time to do some work in the silo. Not realizing that the rain had turned to ice, he slipped and fell 50 feet onto concrete. "It was right before Christmas," Helen said. "I went south for six months that winter," Snooky jests. South was to Grand Forks, and the six months were spent in the hospital. Although considered a paraplegic, Snooky walks with the use of two canes.

Helen milked the cows by herself for a year, and then Joel, a student at North Dakota State University, returned home to take over the farm.

Today, Joel is the only dairy farmer left in the township. He lives on the farm with his wife, Lisa, and their four-year-old daughter, Hannah. "She has grandpa wrapped right around her little finger," Snooky laughs. Hannah also has much of grandma's attention. Helen goes to the farm every day to care for her while her mother Lisa instructs hand at Middle River School.

Axel, a 14-year-old German shepherd, rounds out the Erickson family. "One of the neighbors brought him over when he was a pup and asked if we would take him because he wouldn't stay at home," Snooky said. "We tied him up for about half an hour, and he's been with us ever since." The calm canine is never far from his owners and accompanies them nearly everywhere they go. Axel waits patiently in the car when they're in church or shopping and goes with Helen every day when she goes to the farm to care for Hannah.

Snooky's agricultural degree came in handy years later. He worked for the Roseau County Extension Service as an agricultural mediator in 1987-88. The farm crisis of the 1980's necessitated the creation of the position, and Snooky acted as a "go-between" between farmers and lending institutions. His employment with the extension service continued through July of 1996 when he went to work as the branch manager and loan officer at Border State Bank in Badger.

The list of ag related organizations Snooky has been a member of over the years is long and impressive and includes the Roseau County Extension Commission, Farm Bureau, Land O'Lakes board, American Dairy Association, Farmers Union, Dairy Herd Improvement Association, Red River Valley Dairymen's Association, Holstein Association, Northwest Dairy Day and the Federal Land Bank's advisory board. Often, he assumed roles of leadership.

During his stint on the Badger School board Snooky served as chairman for three years and was on the advisory board of Crookston Technical College. He has also served his church in a variety of capacities, and he and Helen were 4-H leaders for over 10 years.

Snooky's slowing down a bit these days. After more than 20 years, 1998 was his last year on the Roseau County Fair Board. "I'm getting out of things, and she's getting in," he says, referring to his wife.

Gardening is Helen's passion, and she especially enjoys flowers. She is active in the activities of Badger's Grow-rite garden club and the 13th District Horticultural Society, and she enjoys exhibiting her flowers and plants at the county fair and area horticultural shows.

Five years ago the Ericksons built a new home a mile from the farm. The open floor plan gives the beautifully decorated smaller home a feeling of spaciousness. Lush, leafy houseplants are evidence of Helen's green thumb.

White wicker furniture decorates the sunroom that faces the backyard. From there, the couple can enjoy a view of Helen's gardens in the summer and spend quiet winter evenings watching the deer that come in for the feed they provide.

Snooky is an avid reader. "I read everything I can get my hands on," he says. Currently, he's reading a series of historical accounts in an attempt to understand why his grandfather chose to immigrate to America. He's also reading Tom Brokaw's Greatest Generation. "I even take a book with me when I'm on the tractor," Snooky says. "If I get stuck, I'll read until someone comes to get me out."

Snooky comes from some hearty Scandinavian stock. His grandfather lived to be 94, and his father, Andy, died five years ago. His mother, Olme, lives in Greenbush and at 91 is an active member of the local garden club. According to a story in this week's Greenbush Tribune, she's also looking forward to a trip to the Minnesota State Girls' Basketball Tournament where she and other women who contributed to the sport before 1942 will be honored. Olme was a member of the 1924 Greenbush girls' basketball team winning the local and district championships. "She's quite the lady," Helen says when talking about her mother in law.

With regard to the current agricultural crisis, Snooky's words are heartfelt. "It's a shame," he says. He foresees that much of the land being brought out of CRP will remain idle, at least for a while, because few have the money to bring it back into production. "Somehow, we've got to get some money into the hands of the farmers," he says. He also notes that had it not been for industries like Polaris, Marvin Windows, Arctic Cat and Digi-Key employing farm family members, many farmers would already have been out of business.

Snooky's common sense and agricultural experience are surely an asset at Border State Bank where he truly enjoys working with and helping people. "And sometimes that means turning them down," he says. Kindness is his most obvious personality trait.

While quieter than her husband, Helen shares his thoughtful nature, and that gentle kindness is reflected in their comfortable home and easy hospitality. It's no wonder Axel had no desire to roam!

Dedicated to the spirit of the farm, their family and community, Snooky and Helen Erickson are good people and an excellent choice to represent Roseau county as Valley Farmer and Homemaker.

Past Commanders and Presidents dinner set for Legion March 12

Past Commanders and Presidents dinner for Post 117 of the American Legion and its Auxiliary will be held Friday, March 12, at 7 p.m. in the Evergreen Eating Emporium in Thief River Falls.

An article in the Northern Watch incorrectly listed the date as Saturday, March 13. Cost of the meal is $6 and reservations may be made by March 5 by calling 681-1341.

Mock trial team has first defeat; loses regional

Fergus Falls successfully defended its regional title Thursday in edging the Lincoln high school mock trial team from Thief River Falls by a score of 185-182 at the Clay county courthouse in Moorhead.

Presiding judge Lisa N. Borgen scored the trial 94-92 for Fergus Falls and scoring judge John T. Goff gave the edge to Moorhead 91-90. Lincoln represented the prosecution in the case and defending state champion Fergus Falls the defense.

A summary of the trial will be published in the March 3 edition of the Thief River Falls Times.

GAHS operates senior center in Goodridge

Goodridge Area Historical Society (GAHS) is now handling management and maintenance of the senior center in Goodridge under an agreement which became effective on January 1.

The senior center had been operated by a group holding the title of Goodridge Senior Citizens, which entered into the agreement with the GAHS. The agreement obligates the historical society to provide maintenance and repair of the senior center which is used for many events and occasions each month.

Dawn Hanson will continue to schedule events at the senior center and may be contacted at 378-4328. Persons who have other questions about the agreement or suggestions for the center may call 378-4380.

Lincoln choir concert: One World Many Voices

"It is a haunting and energetic piece," Mrs. Reese said. "The lady section breaks up into four separate parts that are only half a beat behind one another, which makes for a very rhythmically challenging piece."

Male voices from the Concert Choir will open the American segment of the concert with a traditional song entitled Vive L'Amour, featuring baritone soloist Andy Janisch. "The harmonies are rich and the gentlemen do a fine job bringing out the colors of this piece," the director said.

Janna Unhelaun and Katie Christensen will be featured on the American spiritual titled Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel. The finale will be a beautiful arrangement of America the Beautiful, again featuring all 145 voices with accompaniment by Cathy Hagen.

Flags from each of the countries will set the stage with color as authentic recordings are played to represent each of the various countries as the singers enter the stage area.

Mrs. Reese also notes that her music students will be performing the musical Grease March 26-28 at Lincoln. More information on this "exciting and totally cool" musical will be presented in later editions of the Northern Watch and Thief River Falls Times.

Red Lake Electric members nominate three directors

Directors from Districts 1, 4 and 5 of Red Lake Electric Cooperative were unanimously renominated at district member meetings held recently in Oklee, Gentilly and in Smiley township of Pennington county.

Renominated were Michael Bachand at the District 4 meeting in the Oklee Community Center, Barbara Hoefer at the District 1 meeting at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Gentilly and John Hammer at the District 5 meeting in Bethany Lutheran Church in Smiley township. There were 64 people at the Oklee meeting, 26 in Gentilly and 40 at the meeting in Smiley township.

Directors may also be nominated by petition through March 1. At least 15 members in the same district as the nominee must sign a petition of nomination and submit it in writing to the secretary not less than 30 days prior to the annual meeting, which will be held March 31 at the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls. Directors to represent Districts 1, 4 and 5 will be elected at this meeting.

Blank petitions are available at the Red Lake Electric Cooperative business office in Red Lake Falls.

Director Sevigny said that the organization has completed purchase of Lot 3 and Lot 4 comprising approximately 1.4 acres of land from Jake Barnick in the area east of Slumberland Furniture off Highway 59 southeast. Purchase of Lot 2 —a smaller, irregular parcel owned by Slumberland and fronting on Greenwood Street—is expected to be completed in the next few days. The latter purchase is expected to better facilitate placement of the new building on VIP property.

Design and drawings for the building are rapidly progressing by Stegner Phelps Architects and a contract has been signed with Construction Analysis Management of the Brainerd area to serve as construction manager for the project.

"It has been a very busy time but we feel that much is being accomplished and we are heartened by the support of the public, foundations and agencies," Sevigny said.

"We have had offers of some substantial volunteer labor from employees of a local business, and we continue to appreciate both financial donations in any amount and those who want to provide needed labor and other services."

Sevigny said VIP is on course to meet its schedule to begin construction of the new building in 1999.

Drug charges quadruple in 1998

Grafton, ND - The number of drug citations issued by Grafton Police Department more than quadrupled last year.

Statistics from 1998 indicate that 45 citations were issued to adults for possession of a controlled substance or paraphernalia, compared to ten in 1997 and only four in 1996.

Police chief LeRoy McCann attributed the increase to increased activity by the department's drug task force. Liquor violations also increased significantly from 50 citations in 1997 to 97 in 1998. The Walsh County Record

Erskine - Union/Lake Sarah Outlet Committee approved HDR's recommendation to pump excess water out of the west end of Union Lake into the Sand Hill River.

The lake water would flow through about half a mile of pipe to cross federal wildlife land and then flow through natural drainages to the river about five miles to the southwest.

The pumping option was favored because it could be accomplished at a quicker pace, perhaps as soon as this fall. The Erskine Echo

Good Samaritans at large in Bemidji area

Bemidji - When three young Bemidji men found a wallet recently at the Paul Bunyan Mall, they went looking for its owner who turned out to be a Texas woman who was on vacation and visiting her parents in Fosston.

Dealing with two tired toddlers and distraught over having lost her wallet, Kelly Shank forgot to ask the young men's names.

Shank's vacation had been riddled with bad luck—missed and delayed flights, lost luggage and more—to the point where she wished she'd stayed home. The act of kindness by the three young men, however, changed Shank's attitude. ". . . everything bad was magically erased," she said. The Pioneer

Former McIntosh man receives military honors

McIntosh - After more than 50 years, veteran Bernie Nomes knows what it's like to have his medals pinned to his chest. Nomes and six other World War II veterans were honored February 16 at a ceremony in Fargo, ND.

Before an audience of more than 100 family members and friends, the awards were presented by Senator Kent Conrad and Hershel Gober, the deputy secretary of Veterans Affairs.

Nomes flew unarmed cargo planes over India, Burma and China, bringing supplies to allied troops. He was awarded the Air Medal, Good Conduct Medal, American Campaign Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal, two Bronze Stars, a WWII Victory Medal, an Honorable Service lapel button, and a Marksman badge with carbine and pistol bars.

For his 400 combat flying hours, Nomes was awarded the Army's eighth highest award, the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Bernie Nomes lives in Fargo and was a 1940 graduate of McIntosh High School. The McIntosh Times

T.R.F. Fire Department makes 162 calls in '98

Thief River Falls Fire Department recorded 162 calls during 1998, up nine calls from 1997, and only one call away from its all time record of 163 recorded in 1996.

Thief River Falls Fire department consists of seven full-time staff and about 25 volunteer firemen. The department has averaged about 130 calls per year for the past 15 years, but the average has been going up every year.

The Thief River Falls fire district covers 198 square miles. It includes the six townships of Excel, Nordin, North, Rocksbury, Silverton and Smiley. The fire department also has mutual aid contracts with eight neighboring fire departments within 40 miles of Thief River Falls — Crookston, Goodridge, Middle River, Newfolden, Plummer, Red Lake Falls, St. Hilaire and Warren.

The 162 calls occurred in 1998 consisted of a diverse variety of calls. In all, there were 31 structure fires, 13 vehicle fires, 17 grass fires, two mutual aid calls, 22 smoke calls and good intention calls, 14 public service calls, four electrical fires, nine spills, leaks or hazardous conditions, 14 home, apartment and garage fires, and 13 appliance fires.

The largest number of calls was due to false alarms. Of the 47 false alarms reported, 10 were due to children pulling alarms. The most frequent location for false alarms (due to system problems) was to the depot.

There were no civilian fire deaths or injuries during 1998, but there were several vehicle accident injuries. One injury became a fatality.

Of the 31 structure fires recorded in the fire district, three were due to torch or clogged machinery, one to a woodstove, three to smoking materials, seven to cooking, nine to electrical, three to heating devices, and two to juveniles playing with fire. The estimated dollar damage was placed at $370,000, which is far less than $859,000 recorded in 1997, and $993,500 in 1996.

The fire department responded to 33 incidents in the townships in 1998. Rocksbury had 10, North 8, Smiley 5, Excel 5, Nordin 3, and Silverton 2.

During the year, fire fighters participate in extra training. During 1998, training totaled 796 hours.

Public Relations

A large part of the job of firefighter involves public service. During 1998, firemen assisted at safety camp, the Demolition Derby, witnessing fire drills at Challenger, providing tours of the fire station including tours for kindergartner students in the community during Fire Prevention week, providing demonstrations to such places as Discovery Place, Head Start, and Pre-school functions. The fire department also took part in Career Days, fire extinguisher demonstrations, on-site inspections and parades. The fire department even hauled water for a log rolling show and to build a kitty-cat snowmobile race track.

In their annual report to the city council, Rick Jensen and Barry Fellman stated, "We hope to continue to operate an effective and safe department. Obviously, our goals are to eliminate loss of life and injury and to minimize losses. We have excellent personnel and good equipment, but fire can be very dangerous and unpredictable."

Job Fair '99 scheduled March 17 at TRF armory

Open to job seekers and explorers from high school students to experienced workers presently employed, Job Fair '99 will be presented Wednesday, March 17, from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls.

Co-sponsoring the event are Thief River Falls Jobs Inc., Northland Community and Technical College and the local Minnesota WorkForce Center located at NCTC.

Approximately 25 booths will be arranged by a variety of area employers seeking workers with diverse skills. Demonstrations and mini-sessions will also be conducted during the day, according to Jeff Gustafson and Pat Bjerknes, who are coordinating the fifth annual event.

Mini-sessions during the morning include "Job Application Completion" at 10:30 a.m., "Interviewing Tips" at 11 a.m. and "Building a Resume and Writing a Cover Letter" at 11:30 a.m.

Afternoon demonstrations feature "America's Talent Bank" (an electronic resume service) at 1 p.m. and "Choices CT" (career exploration) at 1:30 p.m. Throughout the day there will also be demonstrations on "Labor Market Information" at the WorkForce Center booth and "Minnesota Career Information System" at the Northland Community and Technical College booth.

"Many of the employers who are participating in the Job Fair are in search of workers ready to begin immediate employment," Jeff Gustafson said. "There are worker shortages in a number of areas throughout northwest Minnesota and many available positions are not entry level production jobs."

"People presently employed but wanting to change or upgrade their employee status may be surprised at the number and types of positions available," Pat Bjerknes added. "The diversity of employers taking part in the Job Fair is an indication of the variety of workers needed to meet demand."

"Among the positions which Job Fair participants have indicated they need to fill are Registered Nurses and Licensed Practical Nurses, office personnel, CAD drafting, designers, engineers, purchasing agents, quality assurance engineers,

Larry and Marge Bjorsness: Valley Farmer and Homemaker

By Kuthl Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Being selected as Marshall county's Valley Farmer and Homemaker took Larry and Marge Bjorsness by surprise.

"They don't know what kind of homemaker I am," Marge laughs. She attributed the award to Larry's community involvement. Larry, on the other hand, said that Marge's name was listed first on the envelope of the letter that notified them of the award. "So, I figured I was the tag along," he jests.

In actuality, it was the contributions of both Larry and Marge that spurred Marshall county extension officials to honor them with the annual Valley Farmer and Homemaker award.

Every year, couples from 16 Minnesota counties are selected for the award sponsored by the Red River Valley Development Association, formerly sponsor of the Red River Valley Winter Shows.

The Bjorsness' thoroughly enjoyed the first annual awards banquet held at noon at the University of Minnesota, Crookston, on Saturday, February 27. Honorees were asked to submit the photographs that were used in a slide presentation, and Bob Bergland spoke after receiving the 1999 Builder of the Valley award. Marge and Larry especially enjoyed the entertainment provided by UMC's choir and Resonance, a Thief River Falls quartet.

Larry Bjorsness was born and raised on the farm southwest of Newfolden that was homesteaded by his grandparents, emigrants from Norway. Larry's father was born and spent his entire life on that farm as well as having the foresight to purchase an adjoining farm.

Larry bought the neighboring farm from his dad in the early 1950's. His brother John farms the original land, a Century Farm. Larry's farm consists of 1,130 acres. John has about the same amount of acreage, and the brothers share equipment and, along with some part-time seasonal employees, the work.

Larry went to grade school at a country school and after graduating from Newfolden high school attended the School of Agriculture in St. Paul, a two-year post-high school program affiliated with the University of Minnesota.

He married Margery Christensen Sollom, a young widow who had grown up on a dairy farm east of Thief River Falls. They will celebrate their 37th anniversary next month. A question about whether their decision to marry in April had anything to do with spring's farm work brought a chuckle. In addition to that, it was also a time, Easter vacation, when Marge had a few days off from her teaching duties.

Twenty of Marge's 25-year teaching career were spent in Newfolden, first as a fourth grade teacher and then teaching elementary remedial education. Marge retired in the spring of 1984.

The couple has three children. Oldest daughter Joydell Skjerven lives just down the road, and their second daughter, Carol LaFrance, lives in Fargo. The couple's son, Michael Sollom, lives in Holland, Michigan. They are the proud grandparents of 11 grandchildren.

Up until 15 years ago the couple raised beef cattle and sheep. Marge misses the lambs, especially in the springtime, but neither of the Bjorsness' miss the work that accompanies livestock.

For the past two years, canola has been their chief crop along with some wheat and barley. Larry spent a couple of years researching canola before planting it and is very pleased with the results. Besides growing his best crops ever in the past two years, he's excited, too, that technology has resulted in a new Roundup spray that will wipe out weeds without killing the canola.

At this time of the year Larry

Larry and Marge Bjorsness of rural Newfolden were named Marshall county's Valley Farmer and Homemaker for 1999. The couple was honored along with couples from 15 other Minnesota counties at a noon banquet at the University of Minnesota-Crookston, on Saturday, February 27.

St. Bernard's pupils collect pennies to aid leukemia fight

Students at St. Bernard's school in Thief River Falls collected over $538 in pennies and other change during February for the Minnesota chapter of the Leukemia Society's "Pennies for Patients" program, according to Sister Kathy Kuchar, principal.

"Students in Minnesota continue to show great concern for their communities and for those people who are battling leukemia," said Murray Schmidt, executive director of the society's Minnesota chapter. "We appreciate the leadership of the students. The money they raised will help us cure this deadly disease."

Leukemia is a form of cancer that strikes the blood-forming tissues in children and adults. Leukemia and related cancers will strike some 97,000 Americans each year. The Leukemia Society of America is a national health agency dedicated to seeking the cause and eventual cure of leukemia and its related cancers.

Christopher Moose accepted to MSU

Christopher Moose, son of David and Marlys Moose of Newfolden and a senior at Marshall County Central high school, has been accepted to attend Moorhead State University. He intends to major in computer sciences.

Ground crew for a Minnesota National Guard helicopter load sand into a bucket spreader. The spreader is then attached to the helicopter and the helicopter spreads the sand over a thin strip of ice down the middle of the Thief River. The state is testing a theory that the sand will contribute to the deterioration of the ice and help prevent ice jams and flooding.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaFontaine

Since it is Lent and there are some of us who are trying to do without meat some of the time, let's have some fish recipes today.

Serve this one with creamed peas and boiled potatoes - just like grandma used to make:

SALMON LOAF

1 can flaked salmon
2 eggs, beaten
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup butter, melted
3/4 cup milk
1 cup bread crumbs

Mix all together and place in greased loaf pan. Bake 45 to 50 minutes at 375 degrees.

A simply delicious way to fix your fish without dragging out the frying pan and getting the stove top all splattered:

OVEN FRIED FISH FILLETS

1 pound fish fillets
1/4 cup mayonnaise
Bread crumbs (or crushed corn flakes)
Paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Lemon wedges

Thinly coat fish fillets with mayonnaise. Dredge in bread crumbs and arrange in 9x13 inch baking pan. Sprinkle with paprika, salt and pepper.

Bake at 450 degrees for about 12 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork. Garnish with lemon wedges.

And here's another easy and tasty way to fix that fish without frying:

CRUNCHY FISH FILLETS

2 pounds fish fillets
3 cups rice crispy cereal, crushed to 1 1/2 cups
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
1/2 cup margarine or butter, melted

Place crushed cereal in shallow dish. Stir in salt, pepper and parsley and set aside.

Pour margarine into another dish. Dip fish fillets in butter and then into cereal mixture. Place in single layer in well-greased or foil-lined shallow baking pan.

Bake at 375 degrees for about 25 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Do not cover pan or turn fish while baking.

This dish would be excellent with fresh rolls and a green salad:

CRAB SUPPER PIE

1 cup (4 ounces) Swiss cheese, shredded
1 unbaked pie shell
1 (7 1/2 ounces) can crabmeat, drained and flaked
2 green onions, sliced and with tops
3 beaten eggs
1 cup light cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
Dash of mace
1/4 cup sliced almonds

Sprinkle cheese evenly over bottom of pie crust. Top with crabmeat. Sprinkle with onions.

Combine eggs, cream, salt, lemon peel, mustard and mace and pour over crabmeat. Top with sliced almonds.

Bake at 325 degrees for about 45 minutes or until set. Remove from oven and let stand 10 minutes before serving.

I would imagine one could use this recipe for other fish than bass - it sounds rather good:

QUICK AND EASY BASS

1 pound (6 fillets) bass
1 can cream of shrimp soup
1 can cream of celery soup
1 1/2 soup cans milk
1/2 cup dry white wine

Gradually mix the soups and milk and stir until thoroughly blended.

Heat liquid to a simmer and add wine. Bring to a simmer.

Add fillets, watching to ensure fish doesn't stick to pan. Cook 3 minutes on one side, then flip carefully and cook 2 more minutes.

Fish is done when it flakes easily with fork.

Area students recognized for singing talent

Two Jamestown College, ND, students recently received state recognition for their singing talents. Lisa Swanson of Thief River Falls, and Marcus Rondestvedt, Lisbon, ND, finished second in the respective categories at the North Dakota Student Auditions for the National Association of Teachers of Singing. The competition was at North Dakota State University in Fargo, ND, on Saturday, February 27.

Approximately 50 students from area high schools and colleges competed in categories according to their year in school.

Other Jamestown College students who competed included: Jill Bisek, Mahnomen, Robin Brauner, Jamestown, ND, Melissa Harvala, Carrington, ND, Gretchen Schulz, Rugby, ND, and Melissa Strand Wahpeton, ND. The students were selected for the competition by their voice instructor Dagny Brandt, assistant professor of music.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

On Saturday, February 20, I attended a conference on Goals 2000 (G2K), School To Work (STW) and Profile of Learning in Arden Hills, held for the express purpose of educating Minnesotans and others on the horrifying aspects of the implementation of MN G2K, STW and Profile of Learning.

The conference was hosted by the Maple River Education Coalition and featured speakers Renee Doyle, former school board member and author of the now famous "Better That I Resign" letter to the editor; Allen Quist, M.A., former legislator and author of The Seamless Web; Twila Brase, RN, founder of the Citizens Council on Health Care, and Hon. Mark Olson, District 19A legislator, among others.

It exposed the Profile of Learning for what it really is—a politically motivated attempt to mandate an ambiguous values-oriented curriculum, engineered by non-elected bureaucrats with far-reaching implications on our families, state and nation.

The federal government seeks to insert itself into virtually every aspect of our lives including medical care (Medicaid/school-based clinics), family counseling, early childhood training (ECFE) and prenatal development—cradle to the grave... Hilary Clinton's Plan B.

Those who have been indifferent, uninformed or simply silent on this issue must understand that this is not simply a "fad" in education that will go the way of the '70s "new math." This is a system whereby, through ALL schools—public, private and home—federally mandated social engineering will take place under the guise of "higher standards."

Minnesota's Basic Standards portion tests 10th grade children with an eighth grade test with no provisions for any further testing, because under School To Work, the career for your child has already been decided by 10th grade through "assessments" from pre-birth on.

An STW flier advocates that, if you are a truck driver or salesperson holding a baccalaureate degree, society has wasted its resources on you. The STW Resource Guide says the purpose of STW is to restructure education around career majors. That means, under STW, the central purpose of ALL education is vocational; liberal arts education goes by the wayside.

This is "dumbing down" by way of groups, group projects and teams sharing ideas and teachers are facilitators instead of instructors.

Never mind that teachers are so bogged down by paperwork that non-licensed personnel are doing the actual teaching.

Never mind that teacher licensure can be revoked if the teacher expresses distaste for what he or she believes is wrong.

Never mind that STW sets up a system of appointing boards which bypasses elected legislators and elected local school boards in allocating money and in setting education policy.

Never mind that states' rights under the 10th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution are excluded in this implementation.

Never mind that school-based clinics under this system can and will (it has already been done) subject your child to mental and physical (yes, gynocological) exams without parental consent.

Once you reach the understanding that G2K/STW/Profile of Learning is a radical re-inventing of education, I urge you to contact your State Senators, Representatives and Governor. Four weeks ago the action out of the House, although a compromise, was actual elimination of the Profile (HF 15). The House sent the bill to the Senate as SF 125. As of this writing the bill has been sent to a special sub-committee with Sen. Larry Pogemiller as chair (phone 651-296-7809). The word from the Senate floor is they will tweak it. This is not acceptable. A decision to modify this system is a strategy to preserve it.

For those still in doubt, I urge you to contact the Maple River Coalition, P.O. Box 303, Good Thunder, MN 56037. On Internet use http://hometown.aol.com/mredco98/98.html. For e-mail try MrEDCo98@aol.com. Order a copy of Allen Quist's new book The Seamless Web, a comprehensive citizen's guide to the revolutionary changes in Minnesota's education system including Goals 2000, School to Work and Profile of Learning.

"Minnesota citizens have a right to know the whole story about what is happening in Minnesota education," states Renee Doyle—not just what the Department of Children, Families and Learning (formerly the Minnesota Department of Education) tells them.

Respectfully,
Barbara Chervestad

"Death Tax" Outlives Its Intended Purpose

Despite modifications and adjustments which have been made in the past few years to raise the limits for qualification, the federal estate tax remains an unfair and aggravating penalty for families and businesses. Commonly referred to as the "death tax," it exacts a large percentage of the value of a person's estate after his or her death.

The tax liability is better than it used to be, having been raised to $600,000 within the past decade and to $1 million in 1997. In other words, up to $1 million of a person's estate is now exempt from the tax—and that amount would exclude the majority of individuals across the country. The fact remains, however, that this insidious tax has outlived its intent and should be abolished.

Established in 1916 as a means to redistribute wealth and prevent certain families— like the Rockefellers—from amassing an undue amount of the nation's riches, the tax has been a failure at its intended purpose. As is the case with most tax schemes aimed at rich Americans, the extremely wealthy have found a way to stay extremely wealthy in spite of the tax while others have suffered because of it. Many are the stories of families being forced to liquidate long-time family holdings in order to satisfy estate taxes.

Among those lobbying for abolishment of the estate tax is the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB). President Jack Faris points out that "plenty of business owners and farmers are no means millionaires in liquid assets, but the value of their property—including land, equipment and inventory—is easily high enough to be considered a taxable estate."

Faris cited a family-owned lumber company in Missouri which was spending $36,000 a year of a life insurance policy for the sole purpose of paying the estate tax when the company passed on from father to son.

"If we weren't prepared," the son explains, "we would just have to liquidate. The death tax penalty would put an end to a business that my dad started in 1965 with very little capital. This one-time tax would kill 30 full-time jobs, not to mention the dreams my brother and I have of carrying on our dad's legacy."

If that assessment of the situation is accurate, application of the estate tax is short-sighted.

"Our business, like any business, is a tax machine!" the lumberman continues. "We generate corporate taxes, sales taxes, payroll taxes, personal taxes, property taxes....I can't believe the government would give up all that for this one-shot tax at the time of death. It's absurd."

The founder of the lumber company says protecting against the estate tax "is a huge penalty for trying to be successful. It's very unfair that I need to pay this much to protect something I've worked for my whole life."

Faris and the NFIB agree.

"Today there are efforts in Congress to scale back, and eventually eliminate, this punishing and outdated tax," Faris said. "But total relief, and total repeal, cannot come soon enough for millions of family farms and businesses. They should not have to protect their family businesses from their own government. Not in America."

Deaths, Severe Injuries Rise With Speed Limits

On Minnesota roadways where speed limits were raised in July of 1997, fatal crashes increased by 66 percent (32 additional deaths) in the following year. Fatal and severe injury crashes together increased 39 percent where speed limits were raised, compared to a nine percent decrease on roads where speed limits were unchanged.

The analysis conducted by the Minnesota Department of Public Safety's Office of Traffic Safety acknowledges that traffic crash patterns are complex, but points out that the magnitude and abruptness of the changes in fatal crashes coincide with the new speed limits.

During the time period after the limits increased, seat belt use remained constant and the number of alcohol-related fatal crashes appears consistent with the average of the previous five years. The conclusion is that increased speed may have been the primary cause of the additional deaths.

Data from the study also confirms that the state's rural two-lane roadways still account for the highest number of traffic fatalities.

State Transportation Commissioner Elwyn Tinklenberg said that changes in speed limits are made only after careful traffic studies. "Safety is a top priority for our department," he said. "We will continue to work with DPS to monitor speeds throughout the system and make adjustments if necessary. Commissioner (Charlie) Weaver of DPS and I share a concern about these numbers and we encourage cooperation from motorists to help reduce this disturbing trend."

"The bottom line is this," Weaver said. "Being able to drive faster has consequences. It is the responsibility of all motorists to make good choices: wear your seat belt, be courteous on the road and don't drink and drive. Driving privileges come with responsibility for ensuring the safety of ourselves, families and neighbors—in short, everyone on Minnesota's roads."

Current speed limits on Minnesota highways are reasonable, provided that drivers are alert, attentive, unimpaired, don't exceed the limits and adjust their speed to existing conditions. Not all drivers meet that criteria. Many drivers have a tendency to expand the envelope a bit, and a higher speed limit means a higher starting point for excessive speed.

We're sorry to see the increase in fatalities on Minnesota roadways. Commissioner Tinklenberg said he is concerned about the numbers (of increased deaths and serious injuries). We are concerned about all of the people experiencing unnecessary grief and suffering due to auto accidents—and excessive speed is part of the problem.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Recently, a partisan special-interest group going by the name "Taxpayers League of Minnesota" wrote letters to newspapers throughout my district saying that I voted to spend the state budget surplus on "pork projects." Nothing could be further from the truth.

With great pride, I voted to return more than $1.1 billion to Minnesota taxpayers through a sales tax surplus. This money belongs to the taxpayers and I am committed to returning it, just as I helped return $2.7 billion of surplus to all Minnesotans over the past two years through the 20 percent property tax refund and other permanent tax rate cuts.

The Taxpayers League is supporting the House Republican rebate plan, which gives the greatest benefit to individuals with the highest incomes. Under their plan, even Green Bay Packers quarterback Brett Favre will get a rebate of over $5,000 on the income he earned for the one game he played at the Metrodome. But any Minnesota family with two children who earned less than $17,500 in 1997 will get nothing. This isn't fair.

Also, under the House plan, Minnesotans will pay $200 million in federal taxes on their rebates. This isn't smart.

I've written in these pages previously of my support for rebating the surplus through a sales tax, an approach supported by the Senate DFLers and Governor Ventura. Low income elderly people and farmers facing tough times will get a rebate of their sales tax dollars, based on their income. Using this method will return the surplus to mainstream Minnesota families, not just the wealthy.

The legislation I supported includes roughly $50 million in tax relief and payments to struggling farmers and sets aside the one-time payment from the tobacco settlement. The tobacco money will be held—not spent—and the interest earnings will help pay for improved medical research that will benefit all Minnesotans.

Just last week it was announced that once again the surplus is even greater than projected. I will be supporting an even larger rebate—based on the sales tax. I hope the Senate and the Governor can convince the House to support our rebate method soon, so that you can get your money quickly.

Political dialogue about issues that affect us is important, but only if everyone debates honestly. The type of political attack that the Taxpayers League thrives on simply turns people off. I think one of the messages of the last election is that people want results, not constant political attacks.

Please know that I'm doing my best for you, and I encourage you to contact me at any time with your opinions or comments on any issue. My office telephone number is 651-296-8660.

Sincerely,
Sen. LeRoy Stumpf

Area schools join nation in Read Across America

Several area schools are listed by Education Minnesota as participating in the annual Read Across America Day on Tuesday, March 2.

At Clearbrook-Gonvick Frank Liem celebrates "I Love to Read" month and Dianne Roepke serves as coordinator.

Greenbush/Middle River school hosts a "Green Eggs & Ham" breakfast in tribute to children's author Dr. Seuss (Theodor Geisel). "Royal" community readers read favorite books and birthday cake is served while the principal reads Dr Seuss books. High school students present homemade pins to elementary students and Middle River school hosts a reading round robin. Coordinator is Debra Koebernick.

Grygla schools invite parents to read to students in the classroom. Older students are paired with younger students to share a book. Coordinator is MariLou Anderson.

Tri-County school in Karlstad hosts community readers to read favorite stories to rotating groups of students. The principal costumes as Dr Seuss and birthday cake and treats add to celebration of the event. Jane Schindele serves as coordinator.

Students in kindergarten through third grade at Kittson Central school visit the high school to participate in a "Pals" exchange and photo session. Students create nametags and placemats, share favorite books and write books together.

Schools also host a Green Eggs & Ham lunch, create a mural, hold a reader theatre and the home economics students provide Seuss cookies. Faculty and staff wear costumes and there is a book giveaway. Coordinator is Ken Peterson.

Roseau schools have guest readers from the high school visit the elementary school. The cafeteria features a Dr. Seuss menu and Dr. Seuss hats and pajamas are part of the day. Faculty performs a reading skit and a costumed principal reads The Cat in a Hat book at an assembly. Students also participate in a "drop everything and read" session with Julie Goos coordinating the event.

Warroad elementary, middle school and high school participate in events all day and community leaders read to children. The local radio station participates in a birthday party/evening "pj" time. Connie Westlund is coordinator.

Win-E-Mac school at Erskine holds a week of activities including a Dr. Seuss character poster and essay contest, community readers, video production of "Name That Character" contest, Green Eggs & Ham breakfast, birthday cake and reading awards ceremony. Coordinator at Win-E-Mac is Dixie Holen.

them ahead. Instead, the Otters opened up a 17-point lead that was not challenged the rest of the night.

"The story of the game once again is 32 turnovers – way too many at this time of the season," said Johnson.

Sophomore guard Brian Loe led the Prowlers with 21 points. His final 12 came on four second half 3-point shots. Seniors Matt Myers and Kelly Cota both contributed 12 points to the Thief River Falls offense.

The Otters' 14-for-25 free throw shooting included a 9-for-14 fourth quarter. The Prowlers made 9 of 16 free throws for the night.

"We took some nice steps this season," offered Johnson. "We'll continue to work hard in the off-season and build on our success this season."

Johnson also gave special thanks to the six seniors on the 1998-99 squad – Matt Kochmstedt, Aaron Hendricks, Darin Bjerknes, Coilin Schafer, Myers, and Cota.

Spring Has Sprang

The first slender robin flits his way across the yard chirping happily about his return north. The crocuses gently push their heads above the crusty mantle of aged snow that refuses to completely disappear from the garage shadows. Random patches of green grass peek out from underneath last Fall's scattering of wilted leaves.

Our friends in the forest begin to show their faces more frequently, as the warming sun brings them out into the open. Buds appear at the end of every tree branch, impatiently awaiting the extended hours of sunlight just a few days away. The red squirrel that has so seldom shown himself these past few months is now a regular, cheery visitor to the back deck. March is here and the first day of Spring is coming.

Yeah, right!

Anybody who heralds the coming of Spring with such romantic notions as these surely makes far more money than I and has long since moved to the more idyllic surroundings of someplace south of the Mason-Dixon Line—or at least south of Highway 2. This is northern Minnesota and the advent of Spring is not poetic and pretty.

That doesn't mean we like it any less. As a matter of fact, for a lot of us it implies the potential for survival through the next six months period is much better than it was back in November. But the arrival of Spring up here is anything but sugar coated.

Yes, the birds are assuredly a part of the yearly ritual of return and renewal, but robins wait until a little closer to summer before braving it this far north. More fitting, perhaps, would be the early recurrence of eagles as they bicker and brawl with the local ravens over long-neglected burbot carcasses. The discarded January fish have resurfaced from under the melting lake snows, their dark skins thawing quickly in the strengthening March sun, offering a newfound smell and texture that only a carrion eater could love.

And no, there are no crocuses poking their heads out around my house. At least, I don't think they're crocuses. A closer inspection convinces me that the little brown piles that are now appearing above the "crusty mantle" in my yard have most likely been left by my dogs and their neighborhood compatriots.

My wife tells me that the existence of the piles will promote the eventual growth of flowers, like crocuses, but for the moment I don't intend to bend over and take any deep breath of Spring.

And yes, perhaps we are seeing our "forest friends" more commonly, but they don't seem to be smiling any Spring smiles. The deer, specifically, have become so desperate for food that they're combing the road-sides in the evening looking for the grain and alfalfa that was blown off farm trucks last fall and quickly covered by the snowplow a day later. Their evening ventures during the March meltdown make these Spring wildlife encounters a tad more than exciting as they generally consist of a quick glimpse into a pair of headlight entranced eyes immediately followed by the sound of the grill on my Chevy S-10 cracking.

And the Buds at my house this time of year are not on the trees, but rather on the kitchen table in 12-ounce red, white and blue cans. The standard Spring ritual of "drainfield freeze-up," you see, can only be avoided with an active septic system and my daily consumption of beer becomes a necessity rather than a vice. "A six-pack a day keeps Roto Rooter away" is a familiar Spring north woods chant.

And, oh, that cute and curious little red squirrel is definitely poking his head out a little more often these days. As a matter of fact, I think I see him out on the deck right now. Excuse me for a moment.

Clink. Snap. Ching-chang. Click.....BAWOODM!

That will be one less red squirrel that invades my eaves next Fall.

Oh, how I love the sights and sounds of Spring in northern Minnesota!

Minnesota National Guard Major Eric Weege, and Leonard Zabilensky of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineer's Cold Regions Research and Engineering laboratory in Hanover, New Hampshire, examine the concentration of sand in the snow after a helicopter deposited its load of sand down the middle of the Thief River on Tuesday.

Despite the lack of fresh snow the Minnesota National Guard UH-1 Huey was able to stir up quite a bit of snow and other things in its prop wash as it swung low over the Thief River Tuesday depositing a thin load of sand down the middle of the river.

A Minnesota Department of Transportation truck awaits instructions, while a Minnesota National Guard helicopter in the background prepares for flight. The MnDOT truck hauled sand to a location just north of Thief River Falls on Dewey Avenue where a helicopter landed and picked up a load of sand in a bucket. The helicopter then flew low over the river depositing the sand along a thin strip of ice in the middle of the river. The state is testing a theory that the sand will contribute to the deterioration of the ice and help prevent ice jams and flooding.

Stretched out over the edge of a UH-1 Huey, a Minnesota National Guardsmen attaches cables from a sand bucket to the underside of the helicopter. The helicopter then deposits the sand over a thin strip of ice in the middle the Thief River in an effort to promote the deterioration of the ice and prevent ice jams and flooding.

"Challenge of Change" for women offered

Are you trying to decide what to do next with your life? A workshop designed for rural area women will look at change and the transitions it creates. This is a critical issue in our area as farm families are making major changes. This workshop is being offered to those who are experiencing transitions in their lives. Transitions come in many forms and for many of us it is a time of uncertainty. As difficult as it may seem, a transition can be both an opportunity and a challenge.

"Transitions - Meeting the Challenge of Change" workshops will be given on Saturdays, from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. This will be offered on March 13 at the University of Minnesota - Crookston and repeated March 27 at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. Registration cost is $5.00 and may be made at the University of Minnesota Extension Service, PO Box 556, Crookston MN 56716 or to Box 616 in Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

This may be your opportunity to: Realize your strengths; Affirm your attitude; Learn the importance of resiliency; Understand the change process; Build support networks.

Dr. Maxine Rasmussen of University of Minnesota Crookston will discuss managing change and transition in Crookston. Sue Dupree will be speaking in Thief River Falls on this topic.

There will be a panel of local women who have "been there" and "done that" telling their farming story and the career directions they have taken. They will examine some of the strengths they found within themselves as they sought this change in life.

This will be an opportunity to examine your strengths through a Myers-Briggs Personality Inventory.

For further information please call Barbara Oseth at 218-281-8696 or 1-800-450-1751 in Crookston or Glenice Johnson at 218-683-7030 or 1-800-681-2116 in Thief River Falls.

This program is sponsored by a grant from the Rural Options Task Force of the University of Minnesota.

From The Family Of ALICE HRUBY

On February 18, 1999, Alice Hruby took her last breath here on earth & passed away from us to join her Father in heaven. That night, family & friends witnessed the most spectacular show of Northern Lights dancing over the family farm. The Lord & the Angels truly put on a beautiful light show to welcome her home.

We would like to extend a special thank you to the doctors at Altru Clinic & Dr. Rothgseber, Dr. Houlihan & Dr. Petrescue, for all they did for Alice & for the time they took with us as a family. Also the nurses in the I.C.U. & 2nd floor nurses & respitory therapists at Northwest Medical Center who made her as comfortable as possible.

A warm thank you to all the family & friends who brought food or stopped by to extend their sympathy. Thank you to those who extended their thoughts & prayers to us.

Thank you to Pastor George Davis, Silverton Lutheran Church and Pastors Greg Walter & Bob Dahlen, Faith Lutheran Church, for the time they spent with our family, the family service Sunday evening & the beautiful service on Monday afternoon.

A special thank you to the women's groups of Silverton & Faith church for the delicious lunch served after the service.

Thank you to the organist, Margie Iverson & soloists Grace Hammer & Scott Walseth for making the service even more special through their special gift of music.

Thank you to Green Funeral Home staff for their help in arranging a beautiful funeral service.

Alice blessed many lives and will be missed by all who knew & loved her, but wonderful memories will comfort all in the days ahead.

First half finish carries Stephen-Argyle past B/G-MR...

Gators beaten by Storm 64-50

Sub-Section 32A Boys
■ Semifinals Tuesday, March 2 - Stephen-Argyle 64, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 50, Kittson Central 41, Tri-County 38
■ Finals Saturday March 6 - (at NCTC) Badger/Greenbush-Middle River vs. Tri-County third place 6:30 p.m.; Stephen-Argyle vs. Kittson Central, championship 8:15 p.m.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River players TJ Super (33) and Richard Wockenfuss (55) could not stop Michael Wagner of Stephen-Argyle from putting up this fourth quarter shot during Tuesday's Sub-Section 32A boys high school basketball tournament semifinal game at Northland Community and Technical College. The Storm reached the finals with a 64-50 win.

At season's end, a lead-protecting clock-eating spread offense was a frequent and effective tool used by the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River boys high school basketball team. However, that tactic failed the Gators Tuesday during the final moments of the first half in a Sub-Section 32A tournament semifinal match-up with Stephen-Argyle. Three Badger/Greenbush-Middle River turnovers in the last minute-and-half of the second quarter helped fuel a 9-B Stephen-Argyle run that produced a 31-24 spread at intermission proved pivotal in what would eventually result in a 64-50 win for the Storm.

Before the first half-ending Badger/Greenbush-Middle River collapse, there was little if anything to separate the two teams. The lead changed hands nine times and there were six ties over the first 14:24 when a single basket was the biggest scoreboard spread.

A 3-point basket by Jared Hanson with 6.8 seconds remaining put Stephen-Argyle on top 15-13 at the close of the first quarter. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River had a 24-22 lead following a pair of David Truscinski free throws with two minutes left in the first half.

That's when the Gators ran into trouble. The game-turning Storm surge began with a rebound basket by Waylon Safranski for a tie and two free throws by Andy Akre for a 26-24 lead with 1:17 to play. With Badger/Greenbush-Middle River trying to work the clock, a steal and fast break lay-up by Bartt Stoltman was followed by another turnover and a back-breaking 3-point shot by Hanson with .5 seconds showing to make it 31-24 at intermission.

"I thought we were in good shape," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, then we turned it over on our last three possessions of the first half. We decided to spread out the court. It's something we've been working on lately, and it's been our best offense at the end of the year. But we turned it over, and they capitalized."

The turnovers were a result, in part, of a deeper Stephen-Argyle bench, according to Sparby. "We pressed them the first 10-12 minutes of the game to try to set the tempo," he explained. "But as a result, we wound up getting tired. They run a lot of kids in and out of the line-up. Our guards were a little fatigued, and they were the ones turning it over."

Stephen-Argyle made it an 11-0 run by opening the second half with two Reece Setterholm free throws and a drive to the basket by Hanson for a 35-24 spread.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River struggled to come up with enough second half offense to present a serious comeback challenge. The Gators went without a third quarter field goal until TJ Super scored on a drive with 1:37 remaining to make it 43-33.

The Gators' Brian Wilhelmi slipped inside for a basket to close out the third quarter, then opened the final period with two free throws to chop the difference to 44-38. But they could get no closer.

"Every time we did put something together, they would come right back and match it," noted Sparby. "They were hitting some big shots. They're so deep and so balanced that you can't focus on any one player. They have a lot of weapons."

Biggest weapon for the winners was Hanson, a 6-3 senior forward, who finished with a game-high 25 points. His efforts included four 3-pointers – three coming in the first half. Michael Wagner, another 6-3 junior, and Bartt Stoltman, a 5-11 junior, joined Hanson in double figures with 12 and 10 points, respectively.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River countered with four double figure point producers, but nobody with more than 11 points. Wilhelmi, a 6-1 senior, came off the bench to get the 11. Ten-point games were provided by 6-2 senior Richard Wockenfuss, 6-0 senior Chauncey Hanson and 5-1B junior David Truscinski.

The Gators, who were launching desperation shots at the end, finished at 14-for-56 from the field (25 percent). The Storm went 19-for-57 (33 percent). Free throws were a big part of the offense for both teams. Stephen-Argyle was 21-for-24 at the line, including a 12-for-13 fourth quarter. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River had a 19-for-26 free throw game.

Stephen-Argyle wound up with a 38-33 rebound advantage. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River topped the turnover charts 13-11.

The two teams split a pair of regular season encounters, with the Gators winning the first one 54-49 and the Storm taking the rematch 66-60.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River fell to 11-13 with the loss. The Gators finish the 1998-99 season today (Saturday) with a Sub-Section 32A third place game against Tri-County.

Opening dates set for the start of Prowlers' spring sports season

Track practice for boys and girls in grades 9-12 will start Monday, March 8, to kick off Thief River Falls' 1999 spring sports programs.

All Lincoln High School and Franklin Middle School student-athletes interested in participating in a spring sport are reminded to have their required forms completed and user fees paid before the start of practice. Participants will not be allowed to practice until fees are paid and completed forms are on file in the Lincoln activities office, where the forms are available.

Athletes are required to have a physical exam every three years. If needed, they must be completed before the start of practice.

Activity fees are $60 for Lincoln High School participants and $45 for Franklin Middle School participants. When paperwork is completed and fees paid, athletes will be issued a white card to be presented to their coach, signalling their eligibility.

Patriots end season for Mustangs, 86-55

Sub-Section 30A Boys
■ Semifinals Tuesday - Win-E-Mac 86, Red Lake County Central 55; Fertile-Beltrami 59, Fosston 56.
■ Championship Saturday, March 6 - (at UMC) Win-E-Mac vs. Fertile-Beltrami, 6 p.m.

There was no upset special Tuesday when Red Lake County Central challenged unbeaten and top-seeded Win-E-Mac in the 1999 Sub-Section 30A boys high school basketball tournament semifinals at the University of Minnesota-Crookston. The Patriots made sure of that by jumping out to an 18-4 lead and coasting to an impressive 86-55 win.

Red Lake County Central, after an early-season 72-46 loss to Win-E-Mac, challenged the Patriots in a late-season rematch, losing just 67-63. The third meeting wasn't that close. The winners had quarter leads of 20-7, 44-19 and 62-34.

"They came out strong and fast," noted Red Lake County Central coach Chris McLean. "We knew going in that we would have to play a perfect game and catch them a little off." They weren't. The Patriots came up with a 56 percent 31-for-56 shooting performance from the field and an 18-for-2B showing at the free throw line.

"They just flat-out made the baskets," said McLean. "They hit from all over the court. I was actually pleased with our defense. I thought we got to them and challenged their shooters. But they still hit the shots. I don't know if we could have done anything different."

Four Patriots hit double figures, led by Steven Brodley with 19 points and Mark Sylstad with 18. The Mustangs were led by Nick Waldal with 2B points and Mark Lorenson with 14.

Red Lake County Central was 18-for-56 from the field (32 percent) and 12-for-19 at the free throw line. They were out-rebounded 37-18. Win-E-Mac topped the turnover charts 14-12.

The loss ended a 12-12 season for the Mustangs.

Fergus Falls ends TRF season

North Sub-Section 8AAA Boys
■ Semifinals Thursday, March 4 - Fergus Falls 87, Thief River Falls 61; Detroit Lakes 63, Alexandria 58.
■ Championship Saturday, March 6 - (neutral site) Fergus Falls vs. Detroit Lakes.

Ahead just 26-22 at halftime, Fergus Falls out-scored Thief River Falls 61-39 in the second half Thursday en route to an opening round 87-61 North Sub-Section 8AAA boys basketball tournament semifinal win.

It was the third win of the 1998-99 season over the Prowlers by the Otters, who took the home-and-home regular season encounters 61-49 and 73-49. Thief River Falls' season ends at 9-14. Fergus Falls goes into the finals with an 18-5 record.

David Newell scored 21 points, Justin Arneson 20, Brent Ness 14 and Peter Draxton 12 for the top-seeded Otters, who led 18-11 at the end of the first quarter, then turned that four-point halftime edge into a 52-40 third quarter spread and finished with a 35-point fourth quarter.

Thirty-two turnovers sabotaged the upset hopes for the No. 4-seeded Prowlers. While they managed to stay close in the first half despite turning it over 20 times, the mistakes took a toll over the final 16 minutes.

"Our kids played a very strong first half," said Thief River Falls coach Bob Johnson.

But a chance to stay close at the start of the third quarter slipped away when three Thief River Falls misses on close-in shots were followed by three Fergus Falls baskets to open a 32-22 gap.

The Prowlers did cut the difference in half, but then came up empty-handed on three consecutive possessions that could have put spends a fair amount of time attending seed and chemical meetings, and Thursday he attended the Canola Growers annual meeting in Roseau.

Over the years, he's served on the Newfolden school board and his township and elevator boards.

Both of the Bjorsness' are very active members of Newfolden's Evangelical Free Church. Larry currently serves as the church's treasurer. He's also on a building committee that is hoping to add on to the church and is currently exploring options. Marge is a Sunday school teacher who finds her adult class much more challenging than a classroom of children. "They (the adults) ask some complicated, difficult questions," she says.

She has also been involved with the Thief River Falls Christian Women's Club for many years, serving twice as its president. She organizes and sometimes leads Bible study at Friendship Bible Coffees. The studies are another part of Stonecroft Ministries, the organization that approves speakers for Christian Women's Club.

The Valley Homemaker award was well-deserved. With obvious skills Marge has made a comfortable home for her family and a place where friends feel welcome. Additions have been added to the original dwelling that is about 8B years old.

Heirlooms are among the furnishings, including a beautiful spinning wheel that Larry's grandmother brought from Norway. Larry's mother was born in Chicago and moved to the area as a small child. Among her things was an autograph book that dates back to the 1880's and contains the interesting, carefully penned ditties that were so popular during that era.

The stories of generations are told in the family photographs that are prominently displayed throughout the home. The plaque they received as Valley Farmer and Homemaker hangs on the wall along with a grower's award and and the plaque commemorating Larry's reign as King Agassiz in 1968.

The computer age hasn't left Larry in the dark. He enjoys using a computer to keep farm and church treasury records, and one of these days he plans to get hooked up to the Internet.

Marge enjoys quilting in the winter and gardening in the summer. In addition to enjoying fresh produce, Marge does some canning and freezing, although not as much as when the children were at home. She also likes to read.

Together the couple enjoys bicycling on trails in Minnesota's state parks. Last summer they discovered the beauty of southeastern Minnesota in the Root River area.

The Bjorsness' are sympathetic toward young farmers, noting that it is nearly impossible for a young person to start farming. As for the current crisis, Larry believes that it is part of a cycle that will eventually change and improve. He remembers his father-in-law telling him that most of what money he made while farming, he made in just a few good years.

Larry has taken advantage of the CRP program and is working his way out of farming and toward retirement.

While the couple has done some traveling to the warmer southern states during the winter, they look forward to visiting the northern part of the country and Canada during the warm weather months. They're especially eager to visit their son in Holland, Michigan during the annual Tulip Festival in May.

Regardless of how far this deserving, Valley Farmer and Homemaker travel, however, the farm will always be their hearts' home. The memories of a lifetime —hard work, family, and lambs in the springtime—are there.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Academic Booster club luncheon set Wednesday noon

Leslie Nordheim, media specialist at Franklin middle school, will speak on the accelerated reading program at Franklin when the Thief River Falls Academic Booster club meets Wednesday, March 10, at 12 noon in Room 105 at the Best Western Inn.

The organization promotes recognition of achievement by students at each level of education and provides a communication link between the community and schools. Membership is open to all persons interested in local education and annual dues of $10 are payable at any time to the School District Service Center at 230 LaBree Avenue South.

Persons with questions are invited to call Muriel Olin, president, at 681-7216 or Cindy Tsukichi, secretary, at 681-3344.

UND scholarships go to a number of area students

University of North Dakota in Grand Forks has announced the returning students who have been awarded scholarships for the current academic year. In 1998-99 the university distributed more than $44.5 million in various forms of financial aid.

A list of scholarship recipients from this area and the name of the scholarships they received is as follows:

Clearbrook—Christopher Holm (Jay & Marie Bjerkaas);

Erskine—Wendy Aalgaard and Angela Bacan (both Arthur P. Anderson);

Fosston—Denise Dvorak (John M. Smith Memorial) and Christina Lee (Paul Larsen);

Middle River—Jedediah Geer (Florence Schmidt Clifford);

Red Lake Falls—Stephanie Brumwell (Kiesau Business) and Heather Thibert (Margaret Starcher);

Roseau—Jamie Ewald (Steinbach Business Administration) and Gerald Hanson (Earl and Irene Dalness Memorial);

Salol—Sara Dahl (Lakehead Pipe Line Company) and Nichole Jensen (Ruth Johnston Memorial Music);

Stephen—Jennifer Smith (Ruth Johnston Memorial Business and Jonnie McMaster Olson);

Thief River Falls—Jill Dekkers (Lawrence Welk and Ruth Johnston Memorial Music); Seamus Duffy (Vukasovich Foundation); Thomas Koehmstedt (Boise and Ruth and Gunder Legvold); Rebecca Mattson (Kiesau Business and Orison and Owen Young Memorial); Jeanne Nelson (Gerald Ryan); and Jennifer Olin (Arthur P. Anderson);

Warroad—Christine Hallett (Thomas J. Clifford); and

Winger—Kylie Vesledahl (Farmers Insurance Group, Inc.)

Kelly Rogalla

Kelly Rogalla accepts posts with Hospice

Kelly Rogalla of Thief River Falls has recently accepted the position of public relations and volunteer services coordinator for the Thief River Falls office of Hospice of the Red River Valley.

She is responsible for promoting the scope and mission of hospice care and coordinating volunteer services in the Thief River Falls service area which includes Marshall, Pennington and Red Lake counties. Rogalla is available to speak on the hospice program to groups and organizations.

A native of Thief River Falls, Kelly returned to the area in 1990 with her husband, Alan Rogalla, who serves as Assistant Pennington County Attorney. She earned her BS degree in business administration with a minor in psychology from the University of North Dakota and has over seven years of experience in volunteer program administration and public speaking.

Hospice of the Red River Valley is a non-profit Medicare-certified organization whose mission is to provide physical, emotional, spiritual and grief support for the terminally ill and their families in a setting of their choice.

Shhh! Don't tell Dennis Kezar!
There's a 70th Birthday Party for Him!

All friends are invited for food, fun & fellowship. Your presence is the gift.
(Dennis never reads the paper, so help keep the SURPRISE!)

Thank You
The Thief River Falls Bus Drivers and Transportation Assistants would like to thank the parents and the community for their support and patience during the strike last week. We understand the inconvenience caused by the strike and we greatly appreciate the encouraging words and numerous donations of food and money from so many of our co-workers and members of the community. We are pleased to have been able to bring this strike to a quick conclusion and get back to work! Thanks Again!!

Bemidji housing needs projected for next 10 years

Bemidji - More than 660 housing units, split between owner-occupied homes and rental units, will be needed in the next 10 years, according to a housing study completed recently in Bemidji.

The consultant who performed the study expects Bemidji's population to be more than 12,950 by 2010. The greatest need for housing units will be in moderately priced owner-occupied houses in the $60,000 to $100,000 range and affordable rental housing of $400 month or less. The Pioneer

RLF school gets computers via Lino Lakes prison

Red Lake Falls - Hughes Elementary School in Red Lake Falls recently received 24 computers. They were shipped to the school from Lino Lakes Correctional Facility.

The computers are donated by businesses that have upgraded their systems and supplied through the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning, the Department of Administration and the Department of Corrections.

The computers are given to a school according to how much technology the school has at a ratio of one computer per eight students.

Before being distributed to schools the computers are sent to correctional facilities where they are upgraded and repaired. The Gazette

Mahnomen county fears tax revenue loss from casino

Mahnomen - For years the Shooting Star Casino has provided property tax revenue to Mahnomen county and Mahnomen School District; county officials are concerned that this could end.

The White Earth Band of Chippewa wants the U.S. Department of Interior to declare the casino a federal trust property and remove it from tax rolls. The tribe has made the request before, but up to this point it has remained out of tribal trust and on the tax rolls.

"It (the loss of tax revenue) would be devastating for us," county treasurer Dan Cook has been quoted as saying. Without that money, officials face the prospect of shifting the tax burden to homeowners and other businesses, cutting services or having to find alternative methods of financing. The Mahnomen Pioneer

Goodridge Co-op Creamery records $1,761,476 in sales

Members attending the annual meeting of Farmers Cooperative Creamery Association of Goodridge Wednesday, March 17, will hear a report of $1,761,476 in sales but a net operating margin of only $5,965 for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1998.

Meeting time is scheduled for 2 p.m. in the Goodridge Community Center. Election of directors for three-year terms will be held with the terms of Bruce Solberg, Kevin Tharaldson and Robert Miller expiring. Speakers, door prizes, music and lunch are also on the afternoon agenda.

Solberg is president of the cooperative with Tharoldson as vice president and Miller as secretary-treasurer. Other board members are Tom Race and Lowell Smeby. Dale Hanson is manager of the cooperative with Orlin Hanson as office manager.

Annual report to be distributed at the meeting shows that total sales were up $68,169 over the previous year, but expenses were up $65,046 to $1,692,838, resulting in an increase in gross margin of only $2,853 from $65,515 a year ago to $68,638 in 1998.

Operating expenses were down $110 to $48,189 with reductions in employee fringe benefits, utilities, repairs and maintenance and advertising.

General expense was down $1,117 to $9,212 and administrative expense was down slightly from $5,283 to $5,171. Net operating margin increased from $1,602 in 1997 to $5,965 in 1998.

The cooperative had interest income of $11,944, collected $3,686 in finance charges on its ag service business, reserved $3,000 for bad debt expense and showed net margin in 1998 of $18,615 compared with $11,590 last year.

Patronage refunds received at $28,368 were down from $32,718 a year ago, leaving a margin before distribution of $46,983.

Pounds of milk received at 9,038,142 was down 828,464 pounds from 1997 and total pounds of butterfat dropped from 351,563 to 317,980. Average net price paid by the creamery per hundredweight of milk was $13.92—up $1.30 from $12.62 in 1997. The creamery resold the milk to Land O'Lakes for a margin of seven cents per hundredweight at $13.99.

Current assets of the cooperative increased by $28,605 to $480,221 from $451,616, including cash of $254,060, receivables of $130,448, inventories of $94,962 and prepaid expenses of $750.

Other assets include investments of $208,260 and fixed assets in land, buildings and equipment of $88,951 (less $79,219 accumulated depreciation) for total assets of $698,212. Total current liabilities are $81,188, leaving member and patron equities of $617,024—up from $588,921 in 1997.

Jon (left) and Arne Heggedal of rural Badger are livestock producers concerned about the activity of timber (gray) wolves in close proximity to their farms. This yearling deer was killed by two gray wolves Wednesday night within a quarter mile of the brothers' cattle yard. A second deer escaped pursuit by running through the farm yard in the background of this photo. Gale Helvorson of Roseau, a trapper hired by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to remove problem gray wolves which are protected by the federal Endangered Species Act, confirmed that it was gray wolves that made the kill. Because a number of neighbors have lost livestock to grey wolves in prior years, the Heggedals are worried about this spring's calf crop, which in several weeks will be put into a pasture lot and would be vulnerable to wolf depredation. (More on wolf depredation in the March 17 issue of the Thief River Falls Times.)

Unpaid ditch taxes topic of meet at Grygla Mon.

Nearly $700,000 in ditch taxes which the counties of Marshall, Beltrami and Roseau claim are owed to them by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources will be the topic of a meeting called for 7 p.m. Monday, March 15, at the community center in Grygla.

Delmy Larson, Gatzke, Marshall county commissioner who chairs the Ditch 11 committee and is vice chair of the Ditch 21 committee, has called the meeting and will preside. Anyone with concerns about ditching in the eastern Marshall county area is invited to attend the meeting.

Larson said the Ditch 11 system involves the Mud river and its tributaries and the Ditch 21 system involves the Moose river and its tributaries.

At issue are drainage assessments against public lands administered by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources which have not been paid to the counties since 1993, Larson said. Non-payment has been a hardship on the counties of Marshall, Beltrami and Roseau, to which the payment is owed, he added, and has placed an undue burden on others for maintenance of the drainage systems.

Larson said the Department of Natural Resources made its payment of the assessments in 1993 to become current at that time but has paid nothing since.

An offer is being made to the counties through the office of Minnesota Attorney General Mike Hatch to settle with the counties for a reduced amount. Since the boards of commissioners for all three counties will be meeting Tuesday, March 16, they are seeking direction from the other benefiting landowners in the two ditch systems.

Goodridge second quarter honor roll has 57 students

Fifty-seven students in grades seven through 12 were listed on the second quarter honor roll at Goodridge high school, according to the office of Elden Winge, principal.

The list included 17 students on the A honor list and 40 on the B honor list. Grade 12 had a dozen students on the honor roll, followed by grade 10 with 11, grades nine and eight with 10 each, grade seven with eight and grade 11 with six.

State executive director Trecy Beckman (center) of the federal Farm Service Agency was in Thief River Falls Thursday for a meeting of farm lenders involved in the FSA direct loan program. In only his second week on the job, he was making his first ever visit to northwest Minnesota. Reviewing area conditions with Beckman were Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls, who Beckman succeeded as state FSA director, and Karen Fredrickson, district director of FSA Area 1 which includes 10 northwestern Minnesota counties.

State FSA director makes a first visit to NW Minnesota

In only his second week on the job as state executive director of the Farm Service Agency in Minnesota, Trecy Beckman got both ears full of the farm crisis in the northwestern corner of the state Thursday morning in Thief River Falls.

Karen Fredrickson, FSA District Director for Area I, did part of the ear-filling, and Wally Sparby, past state executive director of the FSA and now an aide to U.S. Congressman Collin Peterson, added some more. Completing the task were 84 agricultural lenders and FSA county executive directors from 10 counties attending the training meeting on the FSA's Guaranteed Farm Loans program.

Despite being new to the state office and never before seeing this area of the state, Beckman was not uninformed prior to making his trip to Thief River Falls. A former State Senator from Bricelyn, he has a farm background and has dealt with agricultural issues in the legislature. It was his decision to attend the Thief River Falls meeting instead of one further south in the state because he wanted to find out more about the conditions he had heard of in this area.

Particular attention was paid to the recently announced results of the 18th sign-up in the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP). Three counties in northwestern Minnesota were limited in their sign-up by a regulation which prevents more than 25 percent of any county's cropland to be enrolled in the program.

Beckman said the severity of the farm situation in this part of the state is unique, especially to the degree that some farmland will not be able to be farmed this year. "We simply cannot afford to have such a large area of the state in crisis," he said.

Pennington requests CRP limit increase

Tuesday, March 9, Pennington County Board of Commissioners approved a recommendation requesting the acceptance of all qualifying CRP bids in the 18th signup, putting the county's total tillable acres in the program at or near 38.9 percent of the county's total cropland.

In the last edition of The Times, it reported that due to the limitation of 25 percent of a county's cropland being enrolled in the federal Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), less than half of the offers and less than half of the acreage offered in Pennington county were accepted in the 18th CRP signup.

According to the Pennington County Farm Service Agency (FSA) office, only 210 offers totaling 35,061 acres were accepted into the CRP program from the 18th sign-up. An additional 284 offers of 42,069 acres met the federal EBI point minimum of 245 or greater but could not be accepted because the county's 25 percent of cropland acreage had been reached.

There were 40,648.7 acres under previous CRP contract in the county and the 18th sign-up brought the total to 75,709. If all of the offers meeting the point minimum of 245 were accepted, the acreage under CRP contract in the county would equal 38.9 percent of the county's total cropland.

The recommendation from the Pennington County Board of Commissioners states the following:

"Grease" is the Lincoln high school musical to be presented for the public Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27, at 7 p.m. and Sunday, March 28, at 4 p.m. Cast members have been rehearsing the musical since January under the direction of Mrs. Darcy Reese.

Lincoln choir to stage Grease musical March 26, 27 and 28

Singers, dancers and instrumentalists from the Lincoln high school music department have been preparing since January for presentation of the musical Grease on March 26, 27 and 28 in the Lincoln auditorium, according to director Darcy Reese, choir director at the school.

Mrs. Reese lists 41 cast and chorus members for the spirited musical which begins in 1969 with a 10-year class reunion for the Class of 1959. They think back to the "good old days" and are transported back to 1959 with the Pink Ladies, T-Birds and a whole gang of Rydell High School students.

"High school pranks, growing pains, Friday night dances, rock-and-roll, cars, boys, girls, friends and school life are all part of this fun, fun show!" the director said.

While the story of the musical remains unchanged, the local production has distinctive touches added by the director and a number of adults from the community.

Many of the costumes have been sewn especially for the show as Mrs. Reese wanted a more modern version. She has also added some surprises which she says can be found only in a Lincoln high school musical.

"Brenda Marben, Melba Laidley, Ruth Christensen, Linda Helgeland, Ruth Peterson and Grace Hammer have helped out enormously by spending many hours in making new costumes for various scenes," Mrs. Reese said.

Sets were designed by Mrs. Reese and Lyle Walseth and the latter has spent many hours putting the sets together at home and at the school. His sons Kevin and Kyle have also been helping in the shop and are eager to see the sets come alive on stage. The director said the sets "look fantastic."

Brant Hagen, an art major at North Dakota State University and a nephew of Mrs. Reese, is adding his talent by painting the finishing touches on the sets.

The musical pit ensemble includes Cathy Hagen on keyboard, John Danielson on drums, Colin Browning on string bass, Josh Lampe on lead guitar, Amber Morkrid on soprano saxophone and Tiffany Hagen on tenor saxophone.

Larson said the Ditch 11 system involves the Mud river and its tributaries and the Ditch 21 system involves the Moose river and its tributaries.

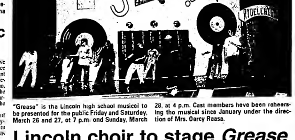
At issue are drainage assessments against public lands administered by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources which have not been paid to the counties since 1993, Larson said. Non-payment has been a hardship on the counties of Marshall, Beltrami and Roseau, to which the payment is owed, he added, and has placed an undue burden on others for maintenance of the drainage systems.

Larson said the Department of Natural Resources made its payment of the assessments in 1993 to become current at that time but has paid nothing since.

An offer is being made to the counties through the office of Minnesota Attorney General Mike Hatch to settle with the counties for a reduced amount. Since the boards of commissioners for all three counties will be meeting Tuesday, March 16, they are seeking direction from the other benefiting landowners in the two ditch systems.

Goodridge second quarter honor roll has 57 students

Fifty-seven students in grades seven through 12 were listed on the second quarter honor roll at Goodridge high school, according to the office of Elden Winge, principal.



The list included 17 students on the A honor list and 40 on the B honor list. Grade 12 had a dozen students on the honor roll, followed by grade 10 with 11, grades nine and eight with 10 each, grade seven with eight and grade 11 with six.

Students named to the honor roll include the following:

"Grease" is the Lincoln high school musical to be presented for the public Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27, at 7 p.m. and Sunday, March 28, at 4 p.m. Cast members have been rehearsing the musical since January under the direction of Mrs. Darcy Reese.

Lincoln choir to stage Grease musical March 26, 27 and 28

Singers, dancers and instrumentalists from the Lincoln high school music department have been preparing since January for presentation of the musical Grease on March 26, 27 and 28 in the Lincoln auditorium, according to director Darcy Reese, choir director at the school.

Mrs. Reese lists 41 cast and chorus members for the spirited musical which begins in 1969 with a 10-year class reunion for the Class of 1959. They think back to the "good old days" and are transported back to 1959 with the Pink Ladies, T-Birds and a whole gang of Rydell High School students.

"High school pranks, growing pains, Friday night dances, rock-and-roll, cars, boys, girls, friends and school life are all part of this fun, fun show!" the director said.

While the story of the musical remains unchanged, the local production has distinctive touches added by the director and a number of adults from the community.

Many of the costumes have been sewn especially for the show as Mrs. Reese wanted a more modern version. She has also added some surprises which she says can be found only in a Lincoln high school musical.

"Brenda Marben, Melba Lindley, Ruth Christensen, Linda Helgeland, Ruth Peterson and Grace Hanmer have helped out enormously by spending many hours in making new costumes for various scenes," Mrs. Reese said.

Sets were designed by Mrs. Reese and Lyle Walseth and the latter has spent many hours putting the sets together at home and at the school. His sons Kevin and Kyle have also been helping in the shop and are eager to see the sets come alive on stage. The director said the sets "look fantastic."

Brant Hagen, an art major at North Dakota State University and a nephew of Mrs. Reese, is adding his talent by painting the finishing touches on the sets.

The musical pit ensemble includes Cathy Hagen on keyboard, John Danielson on drums, Colin Browning on string bass, Josh Lampe on lead guitar, Amber Morkrid on soprano saxophone and Tiffany Hagen on tenor saxophone.

Warroad Education Assoc. receives classroom grant

Warroad Education Association received $2,500 from the Education Minnesota Foundation for Excellence in Teaching and Learning. The grant supports the Warroad Education Association Lao Family Literacy program.

The Lao Family Literacy program was one of many programs receiving grants from the educator-led grants announced by the Education Minnesota Foundation for Excellence in Teaching and Learning.

Education Minnesota Co-President Sandra Peterson said, "This year the Education Minnesota Foundation for Excellence in Teaching and Learning will award grants totaling nearly $130,000 to educators and education-related non-profits. Without Foundation money, many student-focused learning programs would not be available."

Judy Schaubach, co-president added, "Teachers and education support personnel contribute to the Foundation with money out of their own pockets. That proves how strongly educators value increased student learning opportunities."

Since its inception in 1992, the Foundation has awarded more than $800,000 for projects aimed at improving teaching and learning.

The Lao Family Literacy program in Warroad, recipient of a $2,500 grant, was explained by Kathy Scheving of the Warroad Education Association. "It is difficult for families new to the United States to manage barriers between the generations created by living in two cultures. This project increases communication by emphasizing the two cultures' interdependence and eliminating the isolation and fear. Social, recreational and educational events address the following components of family literacy: adult literacy, early childhood education, parent education, and parent-child interaction."

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Our taste buds are tired of the same old, same old meat recipes. I've found a few new recipes for meats that should make your meals more exciting.

This sounds like a deliciously different meat loaf and it is so easy:

1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 cup herb stuffing mix
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Mix all ingredients together and place in casserole. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Let stand, covered, for 5 minutes before serving.

Another way to fix that same old hamburger - the Norwegian way:

NORWEGIAN MEAT BALLS

1 pound ground beef
1 pound ground pork
2 1/2 teaspoons ginger
1/2 teaspoon allspice
Salt and pepper
1 onion, grated
1 cup bread crumbs
1/2 cup cream or whole milk
1 egg

Combine all ingredients. Roll into balls the size of walnuts. Fry in hot fat until brown.

Add a small amount of water and milk and cook until ready to serve.

Let's have something really interesting for that boring old chicken tonight - this one is different. Don't be scared by the length of the recipe - it isn't hard:

CHICKEN WAIKIKI BEACH

2 whole chicken legs and 2 whole chicken breasts
1/2 cup flour
1/3 cup oil
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 (1 pound 4 ounce) can sliced pineapple
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
3/4 cup cider vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 large green pepper, cut into 1/4 inch circles

Wash chicken, pat dry and coat with flour.

Heat oil in large skillet and add chicken, a few pieces at a time, browning on all sides. Remove to shallow roasting pan, arranging skin side up. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Drain pineapple, reserving syrup in 2 cup measure. Add water to syrup to make 1 and 1/4 cups.

In medium saucepan, combine sugar, cornstarch, pineapple syrup, vinegar, soy sauce, ginger and bouillon cube. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Boil 2 minutes, then pour over chicken in pan.

Bake, uncovered, 30 minutes. Add pineapple slices and green pepper. Bake 30 minutes longer or until chicken is tender and done.

Serve with rice.

One more tangy chicken recipe - this one with a tomato sauce. Serve it on spaghetti:

CHICKEN CONFETTI

4-5 pound broiler, cut into pieces
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup oil
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
2 (16 ounce) cans tomatoes
1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce
1 (6 ounce) can tomato paste
2 tablespoons fresh parsley
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon basil
1/4 teaspoon pepper
7 or 8 ounces of spaghetti, cooked and drained
Grated Parmesan cheese

Wash chicken pieces and pat dry. Season with 1 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper.

In large skillet or Dutch oven, brown chicken in oil. Remove chicken, then pour off all but 3 tablespoons of fat.

Add onion and garlic and cook, stirring, until onion is tender. Stir in chicken and remaining ingredients except spaghetti and cheese.

Cover tightly and cook slowly 1 to 1 1/2 hours, until chicken is tender and done, stirring occasionally and adding water as needed. Skim off excess fat.

Serve on spaghetti, sprinkled with Parmesan.

Here's a recipe for those pork chops that will really be a hit:

PORK CHOPS AND CORN DRESSING

6 to 8 pork chops
1 can cream style corn
1 cup bread crumbs
2 teaspoons chopped green pepper
Dash of pepper
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted butter

Brown chops and place in large baking dish.

Mix remaining ingredients together and cover each chop generously.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until chops are tender and done.

Parenting class on adolescents offered March 22

Raising adolescents is a challenging task, but one of many rewards. Today, many parents seek the advice of professionals as they strive to raise their families. With this need in mind, a parenting class entitled "How to Prepare for Adolescence" is being offered at the Thief River Falls Public Library from 6:30 - 7:30 p.m. on Monday, March 22.

This video and accompanying discussion is authored by Dr. James Dobson, a respected authority on family life and parenting methods. The session is led by Rev. Bill Kerr of the Thief River Falls United Methodist Church.

The parenting class is open to everyone. There are no fees, or materials to buy. To preregister, please call the United Methodist Church at 681-4388. Preregistration are preferred, but walk-ins are also welcome.

Card of Thanks

Our Dear Mother and Grandmother, Edith Dyrdal, passed away on January 31, 1999. We would like to thank the staff and administrative personnel of CNC 2 for the care given to her these past 4-1/2 years. Also, to all the friends and relatives who were so devoted with their visits, sending cards and letters.

We would like to thank Pastor Paul Chell for his visits and kind words; Zion Lutheran Church, Thief River Falls, for the use of their church.

And thanks to Phyliss Dalager and soloists, Alan Melvie and Grace Hammer, for their beautiful music.

Also, thank you to all who sent flowers, brought food and came to visit; to Oak Ridge WELCA for serving lunch; and to Green Funeral Home for their concern and making the arrangements.

May God's Blessings be with all of you

The Family of Edith Dyrdal

CRP Acreage Limits Are A Double-Edged Sword

In several counties of northwest Minnesota, acceptance of acres for Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) sign-up was far below the acreage included in qualified offers. Statistics on offers and acceptance from the 18th CRP sign-up were announced late last week.

Reason for the low acceptance was that the counties had reached their maximum allowable limit of 25 percent of the cropland in the county. That restriction had been placed in the CRP program early-on to prevent wholesale decimation of active farming in some areas where CRP was an attractive alternative to actual production.

Given the critical agricultural situation in northwest Minnesota at this time and the virtual desperation of many applicants for the program, several counties have made application to the state Farm Service Agency Committee to increase the limitation to 30 or 35 percent. It is not a popular alternative among agribusinesses which are dependent upon operating farms for their livelihood. Idle acres don't require fertilizer, fuel or seed nor do they support livestock and its special service needs.

Raising the limit to 30 or 35 percent would allow many more farmers to participate and give them a guaranteed income from their land that is urgently needed. In some cases it would permit them to continue farming other acreage. In other situations it would enable families to retain ownership while working off the farm and buying time for hopefully better times. For others, of course, it would mean the end of their active farming careers.

The local county FSA committees and county boards of commissioners are well aware of the ramifications to their communities and counties if the limits are extended. They are also closer than most to the people who have offered their land for CRP contracts. In weighing the alternatives, they have opted to put extended limits on the heavy end of the scale.

It may be overly optimistic to believe that active farmers will idle their land for 10 years, enter the labor market for that length of time, and then pick up farming again when their CRP contracts expire. That 10-year span is a long time to maintain an interest in taking on the risks of farming again.

In an eight-county area of northwestern Minnesota there were 2,062 offers involving 260,255 acres of land accepted in the 12th CRP sign-up. That's more than a quarter-million acres of land which will come out of production in this corner of the state alone. Statewide there will be 380,547 acres set aside from production or other uses.

In Pennington county, if all qualifying offers of land for CRP were accepted, nearly 39 percent of the county's cropland would be idled. An increase to 30 percent would allow an additional 15,091 acres to be enrolled and an increase to 35 percent would add 30,240 acres to the total. That could help a lot of farmers hold on to their farms.

A plus to allowing additional sign-up at this time is the availability of jobs in the immediate area. During some previous sign-ups, families placing whole farms in the program were forced to move away to secure employment. Once relocated, few returned. Now there is at least the possibility of people remaining in the area even if all or most if their farms would be inoperative.

The debate over extended acreage limits is a two-edged sword that cuts both ways, but from a total community standpoint it seems there would be less bleeding if the increases were granted.

Them Ain't Timbers..... Them's Gray Wolves

Minnesotans won't have to worry about timber wolves after a new wolf bill is adopted for the state. There won't be timber wolves any more —at least not by law. Wherever the words "timber wolf" formerly appeared in state statute the words "gray wolf" will be substituted, according to a bill before the state legislature.

At issue is adoption of an official plan for dealing with the gray wolf when (and still "if") it is removed as a threatened species from the federal endangered species list. The feds aren't ready to let gray wolves slip the leash until the states have an acceptable plan to deal kindly with them. Many in the state, however—especially in areas of the state where the wolves are most plentiful—want a practical authority to control the numbers.

There is even less consensus in the legislature than there was on the committee formed by the Department of Natural Resources to recommend a state plan. Rural legislators have proposed hunting and trapping seasons as control factors; environmentalists have said it is desirable to have more wolves in the state, not fewer. Agreement among opponents seems unlikely.

We think that the feds shouldn't be allowed to hold the state hostage now that the estimated number of wolves has reached the mark earlier listed as necessary for removal from the endangered species list. Gray wolves should be delisted, period. Any management plan must include effective control measures, which realistically means trapping rather than hunting. A hunting season on timb...., excuse us, gray wolves, could provide some revenue but little control. The critters are elusive and would be impossible to control by hunting. Eliminating trapping would eliminate control.

Ventura delivers good message in State of State

by Rep. Jim Tunheim

Gov. Jesse Ventura's first State of the State Address was something of a mystery before he delivered it. But it turned out that our state's first Reform Party governor delivered a good message and drew 36 rounds of applause from both DFLers and Republicans.

He said many things that I would wholeheartedly support - especially his call for extensive property tax reform and support for school funding and class-size reduction, and his emphasis on increasing citizen involvement in our communities.

This speech was important in defining the entire Ventura Administration. He set forth in general terms an agenda that most Minnesotans could agree with and support. His remarks were especially welcome because they are in great contrast to the priorities and actions of the previous administration of Gov. Arne Carlson. Carlson frequently - and unfairly - bashed public education and never exercised leadership on property tax reform or transportation.

I am especially encouraged by the Governor's reinforcement of support for a sales tax rebate over an income tax rebate proposed by House Republicans. I'm hopeful his strong statement will encourage the Republican leadership to give up their opposition and let us get the rebate bill out of the limbo of a House-Senate conference committee.

The Governor's call for a complete restructuring of the property tax system echoes things that I and other DFLers have been saying for years: That property taxes are our least-fair tax, that they are unrelated to the taxpayers' income, and need to be brought under control. I would welcome a detailed proposal from the Governor, and we would be pleased to work with him to pass it.

Equally welcome is the Governor's call for school class size reduction and his opposition to educational vouchers. It's good to at last have a governor who values the public schools. Again, I want to see a detailed proposal, and if it is good for the schools in our area, I would be pleased to support it.

So on the whole, I found a lot to like in his speech and I think we will be able to develop a good working relationship with the governor.

But one area where it seems the Governor still doesn't have a clear idea is farm crisis relief. Although the Governor expressed a willingness to commit $60 million over four years to rural programs, that does little to address the growing crisis in Minnesota agriculture. I will try to meet with him to make him recognize that Rural Minnesota is not asking for welfare but for financing to continue farming and for long-term market reforms that will let farmers become self-sufficient.

As always, I appreciate your comments on this and other state issues. Please contact me at 335 State Office Building, 100 Constitution Ave., St. Paul, MN. 55155-1298, <rep.jim.tunheim@house.leg.state.mn.us> or (651) 296-9635.

Mitch Swanson Memorial Snowmobile Run planned

Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters snowmobile club and friends of Mitch Swanson, who died unexpectedly last Wednesday at the age of 40, are sponsoring a benefit snowmobile ride for a trust fund established for education of his sons Kyle and Nick.

"Mitch and his family have been strong supporters of snowmobiling for many years," stated Kevin Johnson, president of the Sno-Drifters, "and we had so many questions from our members as to what they could do to help his family. This ride seemed to be a perfect tribute."

The event will start at the Family Bowl parking lot Sunday, March 14, with registration beginning at 11 a.m. At 12 noon riders will start the approximately 60-mile ride to the Swanson family cabin near Halma where Mitch and his family spent a good deal of recreational time. A bonfire will be built and a lunch provided by RJ Meats and Hartz Foods will be served at the cabin.

At 4 p.m. the riders will head back for Thief River Falls and a benefit auction will be held at the Black Cat, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Among items to be auctioned are an Arctic Cat snowsuit, Arctic Cat helmet and miscellaneous Arctic Cat jackets and accessories.

Riders are encouraged to have two sponsors pledge a donation on a per-mile basis, however, any donation will be appreciated. Everyone is welcome, even if they don't make the trail ride by snowmobile. The Black Cat will open at 5 p.m. and door prizes including Arctic Cat t-shirts and hats will be awarded.

Persons who cannot participate in the ride or auction but would like to make a pledge or donation, or if they have any questions, they may call the Sno-Drifters Pledge Hotline at 218-681-9722. All donations will go into the trust fund set up at Northern State Bank for the education of Mitch Swanson's sons, Kyle and Nick.

Mitch Swanson was a past president of the Sno-Drifters and extremely active in snowmobile projects such as trail signs and other promotional activities.

The event will begin at 2 p.m. when participants explore the Roseau Park. A potluck supper will be held at 5:30 p.m. at the home of Bud and Betty Johnson followed by a 7:30 p.m. program featuring Greg Brooks and his live bald eagle at the Roseau Library meeting room.

George Jones still plans to perform at Shooting Star

Seriously injured in an automobile accident recently when his vehicle left the roadway and hit a tree, country singer George Jones has informed the Shooting Star Casino in Mahnomen that he still plans to perform there with Kitty Wells Sunday, July 18, as part of the casino's outdoor entertainment series.

The show is one of three in the series planned for 4 p.m. The other two are Merle Haggard on June 13 and Loretta Lynn and John Conley on July 17. Scheduled for 7 p.m. are professional boxing on July 24, '60s Rock 'n' Roll Army (Dickey Lee, Chris Montez, Len Barry, Sonny Geraci, Mitch Ryder, Tommy Roe, Billy J. Kramer and Brian Hyland) on August 14 and Steppenwolf and Paul Rodgers (Bad Co.) August 28.

Tickets are now on sale at $35 for VIP seating and $20 reserved for the first four concerts; $30 and $15 on August 14 and 28. They are available at the casino ticket office or by calling 1-800-313-7469.

Parent Advisory meeting at FMS Tuesday, March 16

Franklin Middle School will hold a Parents Advisory meeting on Tuesday, March 16 at 7 p.m. in the FMS Media Center. All parents are invited to attend.

Crop Loss Disaster Assistance sign-up open through April 9

Sign-up period for the Crop Loss Disaster Assistance Program (CLDAP) through the Farm Service Agency will continue open through April 9, according to Glenn Schafer, executive director of the Pennington County FSA office.

Schafer said CLDAP provides payments to farmers based on either 25 percent of multiple year (1994-1998) crop insurance payments or 1998 single year crop production losses greater than 35 percent.

A possible requirement of the CLDAP is that farmers would have to purchase crop insurance in 1999 and 2000. Farmers need to be aware that the deadline for purchasing multi-peril crop insurance is March 15. However, if farmers miss that deadline, catastrophic crop insurance can be purchased until April 28 to meet any CLDAP-imposed insurance requirements. Multi-peril provides varying degrees of protection from crop losses; catastrophic insurance provides only 50 percent yield protection.

Classical music showcase Sunday at Embassy Center

The monthly Classical Music Showcase will be held at 3 p.m. on Sunday, March 14 at the Embassy Community Center in Fosston.

The purpose of the event is to give young people the opportunity to perform in public situations.

Betty Johnson will make a presentation about inventor and composer Bartolomeo Cristofori. Refreshments will be served.

Home Buyers classes to begin on March 30

Prospective home buyers are invited to participate in "Home Stretch", a series of three classes that prepare you for purchasing a home. The first class will be held on Tuesday, March 30, 7:00 - 9:30 p.m. in the Courthouse meeting room, Thief River Falls; second and third classes will be the following Tuesdays, April 6 and 13. Topics covered include pro's and con's of home ownership, determining the amount of house you can afford, types of home mortgages, debt to income ratios, working with a realtor, closing costs and procedures and other related topics.

Cost of the course is $5 per household. Call the Extension Office at 683-7030 to register for the class or simply come to the first session on Tuesday, March 30. Those needing the course to be eligible for certain types of loans should plan to attend.

Theatre group holds auditions for murder mystery

That's Entertainment is holding auditions for men and women, both singing and non-singing roles, for their latest murder mystery dinner theatre production — Murder at the Speak Easy: the gangs all here.

The play is set in Chicago during the late roaring 20's and evolves scene by scene during various dinner courses (similar to last spring's Murder on the Mind). Mystery and mayhem join forces with the mob and "all that jazz" to build a suspenseful yet comical "who-dunit".

The auditions will be held Friday, March 19 from 6 to 8 p.m. in the basement of Trinity Lutheran Church. The production will be held the end of April and first part of May.

All Of The Hole

The Magnum ice auger sputtered and thumped stubbornly under the cumbersome weight of the deceased fisherman's heavy frame, rotating like a broken metronome. The sight had become so common it had transcended the level of grisly. It seems I'd witnessed such a Spring demise almost every March for years.

The lake sheet becomes thick, as much as 40 frozen inches in depth, and still the die-hard panfishermen refuse to give up the spaciousness of their 10-inch holes. The oversized, undersharpened bit is prodded, pushed and threatened through the ice until either auger or operator give out.

In this case it was the latter, his arm thrust awkwardly through the handle and pushed up tight against the throttle cable as evidence of the last desperate grasp toward a non-functioning bean. Elliptical revolution of the solidly meshed auger/body combo brought the dead fisherman's Sorrel boots flopping lazily down across the snow with a dull "whump," offering a cadence that ironically suggested a lively Ragtime tune.

The only option available to a now-gathering crowd of gawkers was to wait until the gasoline reservoir was exhausted before attempting to extricate man from machine. We satisfied ourselves with an indulgence in the warm fuzziness that accompanies the death of someone who meets his maker doing what he likes best. As I casually ducked to avoid a set of dentures liberated from the whirling fiasco by centrifugal force, thoughts of math crossed my mind.

"Anyone here know the formula for the volume of a cylinder?" I yelled to the growing crowd.

A half dozen hands went up immediately, while a crusty old-timer who had to this point taken little interest in his unfallen comrade rudely blurted out, "Area of the base times height" and turned back to his fishing.

"Thanks," I returned sarcastically, "but I'm looking for the amount of ice that would have come out of that hole had this man and his 10-inch auger ever made it through."

"I'll tell ya," was the quick retort from a youngish lad of 10 or so who had been occupying himself by trying to remove a Swedish Pimple snagged in the pant leg of the spinning corpse. "The area that 10-incher cuts is pi x r x r or 3.1415 x 144 or roughly 314.15 square inches. At a depth of 40 inches of ice, that auger could have been expected to displace 12,566 cubic inches of frozen water."

He dodged the clip-on depth finder which had finally let loose from the victim's lapel and went back to his dizzying attempt at Pimple larceny.

"How about a seven-inch hole?" I queried the general public group.

"Applying the same math, only 6,157.34 cubic inches," came the quick but anonymous reply.

I thought for a moment. Only three more diametric inches of fishing space, but more than twice the shaved ice to contend with. Was it really worth it? Maybe things worked out better with less of a frozen sheet.

"How about in December?" I yelled.

"At 12 inches thick it's 1,847 cubic inches compared to 3,769, still more than twice the slush," offered the crusty old-timer as he yanked a small sauger from his hole, "but that's still only 30 percent of the effort that this poor sap has been putting in today. That's probably why he survived December!" He cackled out a wheezing giggle.

A red and black earflapped cap came spinning out and I briefly abandoned my thoughts to join in the mad dive for a souvenir. As I dusted the snow off my pants and adjusted the cap on my head, it occurred to me that if I could drill a seven-inch hole through 40 inches of ice at about an inch per second, then the displacement would suggest this hard-working angler had been contending with at least a minute and a half per hole. That's a lot of extra time when you don't have much time to fish in the first place. And think of all the slush he'd have to dip out once he'd completed the drilling process!

"How much slush goes into a five-gallon pail?" I asked the larcenous youngster who had successfully retrieved the Swedish Pimple and had moved on to a pair of Oakley sunglasses that were protruding from the still-spinning, dead fisherman's breast pocket.

"About 6,333.26 cubic inches," was the distracted reply. "That's about one 40-pound pail per seven-inch hole and more than two for each 10-inch hole."

I was amazed. If it took me four minutes to dip the slush out of a seven-inch hole, that's eight minutes for a 10-incher. Fishing two holes per day, with the standard three move approach, I was dipping for nearly 48 minutes of my daily fishing time!

"I can smell the wheels turning from here," cackled the crusty old geezer as a chopper mitt flew between us. "If you consider drilling and dipping times for yourself and then factor in the number of holes you'd have to do for a feeble old-timer like me or for your kids, well, you're not doing much fishing! And that hour or so of time you got left for yourself only happens if you survive the rest of it in the first place!" He nodded in the direction of the helicoptering body and laughed.

As if on cue, the motor coughed and chugged to a stop and the crowd rushed in to check for a pulse and see if there was any significant cash in the dead man's wallet. As I pawed and elbowed through the melee, it occurred to me that I could live very happily with my seven-inch ice auger.

Singles' Christian Fellowship to meet Sunday, March 21

Singles' Christian Fellowship will meet on Sunday, March 21 at 3 p.m. at the Embassy Community Center in Fosston.

The program will include presentations by Deb Earls on hospice care in the Fosston area and Swiss foreign exchange student Steffan Keller. Keller will also provide musical entertainment with his flute, and a potluck supper will conclude the event.

Health screening in Oslo March 18

North Valley Home Health will hold a spring health promotion screening at the Oslo Community Center from 1 to 2:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 18.

The clinic will include analysis of blood pressure, cholesterol, height, weight and body fat. Education with regard to healthy life styles and increasing physical activity will also be provided.

Donations of $5 to help cover the cost of supplies will be accepted. No one, however, will be turned away for inability to pay.

For more information call Nancy Maurstad, RN, at North Valley Home Health at (800) 950-6986 or (218) 745-5154.

Lincoln 1999-2000 registration meet planned March 18

Parents of Lincoln high school students are encouraged to attend a parent-student registration informational meeting regarding the 1999-2000 school year Thursday, March 18, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the school.

The evening will begin with a general informational meeting and introduction of the faculty at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Beginning at 7:30 p.m. there will be four 10-minute sessions for parent and student visitation with teachers in their classrooms about the courses they teach.

At 8:30 p.m. the group will again gather in the cafeteria for an update on the graduation rule.

Students in grade eight at Franklin middle school and in grades nine through 11 at Lincoln high school will receive information on 1999-2000 registration beginning Monday, March 15, when eighth graders will be visited during their science classes by representatives of the Lincoln guidance office.

Lincoln students will receive registration information in their communication classes with the ninth grade scheduled for Tuesday, 10th grade Wednesday and 11th grade Thursday.

The same schedule will be followed the next week, March 22-25, when the actual registration for classes will take place, according to Bill Stock, Lincoln high school guidance director.

Stock said that students as well as parents are encouraged to attend the Thursday evening information meeting, especially if they have questions or want to see what individual programs have to offer. Parents with questions they would like answered in advance of the information meeting are invited to call the guidance office in Lincoln high school at 681-8672.

Scout food drive planned for Saturday, March 20

As part of a national "Good Turn" project, Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts in Thief River Falls will be collecting food on a door-to-door basis Saturday, March 20, beginning at 10 a.m.

Early in the week Scouts will be placing a plastic bag for food collection on the door knob of each house in the city. The bag is printed with information on the types of food needed and instructions for donating. Filled bags will be picked up by the scouts on March 20.

All collected food will be brought to the Thief River Falls Area Food Shelf which will distribute it to people in need. Because March is Minnesota Food Share Month, local donations will be matched by Minnesota Food Share.

Thief River Falls residents are asked to place the filled food bags on their front steps or hang them on their front door knob by 10 a.m. on Saturday, March 20. Bags should be placed where they are easily visible from the street to facilitate collection by the scouts.

Persons who would like to be a part of the food collection operation but are inadvertently missed, live in a rural area or will be out of town on March 20, may bring their food bag to the food shelf in the basement of the Falls Mall between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. that Saturday or any Tuesday between the hours of 1 and 4:30 p.m. Food may also be brought to the donor's church.

Last year the Thief River Falls scouts collected over 4,000 pounds of food items which greatly assisted the food shelf to help people in need. Scouts, leaders and the food shelf board express their appreciation to the general public for past generosity through the local churches and the scout food drive.

Second half climb lifts NCTC

■ Northland women have 8-7 finish to season

It took a while for things to fall into place for the 1998-99 Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball team. But after an 0-7 start, the Pioneers played better than .500 ball the rest of the way to finish 8-14 under first-year head coach Mike Zachow.

A 7-7 finish in the Northern Division left Northland one game shy of fourth place and a Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament berth.

"After going 0-7, and looking at our (small) numbers, I started to wonder if we were going to win a game," admitted Zachow. "But we started to play pretty well the second half of the season. To start the year the way we did and to come within one game of qualifying for the state tournament was a pretty good turnaround."

Key to the Pioneers' second half surge, pointed out Zachow, was the play of sophomore guard Jenny Johnson. Out of necessity, the Goodridge High School graduate and the lone returning Northland regular from 1997-98 was forced to play point guard instead of shooting guard. It took a while for her game to fall into place, explained Zachow. But Johnson hit stride down the stretch, he pointed out, and wound up averaging 11 points and 5 assists per game, along with a team-best 35.7 shooting percentage from 3-point range (40/112).

Becky Perreault led the Pioneers in scoring with a 17.7 average. The Red Lake Falls product was a freshman eligibility-wise, but a sophomore academically after attending Bemidji State University the previous year, where she did not play basketball. She isn't expected to be back at Northland next year.

Jessica Johnson, a freshman front line performer from Warroad, also carried a double figure scoring average for the Pioneers at 10.8 points per game.

Shanna Keskitalo, a freshman center-forward from New York Mills, averaged 9.2 points and a team-leading 10.5 rebounds per game.

Miki Waterworth, a freshman from Marshall County Central, overcame injuries and illness to be a valuable part of the team, while Rachel Blazejewski, Katie Block and Amber Carpenter filled roles off the bench.

Zachow, named the Pioneers' coach well after the prime recruiting season had passed, played with the hand he was dealt during his first year in Thief River Falls, and was more than happy with the effort his players put forth. "All the kids contributed," he noted. "I'm looking forward to having most of them back next year. We're still looking for a point guard, and we could use a big post player. People found out I could coach. Now they'll see if I can recruit."

Crusaders finish with doubleheader split in volleyball, basketball

Our Saviour's Christian Academy boys and girls teams closed out their 1998-99 winter sports schedule with a Friday (March 5) volleyball-basketball doubleheader against New Testament Baptist in Larimore, ND.

Tammy Myhrer had 29 service points and Mary Ramsey picked up 16 as the Crusaders outlasted the Stallions 15-0, 14-16, 16-14, 15-3 in volleyball.

New Testament Baptist held narrow leads at each quarter stop, 12-11, 26-25 and 42-41, en route to a 58-52 win over the Our Saviour's Christian Academy boys basketball team. David Bray scored 16 points, Eli Mereil 14 and Jay Mereil 11 for the Crusaders.

1999 Northland baseball...

Pioneers have new coach, young team

Preseason work began Monday for members of the 1999 Northland Community and Technical College baseball team.

First-year Pioneers head coach John Ott is working with 20 players in the Northland gym while waiting on the weather. Only three of them were members of last year's team that went 8-18 under Chris Mills – pitcher Cole Young (Williams); infielder Ryan Halvorson (Roseau) and infielder/outfielder Brandon Gomowicz (Warren).

Three other sophomores on hand include infielder/outfielder Eric Reinbold (Oklee), infielder/pitcher Dan Niebuhr (Babbitt) and outfielder Jesse Lunsetter (Grygla).

The list of freshmen reporting for the start of drills included infielders Peter Mooney (Hillsboro, ND), Matt Lanctot (Crookston) and Anthony Ryen (Thief River Falls); outfielders Luke Hagness (Lankin, ND), Tracy Gayden (Vance, MS), Alex Anderson (Grygla), and Jason Lund (Warroad); pitcher Peter Vacha (Fargo, ND); catcher Chad Broers (Twin Valley); catcher/pitcher Andy Harbott (Thief River Falls); outfielder/pitcher Kirk Beebout (Clear Lake, IA); along with Chris Cairns (Arlington, TX), Charlie Johnson (Middle River) and Brian Peniata (Plymouth), who double as infielders and pitchers.

"We're a little iffy on pitching," admitted Ott, and we could use another infielder or two because a couple of our infielders also double as pitchers."

Dan Zubich and Jayson Robinson will serve as Northland assistant coaches this spring.

The Pioneers are scheduled to open the season with an April 2-3 four-game series at the University of North Dakota-Williston. All Northland playing dates are doubleheader affairs.

Sports Boosters will host fund-raising golf tourney

Third annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club fund-raising golf tournament will be held Friday, June 25, at the Thief River Golf Club.

The event is a joint venture headed by Sports Boosters Club President Dave Ohm, Thief River Falls Coaches Association President Jeff Loe and Northland Community and Technical College Activities Director Rick Nelson.

Honorary Chair for the 1999 tournament is Bob Bendickson, who has assisted in the event the past two years and has been active in supporting the Thief River Falls athletic programs over the years.

The tournament will feature a California-style format. Entry fee will be $60 per player, which includes a grab bag of golf goodies, treats prior to the tournament, and supper following the conclusion of the golf activity.

For tournament information contact Ohm at 681-7441, Loe at 681-7140 or Nelson at 681-0725.

Darin Bjerknes receives NW Minn. Youth Award

Darin Bjerknes, Thief River Falls, was one of four recipients of the 11th Annual Northwest Minnesota Youth Award presented by the Minnesota Red River Valley Development Association (RRVDA) recently.

This scholarship was originated to recognize outstanding scholarship, citizenship and leadership among today's youth through their involvement in school, church and community activities. The award is $500 and an engraved plaque. Students between the ages of 17 and 21 write a two-page essay describing their involvement and leadership activities. In the past 11 years, the Association has presented awards totaling $9,300 to 21 students from Norman, Roseau, Pennington, Wilkin, Clay, Mahnomen, Red Lake, Clearwater, Polk, Marshall, Kittson and Otter Tail counties.

Darin has been active in school activities since being nominated for class president in the eighth grade. He has participated in a variety of school activities including football, tennis and basketball. Last fall he received the honor of being named the most valuable defensive back. He has been involved in student senate and is currently serving as treasurer. He was selected to be a delegate for the National Student Senate conference held in Derby, KS, and also attended the Minnesota Business Venture at St. John's University. He is on the "A" honor roll, a member of the National Honor Society and an Academic All-Star letter winner. Darin is also involved in music activities including band, choir, and the musical.

Bjerknes is a volunteer for activities in his church as a Sunday School and Bible School teacher. He has attended several regional, state and national youth gatherings and was involved in low-income service projects. He has been involved in community projects such as being group leader for Special Olympics, and was selected as a football coach for community fourth and fifth grade flag football.

Bjerknes has been accepted and plans to attend the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, to receive a degree in business/management.

Recipients of the other three scholarships for 1999 include Christopher Nelson of Underwood, Valerie Swenson of Lancaster, and Holly Kostrzewski of Stephen.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

weather, yield-reducing crop diseases and low farm prices for the past several years have created a desperate situation for area farmers, Beckman noted, and many had turned to CRP as a possible means to receive a guaranteed return from some of their land. If many are unable to take advantage of the program, one more option is closed to them.

The state FSA committee is authorized—if it chooses to do so—to raise the county CRP limitation to 30 percent. An increase to any limitation higher than 30 per cent would have to be forwarded by the state committee for consideration at the federal level.

Only Pennington, Marshall and Roseau counties in Minnesota have reached the maximum acreage allowed for CRP because of the 25 percent limitation. In the 18th CRP sign-up, these counties alone had 2,439 offers of 325,454.8 acres for CRP enrollment. When their acreage limitations were reached, only 1,244 of the offers and 173,020 acres had been accepted.

For eight counties all or partly in the Northern Watch area, there were 3,330 offers of 418,399 acres of which 2,062 offers and 260,255 acres accepted following the 18th sign-up.

A list of the number of offers and acreage they represent, along with the number, percentage and acreage of offers accepted includes the following:

Clearwater, 80 offers of 7,915.5 acres made, 77 offers of 7,621 acres (96.2%) accepted; Kittson, 109 offers of 9,300.5 acres made, 83 offers of 7,162 acres (76.1%) accepted; Lake of the Woods, 25 offers of 1,153.7 acres made, 13 offers of 627 acres (52%) accepted; and Marshall, 905 offers of 118,445 acres made, 346 offers of 52,309 acres (38.2%) accepted.

Also Pennington, 516 offers of 79,950 acres made, 210 offers of 35,061 acres (40.6%) accepted; East Polk, 292 offers of 25,106.2 acres made, 284 offers of 24,162 acres (97.2%) accepted; West Polk, 187 offers of 22,997.1 acres made, 179 offers of 22,270 acres (95.7%) accepted; Red Lake, 198 offers of 26,471 acres made, 182 offers of 24,943 acres (91.9%) accepted; and Roseau, 1,018 offers of 127,058.7 ocres made and 688 offers of 85,650 ocres (67.5 %) accepted.

Beckman did not say he would push for the increase to 30 percent, but did promise the state FSA office will work with the local people as much as it can to provide assistance and streamline programs. He said his office is coordinating its efforts with the legislature, including a bill to provide money for hiring adult farm management instructors as part-time assistants in the FSA (formerly FmHA) loan program.

The meeting Thursday in Thief River Falls, and earlier at Moorhead and Worthington, was intended to provide information to ag lenders who are being involved as participants in the FSA loan program because they are most familiar with the circumstances of their farm borrowers.

Fredrickson said she was optimistic that approval would be given by the state FSA board to increasing the limit to 30 per cent but considerably less optimistic about federal approval of any additional amount. "There is not a great deal of excess acreage enrollment available in the United States following the 18th sign-up," she said, "and it would all depend on how willing they were to allow most of that to be enrolled in one small area of Minnesota."

of Commissioners is ocutely oware of the difficult financial conditions, which now face ogriculture in our county and this area of the state. Extremely low commodity prices, coupled with below cost of production loan rates and an inability to protect farm income due to poor yields with crop insurance have left most farmers with few, if anyoptions.

"Farm foreclosures are up markedly as are voluntary liquidations. Retired farmers looking to rent their land to their neighbors are finding few takers. The short-term outlook for o turn around in this current poor Ag economy is bleak. Testament to this fact is the near 80,000 acres bid to enroll in the Conservation Reserve Program. This single signup constitutes 25 percent of the total tillable acres in the county. It does not include the 42,000 acres olready enrolled.

"While the Pennington County Board of Commissioners does not see CRP as the cure all for agriculture in our area, we see no other options available in the foreseeable future.

"Therefore with this statement of understanding, the Pennington County Board of Commissioners do hereby resolve that:

"Whereas ogriculture has few other profitable options beyond CRP in the foreseeable future, and

"Whereas 25 percent of the total tilloble acres in Pennington County is not enough to allow farmers full and needed access to the CRP program,

"Whereas some form of financial relief to farmers is needed this spring, and

"Wheras acceptance of oll qualifying bids in the 18th signup will put the county's totol tillable acres in the CRP program at or near 38.9 percent,

"Therefore be it resolved that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners do hereby support and request that all CRP offers taken during the 18th signup period, which qualify under federol guidelines, be accepted into the program. Be it further resolved thot the Pennington County Board of Comissioners request the Farm Serve Agency to remove the 25 percent county cop, allowing full access by Pennington County farmers to the CRP program from said 18th signup period."

Lincoln choir to stage Grease March 26, 27 and 28

This group has been working hard with the director to give the show just the right amount of rock-and-roll flavor and spice.

A second live band will be playing for a Rydell High School dance. The Rockin' Daddies includes Cody Hempel, lead guitar and vocals; John Marben, vocals; Josh Lampe, bass; John Danielson, drums; Ben Dwen, guitar; Tiffany Hogen, saxophone; and Mrs. Reese, piano.

"This show calls for many choreographed scenes," Mrs. Reese said. "The choreography is fun and in some cases very fast and wild. The kids have had a great time dancing and are ready to make you want to get up and dance as you watch the show."

Curtain times will be at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27, with doors opening at 5:45 and at 4 p.m. Sunday, March 28, with doors opening of 2:45 p.m. Tickets ore ovailable at Kezar Music, Budget Electronics and at the door. Admission is $6 and there is no reserved seating.

Grease is licensed to Lincoln from the Samuel French Library in New York City.

"Plan now to attend this great 1950s musical and bring your friends," Mrs. Reese said.

Chorus members include sopranos Andi Sorvig, Miriah Johnson, Joanna Swantek and Anna Stusynski; altos Ruthie Bunnell, Marnie Schaefer, Jenny Halverson and Bryanno Helgeland; tenors Nic Miller and Roy Unbehaun; and basses Wade Hoviland, Andy Janisch, Sam Kezar, Brian Loe, Nate Sorvig, Ryan Evenson, Kyle Wold and Luke Miller.

Dance extros ore Ashleigh Anderson and Kelly Winjum and cast extras (waiters, waitresses, crowd members) are Jamie Swanson, Tyler Bosh, Connie Morris, Alicia Vigness and Beth Brown.

Arctic Cat test driver shot in Florida incident

Horrible is o word that Mae Rolland of St. Hilaire used to describe the early morning hours of Tuesday, March 9 after she and her husband, Merle, received word that their son, Troy, had been shot and was in surgery ot o Daytona Beach, FL hospitol. "It was o horrible night," she said.

The Rollands of St. Hilaire learned that Troy, an Arctic Cat, Inc. watercraft test driver who was working in Florida, had been shot four times and was also being treated for head injuries.

Rolland, 36, was walking along the pool deck of the Treasure Island motel in Daytona Beach when he was shot during an encounter with two teenage males. The motive for the shooting is believed to be a comment Rolland made obout the youth being too young to drink.

Mae said the young men followed him after he made the remark, and one allegedly pulled a gun and fired six shots, hitting Rolland four times, once in the arm and leg and twice in the abdomen. Rolland then wrestled with his attackers in an attempt to take the gun away but was hit and kicked by one or both of the youth, resulting in o head injury.

The incident occurred at obout 1:15 a.m., and before being taken to the hospital, Rolland was treated on the scene by a police officer who was also trained as a paramedic. The officer, working security detail at the motel, came to his assistance after hearing the shots.

Bullets passed through Rolland's arm and abdomen, and he was oble to walk out of the hospital only a few hours after treatment.

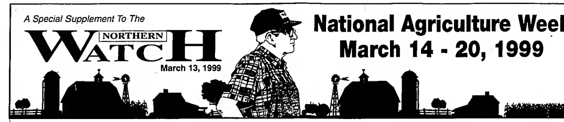
As of Thursday, Doytona Beach police continue to search for Rolland's attockers, ond Rolland remains in Florida waiting to have o bullet removed from his leg. "And then," his mother said, "he's coming home. Rolland is o single man who has a nine-year-old son living in St. Louis, MO. According to Mae Rolland, Troy called his son and assured him that he was all right. Lucky was another word she used in describing her son's ordeal.

Senate to hold hearings about U of M basketball

Minnesota State Senator LeRoy Stumpf, DFL-Thief River Falls, choir of the Senote Higher Education Division, announced late Wednesday that his committee would hold hearings on academic improprieties allegedly committed by the University of Minnesota men's basketball program.

The hearing was scheduled to take place on Friday, March 12, at 8 o m. at the State Capitol.

Sen. Stumpf said it was important for the Senate to hold o hearing promptly because of its oversight responsibility, ond due to the seriousness of the charges.



"Many of our members have questions," Stumpf said. "We want to give the University o chance to address these charges publicly and let us know how they plan to proceed."

Stumpf noted thot since men's athletic programs at the University are financially self-supporting, it is unlikely that state tax dollars have been misused.

University President Mark Yudof will address the charges and onswer questions that division members may have.

Geske dairy farm is a "me and ma" operation

Leonard and Marge Geske are Pennington County's 1999 Valley Farmer and Homemaker

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Leonard and Marge Geske's children are grown and gone from the Geske Dairy Farm on the banks of the Red Lake river south of Thief River Falls, leaving the grain, hay and cattle business to what Leonard calls a "me and ma" operation.

Not that the shared responsibilities of farm operation are anything unique, especially in the dairy field. Farm couples and farm families with cows to milk, calves to feed, hay to handle and crops to plant and harvest have o required togetherness that is simply assumed.

Selected as Pennington county's Honor Dairymen for the Red River Valley Winter Shows a dozen years ago in 1987, Marge and Leonard were honored Saturday, February 27, as Pennington County's Valley Former ond Homemaker. They received recognition and an oward plaque at a noon dinner conducted at the University of Minnesota in Crookston.

"It was a very nice event and we had o good time," Leonard said. "And of the 16 couples who were selected to represent their counties, seven were dairy farmers. With dairying kind of on the skids in this part of Minnesota, I thought that was a pretty fair representation."

108-Year-Old Farm

The Geske farm several miles south of Thief River Falls has been in the Geske family since July of 1891 when Leonard's great-grandfother Carl Geske, an immigrant from Germany, moved here from the Gaylord area of Minnesota and purchased the land. It was awarded Minnesota Century Farm status long enough ago so that the identifying sign has weathered a bit.

Leonard's grandfather, Albert Geske, then carried on the family farming tradition, and passed it on to his son John—Leonard's dad. John and Leonard farmed together for a number of years before Leonard rented the farm in 1972 and purchased it in 1977. John has been a resident of Northwest Medical Center's C&NC unit since 1995.

Leonard married Marge Heddan of Greenbush Nov. 5, 1966. They own 350 acres and rent an additional 125 cropland acres with most of the operation devoted to raising hay, oats and barley and providing pasture for the dairy herd.

Form Always Had Dairy

Since Carl Geske first began the farming operation nearly 108 years ago, dairy cattle have been a part of it. John and Leonard built the Holstein herd and about two-thirds of the cottle are now registered Holsteins. Interested primarily in production, however, Leonard never culls cows simply because they are grade animals. What goes in the bulk tank is more important than the pedigree.

There are presently about 100 head of cattle on the farm, including dry cows and youngstock, and the milking herd fills the barn's capacity of 42 animals.

A couple of years ogo Leonard and Marge sold a number of their milking herd and cut back to about half of their normal number. But they had a good run of heifers and have now rebuilt the herd to its present size.

Children Were Involved

For a number of years the three Geske children—Gary, Brian and Nancy—were an integral part of the dairy farm. Nancy became interested in showing dairy cattle, joined the 4-H club program and her older brothers also became active in 4-H.

Then Gary went to college for a couple of years and started working off the farm; Nancy graduated from high school and went on to the University of Minnesota at Crookston (where she will graduate this year); and Brian died in 1995 in an agricultural accident while working off the farm.

Gary is now married to Lisa Melby of Badger and they live at rural Thief River Falls. Nancy is married to Spencer Larson Jr. of Euclid and they have a three-year-old son Hunter and one-year-old daughter Samantha.

Kids And Neighbors Help

"We still get help from the kids when we need it, especially during the haying season and harvest or if something special is going on," Leonard said. "But they have their own lives and can't be here all the time.

"We are really lucky to have good neighbors that we can call on when we need help, and we do call on them from time to time," he added. "Art Randall is always ready to help with anything we need. He was here at 5:15 in the morning on the Saturday when we were doing chores before heading to Crookston for the awards dinner.

"Alvin and Ron Rondarf, Lloyd Hogenson and John Bomholdt have also pitched in when things got a little rushed and me and ma couldn't get it all done by ourselves."

Farm Raises Hay And Feed

The Geskes have about 160 acres of hay in their farming operation, putting up about 6,000 small square bales each year for feeding the milking herd. They also put up large round bales for youngstock and dry cows.

During the summer Leonard pastures his cows, rotating three sections of the pasture for grazing. He also will green chop alfalfa to supplement the pasture. Bull calves are sold when just a few days old and heifer calves are raised in the herd for replacements and occasional sales.

Like other area dairymen, the Geskes appreciated about six months of higher milk prices before the price tumbled about $6 per hun-

Leonard and Marge Geske of rural Thief River Falls were recently selected as Pennington county's Valley Farmer and Homemaker and recognized at an awards dinner February 27 in Crookston. Leonard is the fourth generation of the Geske family to operate the farm located south of Thief River Falls on the west side of the Red Lake river. During the 108 years that the farm has been in the Geske family, dairy cattle have always been a part of the operation.

LAND O LAKES

A Local Tradition For Over 75 Years.

We're bringing Bridgeman into the LAND O LAKES® family of products.

At Land O'Lakes, we're proud of our long tradition of bringing quality products to the people of the upper Midwest. This tradition continues today because of the dedication and hard work of many farmers and employees in North Dakota and Minnesota.

When you've purchased LAND O LAKES® or Bridgeman products over the years, you have essentially been buying them from your neighbors. The people you know and the farms that you pass by.

Now, as the LAND O LAKES® brand continues to grow nationally, we're bringing all of our regional brands under the LAND O LAKES® name, including Bridgeman.

But don't worry, the package is the only thing we're changing. The products inside still have the same great taste and nutrition you have come to expect.

So even as we grow and export our Midwestern goodness all across America, we're still what we have always been. A farmer-owned co-op dedicated to bringing you Good Things From The Land™.

That's one thing that will never change.

weather, yield reducing crop diseases and low farm prices for the past several years have created a desperate situation for area farmers, Beckman noted, and many had turned to CRP as a possible means to receive a guaranteed return from some of their land. If many are unable to take advantage of the program, one more option is closed to them.

The state FSA committee is authorized—if it chooses to do so—to raise the county CRP limitation to 30 percent. An increase to any limitation higher than 30 percent would have to be forwarded by the state committee for consideration at the federal level.

Only Pennington, Marshall and Roseau counties in Minnesota have reached the maximum acreage allowed for CRP because of the 25 percent limitation. In the 18th CRP sign-up, these counties alone had 2,439 offers of 325,454.8 acres for CRP enrollment. When their acreage limitations were reached, only 1,244 of the offers and 173,020 acres had been accepted.

For eight counties all or partly in the Northern Watch area, there were 3,330 offers of 418,399 acres of which 2,062 offers and 260,285 acres accepted following the 18th sign-up.

A list of the number of offers and acreage they represent, along with the number, percentage and acreage of offers accepted includes the following.

Clearwater, 80 offers of 7,915.5 acres made, 77 offers of 7,621 acres (96.2%) accepted. Kittson, 109 offers of 9,300.5 acres made, 83 offers of 7,162 acres (76.1%) accepted. Lake of the Woods, 25 offers of 1,153.7 acres made, 13 offers of 627 acres (52%) accepted, and Marshall, 905 offers of 118,445 acres made, 346 offers of 52,309 acres (38.2%) accepted.

Also Pennington, 516 offers of 79,950 acres made, 210 offers of 35,061 acres (40.6%) accepted; East Polk, 292 offers of 25,106.2 acres made, 284 offers of 24,162 acres (97.2%) accepted; West Polk, 187 offers of 22,997.1 acres made, 179 offers of 22,270 acres (95.7%) accepted, Red Lake, 198 offers of 26,471 acres made, 182 offers of 24,943 acres (91.9%) accepted; and Roseau, 1,018 offers of 127,058.7 acres made and 688 offers of 85,650 acres (67.5%) accepted.

Beckman did not say he would push for the increase to 30 percent, but did promise the state FSA office will work with the local people as much as it can to provide assistance and streamline programs. He said his office is coordinating its efforts with the legislature, including a bill to provide money for hiring adult farm management instructors as part-time assistants in the FSA (formerly FmHA) loan program.

The meeting Thursday in Thief River Falls, and earlier at Moorhead and Worthington, was intended to provide information to ag lenders who are being involved as participants in the FSA loan program because they are most familiar with the circumstances of their farm borrowers.

Fredrickson said she was optimistic that approval would be given by the state FSA board to increasing the limit to 30 percent but considerably less optimistic about federal approval of any additional amount. "There is not a great deal of excess acreage enrollment available in the United States following the 18th sign-up," she said, "and it would all depend on how willing they were to allow most of that to be enrolled in one small area of Minnesota."

of Commissioners is acutely aware of the difficult financial conditions, which now face agriculture in our county and this area of the state. Extremely low commodity prices, coupled with below cost of production loan rates and an inability to protect farm income due to poor yields with crop insurance have left most farmers with few, if any options.

"Farm foreclosures are up markedly as are voluntary liquidations. Retired farmers looking to rent their land to their neighbors are finding few takers. The short-term outlook for a turn around in this current poor Ag economy is bleak. Testament to this fact is the near 80,000 acres bid to enroll in the Conservation Reserve Program. This single signup constitutes 25 percent of the total tillable acres in the county. It does not include the 42,000 acres already enrolled.

"While the Pennington County Board of Commissioners does not see CRP as the cure all for agriculture in our area, we see no other options available in the foreseeable future.

"Therefore with this statement of understanding, the Pennington County Board of Commissioners do hereby resolve that:

"Whereas agriculture has few other profitable options beyond CRP in the foreseeable future, and

"Whereas 25 percent of the total tillable acres in Pennington County is not enough to allow farmers full and needed access to the CRP program,

"Whereas some form of financial relief to farmers is needed this spring, and

"Whereas acceptance of all qualifying bids in the 18th signup will put the county's total tillable acres in the CRP program at or near 38.9 percent,

"Therefore be it resolved that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners do hereby support and request that all CRP offers taken during the 18th signup period, which qualify under federal guidelines, be accepted into the program. Be it further resolved that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners request the Farm Serve Agency to remove the 25 percent county cap, allowing full access by Pennington County farmers to the CRP program from said 18th signup period."

This group has been working hard with the director to give the show just the right amount of rock-and-roll flavor and spice.

A second live band will be playing for a Rydell High School dance. The Rockin' Daddies includes Cody Hempel, lead guitar and vocals; John Marben, vocals; Josh Lampe, bass; John Danielson, drums, Ben Owen, guitar; Tiffany Hagen, saxophone; and Mrs. Reese, piano.

"This show calls for many choreographed scenes," Mrs. Reese said. "The choreography is fun and in some cases very fast and wild. The kids have had a great time dancing and are ready to make you want to get up and dance as you watch the show."

Curtain times will be at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27, with doors opening at 5:45 and at 4 p.m. Sunday, March 28, with doors opening at 2:45 p.m. Tickets are available at Kezar Music, Budget Electronics and at the door. Admission is $6 and there is no reserved seating.

Grease is licensed to Lincoln from the Samuel French Library in New York City.

"Plan now to attend this great 1950s musical and bring your friends," Mrs Reese said.

Cast members include: Danny, Eric Bjornstad; Sandy, Katie Christensen; Rizzo, Rachel Mathson; Frenchy, Ann Gustafson; Marty, Meghan Reed; Jan, Janna Unbehaun; Kenickie, Leif Spears; Doody, Dusty Melby; Roger, Matt Winjum; Sonny, Bailey Nordin; Patty, Ashley Hammer; Cha-Cha, Andrea Olson; Eugene, David Christensen; Johnny Casino, Wade Haviland; Vince Fontaine, Adam Quesnell; Miss Lynch, Laura Schmitz; Miss Lynch's Assistant, Carissa Hendrickson; and Teen Angel, Katie Christensen.

Chorus members include sopranos Andi Sorvig, Miriah Johnson, Joanna Swantek and Anna Stasynski; altos Ruthie Bannell, Mamie Schaefer, Jenny Halverson and Bryanna Helgeland; tenors Nic Miller and Roy Unbehaun; and basses Wade Haviland, Andy Janisch, Sam Kezar, Brian Lue, Nate Sorvig, Ryan Evenson, Kyle Wold and Luke Miller.

Dance extras are Ashleigh Anderson and Kelly Winjum and cast extras (waiters, waitresses, crowd members) are Jamie Swanson, Tyler Bosh, Connie Morris, Alicia Vigness and Beth Brown.

Arctic Cat test driver shot in Florida incident

Horrible is a word that Mae Rolland of St. Hilaire used to describe the early morning hours of Tuesday, March 9 after she and her husband, Merle, received word that their son, Troy, had been shot and was in surgery at a Daytona Beach, FL hospital. "It was a horrible night," she said.

The Rollands of St. Hilaire learned that Troy, an Arctic Cat, Inc. watercraft test driver who was working in Florida, had been shot four times and was also being treated for head injuries.

Rolland, 36, was walking along the pool deck of the Treasure Island motel in Daytona Beach when he was shot during an encounter with two teenage males. The motive for the shooting is believed to be a comment Rolland made about the youth being too young to drink.

Mae said the young men followed him after he made the remark, and one allegedly pulled a gun and fired six shots, hitting Rolland four times, once in the arm and leg and twice in the abdomen. Rolland then wrestled with his attackers in an attempt to take the gun away but was hit and kicked by one or both of the youth, resulting in a head injury.

The incident occurred at about 1:15 a.m., and before being taken to the hospital, Rolland was treated on the scene by a police officer who was also trained as a paramedic. The officer, working security detail at the motel, came to his assistance after hearing the shots.

Bullets passed through Rolland's arm and abdomen, and he was able to walk out of the hospital only a few hours after treatment.

As of Thursday, Daytona Beach police continue to search for Rolland's attackers, and Rolland remains in Florida waiting to have a bullet removed from his leg. "And then," his mother said, "he's coming home. Rolland is a single man who has a nine-year-old son living in St. Louis, MO. According to Mae Rolland, Troy called his son and assured him that he was all right. Lucky was another word she used in describing her son's ordeal.

Senate to hold hearings about U of M basketball

Minnesota State Senator LeRoy Stumpf, DFL-Thief River Falls, chair of the Senate Higher Education Division, announced late Wednesday that his committee would hold hearings on academic improprieties allegedly committed by the University of Minnesota men's basketball program.

The hearing was scheduled to take place on Friday, March 12, at 8 a.m. at the State Capitol.

Sen. Stumpf said it was important for the Senate to hold a hearing promptly because of its oversight responsibility, and due to the seriousness of the charges.

"Many of our members have questions," Stumpf said. "We want to give the University a chance to address these charges publicly and let us know how they plan to proceed."

Stampf noted that since men's athletic programs at the University are financially self-supporting it is unlikely that state tax dollars have been misused.

University President Mark Yudof will address the charges and answer questions that division members may have.

Geske dairy farm is a "me and ma" operation

Leonard and Marge Geske are Pennington County's 1999 Valley Farmer and Homemaker

Wide range of adjustments for farmers available

There's tremendous variation in Minnesota farm income this year. Some farmers are having very good years, while other will have record losses and are facing liquidation.

"Those with high incomes in 1998 may be primarily interested in ways to enhance cash flow for 1999," says Vern Eidman, head of the Department of Applied Economics at the University of Minnesota. However, other farmers experiencing financial stress may need to consider a wide range of adjustments for the coming year.

A series of articles on Minnesota's farm situation is available at the department's web site: www.cffm.umn.edu/cffm/farmsit.htm. You can also get copies of the report from county offices of the University of Minnesota Extension Service. An article on financial alternatives describes 15 possible adjustments, ranging from improving marketing skills to refinancing to selling productive assets or liquidating. Most farmers have choices short of liquidation, but if that's your best option, do it before you've lost all your equity.

"We've heard farmers say they don't plan to repeat what some of their neighbors did in the 1980s: struggle to survive and lose everything anyway," says Kent Olson, farm management economist.

"Even though it is heart-wrenching and dream shattering, many farmers who have quit realize they can live happily in town and in other jobs," say Olson and extension educators Dale Nordquist and Erlin Weness, who wrote the article on financial management alternatives.

Most farms will be able to survive one down year by making some financial adjustments, Olson says. For those who remain in farming, better risk management skills will be needed both for 1999 and the long run.

"Hedging, forward contracting and options have been available and need to be used when appropriate," says Olson. Satisfactory, profitable prices need to be taken when available; let the speculators speculate.

"New forms of crop insurance are being offered and developed to provide protection for both price and yield risk. And using the futures market and buying insurance are not the only risk management strategies available. Simple tools can be very powerful for reducing risk exposure. Controlling debt and not overextending the risk capacity of the farm will be crucial. Farmers may also need to develop financial reserves or 'rainy day funds' for future poor years."

But the first step, Olson emphasize, is to "fight the urge to deny this problem. Talk about it with family, lenders, partners and other people critical to the success of your business. Be aggressive in looking for solutions."

Steps to remain competitive in farming

Of the dozens of important farm management concepts, three are especially crucial to remain competitive in farming today: improving marketing skills, zero based budgeting and financial management.

Better marketings skills are among the first financial skills needed for the remainder of 1998 and in the future. "Farmers can protect themselves against extreme adverse price movements," says Kent Olson, farm management economist with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"One way to put it," Olson says, "is you need to switch from being a 'producer' to a general manager, which includes an emphasis on marketing." Learning the skills necessary to make wise use of hedges, options, contracts, insurance, financial reserves and other risk management tools will help many farmers deal with future risk.

Zero based budgeting means evaluating every expense for its benefit compared with its cost. With the prospect of low prices continuing into 1999, farmers may need to re-evaluate how they grow their crops and livestock. Some expenses are obviously worthwhile: seed, some fertilizer and feed.

But what's the best seeding rate when prices are low: Is tillage needed or is it "recreational." Is it worthwhile to pay technology fees when other pest control methods are available? What is the optimal protein percentage when hog prices are so low?

The decision may be to continue producing as you now are, but some changes may be necessary. If soil tests indicate sufficient levels of phosphorous and potassium, this may be the year to farm what's in the soil and not build up levels.

Refinancing is especially timely. Take advantage of the very low interest rates and refinance debt at lower levels. Spending money to refinance may be very wise, even in a tight cash flow situation," Olson says. Even a one percent drop in the interest rate can be worthwhile for reducing cash flow requirements and the cost of borrowing for loans to be held longer than the next three to four years...

More ideas on farm financial adjustments are available in an article written by Olson and co-workers Dale Nordquist and Erlin Weness. It's one of several articles in a publication called "Minnesota's Current Farm Situation," and is available from the web site of the Department of Applied Economics: www.cffm.umn.edu/cffm/farmsit.htm It's also available from county offices of the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

Packing plants at full capacity, hog prices drop

Packing plants that slaughter hogs have been operating a maximum capacity in recent weeks. That's a key factor driving hog prices further and further down, says Brian Buhr, economist with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"According to the principles of economics, drops in hog prices should increase the quantity of pork demanded," says Buhr. "But when plants are operating at full capacity, the quantity of pork demanded can no longer increase. Prices are forced to decline further than under normal circumstances. As supplies continue to increase, prices decline dramatically, as there is no moderating influence of increases in quantity demanded."

And hog supplies have been increasing, Buhr points out. "Federally inspected hog slaughter for the first full week in December was 2.213 million head, a new record," says Buhr. "And carcass weights increased an average of seven pounds from October 1 to mid-November. As a result, pork production continued to grow and averaged 15 percent higher than a year ago for the first full week in December."

While producers would like to see packing plants increase slaughter capacity, Buhr says this is extremely costly. "The ultimate question is if long-run pork demand has increased enough for packers to consider adding capacity," he says. "If this is not the case, there will be little incentive for packers to invest in additional capacity."

While increased slaughter capacity would ease the current short run problem, it would result in excess capacity and losses for plant owners during the next hog production downturn if increased demand were not sustained, notes Buhr. "This is a risk packers may not be willing to undertake," he adds.

Two factors have added to the packer capacity problem. One is the closing of two large slaughter plants in the past two years, one in South Dakota and one in Michigan. The other, says Buhr, is increased contracting and coordinated production arrangements that have reduced the available "adjustable" plant capacity.

A hog price turn around will come in two stages, Buhr predicts. The first stage will be a reduction in slaughter hog supplies to a level where packer capacity is no longer a constraint. At that point, prices will rise to a non-capacity constrained level.

Crop insurance to be even more important in '99

Most crop farmers will have very tight profit margins for 1999, which makes crop insurance even more important, according to Kent Thiesse and Gary Hachfeld, educators with the University of Minnesota extension service.

Thiesse and Hachfeld add that Minnesota farmers are fortunate to have crop options available at reasonable premium rates.

There are many options available for the 1999 crop year, including total risk management packages that also include hail insurance.

The deadline to sign up or make changes in existing crop insurance is March 15.

Thiesse and Hachfeld have written an information sheet titled "FCIC Insurance Program Alternatives and Program Provisions" that is available at any county extension office. It can be found on Internet at www.extension.umn.edu/Finance/.

dredweight in the past month or two. Leonard is concerned about the future of farming because it is so difficult for young people to get a start under present conditions.

Farm Should Support Itself

"The way I see it," he said, "the only time a farm operation should have to incur debt is when it is first starting up. After that it should be able to carry itself, with income paying for the costs of production, machinery and equipment repair or replacement.

"Today there is no way a person can start farming and expect to generate enough income to service the debt required, even if parents are willing to help with land purchase and shared equipment. It can't likely be done with a good crop every year, and if a bad year or two comes along, a young farmer can be in a world of hurt in a big hurry."

Active In Organizations

The Geske herd has been on Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) test for many years and Leonard is a past chairman of the Pennington DHIA board. The Red Lake and Pennington DHIA groups have since consolidated.

The Geskes have also been members of the Minnesota Holstein Association and the National Holstein Association. Marge has been an adult leader in the Smiley 4-H club and twice has been vice president of the county 4-H leader's council. Leonard has assisted members with their projects and provided such service as hauling livestock to compete at the state fair. He is also a regular bidder at the 4-H market livestock auction.

At St. John Lutheran Church Marge has been on the board of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League and taught Sunday school for more than 20 years. Leonard has served on the church council.

Promotes Milk Sales

Valley Farmer and Homemaker for Pennington county are Leonard and Marge Geske of rural Thief River Falls. They received their award plaque at a recognition dinner February 27 at the University of Minnesota in Crookston.

Leonard is not one to be shy about promoting the dairy products the Geske farm produces or championing the cause of his business. He has been known to call a restaurant to find out why milk was not as readily available as other beverages, to call for delivery of milk to a local 4-H food stand and to question the effectiveness of dairy promotion supported by his check-off money.

Recently Leonard has joined a local think tank which meets almost daily during weekday mornings at Dee's Kitchen and seeks to solve deep sociological and political problems and challenges.

"I figure I've earned those few minutes off after morning milking during the months when we don't have field work to do," he said.

And he is probably right. The world—or at least that corner of it—shouldn't be denied the benefit of his reasoned opinion... reluctant as he often is to share it.

New regional partnerships staffed in pilot regions

The dream of creating a closer partnership between Minnesota citizens and the University of Minnesota is becoming reality with the hiring of staff in three pilot regions of the state. The newly-created Regional Agricultural and Natural Resources Sustainable Development Partnerships are starting to address issues related to agriculture, natural resources and tourism.

The pilot partnerships are based in northeastern (Cloquet), southeastern (Rochester) and central (Staples) Minnesota.

Hired as coordinator for the northeast sector is Okechukwu (OK) Ukaga, who was most recently the managing director of the International Institute for Sustainable Development in Fort Collins, CO.

Lee Raeth, a former University of Minnesota extension educator, staffs the central region while Dick Broeker, a former community organizer in St. Paul, heads the southeast regional partnership.

Current work in the three pilot regions includes development of project evaluation criteria, developing a diverse and representative board, developing a means to conduct resource mapping in the region and funding of several regional projects.

The regional partnerships were funded by the 1997 Minnesota Legislature with the goal of providing a means for citizens of the state to more directly guide and participate in the research, education and outreach activities of the University of Minnesota in agriculture, tourism and natural resources.

Principles of the regional partnerships are: (1) active citizenship, which encourages citizens of the region to join in deciding what is needed in the region; (2) sustainable development, which is embodied in the concept of evaluating and protecting all available resources into perpetuity; and (3) partnerships with the University of Minnesota and other institutions.

Citizens of each region and citizens who are University of Minnesota faculty comprise the membership of the regional boards. Delegates from the regions and representatives of the University of Minnesota are members of a statewide coordinating committee. Partners at the University of Minnesota are the College of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Sciences, the College of Natural Resources, the University of Minnesota Extension Service and the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Commissioner asks USDA to eliminate disaster aid obstacle

Minnesota Agriculture Commissioner Gene Hugoson has asked U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman to help eliminate a technicality in the federal crop disaster assistance program that would disqualify farmers who have changed the business or ownership structure of their operation since 1994.

Under the multi-year provision of the federal crop loss disaster assistance program authorized by Congress last fall, the U.S. Department of Agriculture will compensate insured farmers who have experienced losses in three or more years from 1994 through 1998. Unfortunately, Hogoson said, producers who changed their business or ownership structure since 1994 may not be eligible for program payments due to an unanticipated technicality.

Program eligibility is determined by using records associated with farmers' federal identification numbers, and when farmers change business or ownership structure, they receive new identification numbers and their past production records are not tied to the restructured operation.

"This means that a farmer who may have operated as a sole proprietor until 1996, and then formed a partnership with his son, could not receive disaster payments even if his operation had suffered major losses in three or more years," Commissioner Hugoson said. "As you may imagine, this has caused concern among producers in disaster-affected Minnesota counties."

In a letter to Secretary Glickman, Hugoson suggested the technicality could be corrected by authorizing the Farm Service Agency county committees to make eligibility determinations on a case-by-case basis.

Another possible solution, he said, would be to correlate changes in federal identification numbers, perhaps through documentation that affected producers would bring before the committee.

Rep. Finseth to co-chair Ag Education Leadership Council

Rep. Tim Finseth of Angus will serve as the new co-chair of the Minnesota Agricultural Education Leadership Council (MAELC), a position which by statute is held by the chairman of the House Agriculture and Rural Development Committee.

Finseth was appointed to the House committee chairmanship by House Speaker Steve Sviggum prior to the start of the 1999 legislative session. He replaces Rep. Steve Wenzel at MAELC co-chair. Sen. Dallas Sams of Staples continues as Senate co-chair of the MAELC.

"I am very pleased to have this opportunity to work with other legislators, state agencies, farmers, teachers and agri-business folks to enhance agricultural education in Minnesota," Rep. Finseth said.

"During this time of crisis in Minnesota's agricultural community, it is critically important that we educate the non-farming segment of our state about the importance of agriculture. It is also important that we work to strengthen agricultural education programs in high schools, state universities and the University of Minnesota so that Minnesota's agricultural sector continues to have the technical personnel and the farmers that are the lifeblood of Minnesota's agricultural economy."

MAELC is advancing a number of agricultural education initiatives this legislative session, including planning funds for the establishment of an urban agricultural high school and additional grant funds for agricultural education programs in high schools.

Outgoing co-chair Wenzel said he had enjoyed the opportunity to work to improve agricultural education in Minnesota. He will continue to serve on MAELC as lead Democrat for the Agriculture and Rural Development Committee.

"I know that co-chair Tim Finseth and Rep. Bob Ness (also appointed by Sviggum) will be great additions to the council, and that they are also dedicated to improving agricultural education in Minnesota. They will do a great job."

MAELC is a 16-member council established by the Minnesota Legislature in 1997 to improve and enhance agricultural education in Minnesota at all levels. Members of the council represent various public, private and governmental entities with an interest in agricultural education.

To contact the council, write or call Patrick Plonski, executive director, MAELC, University of Minnesota, St. Paul Campus, 320 Vocational Education Building, St. Paul, MN 55108. Phone number is 612-624-6249.

Rural Democrats want 10 percent for rural MN

State Representative Jim Tunheim, Kennedy, and a group of rural DFL House members announced they will seek 10 percent of the state's $3.3 billion budget surplus - a total of $330 million - to finance relief for the current farm price crisis and initiative that will set Rural Minnesota on the road to long-term economic health.

The group feels that the people of rural Minnesota have contributed just as much to the budget surplus as those who live in the Twin Cities, and should not have to accept the crumbs offered by House Republicans or the silence of the Governor. Agriculture supports from 20 to 30 percent of all jobs in Minnesota and it supports the economy in 70 of our 87 counties, and DFL members of the House Agriculture Committee said they are justified in asking that at least one-tenth of the state's budget surplus be devoted to meeting the price crisis in agriculture and revitalizing the entire rural economy.

The package has three major elements:

• Price Crisis Relief for farmers and rural small businesses.

• Property tax and agricultural marketing reforms designed to level the economic playing field for independent producers of crops and livestock against the major food processing companies.

• Preserving the rural way of life with initiatives to put the infrastructure and economy of Rural Minnesota on a competitive footing for growth into the 21st Century.

Most of the initiatives proposed by the Rural DFLers have already been introduced as bills, and the remainder are expected to be introduced shortly. Their concerns cross all the lines that have divided agriculture because the crisis touches every farmer, no matter where they are or what they produce, and every rural small business as well.

The proposals in the House DFL agricultural agenda include:

Price Crisis Relief

• Swine producer emergency cash infusion. A $10 per-head cash payment, to a maximum of $1,000, designed to keep independent producers in operation this year. $15 million.

• Low-interest loan guarantees. Loan guarantees of up to 75 percent of the first $100,000 borrowed from commercial lenders by family farmers and rural small business owners. Participating lenders must reduce interest rates by 1 percent, farm families pay 2 percent, the state pays the balance of the interest. This provides needed short term capital to help farmers cash flow. $25 million.

• Crop insurance reimbursement. Extend the 1998 House DFL program to 1999, to cover up to 50 percent of the cost of federal crop insurance. Reimbursement is provided if the farmer experienced a loss of 50 percent or more in yield during 1994-1998. Maximum reimbursement is $4,000. $75 million.

• Emergency property tax relief. Repeal both the May and November 1999 agricultural property taxes. $168 million less $74 million already in HF 1, the tax rebate bill, for a net cost of $94 million.

• Increase ethanol production. Raise producer credits to $75 million to bring all ethanol plants up to full production. The economic benefits of this value-added activity will help stimulate rural economies in a time of low prices. Add $500,000 in operating funds to aid the new Little Falls plant.

• Farmer-owned livestock processing. Provide a low-cost upfront construction loan and a per-pound producer payment to farmer-owned cooperatives to develop meat processing facilities, similar to the ethanol program. This will help alleviate the shortage of packing space. $5.5 million.

• Environmental mediation on feedlots. Establish a Pollution Control Agency office to provide a low-cost, user friendly way to resolve disputes over feedlot issues. $500,000.

• Farmer-lender mediation. Continue the program and make it permanent; restructure it by moving it from the Humphrey Institute to the Bureau of Mediation Services. $1 million.

• Ag Resource Centers. Continue the program and increase funding to $500,000.

• Farm Advocates. Continue the program and increase funding to $500,000.

• Wheat Scab Research. Continue the program at the University of Minnesota, $1.6 million.

Agricultural Marketing & Farm Property Tax Reforms

• Fair Prices for Producers. Volume premiums and volume-based incentives must be eliminated. Payment to producers of milk, swine, and other livestock must be only on product quality.

• Attorney General Anti-Trust Investigation. Add staff at the Attorney General's office charged with investigating the packing industry. Initiate Cargill-Continental Grain antitrust action. $500,000.

• Cooperative Justice Act. No farmer-owned cooperative should be permitted to compete against its own members. Co-op members should have the right to cash out of any cooperative and be paid for shares when the cooperative engages in activities that are to the member's detriment.

• Producer Contract Reform. The state Packer's and Stockyards Act needs to be strengthened to protect family farmers who enter into producer contracts and marketing agreements with packers. Contracts should be scrutinized by the Department of Agriculture and contracts that shift risk to the family farmer should be prohibited as against public policy. Prices paid producers must be public and contract prices must be disclosed to the public to help create a fair market for farm products.

• Ownership of Livestock. Bar meatpacking companies from breeding, raising or feeding livestock.

• Checkoff Reform. Farmers are required to contribute to commodity groups to market that product. Farmers should be able to designate if these checkoff dollars can be used for dues in the commodity council, or for any other commodity group. $400,000 for oversight by the Department of Agriculture.

• Property Tax Justice. Raise the breakpoint where property tax rates increase to $180,000 (from $115,000). Expand the Education Homestead Credit beyond one acre to 160 acres. Increase the payment of state aids to local governments to offset the loss of revenue and eliminate tax shifts.

• Farm Homestead Expansion. Allow homestead on farmland as long as the owner is actively engaged in farming. Thus, a farmer who is actively engaged in farming, but is farming land owned by relatives, should be able to pay agricultural homestead rates. Net both tax changes, $35 million.

Preserving the Rural Way of Life

• Farmer/Small Business Asset Test Reform for MinnesotaCare. Changes are needed in the asset and income tests for farmers seeking insurance from MnCare. Capital gains are different for farmers than for other types of businesses and need to be recognized for eligibility. Rural small business owners are also in need of MnCare and requirements should be modified to permit them to qualify.

• Transportation. Improve rural highways with passing lanes on two lane roads ("Super 2" concept). Transfer 100 percent of the proceeds of the sales tax on motor vehicles (MVET) to transportation after any license tab fee reduction is paid for.

• Oppose Foreign Farm Ownership. Oppose weakening corporate farm law. Prevent foreign corporations from owning processing facilities.

Fiscal Summary

• Swine Producer Emergency Cash Infusion $15 million
• Low-Interest Loan Guarantees $25 million
• Crop Disaster Insurance $75 million
• Emergency Property Tax Relief $168 million less $74 million in tax rebate bill, net... $94 million
• Increase Ethanol Production $75.5 million
• Farmer-Owned Livestock Processing $5.5 million
• Environmental Mediation on Feedlots $500,000
• Farmer-Lender Mediation, Ag Resource Centers, Farm Advocates $2 million
• Crop Disease Research $1.6 million
• Attorney General Anti-Trust Investigation $500,000
• Checkoff Reform (MN Ag Department oversight) $400,000
• Farm Homestead Property Tax Reforms $35 million

Grand Total = $330 million

Public comment sought on 1,600-cow dairy at Fisher

Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) has prepared an Environmental Assessment Worksheet (EAW) on a proposal by West Polk Dairy, LLP to construct a dairy feedlot facility approximately three miles southwest of Fisher.

People are invited to comment on the EAW through April 7, 1999. The facility would house 1,600 cows (2,240 animal units), including both milking and dry cows. The proposed project would include construction of two freestall barns, one maternity barn, milking parlor and offices, silage storage bunker, machinery storage shed, aboveground fuel storage tank, six feed storage bins, a 4.75-acre manure storage basin and a storm water retention basin.

The EAW, a preliminary environmental review looking at how a proposed project could potentially affect the environment, is open to a 30-day public review and comment period. Comments on the West Polk Dairy EAW should be submitted to the MPCA in writing by 4:30 p.m. on April 7, 1999 to Dave L. Johnson, MPCA, Policy and Planning Division, 520 Lafayette Road N., St. Paul, MN 55155-4194 or by fax to 651-297-8676.

MPCA will use the comments to evaluate the potential for significant environmental effects from the project, and to decide if an Environmental Impact Statement (a more comprehensive environmental review) is needed.

Copies of the West Polk Dairy EAW are available for review at:

• The MPCA's St. Paul office, 520 Lafayette Road North;

• The MPCA's Detroit Lakes office at 714 Lake Avenue, Suite 220; or

• The MPCA's website at http://www.pca.state.mn.us/news/eaw/index.html.

Copies may also be requested directly from the MPCA by calling 651-296-7798. Telephone inquiries related to the project should be directed to Dave L. Johnson at 651-296-6041 or toll-free at 1-800-657-3864.

Conference set on dairy operations March 30-31

Making dairy operations more labor efficient and profitable will be the subject of the Four-State Extension Dairy Expansion Conference March 30-31 at the Ramada Inn and Conference Center on I-94 and White Bear Avenue in St. Paul.

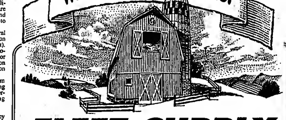
The conference is designed for dairy producers wishing to expand or revise their business and for professionals who work with producers.

Positioning for the Future is the theme of the conference, which is sponsored by the extension services of Iowa State University, the University of Illinois, University of Minnesota and University of Wisconsin. A two-day conference with similar theme and content will take place March 29-30 in Madison, WI.

Speakers from state universities, agribusinesses and growing dairy farms will make presentations. Topics include what's right for an operation, modernizing facilities, financial planning, personnel management, milk marketing and how to use consultants. The format will include concurrent and roundtable discussions and question-and-answer sessions.

The early registration fee for the conference is $150 per person, and $125 for additional persons from the same farm or company if registration is postmarked by March 12. After that date the fee is $175 per person.

The fee includes four meals, three refreshment breaks and all printed materials, but not housing. Send registration to CALS Outreach Services, 620 Babcock Drive, Madison, WI 53706. Checks should be payable to UW-Madison.



To obtain a copy of the program, contact Bonnie Rae, dairy extension, at 612-624-4995. For information about conference content, call Kevin Janni, extension engineer, University of Minnesota, at 612-625-3108.

Ag education initiatives with MN legislature

The Minnesota Agricultural Education Leadership Council (MAELC) has initiated an agricultural education package for consideration by the 1999 Minnesota Legislature, it was reported today by Patrick Plonski, executive director of MAELC. The MAELC initiatives include additional grant funds for the improvement of agricultural education in Minnesota through the MAELC grants program. Also included are K-12 agricultural literacy and program improvement funds; and Minnesota State Colleges and University (MnSCU) funding for adult farm management and improvement of the "2 plus 2" partnerships between MnSCU and the University of Minnesota for agricultural education programming.

A $350,000 grant to lay the groundwork for the establishment of an urban agricultural high school near the University of Minnesota St. Paul agriculture campus and the Minnesota State Fairgrounds is also included in the package. The urban agricultural high school proposal is strongly supported by a wide variety of organizations including the University of Minnesota, the Minnesota State Fair, the Minnesota Agri-Growth Council, and the Minnesota Vocational Agriculture Instructor's Association.

"This package will help to revitalize agricultural education in Minnesota at all levels - higher education, K-12 education, and agricultural education among the general public," Plonski said.

"This package will also coordinate agricultural education across multiple state agencies and educational institutions, and strengthen partnerships with Minnesota's agribusiness community, the Minnesota State Fair, and non-profit community organizations that are already working hard to educate the people of Minnesota about the importance of agriculture." The MAELC legislative package is being sponsored in the Minnesota House of Representatives by Rep. Bob Ness of Dassel; Rep. Tim Finseth of Angus; and Rep. Steve Wenzel of Little Falls. On the Senate side, companion legislation is being carried by Senator Linda Scheid of Brooklyn Park; Senator Paula Hanson of Ham Lake; and Senator Gen Olson of Minnetrista. MAELC's legislative package is included in HF 1269 and HF 1270 introduced in the Minnesota House; and in SF 1215 and SF 1216 introduced in the Minnesota Senate. Specific initiatives in the legislative package include $350,000 for the urban agricultural high school planning grant; $450,000 per year to the Minnesota Dept. of Children, Families, and Learning for agricultural literacy initiatives for elementary, secondary, and community agricultural programs and to improve formal agricultural education programs in high schools; $1.2 million per year to MnSCU for increased agricultural programming, including the "2 plus 2" program, and for expanded agricultural education programs including tuition assistance for economically distressed farmers participating in adult farm management programs; and $100,000 per year in additional grant funding to MAELC for initiatives to revitalize agricultural education. MAELC recently received almost $800,000 in grant funding requests and only had $130,000 in available funding to provide. MAELC is also strongly supporting continued funding of the $16 million categorical funding to school districts that include vocational education programs such as agricultural education. "It is important to note that agricultural education programs cost more to operate in high schools because they provide additional value to students." Plonski said. "Agricultural education programs seek to foster student leadership through hands-on learning, and utilize additional equipment, travel expenses, and elements such as summer programming. As a result, it is important that categorical funding remain in place so that school boards and superintendents do not cut agricultural programs as cost saving measures," Plonski concluded. Established in 1997 by the Minnesota Legislature, MAELC is comprised of sixteen educators, legislators, government officials, and agribusiness and community organization representatives. The Council represents all of the major institutions and groups in Minnesota with an interest in agricultural education and serves as a focal point for initiatives to improve agricultural education in this state.

To obtain more information about MAELC, or to receive a grant application, contact Patrick Plonski, Executive Director, MAELC, University of Minnesota, St. Paul Campus, 320 Vocational Technical Education Building, 1954 Buford Ave., St. Paul, MN, 55108-6197, phone (612) 624-6249, fax (612) 625-2798, e-mail pplonski@coal.ogoff.umn.edu. FAIR farm program in need of safety net

The widely heralded "freedom to farm" bill of 1996 should be continued but needs a long term safety net, according to C. Ford Runge, applied economist at the University of Minnesota.

Falling prices plus drought and disease in some areas have led to calls to reform the 1996 Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform Act (FAIR).

"And there are good reasons to amend it," Runge said. "FAIR represents an unfinished agenda and a variety of problems remain. First, the 'freedom to farm' is only partial with many commodities left out of the decoupling program. And those critical of how payments from the commodity program are distributed consider the FAIR acronym ironic."

A recent study found that corn growers would be overpaid between $2.9 billion and $12.7 billion over the seven years of FAIR for switching to a decoupled system. As in the past, the largest farmers get the largest payments.

And "since these payments will be made over and above any marketing receipts, the largest producers will augment their already significant receipts with generous lump sum transfers from USDA. This will further reinforce the concentration of roughly 90 percent of payments in the hand of the 100,000 to 200,000 largest producers of field crops," Runge says.

Another issue is whether contract payments, once decoupled from specific crops, should be divorced from market receipts. Runge says an alternative would be to make them "countercyclical" so that payments are made in times of low marketing receipts and recede in high times.

Also, political realists doubt that the end of the seven-year contract will actually terminate transfers to producers, as advertised. Careful observers of the Congressional Budget Office "scoring" of spending have noted that $4 billion remains in the 2002 budget for commodity programs, despite the alleged end of contract payments in that year.

"Although many defenders of FAIR argue that opening up the program to revision carries risks, so does maintaining it with these flaws," Runge adds. "If the flaws persist, they may erode support for its most important innovations: decoupling and budget restraint. FAIR merits continuation, but these flaws should be fixed."

Ag education initiatives with MN legislature

The Minnesota Agricultural Education Leadership Council (MAELC) has initiated an agricultural education package for consideration by the 1999 Minnesota Legislature, it was reported today by Patrick Plonski, executive director of MAELC. The MAELC initiatives include additional grant funds for the improvement of agricultural education in Minnesota through the MAELC grants program. Also included are K-12 agricultural literacy and program improvement funds, and Minnesota State Colleges and University (MnSCU) funding for adult farm management and improvement of the "2 plus 2" partnerships between MnSCU and the University of Minnesota for agricultural education programming.

A $350,000 grant to lay the groundwork for the establishment of an urban agricultural high school near the University of Minnesota St Paul agriculture campus and the Minnesota State Fairgrounds is also included in the package. The urban agricultural high school proposal is strongly supported by a wide variety of organizations including the University of Minnesota, the Minnesota State Fair, the Minnesota Agri-Growth Council, and the Minnesota Vocational Agriculture Instructor's Association.

"This package will help to revitalize agricultural education in Minnesota at all levels - higher education, K-12 education, and agricultural education among the general public," Plonski said.

"This package will also coordinate agricultural education across multiple state agencies and educational institutions, and strengthen partnerships with Minnesota's agribusiness community, the Minnesota State Fair, and non-profit community organizations that are already working hard to educate the people of Minnesota about the importance of agriculture." The MAELC legislative package is being sponsored in the Minnesota House of Representatives by Rep. Bob Ness of Dassel; Rep. Tim Finseth of Angus; and Rep. Steve Wenzel of Little Falls. On the Senate side, companion legislation is being carried by Senator Linda Scheid of Brooklyn Park; Senator Paula Hanson of Ham Lake; and Senator Gen Olson of Minnetrista. MAELC's legislative package is included in HF 1269 and HF 1270 introduced in the Minnesota House; and in SF 1215 and SF 1216 introduced in the Minnesota Senate. Specific initiatives in the legislative package include $350,000 for the urban agricultural high school planning grant; $450,000 per year to the Minnesota Dept. of Children, Families, and Learning for agricultural literacy initiatives for elementary, secondary, and community agricultural programs and to improve formal agricultural education programs in high schools, $1.2 million per year to MnSCU for increased agricultural programming, including the "2 plus 2" program and for expanded agricultural education programs including tuition assistance for economically distressed farmers participating in adult farm management programs; and $100,000 per year in additional grant funding to MAELC for initiatives to revitalize agricultural education. MAELC recently received almost $800,000 in grant funding requests and only had $130,000 in available funding to provide. MAELC is also strongly supporting continued funding of the $16 million categorical funding to school districts that include vocational education programs such as agricultural education. "It is important to note that agricultural education programs cost more to operate in high schools because they provide additional value to students," Plonski said. INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Change in direction of agriculture would require action, not blaming

by Bob Koehler
extension educator, Lamberton

The record low hog prices of recent weeks are causing extreme stress in agriculture, with many pork producers on the verge of exiting the hog business. Yes, the market has moved upward recently and might again reach profitable levels sometime this year. That's good news for those who will remain in the business. However, the price crisis will result in lasting changes for many producers. In the longer term, some predict that the industry will eventually be completely out of the hands of local producers and farmers, and integrated in a manner similar to poultry production.

Such a transition probably would not noticeably impact urban consumers. They would quite likely still be able to purchase safe and nutritious pork products at a competitive price, just as they do now with poultry. However, if we are troubled by loss of local control and negative impacts on rural communities, there is cause for concern.

We are in a long-term trend to fewer farms and a more industrialized food production system. This has been going on at least since World War II. Forces such as urbanization, global markets, and new technologies drive this change.

Occasionally, something causes the rate of change to become more acute for a time, and the situation is then labeled a crisis. Much of the current "crisis" in the pork production business has resulted from an insufficient packing plant slaughter capacity. Yes, hog numbers offered for sale are too high when they are 10-15 percent above a year earlier. However, it's unlikely hog prices would have plummeted to single-digit levels with more packing plant capacity. Part of this lack of capacity results from recent plant closures. Those in the packing industry contend that the closures are the result of a lack of hogs and high prices in recent years.

Recent low prices, while devastating to many pork producers and maybe a final blow for private production as we've known it in some areas, still represent a shorter-term market cycle that will correct itself. In fact, the recent USDA Hogs and Pigs Report signals that producers are responding to the market.

Nevertheless, the forces that are causing long-term change are very strong and are likely to persist in all of agriculture. To a great extent, the consumer and lifestyle choices we make cause these trends. More of us live in urban areas, farm from where our food is produced. We choose to stop in huge stores that provide consistent quantity and quality and lower prices than their smaller competitors. These are only some of the ways we drive the change to an industrialized and coordinated food production system.

However, if you read letters to the editor, listen to call-in shows, or attend farm meetings on the topic, it's far more fashionable to blame big farms, corporations, factory farms, packing plants, processing plants, food retailers, etc. Yes, they may be part of the problem at times, but the people who run these businesses are doing what they are hired to do. That is trying to make a profit for their owners and investors and heeding the signals from consumers and the marketplace.

If we want to keep as many people in pork production as possible in our region, it could be argued that we should encourage all forms of production. Based on resources and values, some will choose to carry out production for others under contract. Some will join together to produce in networks. Others may be successful at remaining more independent in structure and finding a niche market.

However, if we want to change the structure of agriculture and actually have many more farms that are locally owned and independent, major policy changes would be necessary. The natural economic forces will not take us there. We would need to do more than complain and blame. That hasn't worked yet, other than to occasionally cause the government to fund band-aid programs that may help some in the short term but don't alter long-term direction. The situation is much like that of the many individuals who complain about gaining weight but never take the step to eat less or exercise more.

Are there ways to increase the number of small farm operations in today's food industry? Frankly I'm not sure. But to be successful, the approach would probably need to resemble one or more of the following:

A two-tiered pricing system. This would be some type of arrangement in which farm commodity prices are supported by a government program that pays a subsidy for the first base amount of production. An additional $10 per head over the market value for the first 2000 pigs a producer raises each year would be significant. This would encourage more small/medium,-sized producers to be in business. Yes, it would be a nightmare to set up and control and it would cost taxpayers some money, but there's always a cost for benefits.

Small farm-identified products. Many consumers say they would be willing to pay more for products produced by small family farmers. Can we help more farmers set up systems to process and brand their products in order to receive a premium in the marketplace? Again, this would be challenging to arrange and set up. But if successful, it would have the most staying power, since its support would come from the marketplace. Also, it's not certain that substantial numbers of consumers would back up their words with actions.

No, doubt there are still other ways to influence the structure of agriculture. Strong tax incentives and other direct payments for small producers are possible strategies. If actions of this type seem difficult and expensive to implement, some less sweeping actions might at least influence agricultural structure. Ideas include:

Helping local farmers operate in a high-tech business-oriented world. This approach assumes that the change to farming as strictly a business will remain in place, and that the best bet for local producers is to learn how to play the game. Helping and encouraging smaller producers to cooperate and work together to gain efficiency and market clout is key in this scenario. Swine networks are an example. Potential programs to help local small/medium-sized producers purchase swine facilities that may be available as a result of the current pork industry calamity are also a possibility.

Of course, this approach has risks too. As in all other businesses, not all investments in pork production are successful. For instance, there is the risk that small producers who invest in some co-owned or networked entity might find themselves unable to compete under certain conditions. They might be forced to sell the facility to a better-financed mega-producers.

Insuring accurate market reporting and requiring disclosure of contract terms might be other ways to ensure that all producers regardless of size and structure have the information necessary to make informed decisions.

Helping producers establish niche markets. Especially in areas near population centers, it might be possible to fill various direct marketing, natural, organic, and other "concept markets" with production from small farms. Of course, this approach is in place to a degree already, but not enough to influence the long-term structure of agriculture. This "assistance" might involve help in connecting consumers with producers.

Possibly some type of "active citizenship" process could help society identify still more approaches.

The point is, we could possibly influence the structure of agriculture and assist small producers. However, it most likely would be a complicated and fairly costly process, since we would be conflicting with global economic trends and forces put in place by modern lifestyles. Yes, the cost might be more than offset by the impact of healthier rural communities. But the question remains, "Does society really have the will if there is a cost for individual people?"

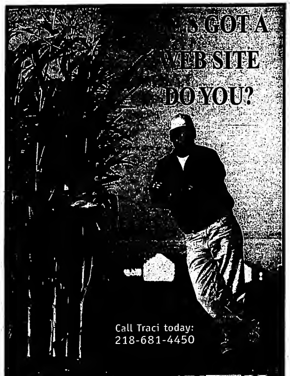
The agriculture we say we favor won't exist in the future if we continue to blame others for its decline without committing to significant action.

Water quality plan group to meet March 15

Next meeting of the Red River Basin Water Quality Plan Basin Committee will take place Monday, March 15, at 10 a.m. in the Clay county courthouse basement conference room in Moorhead, according to the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA).

The MPCA has also established four local committees, composed of residents, elected officials and local staff, which meet in Bagley, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls and Thief River Falls. The Basin Committee always meets in Moorhead.

Items to be covered at the March 15 meeting include the recently-drafted Red River Basin Flood Damage Reduction Agreement; updates on the progress of the four local committees; and a discussion on the basin issues, goals, priorities and strategies.



All meetings are open to the public. Anyone who wants to receive mailings for the meetings should call Nolan Baratano at the MPCA's Detroit Lakes office at 218-846-7385 and indicate the committees in which they have an interest. They will be put on the mailing list for the committees they request.

Kragness to be Warroad school superintendent

Warroad - David Kragness will assume the position of Warroad School District superintendent on July 1.

Kragness moved to Warroad in 1989 and has been the principal of Warroad High School. He has 31 years of educational experience, and in his new role of superintendent, he hopes to expand technology, improve curriculum and prepare Warroad students for future leadership. Warroad Pioneer

White calf born to Crookston farmer

Crookston - Crookston farmer Mitch Doda got a surprise when he checked his cows on March 5 and found a white calf.

The heifer calf is white except for a few black hairs at the base of her tail. Her eyes appear to be a light gray, almost colorless. The calf's mother is Hereford and the bull is a Black Angus.

It was the first white animal the Dodas have had in about 30 years. Mitch and Deanne Doda raise cattle in partnership with his father, Donald Doda, on a farm about ten miles north of Crookston. Crookston Daily Times

Red Cross steps up aid to flood victims

East Grand Forks - The local chapter of the Red Cross has stepped up its commitment to help people recover from the flood of 1997.

The organization has added 35 extra workers and intensified its advertising campaign to inform people that they have $4.3 million available for 1997 flood recovery needs.

The Red Cross has helped residents with such things as foundation damage, mold problems, unpaid medical bills, long-term unemployment and debt incurred because of the flood. The Exponent

1999 History Day competition held

Red Lake Falls - History Day is a national program prompting a way for students to learn about historical issues, ideas, people and events. It's also a time for sixth grade students at J.H. Hughes Elementary School in Red Lake Falls to present their History Day projects to other students, parents and judges.

This year's theme was "Science and Technology in History." Several projects will advance to regional competition, and regional winners will advance to the state competition. The Gazette

Alfalfa and Forage Expo could draw crowd of 2,000

Fosston - The 1999 Minnesota Alfalfa and Forage Expo scheduled for July 13 - 14 at the Landsverk Dairy Farm could attract up to 2,000 people.

The event, sponsored by the Minnesota Forage and Grassland Council, will include displays of harvest equipment and a variety of demonstrations as well as information on forage species such as alfalfa, corn, trefoil, clovers, grasses, mixes and others. The Thirteen Towns

Main characters in the Lincoln high school musical "Grease" are Danny, played by Eric Bjornstad and Sandy, played by Katie Christensen. The musical will be staged Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, March 28, at 4 p.m. in the school auditorium. According to director Darcy Reese, music instructor at Lincoln, tickets for the three performances are going fast. Admission is $6 and tickets are available at Kazar Music and Budget Electronics as well as at the door. There is no reserved seating. Doors will open at 5:45 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 2:45 p.m. Sunday.

One dead, one injured in stabbing

Christopher John Nelson, 22, Karlstad, has died from stab wounds received during an incident at a Halma residence, and another man is seriously wounded. A 20-year-old male has been taken into custody by Kittson County Sheriff's department. No other names were available as of 11:45 a.m. Friday.

On March 18 at 11:12 p.m. the Kittson County Sheriff's office responded to a 9-1-1 call from a Halma residence. The caller stated that two individuals had been seriously assaulted with a knife.

Nelson and a 20-year-old male were transported to the Hallock Hospital by Karlstad Rescue Squad and then transported to Altru Hospital in Grand Forks. Nelson died after arriving at Altru Hospital.

A 20-year-old male was taken into custody near the scene by deputies for Kittson County. The investigation into this incident is being conducted by the Kittson County Sheriff's office and the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension.

Three advance from region to Minnesota Spelling Bee

One student from each of three grades represented in the regional spelling bee Saturday, March 13, at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls gained advancement to the Minnesota State Spelling Bee to be held March 30 at St. John's University in Collegeville.

Advancing are sixth grader Elizabeth Bassett, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Richard Bassett, Bagley; seventh grader Alissa Kennedy, daughter of Craig and Lori Kennedy, St. Hilaire; and eighth grader Jason Boyer, son of Tim and Celeste Boyer, Roseau.

Alternates are first runner-up Holly Buer, grade 8, daughter of Frank and Margie Buer, Gonvick and second runner-up Tate Sorvig, grade 6, son of Gary and Shelby Sorvig, St. Hilaire. Sorvig was champion and Kennedy was runner-up at the School District 564 spelling bee in Thief River Falls.

The spelling bee is a series of competitions for students in grades five through eight, beginning at the classroom level and progressing through district, region and state to national levels. Through the program participants learn improved spelling, increased vocabulary, learning concepts, developing correct English usage, developing poise in public performance and earn community recognition for participation.

The regional spelling bee was hosted by the Northwest Service Cooperative and was co-sponsored by the Minnesota Newspaper Association.

Once they advance past the classroom level, students in all grades compete against one another on the same level. Forty of the top spellers from area schools competed in the regional event which began with a written round for all students in the morning. Twenty-five students continued with an oral round competition in the afternoon.

Mary Morken was coordinator for the regional spelling bee. Avis Dyrud was reader for the afternoon oral contest with Lloyd Hietala, Judy Kaml and Dianne Johnson as judges.

Contestants in the regional event included the following:

Peni Rasmusson, Ada/Borup; Valerie Zeller, Badger; Elizabeth Bassett, Bagley; Melissa Nelson, Blackduck; Holly Buer, Clearbrook/Gonvick; Peter Brejcha and Nandita Rahman, Crookston; Kari Wolff and Rebecca Thoreson, East Grand Forks; Kristen Knutson, Fisher; and Jocy Offerdahl, Fosston;

Also Kjell Johnsrud, Goodridge; Sarah Huener, Greenbush/Middle River; Randi Mostrom, Grygla; Sheila Whittington, Kelliher; Dustin Wyberg, Lake of the Woods; John Johnson, Lancaster; Chase Meidinger, Laporte; Jessica Busse, Mahnomen; Janelle Duray, Marshall County Central at Newfolden; and Jacob Underlee, Norman County West;

Also Andy Dessellier, Oklee; Shawna Semmens and Tyler Safratowich, Park Rapids; Chelsea Stockwell, Plummer; Anthony Hegstrom and Craig Smith, Red Lake; Kristen Gervais, Red Lake Falls; Jason Boyer and Chris Heinrich, Roseau; Nicole Soper-Gorden, South Koochiching/Rainy River; and Jayne Buzzell, St. Bernard's (TRF);

Also Shayna May, St. Philip's; Rachel Bates, Stephen/Argyle; Alissa Kennedy and Tate Sorvig, Thief River Falls; Amanda Hanson, Tri-County at Karlstad; Jed Roley, Warren/Alvarado/Oslo; and Erica Krahn and Kate Lauer, Warroad.

More variety, new attractions...

Cultural Festival takes shape

The All Nations Cultural Festival held in St. Hilaire, MN has confirmed a wide variety of performers to appear this July 10th and 11th. Among those scheduled will be a Dixieland Band, Chinese dancers, an Irish band, Uganda dancers, a South American band, Brazilian drums, two "old time bands" with polka and waltz music, a Chilean dance group, a Hispanic dance theater, and the return of the areas favorite Ukrainian dance ensemble.

Drawings for prizes will be held both days with an added special drawing just for the kids. Mule drawn stage coach and wagon rides will be available along with a kids carnival, a new petting zoo, and a clown. A fur trade encampment will be on display and plenty of arts and crafts and concessions.

Also new this year, a Sunday breakfast will be served by the St. Hilaire Community Club while a local gospel group performs.

Daily admission prices at the gate are $8.00 adults, $3.00 kids (two to 12 years old), and a two day "advance ticket" for adults at $12.00. Advance tickets sales and outlets will be announced in May.

Those wishing to sell arts and crafts may do so by calling Renee at (218) 681-6032.

Concessions, food demonstrators, and for general information call Main Event Productions at (218) 681-7363 evenings only, or visit the All Nations Cultural Festival web site at <www.northernet.com/leepfrog/>.

For motel accommodations call the Thief River Falls Convention and Visitors Bureau at 1-800-827-1629 or the C'Mon Inn of Thief River Falls at 1-800-950-8111.

Some of the sponsors for this year's event are: The Times/Watch, St. Hilaire Community Club, VFW Post #2793, Westside Motors, Harvest States, Hanz Foods, WDAZ TV 8, Pepsi, 97 KYCK FM, City of St. Hilaire, and KKAQ-AM/KKDQ-FM.

Goodridge schools to survey public on sports scheduling

Parents and students in the Goodridge school district are being sent informational letters and survey forms seeking input on proposed sports scheduling for the fall of 1999 and beyond, according to Galen Clow, superintendent for the Goodridge and Grygla districts.

The Goodridge-Grygla pairing committee is conducting the survey on a proposal that would call for all home football games to be played at Goodridge and all home volleyball games at Grygla beginning in the 1999-2000 school year. The two schools are "paired" in these sports with students from both schools comprising the football and volleyball teams.

The informational letter, being sent to parents of students in kindergarten through grade 11 in the Goodridge schools, points out that a rule change requires lengthening of the field for nine-man football to 100 yards. It would be easier and less costly to expand the Goodridge field and lights, the letter states, and the lighted field would permit all home games to be played at night when more parents could attend. The Grygla field does not have lights, which has necessitated afternoon home games.

In turn, the Grygla school has a larger second gymnasium than the Goodridge school with more spectator seating for volleyball. Because of the large number of participants, it is proposed that volleyball practices be conducted at both Goodridge and Grygla.

"The districts will save the costs of maintaining game sites for each sport at both locations," the letter states. "Concession stand profits, game costs and other financial considerations would be carefully monitored to ensure that each district would be treated equally."

Survey forms, which are to be returned no later than Friday, March 26, allow parents to respond to the following statements: "I have no preference where home football and volleyball games are located." "I prefer that game locations remain at both sites for each sport." "I approve of the game site location change if one or two volleyball games (not requiring the use of the old gym) were held at the Goodridge site." "I approve of the game site location change as proposed."

There is also provision on the form for comments and a signature is optional. Parents, students and others in the district who have questions or who wish to express an opinion on the proposal are invited to call the Goodridge school and talk to Robb Brawn, athletic director; Elden Winge, principal; or Galen Clow, superintendent. The pairing committee says all input will be appreciated.

Supt. Clow said the Grygla school board, at its meeting Thursday evening, also approved a survey in the Grygla district with the letters to be sent next week.

Marshall and Roseau counties request additional CRP acres

Marshall and Roseau county Farm Service Agency (FSA) committees are asking the state FSA agency for additional Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acreage beyond the 25 percent of county cropland limit established for the program.

Announcement was made last week that Pennington county was requesting acreage beyond the 25 percent limit. The three counties are the only ones in the state where offers of qualifying acreage were in excess of the limit.

Jodell Poolman, executive director of the Marshall county FSA office, said that the Marshall county committee would request permission to place all of the qualifying acreage applied for in the program. In the 18th sign-up, a national Environmental Benefits Index (EBI) of 245 was used for acceptance of acreage.

In Marshall county, Poolman said, there were 470 offers totaling 58,098.8 acres of land which qualified above the 245 EBI but could not be enrolled because of the 25 percent limit. If all of the qualifying offers were accepted, the percentage of Marshall county cropland enrolled in CRP would be 33.134 percent.

Prior to the 18th sign-up, Marshall county had 156,637.5 acres enrolled in CRP. If all of the eligible offers were accepted, the total would increase to 267,027.6 acres. Marshall county board of commissioners recently approved resolution supporting acceptance of all qualifying offers.

In Roseau county the county board has also supported acceptance of all qualifying offers, according to Danny Goos, technician in the FSA office. He said there are 281 offers totaling 34,789.9 acres which could not be accepted because of the 25 percent limit in Roseau county. If these were accepted, the percentage of Roseau county cropland under CRP contract would be 31.3 percent.

Roseau county has 548,845 cropland acres. Acceptance of the full qualifying acreage offered in the 18th sign-up would bring total CRP acreage in the county to 171,788 acres, Goos said. Of that total, he noted, 51,232.5 acres are under contract scheduled to expire Oct. 1, 1999.

In both Marshall and Roseau counties survey forms are being sent out and made available for public comment on the proposed acreage extension beyond the 25 percent limit.

Swensons Valley Farmer and Homemaker

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Some people say that after a number of years married folks start to look like each other. Forty years after saying their vows, Ray and Barb Swenson of rural Brooks share cheerful smiles and bright, laughing eyes.

Ray and Barb were recently named Red Lake County's 1999 Valley Farmer and Homemaker by the Red River Valley Development Association.

Today (March 20) is the Swensons' 40th wedding anniversary, and they're spending it visiting two of their sons and their families in Pasco, Washington.

Last weekend they enjoyed an early celebration with their other four children and extended family.

Ray and Barb have three sons. Keith farms with his parents, and he and his wife, Karen, have three children.

Brent is married to Monica and they have two children, and Doug and his wife, Brenda, have four children. Brent and Doug farm together in Pasco, Washington. While how the brothers came to be Washington farmers is a story in itself, it has something to do with Minnesota's climate and the fact that both of their wives are Arizona natives.

The Swensons also have three daughters. Carmen and her husband, Zach Fore, recently moved back to the Oklee area from Stillwater. An agronomist, Zach is the cropping systems specialist for the Red Lake County Extension Service. They have two children.

Daughter Lynnette is married to Jeff Krack, and they live with their child in Wahpeton, North Dakota. Lynnette is an airline employee who is able to provide her parents with complimentary airline tickets, making the distance between Minnesota and Washington seem much shorter.

Janelle and her husband, Thane Bergh, have three children and live in Greenbush where Thane is a senior loan officer for Border State Bank.

Ray and Barb are back living in the same small house that Ray moved to the farm when they married. During the years that they were raising their children they lived in the large farm house across the driveway that is now occupied by Keith and his family.

Although he has moved back and forth across the driveway, Ray has lived his entire life on the farm with the exception of four years, two years at the School of Agriculture in St. Paul and then two years in the Army. "I was born on this farm," Ray says.

The Swenson family farming tradition goes back many years. His grandparents homesteaded on a farm six miles north of Oklee.

Ray's parents moved to another farmstead in the southeast corner of Red Lake county in the early 1920's. They were the first family of Norwegian heritage to move to

They would quite likely still be able to purchase safe and nutritious pork products at a competitive price, just as they do now with poultry. However, if we are troubled by loss of local control and negative impacts on rural communities, there is cause for concern.

We are in a long-term trend to fewer farms and a more industrialized food production system. This has been going on at least since World War II. Forces such as urbanization, global markets, and new technologies drive this change.

Occasionally, something causes the rate of change to become more acute for a time, and the situation is then labeled a crisis. Much of the current "crisis" in the pork production business has resulted from an insufficient packing plant slaughter capacity. Yes, hog numbers offered for sale are too high when they are 10-15 percent above a year earlier. However, it's unlikely hog prices would have plummeted to single-digit levels with more packing plant capacity. Part of this lack of capacity results from recent plant closures. Those in the packing industry contend that the closures are the result of a lack of hogs and high prices in recent years.

Recent low prices, while devastating to many pork producers and maybe a final blow for private production as we've known it in some areas, still represent a shorter-term market cycle that will correct itself. In fact, the recent USDA Hogs and Pigs Report signals that producers are responding to the market.

Nevertheless, the forces that are causing long-term change are very strong and are likely to persist in all of agriculture. To a great extent, the consumer and lifestyle choices we make cause these trends. More of us live in urban areas, farm from where our food is produced. We choose to stop in huge stores that provide consistent quantity and quality and lower prices than their smaller competitors. These are only some of the ways we drive the change to an industrialized and coordinated food production system.

However, if you read letters to the editor, listen to call-in shows, or attend farm meetings on the topic, it's far more fashionable to blame big farms, corporations, factory farms, packing plants, processing plants, food retailers, etc. Yes, they may be part of the problem at times, but the people who run these businesses are doing what they are hired to do. That is trying to make a profit for their owners and investors and heeding the signals from consumers and the marketplace.

If we want to keep as many people in pork production as possible in our region, it could be argued that we should encourage all forms of production. Based on resources and values, some will choose to carry out production for others under contract. Some will join together to produce in networks. Others may be successful at remaining more independent in structure and finding a niche market.

However, if we want to change the structure of agriculture and actually have many more farms that are locally owned and independent, major policy changes would be necessary. The natural economic forces will not take us there. We would need to do more than complain and blame. That hasn't worked yet, other than to occasionally cause the government to fund band-aid programs that may help some in the short term but don't alter long-term direction. The situation is much like that of the many individuals who complain about gaining weight but never take the step to eat less or exercise more.

Are there ways to increase the number of small farm operations in today's food industry? Frankly I'm not sure. But to be successful, the approach would probably need to resemble one or more of the following:

A two-tiered pricing system. This would be some type of arrangement in which farm commodity prices are supported by a government program that pays a subsidy for the first base amount of production. An additional $10 per head over the market value for the first 2000 pigs a producer raises each year would be significant. This would encourage more small/medium-sized producers to be in business. Yes, it would be a nightmare to set up and control and it would cost taxpayers some money, but there's always a cost for benefits.

Small farm-identified products. Many consumers say they would be willing to pay more for products produced by small family farmers. Can we help more farmers set up systems to process and brand their products in order to receive a premium in the marketplace? Again, this would be challenging to arrange and set up. But if successful, it would have the most staying power, since its support would come from the marketplace. Also, it's not certain that substantial numbers of consumers would back up their words with actions.

No doubt there are still other ways to influence the structure of agriculture. Strong tax incentives and other direct payments for small producers are possible strategies. If actions of this type seem difficult and expensive to implement, some less sweeping actions might at least influence agricultural structure. Ideas include:

Helping local farmers operate in a high-tech business-oriented world. This approach assumes that the change to farming as strictly a business will remain in place, and that the best bet for local producers is to learn how to play the game. Helping and encouraging smaller producers to cooperate and work together to gain efficiency and market clout is key in this scenario. Swine networks are an example. Potential programs to help local small/medium-sized producers purchase swine facilities that may be available as a result of the current pork industry calamity are also a possibility.

Of course, this approach has risks too. As in all other businesses, not all investments in pork production are successful. For instance, there is the risk that small producers who invest in some co-owned or networked entity might find themselves unable to compete under certain conditions. They might be forced to sell the facility to a better-financed mega-producers.

Insuring accurate market reporting and requiring disclosure of contract terms might be other ways to ensure that all producers regardless of size and structure have the information necessary to make informed decisions.

Helping producers establish niche markets. Especially in areas near population centers, it might be possible to fill various direct marketing, natural, organic, and other "concept markets" with production from small farms. Of course, this approach is in place to a degree already, but not enough to influence the long-term structure of agriculture. This "assistance" might involve help in connecting consumers with producers.

Possibly some type of "active citizenship" process could help society identify still more approaches.

The point is, we could possibly influence the structure of agriculture and assist small producers. However, it most likely would be a complicated and fairly costly process, since we would be conflicting with global economic trends and forces put in place by modern lifestyles. Yes, the cost might be more than offset by the impact of healthier rural communities. But the question remains, "Does society really have the will if there is a cost for individual people?"

The agriculture we say we favor won't exist in the future if we continue to blame others for its decline without committing to significant action.

Water quality plan group to meet March 15

Next meeting of the Red River Basin Water Quality Plan Basin Committee will take place Monday, March 15, at 10 a.m. in the Clay county courthouse basement conference room in Moorhead, according to the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA).

The MPCA has also established four local committees, composed of residents, elected officials and local staff, which meet in Bagley, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls and Thief River Falls. The Basin Committee always meets in Moorhead.

Items to be covered at the March 15 meeting include the recently-drafted Red River Basin Flood Damage Reduction Agreement; updates on the progress of the four local committees; and a discussion on the basin issues, goals, priorities and strategies.

All meetings are open to the public. Anyone who wants to receive mailings for the meetings should call Nolan Baratano at the MPCA's Detroit Lakes office at 218-846-7385 and indicate the committees in which they have an interest. They will be put on the mailing list for the committees they request.

Kragness to be Warroad school superintendent

Warroad - David Kragness will assume the position of Warroad School District superintendent on July 1.

Kragness moved to Warroad in 198? and has been the principal of Warroad High School. He has 31 years of educational experience, and in his new role of superintendent, he hopes to expand technology, improve curriculum and prepare Warroad students for future leadership. Warroad Pioneer

White calf born to Crookston farmer

Crookston - Crookston farmer Mitch Doda got a surprise when he checked his cows on March 5 and found a white calf.

The heifer calf is white except for a few black hairs at the base of her tail. Her eyes appear to be a light gray, almost colorless. The calf's mother is Hereford and the bull is a Black Angus.

It was the first white animal the Dodas have had in about 30 years. Mitch and Deanne Doda raise cattle in partnership with his father, Donald Doda, on a farm about ten miles north of Crookston. Crookston Daily Times

Red Cross steps up aid to flood victims

East Grand Forks - The local chapter of the Red Cross has stepped up its commitment to help people recover from the flood of 1997.

The organization has added 35 extra workers and intensified its advertising campaign to inform people that they have $4.3 million available for 1997 flood recovery needs.

The Red Cross has helped residents with such things as foundation damage, mold problems, unpaid medical bills, long-term unemployment and debt incurred because of the flood. The Exponent

1999 History Day competition held

Red Lake Falls - History Day is a national program promoting a way for students to learn about historical issues, ideas, people and events. It's also a time for sixth grade students at J.H. Hughes Elementary School in Red Lake Falls to present their History Day projects to other students, parents and judges.

This year's theme was "Science and Technology in History." Several projects will advance to regional competition, and regional winners will advance to the state competition. The Gazette

Alfalfa and Forage Expo could draw crowd of 2,000

Fosston - The 1999 Minnesota Alfalfa and Forage Expo scheduled for July 13 - 14 at the Landsverk Dairy Farm could attract up to 2,000 people.

The event, sponsored by the Minnesota Forage and Grassland Council, will include displays of harvest equipment and a variety of demonstrations as well as information on forage species such as alfalfa, corn, trefoil, clovers, grasses, mixes and others. The Thirteen Towns

Main characters in the Lincoln high school musical "Grease" are Danny, played by Eric Bjornstad and Sandy, played by Katie Christensen. The musical will be staged Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, March 28, at 4 p.m. in the school auditorium. According to director Darcy Reese, music instructor at Lincoln, tickets for the three performances are going fast. Admission is $6 and tickets are available at Kezar Music and Budget Electronics as well as at the door. There is no reserved seating. Doors will open at 5:45 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 2:45 p.m. Sunday.

One dead, one injured in stabbing

Christopher John Nelson, 22, Karlstad, has died from stab wounds received during an incident at a Halma residence, and another man is seriously wounded. A 20-year-old male has been taken into custody by Kittson County Sheriff's department. No other names were available as of 11:45 a.m. Friday.

On March 18 at 11:12 p.m. the Kittson County Sheriff's office responded to a 9-1-1 call from a Halma residence. The caller stated that two individuals had been seriously assaulted with a knife.

Nelson and a 20-year-old male were transported to the Hallock Hospital by Karlstad Rescue Squad and then transported to Altru Hospital in Grand Forks. Nelson died after arriving at Altru Hospital.

A 20-year-old male was taken into custody near the scene by deputies for Kittson County. The investigation into this incident is being conducted by the Kittson County Sheriff's office and the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension.

Three advance from region to Minnesota Spelling Bee

One student from each of three grades represented in the regional spelling bee Saturday, March 13, at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls gained advancement to the Minnesota State Spelling Bee to be held March 30 at St. John's University in Collegeville.

Advancing are sixth grader Elizabeth Bassett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bassett, Bagley; seventh grader Alissa Kennedy, daughter of Craig and Lori Kennedy, St. Hilaire; and eighth grader Jason Boyer, son of Tim and Celeste Boyer, Roseau.

Alternates are first runner-up Holly Buer, grade 8, daughter of Frank and Margie Buer, Gonvick and second runner-up Tate Sorvig, grade 6, son of Gary and Shelby Sorvig, St. Hilaire. Sorvig was champion and Kennedy was runner-up at the School District 564 spelling bee in Thief River Falls.

The spelling bee is a series of competitions for students in grades five through eight, beginning at the classroom level and progressing through district, region and state to national levels. Through the program participants learn improved spelling, increased vocabulary, learning concepts, developing correct English usage, developing poise in public performance and earn community recognition for participation.

The regional spelling bee was hosted by the Northwest Service Cooperative and was co-sponsored by the Minnesota Newspaper Association.

Once they advance past the classroom level, students in all grades compete against one another on the same level. Forty of the top spellers from area schools competed in the regional event which began with a written round for all students in the morning. Twenty-five students continued with an oral round competition in the afternoon.

Mary Moeken was coordinator for the regional spelling bee. Avis Dynd was reader for the afternoon oral contest with Lloyd Hietala, Judy Kaml and Dianne Johnson as judges.

Contestants in the regional event included the following:

Perri Rasmusson, Ada/Borup; Valerie Zeller, Badger; Elizabeth Bassett, Bagley; Melissa Nelson, Blackduck; Holly Buer, Clearbrook/Gonvick; Peter Brejcha and Nandita Rahman, Crookston; Kari Wolff and Rebecca Thoreson, East Grand Forks; Kristen Knutson, Fisher; and Joey Offerdahl, Fosston.

Also Kjell Johnsrud, Goodridge; Sarah Hoener, Greenbush/Middle River; Randi Mastrom, Grygla; Sheila Whittington, Kelliher; Dustin Wyberg, Lake of the Woods; John Johnson, Lancaster; Chase Meidinger, Laporte; Jessica Busse, Mahnomen; Janelle Duray, Marshall County Central at Newfolden; and Jacob Underlee, Norman County West;

Also Andy Dessellier, Oklee; Shawna Semmens and Tyler Safratowich, Park Rapids; Chelsea Stockwell, Plummer; Anthony Hegstrom and Craig Smith, Red Lake; Kristen Gervais, Red Lake Falls; Jason Boyer and Chris Heinrich, Roseau; Nicole Soper-Garden, South Koochiching/Rainy River; and Jayne Buzzell, St. Bernard's (TRF).

Also Shayna May, St. Philip's; Rachel Bates, Stephen/Argyle; Alissa Kennedy and Tate Sorvig, Thief River Falls; Amanda Hanson, Tri-County at Karlstad; Jed Roley, Warren/Alvarado/Oslo; and Erica Krahn and Kate Lauer, Warroad.

More variety, new attractions...

Cultural Festival takes shape

The All Nations Cultural Festival held in St. Hilaire, MN has confirmed a wide variety of performers to appear this July 10th and 11th. Among those scheduled will be a Dixieland Band, Chinese dancers, an Irish band, Uganda dancers, a South American band, Brazilian drums, two "old time bands" with polka and waltz music, a Chilean dance group, a Hispanic dance theater, and the return of the area's favorite Ukrainian dance ensemble.

Drawings for prizes will be held both days with an added special drawing just for the kids. Mule drawn stage coach and wagon rides will be available along with a kids carnival, a new petting zoo, and a clown. A fur trade encampment will be on display and plenty of arts and crafts and concessions.

Also new this year, a Sunday breakfast will be served by the St. Hilaire Community Club while a local gospel group performs.

Daily admission prices at the gate are $8.00 adults, $3.00 kids (two to 12 years old), and a two day "advance ticket" for adults at $12.00. Advance tickets sales and outlets will be announced in May.

Those wishing to sell arts and crafts may do so by calling Renee at (218) 681-6932.

Concessions, food demonstrators, and for general information call Main Event Productions at (218) 681-7363 evenings only, or visit the All Nations Cultural Festival web site at <www.northernet.com/leeptog/>.

For motel accommodations call the Thief River Falls Convention and Visitors Bureau at 1-800-827-1629 or the C'Mon Inn of Thief River Falls at 1-800-950-8111.

Some of the sponsors for this year's event are The Times/Watch, St. Hilaire Community Club, VFW Post #2793, Westside Motors, Harvest States, Hartz Foods, WDAZ TV 8, Pepsi, 97 KYCK FM, City of St. Hilaire, and KKAQ AM/KKDQ FM.

Goodridge schools to survey public on sports scheduling

Parents and students in the Goodridge school district are being sent informational letters and survey forms seeking input on proposed sports scheduling for the fall of 1999 and beyond, according to Galen Clow, superintendent for the Goodridge and Grygla districts.

The Goodridge-Grygla pairing committee is conducting the survey on a proposal that would call for all home football games to be played at Goodridge and all home volleyball games at Grygla beginning in the 1999-2000 school year. The two schools are "paired" in these sports with students from both schools comprising the football and volleyball teams.

The informational letter, being sent to parents of students in kindergarten through grade 11 in the Goodridge schools, points out that a rule change requires lengthening of the field for nine-man football to 100 yards. It would be easier and less costly to expand the Goodridge field and lights, the letter states and the lighted field would permit all home games to be played at night when more parents could attend. The Grygla field does not have lights, which has necessitated afternoon home games.

In turn, the Grygla school has a larger second gymnasium than the Goodridge school with more spectator seating for volleyball. Because of the large number of participants, it is proposed that volleyball practices be conducted at both Goodridge and Grygla.

"The districts will save the costs of maintaining game sites for each sport at both locations," the letter states. "Concession stand profits, game costs and other financial considerations would be carefully monitored to ensure that each district would be treated equally."

Survey forms, which are to be returned no later than Friday, March 26, allow parents to respond to the following statements: "I have no preference where home football and volleyball games are located." "I prefer that game locations remain at both sites for each sport." "I approve of the game site location change if one or two volleyball games (not requiring the use of the old gym) were held at the Goodridge site." "I approve of the game site location change as proposed."

There is also provision on the form for comments and a signature is optional. Parents, students and others in the district who have questions or who wish to express an opinion on the proposal are invited to call the Goodridge school and talk to Robb Brown, athletic director, Elden Winge, principal, or Galen Clow, superintendent. The pairing committee says all input will be appreciated.

Supt. Clow said the Grygla school board, at its meeting Thursday evening, also approved a survey in the Grygla district with the letters to be sent next week.

Marshall and Roseau counties request additional CRP acres

Marshall and Roseau county Farm Service Agency (FSA) committees are asking the state FSA agency for additional Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acreage beyond the 25 percent of county cropland limit established for the program.

Announcement was made last week that Pennington county was requesting acreage beyond the 25 percent limit. The three counties are the only ones in the state where offers of qualifying acreage were in excess of the limit.

Jodell Poolman, executive director of the Marshall county FSA office, said that the Marshall county committee would request permission to place all of the qualifying acreage applied for in the program. In the 18th sign-up, a national Environmental Benefits Index (EBI) of 245 was used for acceptance of acreage.

In Marshall county, Poolman said, there were 470 offers totaling 58,098.8 acres of land which qualified above the 245 EBI but could not be enrolled because of the 25 percent limit. If all of the qualifying offers were accepted, the percentage of Marshall county cropland enrolled in CRP would be 33.134 percent.

Prior to the 18th sign-up, Marshall county had 156,637.5 acres enrolled in CRP. If all of the eligible offers were accepted, the total would increase to 267,027.6 acres. Marshall county board of commissioners recently approved resolution supporting acceptance of all qualifying offers.

In Roseau county the county board has also supported acceptance of all qualifying offers, according to Danny Goos, technician in the FSA office. He said there are 281 offers totaling 34,789.9 acres which could not be accepted because of the 25 percent limit in Roseau county. If these were accepted, the percentage of Roseau county cropland under CRP contract would be 31.3 percent.

Roseau county has 548,845 cropland acres. Acceptance of the full qualifying acreage offered in the 18th sign-up would bring total CRP acreage in the county to 171,788 acres, Goos said. Of that total, he noted, 51,232.5 acres are under contract scheduled to expire Oct. 1, 1999.

In both Marshall and Roseau counties survey forms are being sent out and made available for public comment on the proposed acreage extension beyond the 25 percent limit.

Swensons Valley Farmer and Homemaker

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Some people say that after a number of years married folks start to look like each other. Forty years after saying their vows, Ray and Barb Swenson of rural Brooks share cheerful smiles and bright, laughing eyes.

Ray and Barb were recently named Red Lake County's 1999 Valley Farmer and Homemaker by the Red River Valley Development Association.

Today (March 20) is the Swensons' 40th wedding anniversary, and they're spending it visiting two of their sons and their families in Pasco, Washington.

Last weekend they enjoyed an early celebration with their other four children and extended family.

Ray and Barb have three sons. Keith farms with his parents, and he and his wife, Karen, have three children.

Brent is married to Monica and they have two children, and Doug and his wife, Brenda, have four children. Brent and Doug farm together in Pasco, Washington. While how the brothers came to be Washington farmers is a story in itself, it has something to do with Minnesota's climate and the fact that both of their wives are Arizona natives.

The Swensons also have three daughters. Carmen and her husband, Zach Fore, recently moved back to the Oklee area from Stillwater. An agronomist, Zach is the cropping systems specialist for the Red Lake County Extension Service. They have two children.

Daughter Lynnette is married to Jeff Krack, and they live with their child in Wahpeton, North Dakota. Lynnette is an airline employee who is able to provide her parents with complimentary airline tickets, making the distance between Minnesota and Washington seem much shorter.

Janelle and her husband, Thane Bergh, have three children and live in Greenbush where Thane is a senior loan officer for Border State Bank.

Ray and Barb are back living in the same small house that Ray moved to the farm when they married. During the years that they were raising their children they lived in the large farm house across the driveway that is now occupied by Keith and his family.

Although he has moved back and forth across the driveway, Ray has lived his entire life on the farm with the exception of four years, two years at the School of Agriculture in St. Paul and then two years in the Army. "I was born on this farm," Ray says.

The Swenson family farming tradition goes back many years. His grandparents homesteaded on a farm six miles north of Oklee.

Ray's parents moved to another farmstead in the southeast corner of Red Lake county in the early 1920's. They were the first family of Norwegian heritage to move to Cakes and frostings are the recipes today - try one this weekend and surprise the family.

This is a very special cake - I've made it and it has a lovely texture. Don't overbake though:

SPECIAL CHOCOLATE CAKE
1/2 cup cocoa
1/2 cup boiling water
2/3 cup shortening
1 3/4 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
2 1/4 cups flour
1 1/2 teaspoons soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/3 cups buttermilk or sour milk

Stir together the cocoa and boiling water in small bowl until smooth. Set aside.

Cream shortening, sugar and vanilla in large bowl until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well.

Combine flour, soda and salt. Add alternately with buttermilk to creamed mixture. Blend in cocoa mixture.

Pour into three greased and floured 8 inch or two 9 inch pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes for 8 inch or 35 minutes for 9 inch pans, or until they test done. Cool 10 minutes, then remove from pans. Cool completely on wire racks before frosting.

This yellow cake would be delicious with any of the frostings below - the buttermilk makes it moist and tender:

BUTTERCUP CAKE
2 1/4 cups cake flour
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 teaspoons other flavoring, like orange, almond, lemon, if desired
1/3 to 1/2 cup unbeaten eggs (2 medium)

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt.

Add shortening, milk and flavorings. Beat at medium speed for 2 minutes. Add eggs and beat 2 more minutes.

Place in 2 greased and floured cake pans or a 9x13 inch pan. Frost.

A spice cake would be good with the butterscotch icing below too - and quick to fix:

POOR MAN'S CAKE
2 cups sugar
1 cup shortening
2 cups water
2 cups raisins
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups flour
1 cup chopped nuts

Combine sugar, shortening, water and raisins in saucepan. Bring almost to a boil and simmer 15-20 minutes, until raisins are soft. Set aside to cool.

Mix flour and spices. Add cooled raisin mixture. Pour into greased and floured 9x13 inch pan.

Bake at 350 degrees until cake springs back at the touch, about 35-40 minutes.

I haven't made this cake - yet - but it sounds good:

RICH AND GOOEY CAKE
1/2 cup soft butter
Yellow cake mix
2 eggs
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese
1 pound powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, slightly beaten

Cut butter into cake mix. Add 2 eggs and mix well. Spread in greased 9x13 inch pan.

Cream cream cheese and powdered sugar. Add vanilla and the slightly beaten eggs. Pour over batter.

Bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes. Do not frost.

I love a caramel-type frosting on chocolate cake - here is one that sounds easy - it would also be good on a yellow cake:

QUICK BUTTERSCOTCH FROSTING
1 cup brown sugar
6 tablespoons butter
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups powdered sugar.

Combine brown sugar, butter and salt in saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add milk and cook slowly for 3 minutes. Cool.

Add vanilla and powdered sugar and beat well. Spread on cooled cake.

This recipe promises to be never fail, and it certainly sounds easy enough:

NEVER FAIL CHOCOLATE FROSTING
1 cup sugar
2 squares unsweetened baking chocolate
4 tablespoons butter
8 tablespoons cream

Mix ingredients in saucepan and bring to a full boil. Remove from heat and let cool.

After cool, stir until of spreading consistency.

Here's another easy chocolate frosting - one I've made myself - and it is easy:

GOOD AND EASY FROSTING
1 1/2 cups brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1/3 cup milk
3 ounces chocolate chips (half of a 6 ounce package)

Boil brown sugar, butter and milk in saucepan for 1 minute. Remove from heat.

Immediately add chocolate chips and beat until chips are melted and mixture starts to thicken.

I found a fluffy white frosting that actually lasts for several days - this one uses marshmallows and I think they help it keep its texture well:

MARSHMALLOW FROSTING
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/3 cup water
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar, unbeaten egg whites, cream of tartar and water in top of double boiler (use a large one because the recipe makes a lot of frosting). Beat with mixer over boiling water until soft peaks form.

Add marshmallows and vanilla and continue beating over water until stiff peaks form and it is ready to spread.

This frosting would make any cake special and fancy:

PRALINE FROSTING
3/4 cup packed brown sugar
6 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup heavy cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup pecans or walnuts, chopped

Combine brown sugar, butter, cream and salt in small saucepan. Boil about 5 minutes or until well blended. Remove from heat.

Stir in powdered sugar and vanilla. Beat until of spreading consistency. Add nuts just before spreading (carefully) on cake.

Ice show dedicated to Julie Holmquist

Hallock - "Bright Lights, Big City" was the theme of the Hallock Figure Skating Club's annual ice show held recently.

Over 70 children, from pre-school to high school age, participated in the show which featured songs about big cities and was dedicated to the memory of Hallock figure skater Julie Holmquist. Kittson County Enterprise

Triplet calves born near Lancaster

Lancaster - Mother and babies are doing fine! Rare triplet calves were born to a Gelbvieh beef cow on March 5 at the farm of Gordon and Kathy Bernstrom.

In the 40 years Gordon has been raising cattle he has had only two sets of twins and this is his first triplets. Triplets in cattle are much rarer than human multiple births. North Star News

Cakes and frostings are the recipes today - try one this weekend and surprise the family.

This is a very special cake - I've made it and it has a lovely texture. Don't overbake though:

SPECIAL CHOCOLATE CAKE

1/2 cup cocoa
1/2 cup boiling water
2/3 cup shortening
1 3/4 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
2 1/4 cups flour
1 1/2 teaspoons soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/3 cups buttermilk or sour milk

Stir together the cocoa and boiling water in small bowl until smooth. Set aside.

Cream shortening, sugar and vanilla in large bowl until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well.

Combine flour, soda and salt. Add alternately with buttermilk to creamed mixture. Blend in cocoa mixture.

Pour into three greased and floured 8 inch or two 9 inch pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes for 8 inch or 35 minutes for 9 inch pans, or until they test done. Cool 10 minutes, then remove from pans. Cool completely on wire racks before frosting.

This yellow cake would be delicious with any of the frostings below - the buttermilk makes it moist and tender:

BUTTERCUP CAKE

2 1/4 cups cake flour
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 teaspoons other flavoring, like orange, almond, lemon, if desired
1/3 to 1/2 cup unbeaten eggs (2 medium)

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt.

Add shortening, milk and flavorings. Beat at medium speed for 2 minutes. Add eggs and beat 2 more minutes.

Place in 2 greased and floured cake pans or a 9x13 inch pan. Frost.

A spice cake would be good with the butterscotch icing below too - and quick to fix:

POOR MAN'S CAKE

2 cups sugar
1 cup shortening
2 cups water
2 cups raisins
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups flour
1 cup chopped nuts

Combine sugar, shortening, water and raisins in saucepan. Bring almost to a boil and simmer 15-20 minutes, until raisins are soft. Set aside to cool.

Mix flour and spices. Add cooled raisin mixture. Pour into greased and floured 9x13 inch pan.

Bake at 350 degrees until cake springs back at the touch, about 35-40 minutes.

I haven't made this cake - yet - but it sounds good:

RICH AND GOOEY CAKE

1/2 cup soft butter
Yellow cake mix
2 eggs
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese
1 pound powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, slightly beaten

Cut butter into cake mix. Add 2 eggs and mix well. Spread in greased 9x13 inch pan.

Cream cream cheese and powdered sugar. Add vanilla and the slightly beaten eggs. Pour over batter.

Bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes. Do not frost.

I love a caramel-type frosting on chocolate cake - here is one that sounds easy - it would also be good on a yellow cake:

QUICK BUTTERSCOTCH FROSTING

1 cup brown sugar
6 tablespoons butter
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups powdered sugar.

Combine brown sugar, butter and salt in saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add milk and cook slowly for 3 minutes. Cool.

Add vanilla and powdered sugar and beat well. Spread on cooled cake.

This recipe promises to be never fail, and it certainly sounds easy enough:

NEVER FAIL CHOCOLATE FROSTING

1 cup sugar
2 squares unsweetened baking chocolate
4 tablespoons butter
8 tablespoons cream

Mix ingredients in saucepan and bring to a full boil. Remove from heat and let cool.

After cool, stir until of spreading consistency.

Here's another easy chocolate frosting - one I've made myself - and it is easy:

GOOD AND EASY FROSTING

1 1/2 cups brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1/3 cup milk
3 ounces chocolate chips (half of a 6 ounce package)

Boil brown sugar, butter and milk in saucepan for 1 minute. Remove from heat.

Immediately add chocolate chips and beat until chips are melted and mixture starts to thicken.

I found a fluffy white frosting that actually lasts for several days - this one uses marshmallows and I think they help it keep its texture well:

MARSHMALLOW FROSTING

1 1/2 cups sugar
2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/3 cup water
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar, unbeaten egg whites, cream of tartar and water in top of double boiler (use a large one because the recipe makes a lot of frosting). Beat with mixer over boiling water until soft peaks form.

Add marshmallows and vanilla and continue beating over water until stiff peaks form and it is ready to spread.

This frosting would make any cake special and fancy:

PRALINE FROSTING

3/4 cup packed brown sugar
6 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup heavy cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup pecans or walnuts, chopped

Combine brown sugar, butter, cream and salt in small saucepan. Boil about 5 minutes or until well blended. Remove from heat.

Stir in powdered sugar and vanilla. Beat until of spreading consistency. Add nuts just before spreading (carefully) on cake.

Transitions for women seminar set

"Transitions: Meeting the Challenge of Change for Area Rural Women," a workshop for local women, will be held Saturday, March 27, 1999, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Northland Community and Technical College, Thief River Falls.

This seminar is intended for the women being impacted by current farm crises. It is an opportunity to learn about change, transition, and the importance of resiliency. Speakers are folks who have "been there, done that," and who understand the stress and uncertainty experienced at times of change in their lives.

The day will begin with registration and refreshments, followed by a keynote presentation, "Change and Transition" by Sue Dupree, Crossroads, Thief River Falls. A panel of local women who have some choices, changes and transitions will share their stories.

Finally, participants will complete the Myers-Briggs instrument - a tool for self-understanding of personal strengths. The day will conclude with lunch and a discussion of what the Myers-Briggs scores tell participants for future direction.

Cost for the day is $5. To register, call the Pennington County Extension Office at 218-683-7030 or 1-800-281-2116. Pre-registration is necessary to plan adequately for meals and materials.

Bill To Cut Charitable Gambling Taxes Is Good

Senators LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls and Jim Vickerman of Tracy are on the right track with their bill to cut state charitable gambling taxes in half. At least they are half right; a total elimination of the state tax would be better.

Charitable gambling was permitted in Minnesota in the first place, as the name implies, on the basis that it would provide funds for local charitable purposes. There are many deserving projects which can use a financial boost but are sponsored by groups not equipped to conduct effective fund-raisers. The pots of money accumulated by registered qualifying organizations have been the difference between success and failure for a number of these groups.

By no stretch of the imagination is the state's general fund a local charity. Except for the sales tax, which may be appropriate since it is applied to most other non-essential sales, the state should butt out of charitable gambling tax collection.

Sen. Stumpf said that the current charitable gambling tax was set in place when the state was having budget shortfalls in the late 1980s. Now that the state is "awash in budget surpluses," as the senator puts it, he believes the time is right to "cut these taxes as deep as we can." Every dollar the state takes from these non-profits means a dollar less they can contribute in their communities, Stumpf added.

The Vickerman-Stumpf bill unanimously passed the Local and Metropolitan Government committee and is expected to be heard within the next few weeks in the Senate Tax Committee.

Stumpf said the bill was drawn up in response to complaints from local residents that in some cases the state gets half of the earnings or more. That isn't being fiscally responsible on the part of state government, It is governmental greed.

Personally, we're not high on the proliferation of gambling, "charitable" or not. We don't think it nets out on the plus side when all aspects are considered. But if it is going to be allowed in the state, it should be set up to provide as much local good as it can, and that means allowing the profits to stay in the communities. Half a cure is better than no treatment at all.

Why Should The Juror Have To Pay?

As citizens of the United States it is incumbent upon people to serve on jury duty and assure that persons brought to trial are tried by their peers. Inconvenient, distasteful and even frightening as it might be, jury duty is a most important part of the legal system in our country.

If it is so important, however, why is it not rewarded more equitably? That's the question asked by David Olson, a juror during last year's trial involving the State of Minnesota against the tobacco industry.

The trial lasted for four and one-half months and was eventually settled out of court with the jury left out of the settlement picture. During the trial Olson and other jurors were paid a stipend of $30 per day—$150 for a five-day week or $600 for a four-week month.

While serving on jury duty, Olson was on the hook for his regular $1,300 per month house payment in addition to the expenses of raising his two daughters. He tried to tell the judge that the case was causing economic hardship, but the judge was not convinced. Olson wound up having to refinance his home and rely on credit to pay his bills. He estimates the "duty" of serving on the jury caused him to lose up to $50,000.

After four and one-half months of listening to testimony in the case, the jurors weren't even needed to reach a final decision. The settlement out of court called for the state to receive $6.1 billion. The tobacco companies avoided a jury decision (which they feared), the state made out like a bandit on the settlement and David Olson lost 50 grand.

Isn't justice great?

Olson told his story in testifying in favor of a bill that would provide relief to jurors in long-running civil trials. Under the bill, judges could provide jurors an additional daily stipend up to $75 per day in situations involving economic hardship with the parties involved in the litigation required to pay the additional funds. The judge in the case would decide how much each litigant would have to pay.

Despite testifying in favor of the bill, Olson said that the additional $75 a day would not have been sufficient to help his situation. His question about the situation is basic: "Why should the juror have to pay?"

Border Resorts Go After Ontario Fishing Rules

Impacted by restrictive Ontario regulations on the taking of fish by anglers not staying in Ontario accommodations, a group of Minnesota border resorts and businesses have petitioned the office of the U.S. Trade Representative to take action against the Province.

The Northwest Angle area resorters said their business fell off by half last year because of the restrictions and they believe the regulations violate trade agreement rules that a government may not treat foreign businesses less favorably than domestic businesses. Only the U.S. Trade Representative can pursue settlements for such violations. The claim is an interesting action involving a natural resource. We would imagine it will be watched very closely from many quarters.

Gov. Ventura, who agrees with the resorters, said that he had contacted the U.S. Trade Representative, Charlene Barshefsky, who assured him that the matter would get high level attention.

It sounds like another comparison of government activity with mating elephants: The action takes place at a high level amid much noise and furor and it takes 21 months to see any results. We don't blame the resorters for trying, but we don't look for Ontario to make any changes in the near future.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Fisher, Olson given competition awards in newspaper contest

Pat Fisher, son of Jim and the late Beverly Fisher of Thief River Falls, earned a second place award in the local news story category at the Minnesota Newspaper Association's Better Newspaper contest recently.

Fisher is a reporter for the Dodge Center Star Record and was second among 22 entries in the division for newspapers with less than 1,500 circulation. First place in the category was won by Keith Axvig of the Red Lake Falls Gazette.

Fisher's story on "Accidents on Highway 14" earned the following judges' comments: "A clear account of auto fatality runs into coverage and discussion of serious community safety concerns. The photo adds impact."

Mark Olson, son of Whitey and Jeanne Olson of Thief River Falls and a reporter/photographer for the [illegible], received [illegible] second place photo awards in the division for weeklies with 2,501 to 5,000 circulation.

Judges' comments on the photo entitled Faculty members cheer school referenda stated: "The expressions of the two women are excellent. Great job on capturing the peak reaction of the moment."

Comment on the portrait entitled [illegible] "The greatest thing about this photo is the unusual angle. Untraditional, yet clearly shows the 'vision' of the subject. Nice job!" There were 33 and 19 entries respectively in the two categories.

Bolar receives certificate for science, math

Richard Allen Bolar, a senior at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, has been awarded a certificate of recognition in the Radio Shack/Tandy scholarship program.

The program was created to inspire innovation, quality and competitiveness in math and science. This year 42,000 certificates of recognition were awarded to students and teachers across the country for excellence in the areas of mathematics, science and computer science.

Much Ado About Nothing

On one of my frequent jaunts to the Northwest Angle last fall, I ran into Rick McKeever, owner/operator of Young's Bay Resort. I politely and superficially asked him how fishing was. I did not expect any candor and I was surprised by his matter of fact response.

"Just good enough. If it was any better, I'd be losing money," he said.

I nodded awkwardly, checked carefully to see if he had anything sharp in his hands, and cautiously backed away, simply assuming that Rick had been out in the sun a tad too long. Now, half a year later, as an astoundingly successful ice-fishing season begins to wind down, Rick's ramblings come into a little clearer focus. And while it still seems probable to me that the sun shines more intensely on some than on others, I've encountered some evidence that suggests fishing on Lake of the Woods can be too good.

The fishing is good right now. Put two average fishermen in a Lake of the Woods fish house tomorrow and they'll pull 25 wriggling, writhing creatures through the ice before they're done. Ten to 15 of those will be big enough to keep.

Is the fishing as good as it was in early January? No way! How does it compare to the fishing in February? Not even close! Is it as good as an average March! I don't think so. So is it poor? Of course not. Drop a line in any other Minnesota prairie pothole and see if you can consistently compete with these weakened numbers. The public relations battle, however, is being waged along two fronts.

First, there's the guy who's heard from every fishing buddy that's ventured this far north and every outdoor tabloid that has a writer living within a day's drive from here, just how good it has been. That's good; we want exposure. But when we experience the kind of day in and day out quality we've seen the past few months, the tales take on a near legendary quality.

"A hundred a day" is one of those lines that seems to crop up with annoying regularity. Good luck! I can't even count that high, much less catch that many fish each day. The early and mid-winter peaks were just that—peaks—pumping up the averages and apparently overfilling the expectations of those fishermen to follow.

Second, there's the guy who's here for his third trip of the year, having mollyhocked the fish on trip numbers one and two. This poor fellow is setting himself up for a no-win situation. Anything that March can offer this year will pale next to the exploits of January-February. Unfortunately, he's pumped his wife or his boss so full of unrealized adrenaline that he'll be lucky to have a marriage or a job by the time that he returns to Minneapolis.

The problem arises here. Consider the old advertising adage: "Make a customer happy and he tells a friend; make a customer unhappy and he tells ten friends." Do the nearly unachievable levels of early winter do more damage than good? A shortened three-month winter season and the above-mentioned ratios suggest they might. If I make 100 people happy in January and another 100 happy in February, that only leaves me a client base of 400 total customers to offset the grumblings of the March 100 and the 1,000 potential fishermen that they are persuading to go to Devils Lake next spring.

So what am I whining about, you ask? Do I want poor fishing all winter so nobody goes away disgruntled? Or do I want accurate reports of our early success to be hushed until season's end when the damage it does can be minimized? Or perhaps I'm looking for a raise in the sauger/walleye quotas to a hundred per head so no one ever gets their limit and we can experience the good fishing and still go away unhappy!

Or maybe I'm whining because whining is something I really enjoy doing and I haven't found a lot to complain about so far in the winter of '99.

Nurse scholarship offered by Nurse's Week committee

A $250 scholarship is available from the Nurse's Week planning committee in Thief River Falls for a registered nurse working toward an advanced degree in nursing.

The Nancy Johnson Nursing Scholarship is named in honor of the late Nancy Johnson of Crookston, whose vision, enthusiasm and support of the profession of nursing will serve as a model for all nurses, the committee said.

For an application or more information, contact Brenda Russ at 218-681-8645 or write to her at Route 6, Box 328, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. Application deadline is April 15.

TRI-VALLEY Opportunity Council, Inc.
Tri-Valley Opportunity Council, Inc. is offering a Home Stretch Home Buyer Education workshop in Crookston March 23, 24 & 30, from 7:00pm-9:30pm. The workshops will include presentations by local professionals, sharing their experiences about the home buying process. Learn such things as: how much home you can afford and how to shop for a home, clean up your credit, and qualify for a mortgage. Get information on the ins and outs of choosing the home that best suits your needs. The workshop is free. A certificate of completion is given at the end of the workshop, which may demonstrate to the bankers that you're serious about home ownership. Contact Laurie Saxon at the Tri-Valley Opportunity Council, Inc. (800)-584-7020 or (218)-281-5832 ext. 247 to register or for further information. The registration deadline is March 19.

David Lokstad, Secretary

The Living Stations of the Cross will be presented by the youth of St. Bernard's Catholic church in Thief River Falls on Palm Sunday, march 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the church. This photo is from the 1998 presentation of the annual event directed by Valerie Larson and Nancy Hannen.

St. Bernard's youth to present Living Stations of the Cross

Youth of St. Bernard's Catholic church will present The Living Stations of the Cross on Palm Sunday, March 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the church. Directors are Valerie Larson and Nancy Hannan and the presentation is open to the public.

"The Living Station of the Cross is a depiction of the passion of the Lord from Pilate's condemnation to His crucifixion," Mrs. Larson said. "This is a very meaningful way to start Holy Week."

Narrators are Joey Prihula and Caroline Watrath.

Members of the choir for the production are Ashley Read, Adrianne Erickson, Laura Paulson, Joanna Brunkhorst, Stephanie Hoard, Maria Steinhauer, Jenny Heaton, Tiffany Sorenson, Amanda Noreen, Allison Rominski, Amy Rominski and Tricia Kruse. Pianists are Tana Bachand and Kara Larson.

Assisting the directors in various areas of the production are Marcia Kalinoski, Scott Bornholdt and Darryl Tveitbakk.

"This will be a powerful experience for all who come and one that will not be forgotten," says Rev. Dennis Wieland, pastor at St. Bernard's church, in a letter to parishioners. "I cannot encourage you enough to be here as this will be an excellent way to begin our celebration of the holiest week in our liturgical year. It will help you to understand more fully the love that Christ has for us."

Senate bill would set speed limit in zones near school

Minnesota Senate has passed a bill co-authored by Sen. Roger Moe of Erskine which would set a speed limit of 25 miles per hour in school zones where children are present.

Sen. Moe said a petition signed by 400 people in the Winger, Erskine and McIntosh area expressed concern for the safety of children on the grounds of the new school east of Erskine.

In part, the petition stated, "The state should establish the necessary safety procedures....to help assure the safety of students and others traveling to and from the Win-E-Mac K-12 school; and to establish such corrective procedures without delay, and without deferring such actions until after the occurrence of a serious and tragic accident which may have been prevented."

Moe commended the petitioners for their proactive effort, noting that "all too often this kind of initiative is taken only after an accident happens." He said that school zone speeds have been mandated in South Dakota and Wisconsin at 15 miles per hour, in North Dakota at 20 miles per hour and in Iowa at 25 miles per hour.

The bill passed the Senate of a 42-15 vote and now awaits House action.

Swensons are Valley Farmer and Homemaker

Lambert township, and the French speaking country school had to convert to English to accommodate the Scandinavian invaders.

The elder Swensons lived out their lives on the farm with Ray's mother living and remaining lucid to the age of 104.

Barb grew up on a farm northeast of Oklee, and even though she and Ray attended school in Oklee, it wasn't there that she caught his eye. Barb is several years younger, and the couple met when she worked for Ray's brother at his business in Oklee. Barb and Ray were married on March 20, 1959.

Three framed aerial photographs of the building site create a pictorial story of how the Swenson farm has evolved over the years.

The first photograph reveals a large farm house and outbuildings, including a single grain storage building. Steel storage bins and the smaller house that had been moved in alter the farm's appearance in the second photograph.

The most recent photograph shows the building site as it is today.

During the 1970's when, Ray says, farming was "good" and "lots of fun," the family added a sizable addition to the already large farmhouse. "We enjoyed it as we raised our family there," Ray says.

After already having raised certified seed for a number of years, the Swensons built a seed plant in 1985.

Today, including the 1,800 acres that Ray and Barb own, the land Keith owns and the acreage they rent, the family farms about 6,000 acres, and Swenson Seed Company is a bustling business, often operating 24 hours a day.

In addition to family members, the agribusiness employs two full-time workers. Ray emphasizes that he is "very fortunate. . . and happy with our employees." As the individual seasons demand, the operation employs up to six part-time employees as well.

Purchasing foundation seed from the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association (MCIA) at three to four times the cost of ordinary seed, the Swensons raise almost all of the registered and certified seed that they wholesale and retail for general planting purposes. They are also contracted to produce foundation seed.

In addition to processing their own seed, Swenson Seed Company also processes the seed of other growers. As disease has caused farmers to move away from the traditional wheat, barley and oats crops, the Swensons have added equipment to accommodate sunflowers and soybeans.

At the plant every seed lot is identified and tracked all the way through the system. Samples are sent to and analyzed by the MCIA. Purity is the end result. A fish bowl filled with everything from combine parts to fishing lures to objects which defy identification serves as a humorous example of what is separated from the seed during processing.

With a considerable amount of qualified land coming out of CRP, the plant has been inspected and approved by the Minnesota branch of the Organic Crop Improvement Association to process organic seed. After 25 years of tracking seed, it was a move that Ray and Barb were prepared to make. While the seed business requires thorough records, the bookkeeping associated with organic seed is even more demanding.

That work is done in a comfortably decorated office attached to the plant. Ray enjoys progress and jumped right into the technological age, purchasing his first computer "many years ago." While computers haven't simplified their work, they have enabled the couple to keep much more extensive records. Like many others, the Swensons are addressing a potential Y2K computer problem. Ray's computer is less than a year old, and they are waiting for a technician to come and check Barb's equipment.

In addition to being equipped with the latest technology, an air mattress is stored in the office. On nights when the plant is operating around the clock and help isn't scheduled or available, Ray and Barb draw the blinds and spend the night in the office.

Keith is involved in the physical aspects of farming and maintains the equipment while Ray rarely gets away from the office. "I hardly ever get out on a tractor any more," he says. Barb, too, works in the office when she isn't fulfilling her official "go-fer" duties in her two-year old Volkswagen that already has over 60,000 miles on it.

A Volkswagen has always been the Swensons' vehicle of choice, and with six children, it was a Volkswagen bus that the family required at one point.

The Volkswagen tradition extends to Ray's hobby. On the wall of the office hangs a photograph of a Volkswagen station wagon that Ray customized into a pickup. Along side that photograph is another picture of the vehicle Ray plans to create as soon as he gets his hands on the late model Volkswagen he's waiting for from one of the many salvage yards he's contacted.

Barb plays the piano, and Ray plays the guitar. Together they sing. "We entertain each other," Ray says.

When she has time, Barb also enjoys knitting, crocheting and working outside. Family time is important to both of the proud parents/grandparents.

With regard to community involvement, Ray says that he and Barb have been involved in the "usual things." He recently retired from the Oklee Farmers Coop Elevator Association board after serving as its secretary for 30 years. Barb is a trained emergency medical technician who has worked with Oklee's volunteer ambulance service. Ray is an elder in the church that has met in the Swenson home all of his life.

Ray and Barb attended the banquet held at the University of Minnesota-Crookston on February 28 when 16 northwestern Minnesota couples were honored as Valley Farmers and Homemakers by the Red River Valley Development Association. The engraved plaque they received hangs beside the plaque Ray received as King Agassiz in 1969.

Discussing the current farm situation, Ray is optimistic and believes it will turn around. "It has to," he says, and he looks forward to the time when farming is "fun" again.

Approaching his 65th birthday, Ray says he's at the point where he should be backing away from business. That isn't likely to happen anytime soon. In addition to the fact that everything he loves and enjoys is right there on the farm, the business is growing and becoming increasingly demanding.

So demanding, in fact, that the couple couldn't find the time to take the trip to Hawaii that their family wanted to send them on for their 40th anniversary.

They're hoping for a rain check, however. And next year, if this happy, hard working couple can find the time, they might celebrate 41 years of dedicated togetherness on the beaches of Hawaii.

Valuing Diversity workshop planned at Bemidji in May

Applications are now being accepted for the Northwest Minnesota Foundation's Valuing Diversity workshop to be held May 3 and 4 at Concordia Language Villages near Bemidji.

The two-day workshop has been designed specifically for northwest Minnesota's population. It offers an opportunity to understand how individual attitudes and behaviors will influence a community or an organization's cultural environment, to identify personal barriers to valuing and managing diversity and to explore methods for eliminating community and organizational cultural barriers.

Northwest Minnesota Foundation covers all expenses for the workshop. Individual participation is welcome but community or organizational teams of three or more people are strongly encouraged.

Application forms are available by calling Rebecca or Kali at the Northwest Minnesota Foundation (218-759-2057 or 1-800-659-7859). Applications must be received by March 22.

Derry to present gender issues program at NCTC

Violence Intervention Project is sponsoring a presentation by Chuck Derry on Gender Issues, Rape and Power: How Socialization Affects Our Behavior Tuesday, March 23, at 2 and 7 p.m. in the theater at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Chuck Derry

Derry is a co-founder of the Gender Violence Institute and makes presentations throughout the country on gender issues and violence against women.

His presentation will look at how family, friends and society (including the media) "model and reinforce children for activities and behaviors that society deems appropriate for their gender. In addition to looking at how America is socialized, he will explore sexism and power roles and how they impact relationships.

Persons with questions may call Sandra at 681-5557 or Kelsy at 681-0779.

Derry has campaigned against violence since 1983. For 10 years he worked directly with male offenders at the St. Cloud Intervention Project—a battered woman's program in St. Cloud. For six years he was the men's program coordinator and developed programming to rehabilitate men who battered.

He has worked extensively with criminal justice and human service agencies to develop coordinated policies and procedures that effectively intervene in domestic violence cases. He is a trainer/consultant to the national Training Project in Duluth where he assists organizations and communities throughout the United States develop effective coordinated responses to domestic violence as well rehabilitative services for men who batter.

Derry provides law enforcement training on domestic violence investigations for the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension and has participated in development of training films for use with the Marine Corps and law enforcement officers training.

In 1987 he founded a pro-feminist men's activists group in St. Cloud and has been in leadership positions of North American pro-feminist men's organizations working to end men's violence. He founded the Gender Violence Institute in 1994 and currently acts as trainer and consultant to organizations and communities to end violence.

Gospel Festival of Praise March 28 at Embassy Center

Fosston church receives $100,000 from estate

Fosston - Hope Lutheran Church of Fosston was a substantial benefactor in the estate of Hilda Stee, receiving $100,000.

Of the money the church received, 10 percent was tithed to other community groups, 25 percent went into an endowment fund, 25 percent went into the church's savings account and the remaining amount went into church projects. Projects include carpeting, the refurbishing of the church's grand piano and an upgrade of the parish's office equipment.

Hilda Stee was employed in the nursing field for nearly 60 years. She married Conrad Stee in 1949, but the couple had no children, and Hilda had very few remaining relatives when she died. The Thirteen Towns

Polaris Industries, Inc. to move to Medina

Roseau - Polaris Industries Inc. is hitting the trail, leaving behind three separate office buildings in Minneapolis in favor of a new 130,000 square foot, two-story home in Medina.

Groundbreaking for the new headquarters will take place on March 30, and the official move date is set for the first quarter of 2000.

The completed campus-style setting will house a national training and service center for dealers and employees, a warehouse, office space and additional space for continued growth. The expansive lobby will allow for ample displays of Polaris' latest products as well as space to show artifacts from the company's history. Estimated cost of the new facility is $17 million. Roseau Times-Region

LOW students talk to Lt. Governor

Baudette - Junior high students at Lake of the Woods School had a chance to converse with Minnesota Lt. Governor Mae Schunk recently via interactive television.

While Schunk was actually at Central Middle School in Wayzata, the interactive television program allowed the LOW students to pose questions and get them answered during the half-hour session. Question time was split between the two schools. The Baudette Region

Tri-County commits to Reading Recovery

Karlstad - Tri-County School Board has committed to providing an early literacy intervention program called Reading Recovery. The program is geared toward first grade children who are having difficulties with reading and writing.

Teachers who are especially trained in Reading Recovery work with up to four children for 30 minutes daily for 12-20 weeks. The aim of the short-term intervention is to accelerate the child's learning to the point that he or she catches up with the rest of the class and can continue independently in the regular classroom. North Star News

Agassiz Audubon Society conducts several activities

Agassiz Audubon Society has planned several activities which will take place in the next several days, according to Gladwin Lynne of Warren.

Today (Saturday, March 27) a maple syrup demonstration will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary located five miles east and three miles south of Warren. Coffee and free samples of syrup made by slow boiling of sap collected on the refuge will be available. The public is welcome to attend and there is no admission fee.

General meeting of the society will be held Monday, March 29, at 7:30 p.m. in room 133 at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. A program entitled "The Killer Worms" will be presented by Steve and Carol Mortensen, biologists on the Leech Lake Indian Reservation. The public is invited to attend the program and refreshments will follow. Call 218-745-5663 for more information.

Annual banquet of the Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary will take place Tuesday, April 6, at 6:30 p.m. at the American Legion club rooms in Warren. Musical entertainment will be provided by The O'Neils and the program will be presented by Dr. James L. Nelson on reintroduction of woodland caribou into northeastern Minnesota.

For banquet tickets call 218-745-5572 or they may be purchased at Valley State Bank of Oslo, Ken Nelson Agency in Warren or Narverud Cleaners in Thief River Falls.

Multi-Events center Phase I nearly done

Hopefully by this time next month the Multi-Events Center building will be completed. The joint powers board is hopeful because they are now working with a contractor who has run into some financial problems. Despite this and other problems, construction at the site is continuing. Clearly visible to any who pass by the facility near Northland Community and Technical College, are the new bleachers.

Recently, Stamson and Blair, the general contractor on the project, was declared in default of their contract on the Multi-Events Center due to their inability to provide a performance and payment bond. That declaration came from School District 564 which has been delegated to handle some of the financial responsibilities of the project. Joint powers board members, and other officials connected with the project, have been aware of the problem for some time, and have taken steps to protect joint powers board members and the project.

Bruce Ugelstad, a representative from the architectural firm of Treibwasser, Helenske and Associates, explained that regarding the building project, Stamson and Blair will now be completing the building through their bonding agent. All claims are also being handled by their bonding agent.

The representative also said the joint powers board also appears to be in a good position.

It has also been noted that while Stamson and Blair was the general contractor on the project, much of the work has been and continues to be done by sub-contractors.

The joint powers board is also faced with re-seeding grass at the site because the grass seed didn't take last fall. There has been some discussion about seeding vs. sod. Discussion with experts from the University of Minnesota seems to indicate that seeding would result in a better product. A soil sample was also sent in for testing.

It was the consensus of the joint powers board Wednesday, that once they obtain test results, to find out the best way to implement and then maintain seeding during the summer.

Despite these problems, work is continuing at the site, and fund-raising is progressing. The bleachers were recently installed and inspected. Construction on the press box is expected to start next month. The remainder of construction at the site probably won't begin again until the frost is out of the ground.

Contributions/Contributors

Darla Twomey, who now works for the joint powers board as a fund-raiser, reported that she has secured another $10,000 donation, and had received a favorable response from another local business, and would be in touch with some foundations.

Contributors to date include the following: Altru Health System, Arctic Cat, Inc., Beito Foundation, Brady, Martz and Associates, Family Bowl, First National Bank, Hartz Foundation, Hugo's, Land O'Lakes Foundation, Lee Plumbing and Heating, Northern Motors, Northern State Bank, Norwest Bank, Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., Sjoberg's Cable TV, Thief River Falls Mini-Storage, Dakota Clinic, Tom and Sue Dondelinger, David and Judy Dupree, Dr. Hal and Diane Freeman, Deb Jacobson and Kari Frisch, Orley and Elaine Dunderson, NCTC Coaching staff, Rick and Donna Nelson, Bill and Henrietta Ness, Stanley Newland, Ron and Ruth Dalby, Glen Peters, 24th annual skating show tonight, Sun.

Twenty-fourth annual edition of the ice show sponsored by the Thief River Falls Parks and Recreation Department and Recreational Skating Committee will be presented tonight (Saturday, March 27) at 7 p.m. and Sunday, March 28, at 2 p.m. in the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Under the theme Fantasy Ride, the show will feature skaters from beginners through seniors in the instructional program plus four father/daughter numbers and one mother/daughter number. Ila Anderson is the program director and show director with Kelly Amundgaard and Jeremy Anderson as assistant directors.

Skating professionals working with the show are Stephanie Pederson, Vicky Meunier, Jeremy Anderson, Kelly Amundgaard and Malissa Lawrence. Jan Peterson is mistress of ceremonies and David Schneider is in charge of sound. Kim Novak, JoDee Reierson and Peggy Genereux are handling publicity and tickets.

Ila Anderson and Margaret Peterson prepared the program, Angie Dobias chairs the lighting crew and Janette Mosbeck is in charge of flowers. Margaret Peterson solicited parent helpers and all board members assisted with costumes.

Peterson Photography took the ice show pictures and photo assistants were Melissa Hestekind, Janet Mosbeck, Rochelle Anderson, Kim Novak, JoDee Reierson and Peggy Genereux. Scenery, including a carousel in keeping with the ice show theme, was created by Harlan Kirkeide, Rochelle Anderson, Tami Anderson and Melissa Hestekind. Parks and recreation director is Madelyn Vigen with Tracy Sodon as parks and recreation secretary.

Members of the recreational skating board are Peggy Genereux, Melissa Hestekind, Ila Anderson, Janette Mosbeck, Angie Dobias, Margaret Peterson, JoDee Reierson, Rochelle Anderson, Tami Anderson and Kim Novak.

First half of the skating show will open with the Thief River Falls Skating Club's precision line. Solo skaters will be Andrea Stinson, Kim Schneider, Deirdre Dally, Jacki Mooney and Chelsey Bottem with a trio skated by Katie Schammer, Eryn Clow and Janna Clow and a number presented by seniors Andrea Stinson, Leah Kenner, Stephanie Wiseth and Becky Wegner.

Snowplow Sam converses with Tigger (Tye Anderson) and Pooh (Brendon Hesse) as they prepare for this weekend's 24th annual ice show in Thief River Falls. Snowplow Sam is the mascot of the U.S. Figure Skating Association's preschool program. "Fantasy Ride" will be presented this evening (Sat., March 27) at 7 p.m. and tomorrow at 2 p.m. at Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

More than 100 displays arranged for Home, Sport & Family Show

Displays and exhibits totaling more than 100 in number have been registered for the Seventh Annual Thief River Falls Times Home, Sport & Family Show scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, April 10 and 11, at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls.

Visitors to the show are invited to register for a five-day, four-night vacation package for four people at Angle Outpost Resort on the Northwest Angle at Lake of the Woods. The package is valued at $750. Registration is free for all people attending the show.

Special appearance will be made Sunday, April 11, at 2 p.m. by Ernie the Angler, seen frequently on television from the Grand Forks, ND area.

Deb Hays of Paint & Glass Interiors, Inc., of Thief River Falls will demonstrate fun painting techniques Saturday, April 10, from 11 to 11:30 a.m. At 2 p.m. Saturday Diane Bach of Thief River Falls will present a canoe and camping seminar.

Show hours will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. April 10 and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 11. Admission at the door will be $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children ages 6-17 with children under six admitted free. Tickets may be purchased in advance at $2 for adults and $1 for children at Hugo's and SuperValu supermarkets and the Thief River Falls Times office. Fifty cents of each admission is a surcharge for the Arena Improvement Fund.

"The theme of 'Something for Everyone' is more appropriate than ever this year," notes Denise Laymon, director of the show. "There will be items on display for everyone of all ages that viewers will want to check out, from boats and fishing tackle to exercise equipment and kitchenware."

While most of the exhibitors will be from northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota, there will be a display of fishing tackle and sporting goods from Algoma Hardware in Algoma, WI, and Hydropede insoles from Sioux Falls, SD.

Among the represented interest areas at the show will be signs and imprinting, music, travel, water conditioning, books, finance, casino, recreational vehicles, communications, yard and garden, docks, health and fitness, photography, interior decorating, overhead doors, building supplies, boats and canoes, campers, real estate, state park, utility buildings, fireplaces, furniture, wood products and more.

Manufactured homes, National Guard equipment display, food concessions and other exhibits will be outside the civic center. More than 20 crafters have also reserved booth space for the show.

"We're excited about the variety and quantity of items to be available for the public to check out at the show again this year," Laymon said. "There really will be something of interest for everyone at the seventh annual show."

Officials prepare for 1999 flood potential in area

Pennington County Sheriff's department and Thief River Falls Police department are in the process of making flood response plans.

Sheriff Mike Hruby said he and Police Chief Ken Froschheiser had checked on the availability of sand bags in the community. Hruby said they had 20,000 to 25,000 sand bags on hand.

Sheriff Hruby said the county would soon be hauling a couple of loads of sand to the Eighth Street boat landing where residents could fill sand bags if they feel they need them.

Residents may obtain the sand bags by contacting the law enforcement center at 681-6161. If it comes to the point that they know there will be a serious problem, they will be able to control where the sand bags are utilized.

In the past, said Chief Froschheiser, city residents participated in flood response activities by filling bags of sand at the Eighth Street boat landing and transporting the bags to areas where they are needed. This year, Froschheiser said, they will only organize volunteers and ship the volunteers to where they are needed, if it comes to that.

Sheriff Hruby and Chief Froschheiser have met with the regional emergency services director and Thief River Falls Utilities Director Arlo Rude. From what they have learned, they expect it will be at least a couple of more weeks before the ice goes out on the rivers. There is some concern for flooding in low lying areas because of the moisture content in the snow and the amount of moisture the area received last fall.

Chief Froschheiser said this is not to cause undue worry or panic among citizens.

A sure sign that spring has arrived appeared in the form Canadian geese returning to the area from wintering grounds much further south. These two were sitting on the edge of some ice across from Hertz Park in Thief River Falls Thursday.

Swensons are Valley Farmer and Homemaker

The elder Swensons lived out their lives on the farm with Ray's mother living and remaining lucid to the age of 104.

Barb grew up on a farm northeast of Oklee, and even though she and Ray attended school in Oklee, it wasn't there that she caught his eye. Barb is several years younger, and the couple met when she worked for Ray's brother at his business in Oklee. Barb and Ray were married on March 20, 1959.

Three framed aerial photographs of the building site create a pictorial story of how the Swenson farm has evolved over the years.

The first photograph reveals a large farm house and outbuildings, including a single grain storage building. Steel storage bins and the smaller house that had been moved in alter the farm's appearance in the second photograph.

The most recent photograph shows the building site as it is today.

During the 1970's when, Ray says, farming was "good" and "lots of fun," the family added a sizable addition to the already large farmhouse. "We enjoyed it as we raised our family there," Ray says.

After already having raised certified seed for a number of years, the Swensons built a seed plant in 1985.

Today, including the 1,800 acres that Ray and Barb own, the land Keith owns and the acreage they rent, the family farms about 6,000 acres, and Swenson Seed Company is a bustling business, often operating 24 hours a day.

In addition to family members, the agribusiness employs two full-time workers. Ray emphasizes that he is "very fortunate ... and happy with our employees." As the individual seasons demand, the operation employs up to six part-time employees as well.

Purchasing foundation seed from the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association (MCIA) at three to four times the cost of ordinary seed, the Swensons raise almost all of the registered and certified seed that they wholesale and retail for general planting purposes. They are also contracted to produce foundation seed.

In addition to processing their own seed, Swenson Seed Company also processes the seed of other growers. As disease has caused farmers to move away from the traditional wheat, barley and oats crops, the Swensons have added equipment to accommodate sunflowers and soybeans.

At the plant every seed lot is identified and tracked all the way through the system. Samples are sent to and analyzed by the MCIA. Purity is the end result. A fish bowl filled with everything from combine parts to fishing lures to objects which defy identification serves as a humorous example of what is separated from the seed during processing.

With a considerable amount of qualified land coming out of CRP, the plant has been inspected and approved by the Minnesota branch of the Organic Crop Improvement Association to process organic seed. After 25 years of tracking seed, it was a move that Ray and Barb were prepared to make. While the seed business requires thorough records, the bookkeeping associated with organic seed is even more demanding.

That work is done in a comfortably decorated office attached to the plant. Ray enjoys progress and jumped right into the technological age, purchasing his first computer "many years ago." While computers haven't simplified their work, they have enabled the couple to keep much more extensive records. Like many others, the Swensons are addressing a potential Y2K computer problem. Ray's computer is less than a year old, and they are waiting for a technician to come and check Barb's equipment.

In addition to being equipped with the latest technology, an air mattress is stored in the office. On nights when the plant is operating around the clock and help isn't scheduled or available, Ray and Barb draw the blinds and spend the night in the office.

Keith is involved in the physical aspects of farming and maintains the equipment while Ray rarely gets away from the office. "I hardly ever get out on a tractor any more," he says. Barb, too, works in the office when she isn't fulfilling her official "go-fer" duties in her two-year old Volkswagen that already has over 60,000 miles on it.

A Volkswagen has always been the Swensons' vehicle of choice, and with six children, it was a Volkswagen bus that the family required at one point.

The Volkswagen tradition extends to Ray's hobby. On the wall of the office hangs a photograph of a Volkswagen station wagon that Ray customized into a pickup. Alongside that photograph is another picture of the vehicle Ray plans to create as soon as he gets his hands on the late model Volkswagen he's waiting for from one of the many salvage yards he's contacted.

Barb plays the piano, and Ray plays the guitar. Together they sing. "We entertain each other," Ray says.

When she has time, Barb also enjoys knitting, crocheting and working outside. Family time is important to both of the proud parents/grandparents.

With regard to community involvement, Ray says that he and Barb have been involved in the "usual things." He recently retired from the Oklee Farmers Coop Elevator Association board after serving as its secretary for 30 years. Barb is a trained emergency medical technician who has worked with Oklee's volunteer ambulance service. Ray is an elder in the church that has met in the Swenson home all of his life.

Ray and Barb attended the banquet held at the University of Minnesota-Crookston on February 28 when 16 northwestern Minnesota couples were honored as Valley Farmers and Homemakers by the Red River Valley Development Association. The engraved plaque they received hangs beside the plaque Ray received as King Agassiz in 1969.

Discussing the current farm situation, Ray is optimistic and believes it will turn around. "It has to," he says, and he looks forward to the time when farming is "fun" again.

Approaching his 65th birthday, Ray says he's at the point where he should be backing away from business. That isn't likely to happen anytime soon. In addition to the fact that everything he loves and enjoys is right there on the farm, the business is growing and becoming increasingly demanding.

So demanding, in fact, that the couple couldn't find the time to take the trip to Hawaii that their family wanted to send them on for their 40th anniversary.

They're hoping for a rain check, however. And next year, if this happy, hard working couple can find the time, they might celebrate 41 years of dedicated togetherness on the beaches of Hawaii.

Valuing Diversity workshop planned at Bemidji in May

Applications are now being accepted for the Northwest Minnesota Foundation's Valuing Diversity workshop to be held May 3 and 4 at Concordia Language Villages near Bemidji.

The two-day workshop has been designed specifically for northwest Minnesota's population. It offers an opportunity to understand how individual attitudes and behaviors will influence a community or an organization's cultural environment, to identify personal barriers to valuing and managing diversity and to explore methods for eliminating community and organizational cultural barriers.

Northwest Minnesota Foundation covers all expenses for the workshop. Individual participation is welcome but community or organizational teams of three or more people are strongly encouraged.

Application forms are available by calling Rebecca or Kah at the Northwest Minnesota Foundation (218-759-2057 or 1-800-659-7859). Applications must be received by March 22.

Derry to present gender issues program at NCTC

Violence Intervention Project is sponsoring a presentation by Chuck Derry on Gender Issues, Rape and Power: How Socialization Affects Our Behavior Tuesday, March 23, at 2 and 7 p.m. in the theater at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Chuck Derry

Derry is a co-founder of the Gender Violence Institute and makes presentations throughout the country on gender issues and violence against women.

His presentation will look at how family, friends and society (including the media) "model and reinforce children for activities and behaviors that society deems appropriate for their gender. In addition to looking at how America is socialized, he will explore sexism and power roles and how they impact relationships.

Persons with questions may call Sandra at 681-5557 or Kelsy at 681-0779.

Derry has campaigned against violence since 1983. For 10 years he worked directly with male offenders at the St. Cloud Intervention Project—a battered woman's program in St. Cloud. For six years he was the men's program coordinator and developed programming to rehabilitate men who battered.

He has worked extensively with criminal justice and human service agencies to develop coordinated policies and procedures that effectively intervene in domestic violence cases. He is a trainer/consultant to the national Training Project in Duluth where he assists organizations and communities throughout the United States develop effective coordinated responses to domestic violence as well rehabilitative services for men who batter.

Derry provides law enforcement training on domestic violence investigations for the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension and has participated in development of training films for use with the Marine Corps and law enforcement officers training.

In 1987 he founded a pro-feminist men's activists group in St. Cloud and has been in leadership positions of North American pro-feminist men's organizations working to end men's violence. He founded the Gender Violence Institute in 1994 and currently acts as trainer and consultant to organizations and communities to end violence.

Fosston church receives $100,000 from estate

Fosston - Hope Lutheran Church of Fosston was a substantial benefactor in the estate of Hilda Stee, receiving $100,000.

Of the money the church received, 10 percent was tithed to other community groups, 25 percent went into an endowment fund, 25 percent went into the church's savings account, and the remaining amount went into church projects. Projects include carpeting, the refurbishing of the church's grand piano and an upgrade of the parish's office equipment.

Hilda Stee was employed in the nursing field for nearly 60 years. She married Conrad Stee in 1949, but the couple had no children, and Hilda had very few remaining relatives when she died. The Thirteen Towns

Polaris Industries, Inc. to move to Medina

Roseau - Polaris Industries, Inc. is hitting the trail, leaving behind three separate office buildings in Minneapolis in favor of a new 130,000 square-foot, two-story home in Medina.

Groundbreaking for the new headquarters will take place on March 30, and the official move date is set for the first quarter of 2000.

The completed campus-style setting will house a national training and service center for dealers and employees, a warehouse, office space and additional space for continued growth. The expansive lobby will allow for ample displays of Polaris' latest products as well as space to show artifacts from the company's history. Estimated cost of the new facility is $17 million. Roseau Times-Region

Baudette - Junior high students at Lake of the Woods School had a chance to converse with Minnesota Lt. Governor Mae Schunk recently via interactive television.

While Schunk was actually at Central Middle School in Wayzata, the interactive television program allowed the LOW students to pose questions and get them answered during the half-hour session. Question time was split between the two schools. The Baudette Region

Tri-County commits to Reading Recovery

Karlstad - Tri-County School Board has committed to providing an early literacy intervention program called Reading Recovery. The program is geared toward first grade children who are having difficulties with reading and writing.

Teachers who are specially trained in Reading Recovery work with up to four children for 30 minutes daily for 12 to 20 weeks. The aim of the short-term intervention is to accelerate the child's learning to the point that he or she catches up with the rest of the class and can continue independently in the regular classroom. North Star News

Agassiz Audubon Society has planned several activities which will take place in the next several days, according to Gladwin Lynne of Warren.

Today (Saturday, March 27) a maple syrup demonstration will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary located five miles east and three miles south of Warren. Coffee and free samples of syrup made by slow boiling of sap collected on the refuge will be available. The public is welcome to attend and there is no admission fee.

General meeting of the society will be held Monday, March 29, at 7:30 p.m. in room 133 at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. A program entitled "The Killer Worms" will be presented by Steve and Carol Mortensen, biologists on the Leech Lake Indian Reservation. The public is invited to attend the program and refreshments will follow. Call 218-745-5663 for more information.

Annual banquet of the Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary will take place Tuesday, April 6, at 6:30 p.m. at the American Legion club rooms in Warren. Musical entertainment will be provided by The O'Neils and the program will be presented by Dr. James L. Nelson on reintroduction of woodland caribou into northeastern Minnesota.

For banquet tickets call 218-745-5572 or they may be purchased at Valley State Bank of Oslo, Ken Nelson Agency in Warren or Narverud Cleaners in Thief River Falls.

Multi-Events center Phase I nearly done

Hopefully by this time next month the Multi-Events Center building will be completed. The joint powers board is hopeful because they are now working with a contractor who has run into some financial problems. Despite this and other problems, construction at the site is continuing. Clearly visible to any who pass by the facility near Northland Community and Technical College, are the new bleachers.

Recently, Stanson and Blair, the general contractor on the project, was declared in default of their contract on the Multi-Events Center due to their inability to provide a performance and payment bond. That declaration came from School District 564 which has been delegated to handle some of the financial responsibilities of the project. Joint powers board members, and other officials connected with the project, have been aware of the problem for some time, and have taken steps to protect joint powers board members and the project.

Bruce Ugelstad, a representative from the architectural firm of Treihwasser, Helenske and Associates, explained that regarding the building project, Stanson and Blair will now be completing the building through their bonding agent. All claims are also being handled by their bonding agent.

The representative also said the joint powers board also appears to be in a good position.

It has also been noted that while Stanson and Blair was the general contractor on the project, much of the work has been and continues to be done by sub-contractors.

The joint powers board is also faced with re-seeding grass at the site because the grass seed didn't take last fall. There has been some discussion about seeding vs. sod. Discussion with experts from the University of Minnesota seems to indicate that seeding would result in a better product. A soil sample was also sent in for testing.

It was the consensus of the joint powers board Wednesday, that once they obtain test results, to find out the best way to implement and then maintain seeding during the summer.

Despite these problems, work is continuing at the site, and fund-raising is progressing. The bleachers were recently installed and inspected. Construction on the press box is expected to start next month. The remainder of construction at the site probably won't begin again until the frost is out of the ground.

Contributions/Contributors

Darla Twamey, who now works for the joint powers board as a fund-raiser, reported that she had secured another $10,000 donation, and had received a favorable response from another local business, and would be in touch with some foundations.

Contributors to date include the following: Altru Health System, Arctic Cat, Inc., Beito Foundation, Brady, Martz and Associates, Family Bowl, First National Bank, Hartz Foundation, Hugo's, Land O'Lakes Foundation, Lee Plumbing and Heating, Northern Motors, Northern State Bank, Norwest Bank, Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., Sjoberg's Cable TV, Thief River Falls Mini-Storage, Dakota Clinic, Tom and Sue Dondelinger, David and Judy Dupree, Dr. Hal and Diane Freeman, Deb Jacobson and Kari Frisch, Orley and Elaine Gunderson, NCTC Coaching staff, Rick and Donna Nelson, Bill and Henrietta Ness, Stanley Newlund, Ron and Ruth Ostby, Glen Peters,

Officials prepare for 1999 flood potential in area

Pennington County Sheriff's department and Thief River Falls Police department are in the process of making flood response plans.

Sheriff Mike Hruby said he and Police Chief Ken Froschheiser had checked on the availability of sand bags in the community. Hruby said they had 20,000 to 25,000 sand bags on hand.

Sheriff Hruby said the county would soon be hauling a couple of loads of sand to the Eighth Street boat landing where residents could fill sand bags if they feel they need them.

Residents may obtain the sand bags by contacting the law enforcement center at 681-6161. If it comes to the point that they know there will be a serious problem, they will be able to control where the sand bags are utilized.

In the past, said Chief Froschheiser, city residents participated in flood response activities by filling bags of sand at the Eighth Street boat landing and transporting the bags to areas where they are needed. This year, Froschheiser said, they will only organize volunteers and ship the volunteers to where they are needed, if it comes to that.

Sheriff Hruby and Chief Froschheiser have met with the regional emergency services director and Thief River Falls Utilities Director Arlo Rude. From what they have learned, they expect it will be at least a couple of more weeks before the ice goes out on the rivers. There is some concern for flooding in low lying areas because of the moisture content in the snow and the amount of moisture the area received last fall.

Chief Froschheiser said this is not to cause undue worry or panic among citizens.

Snowplow Sam converses with Tigger (Tye Anderson) and Pooh (Brandon Hesse) as they prepare for this weekend's 24th annual ice show in Thief River Falls. Snowplow Sam is the mascot of the U.S. Figure Skating Association's preschool program. "Fantasy Ride" will be presented this evening (Sat., March 27) at 7 p.m. and tomorrow at 2 p.m. at Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

24th annual skating show tonight, Sun.

Twenty-fourth annual edition of the ice show sponsored by the Thief River Falls Parks and Recreation Department and Recreational Skating Committee will be presented tonight (Saturday, March 27) at 7 p.m. and Sunday, March 28, at 2 p.m. in the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Under the theme Fantasy Ride, the show will feature skaters from beginners through seniors in the instructional program plus four father/daughter numbers and one mother/daughter number. Ila Anderson is the program director and show director with Kelly Amundgaard and Jeremy Anderson as assistant directors.

Skating professionals working with the show are Stephanie Pederson, Vicky Meunier, Jeremy Anderson, Kelly Amundgaard and Malissa Lawrence. Jan Peterson is mistress of ceremonies and David Schneider is in charge of sound. Kim Novak, JoDee Reierson and Peggy Genereux are handling publicity and tickets.

Ila Anderson and Margaret Peterson prepared the program, Angie Dobias chairs the lighting crew and Janette Mosbeck is in charge of flowers. Margaret Peterson solicited parent helpers and all board members assisted with costumes.

Peterson Photography took the ice show pictures and photo assistants were Melissa Hestekind, Janet Mosbeek, Rochelle Anderson, Kim Novak, JoDee Reierson and Peggy Genereux. Scenery, including a carousel in keeping with the ice show theme, was created by Harlan Kirkeide, Rochelle Anderson, Tami Anderson and Melissa Hestekind. Parks and recreation director is Madelyn Vigen with Tracy Sodon as parks and recreation secretary.

Members of the recreational skating board are Peggy Genereux, Melissa Hestekind, Ila Anderson, Janette Mosbeck, Angie Dobias, Margaret Peterson, JoDee Reierson, Rochelle Anderson, Tami Anderson and Kim Novak.

First half of the skating show will open with the Thief River Falls Skating Club's precision line. Solo skaters will be Andrea Stinson, Kim Schneider, Deirdre Dally, Jacki Mooney and Chelsey Bottem with a trio skated by Katie Schommer, Eryn Clow and Janna Clow and a number presented by seniors Andrea Stinson, Leah Kenner, Stephanie Wiseth and Becky Wegner.

More than 100 displays arranged for Home, Sport & Family Show

Displays and exhibits totaling more than 100 in number have been registered for the Seventh Annual Thief River Falls Times Home, Sport & Family Show scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, April 10 and 11, at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls.

Visitors to the show are invited to register for a five-day, four-night vacation package for four people at Angle Outpost Resort on the Northwest Angle at Lake of the Woods. The package is valued at $750. Registration is free for all people attending the show.

Special appearance will be made Sunday, April 11, at 2 p.m. by Ernie the Angler, seen frequently on television from the Grand Forks, ND area.

Deb Hays of Paint & Glass Interiors, Inc. of Thief River Falls will demonstrate fan painting techniques Saturday, April 10, from 11 to 11:30 a.m. At 2 p.m. Saturday Diane Bach of Thief River Falls will present a canoe and camping seminar.

Show hours will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. April 10 and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 11. Admission at the door will be $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children ages 6-17 with children under six admitted free. Tickets may be purchased in advance at $2 for adults and $1 for children at Hugo's and SuperValu supermarkets and the Thief River Falls Times office. Fifty cents of each admission is a surcharge for the Arena Improvement Fund.

"The theme of 'Something for Everyone' is more appropriate than ever this year," notes Denise Laymon, director of the show. "There will be items on display for everyone of all ages that viewers will want to check out, from boats and fishing tackle to exercise equipment and kitchenware."

While most of the exhibitors will be from northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota, there will be a display of fishing tackle and sporting goods from Algoma Hardware in Algoma, WI, and Hydropede insoles from Sioux Falls, SD.

Among the represented interest areas at the show will be signs and imprinting, music, travel, water conditioning, books, finance, casino, recreational vehicles, communications, yard and garden, docks, health and fitness, photography, interior decorating, overhead doors, building supplies, boats and canoes, campers, real estate, state park, utility buildings, fireplaces, furniture, wood products and more.

Manufactured homes, National Guard equipment display, food concessions and other exhibits will be outside the civic center. More than 20 crafters have also reserved booth space for the show.

"We're excited about the variety and quantity of items to be available for the public to check out at the show again this year," Laymon said. "There really will be something of interest for everyone at the seventh annual show."

A sure sign that spring has arrived appeared in the form Canadian geese returning to the area from wintering grounds much further south. These two were sitting on the edge of some ice across from Hartz Park in Thief River Falls Thursday.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Easter is around the corner. Today let's have some recipes for Easter desserts to top off our Easter feast.

Of course we must have something chocolate - this is a simple dessert that can and should be made ahead of time:

CHOCOLATE DESSERT

1/2 or 3/4 of a (1/2 pound) almond milk chocolate candy bar
15 large marshmallows
1/2 cup milk
1 cup cream, whipped
Sugar to sweeten cream
Graham cracker pie crust
Graham cracker crumbs
Almonds, if desired

In double boiler or in microwave, melt marshmallows and milk. Add chopped candy bar and mix until melted, heating more if necessary. Cool well

Whip cream and sweeten to taste. Fold into chocolate mixture.

Place in graham cracker crust. Sprinkle graham crackers and almonds on top. Chill several hours or overnight.

Lemon and coconut definitely make an Easter dessert:

LEMON CRACKLE

Filling
1 cup cold water
1 cup sugar
2 well beaten eggs
Juice of 2 lemons
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix cornstarch, sugar, salt and remaining ingredients in double boiler. Cook until thick and smooth. Cool.

Crust
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 teaspoon soda
10 soda crackers, crushed fine
1 cup flour
1 cup coconut

Cream butter and sugar and remaining ingredients. Pat 3/4 of the mixture in greased 12x6 1/2 inch pan. Pat flat.

Pour in filling and then cover with remaining crumb mixture.

Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Serve with whipped cream.

If not lemon, how about something orange - this sounds like a light, tasty way to top off a meal, but very easy - again prepared ahead of time:

ORANGE ANGEL DELIGHT

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1/4 cup hot water
1 cup orange juice
1 cup sugar
1 pint of whipping cream, whipped
1/2 of a prepared angel food cake, broken into small pieces
1/2 cup short cut coconut
Orange slices and coconut

Dissolve gelatin in cold water. Add hot water.

Mix orange juice and sugar and blend in gelatin mixture. Chill until slightly thickened.

Beat whipping cream and fold into gelatin mixture. Add cake pieces and coconut.

Pour into 9x13 inch pan and chill several hours or overnight. Decorate with orange slices (real, canned or candy ones) and coconut before serving.

Strawberries are usually out in time for Easter - make this elegant dessert this year:

STRAWBERRY TIFFANY TORTE

3 cups vanilla wafer crumbs
1/2 cup butter, melted
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
2 cups milk
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind (optional)
1 (3 3/4 ounce) package instant vanilla pudding
1 quart strawberries, sliced
1 (2 cup equivalent) thawed whipped topping

Combine crumbs and butter, reserving 1 cup of mixture for topping. Press remaining crumbs into bottom of greased 9x13 inch pan.

Gradually add 1/2 cup milk to softened cream cheese, mixing until well blended. Add pudding mix, remaining milk and lemon rind. Beat slowly for 1 minute. Pour over crust.

Cover with sliced strawberries. Spread whipped topping over strawberries and top with reserved crumbs. Chill several hours or overnight.

Oh, let's have one more strawberry dessert - one that uses frozen berries, just in case the fresh ones aren't out yet or are too expensive:

STRAWBERRY CHIFFON SQUARES

1/4 cup butter
1 1/2 cups finely crushed vanilla wafers (about 45)
1 (3 ounce) package strawberry gelatin
3/4 cups boiling water
1 (14 ounce) can sweetened condensed milk
1 (10 ounce) package frozen strawberries in syrup, thawed
4 cups miniature marshmallows
1 cup cream, whipped

Melt butter and mix in wafer crumbs. Pat firmly on bottom of 2 quart shallow baking dish (12x7 inches). Chill.

In large bowl, dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Stir in condensed milk and undrained strawberries. Fold in marshmallows and whipped cream. Pour into prepared pan.

Chill 2 hours or until set. If desired, garnish with additional whipped cream and strawberries. Store in refrigerator.

Maad & Lynn aerial act will be one of the features of the Jose Cola Circus to perform at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls on Saturday, April 3, at 2 p.m. The circus is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce and tickets are on sale at reduced prices through April 2 at 5 p.m. at SuperValu and Hugo's supermarkets.

Sorting food items brought to the Falls Mall in Thief River Falls during the "Scouting for Food" campaign of the local Boy Scouts of America Saturday are a number of volunteers who pitched in to help. Yvonne Moe (right), director of the Thief River Falls Area Food Shelf located in the lower level of the Falls Mall, said that a new record was set with 4,030 pounds of food collected by the scouts. The total will be matched by Minnesota Food Share.

Filling boxes with food items to be weighed Saturday during the local Boy Scouts food collection drive are some of the scouts and volunteers involved with the collection effort. Food collections set a new record this year with 4,030 pounds collected.

Mazzonis to perform concert in RLF March 28

Massimo and Lucy Mazzoni will be performing a concert in Red Lake Falls at 8 p.m. on Sunday March 28 in the Lafayette High School Cafeteria. There will be a reception following the performance, which is sponsored by the Comprehensive Arts Planning Program committee.

Massimo and Lucy Mazzoni are saxophone instructors at the Conservatory of Cesena in Italy. They have two children, Paolo and Andrea.

Lucy is the daughter of Maurice and Sybil Derosier of Red Lake Falls. She has been playing the saxophone since she was about 10 years old. After graduating from Bemidji State University, she studied under Jean-Marie Londiex in Bordeaux, France, where she met her husband, Massimo (Max).

Tickets, which are available at Center Drug and Thompson Hardware in Red Lake Falls, are $6 for adults and $4 for students. A portion of the ticket price will go toward the Lafayette Music Department's Trip to Colorado this spring.

Old Mill State Park seeks proposal for permanent artwork

A $7,000 grant from the Northwest Regional Arts Council has prompted a search for regional artists to submit proposals for a permanent artwork project to grace the entrance of Old Mill State Park, located east of Argyle, in central Marshall County. The deadline for submission of written proposals, including photographs or design sketches of previous artwork, is April 16, 1999.

Park manager Mary Broten and the Old Mill State Park artwork committee envision a project that will incorporate one or more themes from the prairie-land park and visually communicate them to park visitors. Themes that artists may select, but are not limited to, include natural features, such as native tallgrass prairie, or the riverine ecosystem of the Middle River; or cultural and historic elements, such as grain farming, flour milling at the historic Larson's Mill, and the WPA construction projects (most of the park's original facilities were built by the Works Progress Administration in 1937).

The artwork will be placed in the entrance area of the park, approximately 150 feet east of the new visitor building, in a 75-foot x 75-foot patch of restored native prairie. "The spot includes yellow lady-slipper, Indian paintbrush, Indian grass, black-eyed Susan's, big bluestem, little bluestem, and blue-eye grass, among other native plants," said Broten.

"Currently there's only a brown wooden sign with the name of the park in yellow letters on that spot," Broten continued. "This artwork will be the park visitor's first opportunity to become acquainted with the park and to gain an appreciation for its unique qualities."

According to Broten, the selected artist must visit Old Mill State Park to get a feel for the theme relationships; and will need to work closely with the Old Mill State Park artwork committee in developing a concept design, selecting a medium, and producing a detailed scale model. A request for up to $500 is available for creation of the model.

"In the past, mediums of stone, wood and metal have been used successfully at other Minnesota state parks for public entrance artwork," advised Broten.

Final design must be approved by the Old Mill State Park artwork committee and the Northwest Regional Arts Council. The artist will then be responsible for all aspects of the project, including design, fabrication, delivery and installation. Upon completion, the design will become the property of the Old Mill State Park artwork committee.

All proposals will be evaluated based on the following criteria:

1. Appropriateness of selected theme(s).
2. The theme(s) must be clearly communicated in the artwork.
3. How well the artwork provides for visitor enjoyment, understanding, and appreciation of Old Mill State Park and its special natural and cultural resources.
4. Artwork is of a proportionate size that will be readily visible and make good use of the designated space.
5. Artwork materials require low maintenance, to preserve the integrity of the piece and to withstand the extreme weather conditions of northwest Minnesota.
6. Project costs may not exceed the grant budget.

Prospective artists who have questions, or wish to submit a proposal, may contact Mary Broten, Park Manager, Old Mill State Park, Route 1 Box 43, Argyle, MN 56713, phone 218-437-8174.

Seniority Valuable.... When It's Yours

The idea of term limits—a requirement that elected officials may serve only a specified number of years or terms in their offices—has been a popular one of late. It has been especially popular as a campaign theme as political hopefuls have sought—and sometimes succeeded —to unseat veteran and entrenched office holders.

According to a Washington Outlook column by Amy Borrus in the Feb. 1, 1999 issue of Business Week magazine, there are currently 45 U.S. Representatives and 13 Senators who have said they will leave office after serving a specified number of terms.

Where the controversy starts is when at least some of these office holders have second thoughts about leaving office once they become the incumbents. They begin to see the importance of service longevity when they realize that government functions on a seniority basis. It takes the length of time that many propose for term limits for a Congressman or Senator to begin functioning with any degree of effective influence or authority.

With required term limits, of course, the power of seniority would be reduced because no person would be allowed to hold office beyond the established limit. That is one of the attractions touted for term limits, of course—that they would level the playing field, spread the power base and allow more office holders to have meaningful input on legislation.

Despite the advantages of seniority under the present system, there still remains the credibility question involving politicians who say they will do one thing and then do another. There is a term for politicians who campaign for election on the basis of serving for a specified time, and then go back on their promises once they are in office. They are called hypocrites.

A case in point, as Borrus states in her column, is Congressman George R. Nethercutt Jr. from the state of Washington. Rep. Nethercutt in 1994 defeated House Speaker Thomas S. Foley who had represented his Washington district for more than 30 years, and he did it by running on a pledge not to serve for more than three terms.

But Nethercutt, a Republican, apparently has found a comfort level in Congress and now will not commit to leaving office in the year 2000 as he had said he would.

Time and political party are not dividing lines on the issue of term limits, however. Rep. Martin T. Meehan of Massachusetts, a Democrat, is now calling his previously announced decision to limit himself to four terms a mistake. "The reality," Meehan says, "is that the House and Senate work through a seniority system."

Jeff Jacoby, writing in The Boston Globe, notes that "Meehan can't bear the thought of leaving Congress now, just as the juicy plums of incumbency are dropping into his lap. But he also can't bear to be thought untrustworthy, one more hack whose promises are worthless. So what does he do? Keep his word and walk away from the House? Or renege and become one of those slippery careerists he used to denounce? Renege, of course."

Rep. Tillie Fowler of Florida advocated term limits when she first ran for office in 1992 and her first bill in Congress was one to restrict House members to eight years in Congress and Senators to 12. A year ago she remained adamant that 1998 would be her last Congressional campaign. Reelected last November to what was to be her last term, she has now developed "a more open mind" on the subject.

We are not convinced that term limit laws are a cure-all for our federal government. We do believe, however, that elected public officials—perhaps more so than anyone else—should not make promises they don't intend to keep. If they say they will limit the length of their service to a specified time, they should abide by their word.

"Of all the promises candidates make," Jacoby writes in his column, "none is easier to keep than a promise to leave office after a fixed number of years. The only condition necessary for its fulfillment is the promiser's honesty.

"...Up to now, Meehan has been an emblem of how effective and efficient an elected official can be when he knows the term-limits clock is ticking. If he breaks his solemn word, he will become something much less admirable and much, much more common: another lying politician."

Fun With Anagrams

An anagram is a word or phrase made by transposing or rearranging letters of a word or phrase into another word or phrase, using all the letters but using no letters twice. A simple example would be "salt" and "last."

Following anagrams have been created by a person or people who may be very intelligent but have way too much unstructured time. Check these out—first is the word or phrase, followed by the anagram:

Dormitory—Dirty Room; Evangelist—Evil's Agent; Desperation—A Rope Ends It; The Morse Code—Here Come Dots; Slot Machines —Cash Lost in 'em; Animosity—Is No Amity; Mother-in-law—Woman Hitler; Snooze Alarms —Alas! No more "Zs; Alec Guinness—Genuine Class; Semolina—Is No Meal; The Public Art Galleries—Large Picture Halls, I Bet; A Decimal Point—I'm a Dot in Place; The Earthquakes—That Queer Shake; Eleven Plus Two—Twelve Plus One; Contradiction—Accord Not in It.

If those aren't amazing enough, how about this one?

"That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind." (Neil Armstrong, on the moon)—"A thin man ran; makes a large stride, left planet, pins flag on moon! On to Mars!

Here's one more:

"To be or not to be: that is the question, whether its nobler in the mind to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune."—"In one of the Bard's best-thought-of tragedies, our insistent hero, Hamlet, queries on two fronts about how life turns rotten."

Now, get back to work!

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Experience has proven that a person of average intelligence needs to hear the truth 11 times once he or she has heard the lie. The lie is Minnesota's Graduation Standards: Goals 2000/Profile of Learning/School-to-Work. The truth is, it's an overt attempt to control schools and move toward a socialist government.

The public outcry is only beginning to be heard. We have called, E-mailed and written to our state officials, but apparently that is not enough. The 92 Minnesota legislators, who in February voted to repeal the Profile, heard the truth. It was revealed to them through the efforts of over 3,000 parents, educators and concerned citizens who will not allow the federal government to experiment on our children with a radical re-invention of education that dumbs them down and makes them objects of mind control!

We have been trying to get the truth to the Minnesota Senate, but the Senate leadership is not listening. They are determined to move forward with this flawed and destructive system—a full return of Outcome Based Education (OBE) centered on feelings, attitudes and process, rather than academic achievement.

Who is in charge of our children? Do people really want the federal government to be in total control? If not, then become educated and educate others as well.

On Saturday, April 24, an Education Freedom Rally will be held on the Capitol steps in St. Paul. Hosted by the Maple River Education Coalition, the purpose is to send a clear message to the state and federal planners that we—parents—want local control over the education of our children. The truth is we've let the state senate take away our freedom to decide how best to educate our children. Now we must fight to get it back.

For an update on the Rally contact MrEdCo at 651-457-6342. I plan to go. Do you?

Respectfully,
Barbara Chervestad
Oklee, Minnesota

To The Editor:

Passage of the Parental Notification Data Bill (HF377/SF326) by the Minnesota Legislature would strengthen the concept of family rights. The bill would require the Minnesota Department of Health to collect data about how, why and in which counties judges are issuing the most "judicial bypasses" permitting minor daughters to obtain abortions without their parents' knowledge.

A 1981 Parental Notification law requires that legal parents be notified 48 hours before their minor daughter undergoes an abortion. It also permits a judge to determine if the girl is mature enough to make her own decision or if the abortion is in her best interest, and then to issue her a bypass—so her parents need not be notified.

Data collected under HF377/SF326 would reveal how strictly the procedures for notifying parents are practiced and would inform as to what reasons judges accept as indications of a girl's maturity. It would increase the likelihood that parents will be involved in their child's decision about a medical procedure that can have serious physical and emotional after-effects.

Please phone Sen. LeRoy Stumpf (1-651-296-8660) and Rep. Jim Tunheim (1-651-296-9635) or Rep. Tim Finseth (1-651-296-9918). Ask them to vote for the Parental Notice Data bill (HF377/SF326).

Sincerely,
Frances Crummy
Warren, Minnesota

Risk management workshops offered free to area farmers

Three risk management workshops for farmers are being planned by Farm Credit Services of Grand Forks, ND. They are planned from 8:30 to 11 a.m. at the Grand Forks Ramada Inn March 27; 3 to 5:30 p.m. Monday, March 29, at Northland Inn of Crookston; and 3 to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 30, at the Eagles club in Grafton, ND.

Workshop information is intended to help farmers find their break-even point, prepare a marketing plan, manage pricing risk and put a floor under their crop price.

Presenters will be Rick Solberg, director of insurance and Don Magnusson, tax specialist from Farm Credit Services; and Gary Otte of Commodity Marketing Advisory. Coffee and rolls will be provided.

To register or for more information call the local FCS office or 1-800-288-3982.

A Watershed Moment

We've reached a "watershed moment." That's the way my high school principal would've referred to it, anyway. He was always identifying crucial, self-defining turning points as "watershed moments," a description I think he plagiarized from JFK.

Unfortunately for my fragile, teenage self-esteem, these moments usually involved some loss of personal dignity in a very public place. From spelling bees to public speaking, I grew wary of those "watershed moments" and to this day instinctively check to see if my fly is zipped every time I hear the term.

As the Rainy River inexorably gobbles up its ice sheath with snowmelt runoff, allowing boat-borne fishermen to wrestle with the new two-fish limit, it seems more than appropriate that I use my ex-principal's favorite catch phrase. We've reached a watershed moment, both in terms of the warming climate and from our perspective as a fishing community.

Yes, there's water in the river and yes, you can put a boat in it and try to catch fish. That's really not the question here, however. The bigger picture demands to know how the public is going to react to the more restrictive limits. A large shot in the arm for the local economy is at stake, you see.

At a time when the ice on the big lake is softening rapidly and the bleak prospect of six weeks of insignificant tourist time is ahead before the May opener, the April bonanza on the Rainy can cure a lot of impending ills. From gas and food sales to boat and room rentals, these final weeks of Minnesota's walleye season can account for as much as $500,000 in local revenues.

Will these fishermen return to the area for a two-fish limit? Surveys have suggested that most fishermen who have fished the Rainy during past Springs will continue to do so in the future in spite of the lower limits. In fact, one such poll suggested that as many as 95 percent didn't see the changes as an obstacle to their late season plans! Now, is that the good news or the bad news?

I'd like to believe that the average fisherman is that accepting of catch and release. Such an attitude suggests that the numbers of bodies drawn to the river this week will rival the hordes from last year and that spells a certain degree of economic security for the community.

However, the same casual response to a 67 percent reduction in fish take can also suggest that no one is going to pay any attention to the new limit anyway, and the economy will continue to thrive while the fish population will continue to be stressed.

The three Tainers, for instance, busted last Spring with 108 walleyes over their limit, didn't see any problems with a six-fish limit. A similar level of disregard this year will allow them to take home something like 42 walleyes and still feel like they've contributed to the health of the Rainy's fishery.

As one local put it, the two-fish limit will spur gas sales like we've never seen before as each fisherman will have to return to shore six or eight times a day now instead of just two or three to squirrel-away his overtake.

Or, perhaps they just won't come. It is possible, you know, that all those fishermen who said they'd return despite the new restrictions were not being truthful. Perhaps, six months removed from the decision-making process and now faced with an eight-hour drive to a half-frozen river for the prospect of keeping two walleyes, these numbers of anglers will wonder if the personal and financial investment is really worth it. Perhaps they'll go crappie fishing instead.

In a perfect world we'll see possibility number one played out: Similar numbers of humanity return and they smile contentedly as they throw back eye-popping numbers of big walleyes. But it is, as my principal had suggested, a "watershed moment."

The fishing community as a whole gets an opportunity to prove publicly that catch and release is a reality and that they can treat a thriving resource with a respect and concern before the levels of stress force it into submission. And that such an effort can be a financial success. In short, we've reached a "watershed moment," one that allows us to put our money where our mouths are.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Anderson nets 12 points

Keith Anderson of Thief River Falls finished his sophomore season with the St. Cloud State University men's hockey team with 12 points this winter.

Anderson was the Huskies' Rookie of the Year and the top-scoring SCSU freshman a year ago.

St. Cloud finished eighth in the 1998-99 regular season WCHA standings at 8-16-4. The Huskies, who were 16-18-5 overall, swept Wisconsin in the first round of the post-season playoffs to reach the WCHA Final Five before losing to Minnesota 5-3.

Track teams make 1999 debut...

TRF spring sports season under way

Nicole Kopari picked up right where she left off last year – in the winner's circle – as Thief River Falls opened its 1999 high school track season Tuesday by participating in the Moorhead Athletic Association Indoor at the Olson Field House on the Concordia College campus.

A double-event winner in the shot put and discus as a junior at the 1998 Minnesota Class AA girls state meet, Kopari started her senior season with a first place throw of 41-7 in the shot. Her state title-winning throw last June was 46-2 1/2. Kopari annouced earlier she would continue her track career at the University of Minnesota next year.

"Nicole started out well," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "That's an excellent throw for this time of the year. We've only been at it for two weeks. And it's been a hectic two weeks, so that was a very good throw to start the season."

Thief River Falls girls got a pair of first place performances from freshman Chelsea Haviland, who cleared 8-6 in the pole vault and ran a 5:35.28 in the 1600 meter run.

The host Spuds came up with a sweep in the four-team event. Moorhead boys finished with 192 points, followed by Detroit Lakes with 125, Fergus Falls 105, and Thief River Falls 64. Moorhead girls collected 255 points, followed by Fergus Falls with 79, Thief River Falls 62, and Detroit Lakes 51.

"We've got a lot of work to do," acknowledged Olson, who said the the difference in the snow cover between Thief River Falls and Fergus Falls had a lot to do with the Otters' point spread over the Prowlers. That Moorhead was ahead of the field was no surprise. But Thief River Falls would normally match-up well at this point of the season with the likes of Fergus Falls.

"They (Otters) have been on their track for a week already," pointed out Olson. "We're usually pretty even with them. But we're behind right now because we've still got snow and they don't."

In addition to Kopari, the Thief River Falls girls should get a steady supply of points this spring from Haviland, freshman Jackie Mooney and junior Rachel Mathison, according to Olson. Mathison is expected to be the team's top runner in the 200 and 400 once she is fully recovered from health problems that forced her to miss much of the basketball season and after completing her commitments as a member of the Thief River Falls spring musical.

Kopari, Mathison, Haviland, and Mooney are returning letter winners, along with seniors Jill Panek, Diana Hofstad and Jessica Nelson; juniors Lisa McKercher, Kara Skiple and Ann Newton; sophomore Alexia Klockman; freshman Brenda Kopari, and eighth grader Stacia Kalinoski.

"Obviously, we start with Nicole," said Olson, "and we've got some other kids that should do well, too."

Thief River Falls boys show strength and depth in the distance events with juniors Zach Olson, Zach Bosh and Seth Harlow, along with sophomore Chad Boreman. All four are returning lettermen.

"We've been working with those kids for a number of years, and now we're looking for them to take a step forward," said Olson. "They should do well."

Senior Kelly Cota will be a point-producer in the high jump. Senior Aaron Sorvig is the lone proven sprinter on hand until sophomores Brian Loe and Nathan Sorvig work their way into the line-up. Loe has been involved in the school musical, and Sorvig is slowed by a knee injury suffered during the basketball season. Those four are also letter winners, along with senior Matt Kochmstedt; juniors Brad Bulger and Brent Nelson; plus sophomores Mike Langland, John Sylvester and Ben Owen.

"We've got some good people in spots, but we've got a lot of kids to work in yet," mentioned Olson.

Health, fitness seminar to be presented today at Lincoln High School

A seminar is scheduled today (Saturday) from 10 a.m. to 12-noon at the Lincoln High School gymnasium in Thief River Falls covering the topics of health and fitness. The seminar will include, but is not limited to, fitness training (weight training, cardiovascular, flexibility), nutrition (diet and dietary supplements), goal oriented training (for weight loss/gain, sports etc.) and lifestyle management.

Format for the event will be a short presentation followed by question and answer sessions with demonstrations when necessary. The program will be headed by Rick and SuLin Landgraff of Trainers, Inc. Personal Fitness. Rick has eight years of experience in personal fitness training and nutrition consulting. He has also been a competitive body builder for five years. SuLin has five years experience in personal fitness training, nutrition consulting and aerobic instruction.

Tim Meier, a North Dakota State University graduate student with three years of competitive body building and personal training experience, will also be a presenter.

Cost of the seminar is $3. A sales booth will be set up for participants to purchase supplements and/or Trainers, Inc. merchandise.

The event is a production of Lincoln High School graduate Jim Olson.

CRP limit extension to be discussed by committee

To allow more input from the public and avoid a scheduling conflict, a meeting at which the acreage limitation for the federal Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) will be discussed has been rescheduled for Wednesday, March 31, by the Pennington Farm Service Agency county committee.

The meeting will be held in the conference room at the USDA building at 201 Sherwood Avenue South in Thief River Falls.

The committee had planned to hold its meeting on Thursday, March 25, according to Glenn Schafer, county FSA executive director, but postponed it because of the scheduling and CRP survey response reasons. The 25 percent of cropland CRP limitation will be discussed at 10 a.m. with anyone interested invited to attend.

"Pennington county experienced tremendous interest in the CRP during the 18th sign-up period in the fall of 1998," Schafer said. "Consequently, the basically acceptable acres offered for enrollment exceeded the regulatory limitation of 25 percent of the county's cropland.

"If all of the acres eligible would be accepted, with no acreage limitation, there would be approximately 39 percent of the county's cropland enrolled the the Conservation Reserve Program as of October 1, 1999," he added.

"The issue at hand is whether or not to request a waiver of the acreage limitation from the state and national FSA offices, and increase the acres eligible to be enrolled in CRP in Pennington county."

Schafer said that public input survey forms will remain available at the FSA office until March 30.

Schafer also provided information on two other programs being handled by FSA on a current basis.

The Crop Loss Disaster Assistance Program (CLDAP) sign-up is on and will continue through April 9. CLDAP provides payment to farmers who have experienced 1998 crop losses greater than 35 percent and farmers who have received crop insurance payments in at least three of the last five years (1994-1998).

For the 1998 loss program, nearly all crop losses are covered, regardless of whether crops were insured and received a crop insurance payment, insured but did not receive a payment, uninsured or noninsurable. All producers who experienced poor production or quality in their 1998 crops should contact the FSA office immediately to make an appointment.

The multiple year loss program is based on 25 percent of the total crop insurance payments a producer received from 1994 through 1998. To qualify, a producer must have received payments in at least three of those years. Farmers who believe they may be eligible are invited to contact the FSA office.

The last day to request a commodity loan and/or a Loan Deficiency Payment (LDP) loan from FSA is March 31, 1999 for 1998 small grains. This includes wheat, barley, oats and canola, the county executive director said.

Producers who have not yet taken an LDP on their grain may want to consider a nine-month, low interest commodity loan before the deadline. Loans taken now may be repaid at less than principal plus interest if the variable posted county price drops below the established loan rate. This basically amounts to receiving an LDP at the end of the loan.

Deadline for 1998 coarse grains is May 31, 1999. Contact the county office for details.

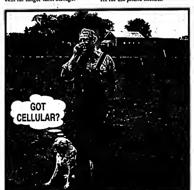
Warm spring weather means stored grain needs to be dry

Spring and warm weather may not be good news for farmers who have shelled corn or soybeans in bins. The crops can spoil if they contain too much moisture, according to Bill Wilcke, engineer with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"Crop storability is a function of both temperature and moisture," Wilcke says. "The colder the storage temperature, the higher the moisture content can be before molds and insects cause quality loss. During winter, if stored crops are cooled to less than 30 degrees F, they can be stored at fairly high moisture levels with minimal risk of spoilage.

"But during spring and summer we can't keep them that cool. Therefore, we need to reduce moisture content to avoid spoilage."

Wilcke says corn should be dried to 14-15 percent moisture for storage into spring, 14 percent for storage into summer and 13 percent for longer-term storage. Soybeans should be 12-13 percent moisture for storage into spring, 12 percent for storage into summer and 11 percent for longer-term storage.



If crops are wetter than the recommended levels, and the storage bin has only a duct-type aeration and a small fan, Wilcke said the crops will probably spoil. He defines a small fan as one that delivers less than 0.5 cubic feet of air per minute per bushel of grain in the bin (cfm/bu).

Crops likely to spoil should be sold fed, or moved out of the bin and dried to a safe moisture level before the weather gets too warm.

Reservations asked for Pennington Co. SWCD banquet

Reservations are requested by April 1 for the annual banquet of the Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District to be held Thursday, April 8, at 6:30 p.m. in Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls.

Tickets to the banquet are $8 each and reservations can be made by calling 683-7075. A previous article erroneously listed a 681 prefix for the phone number.

University of Minnesota announces Finpack 99

According to Howard Person, Pennington county extension educator, the University of Minnesota has announced a new software program called Finpack 99.

"Finpack 99 is designed to run under Windows, 95, 98 or Windows NT4.x," states Bob Craven, center director and extension economist. "We think we've maintained the best of previous versions while making improvements that will benefit old and new users alike.

"We've added input and output guides to help users move around the program faster. They can preview the output to quickly check their work on the run. We have improved loan and conventional calculators. Finally, we have what we think is an impressive Windows interface."

According to Person, the new release comes at an apportune time.

"The capital intensive nature of farming makes a tool like Finpack a valuable part of any farmer's or ag professional's software arsenal, even in the best of times," says Kent Olson, University of Minnesota economist. "But coming off a year like 1998 with low commodity prices, and looking forward to little or no improvement in 1999, the use of a good planning and analysis tool like Finpack is even more important."

Finpack was originally introduced as a software system in 1972 and farmers made use of the program through extension educators, lenders and farm management instructors. In 1993 the program became available to farmers and ranchers. This "personal version" has added one more level of use for the popular software.

"Finpack 99 is simply the next generation of this nationally and internationally used program," Craven adds.

"We've always maintained that one of Finpack's greatest strengths was the improved give and take it creates between lenders and the producers they work with," he added.

"It helps when a farmer walks into the bank with a balance sheet that shows his or her business structure and borrowing capacity. Add to that a well thought out cash flow plan and the comfort level, even in tough times, is certain to improve."

For more information, write to the Center for Farm Financial Management, Dept. of Applied Economics, 249 Classroom Office Bldg., 1994 Buford Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55108 or call (800) 234-1111 or (612) 625-1964. E-mail to cffm@cffm.agecon.umn.edu or visit the www.cffm.umn.edu. website.

Multi-Events Center building, Phase I, near completion

Rohl, John and Rose Schmitz, Dr. John and Lorraine Seaverson, Ralph and Senma Skay, Chad Stark, Lowell and Marge Swenson, Chris and Darla Twomey, Terry Wiseth, Larry and Ruth McDowell, and Bryce and Ruth Bray.

The board also discussed how best to recognize the contributions made by organizations and individuals.

Financial Statement

At the last meeting of the MEC joint powers board, it was announced that the amount pledged to date for completion of Phase I amounts to $466,000. The amount collected amounts to $313,950. An additional $143,891 is needed to complete Phase I.

Dave Carlson, Thief River Falls' city council representative on the joint powers board, announced that the city had approved application for grant funds to complete the softball/baseball complex. Carlson requested and received the joint powers board's commitment in writing to a pledge of $66,000 for fencing.

At the last meeting of the joint powers board, members requested an overall financial statement of the project when it was announced that the $1 million In-kind match required by the state grant had been exceeded. In fact the in-kind match was determined to be $1,510,000.

Wednesday, the overall financial statement was presented to the board. It shows that in-kind work amounts to $1,510,000; $2,193,310 in total contracts issued by the State of Minnesota: $20,540 for the arts budget; $297,742 for construction management services; $172,000 set aside for construction cost pass through; $382 for Minnesota State Administration of building construction; $14,882 for Midwest Testing (pre-design testing); $4,752 for the Wiseth, Smith and Nolting survey; $255,900 for the design by THA Architects (includes pre-design for the entire project); and $14,489 for THA reimbursable. The total state commitments to date is $2,993,997.

The joint powers board has issued the following for contracts: $58,470 for grass seed, $102,090 for concrete; $23,818 for stadium fencing; $81,509 for bleachers; and $42,249 for a press box. The total contracts issued by the joint powers board amounts to $308,136.

The project total was determined as $4,818,136, but with the anticipated work of $433,300 of the softball/baseball fields, the anticipated project total is $5,251,436.

The In-kind total of $1,510,000 was broken down as well. To date, the city has contributed in-kind services valued at $452,115.44. The county has contributed in-kind services valued at $296,719.97. The school district donated land valued at $92,500. The fund-raising total of $308,136 was added to the total along with another $360,000 of donations and in-kind work, bringing the total to $1,510,000.

Operations/Management

The board reviewed and approved recommended changes to a operations and management agreement for the Multi-Events Center. The agreement spells out who is responsible for what, and who will schedule events at the facility.

Hoglo and Muzzy accepted to attend Moorhead State

Jacki Hoglo and Kelli Muzzy, seniors at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, have been accepted for enrollment at Moorhead State University in the fall of 1999.

Jacki is the daughter of Gary and Marilyn Hoglo and intends to major in psychology and elementary education. Kelli is the daughter of Steven and Shoun Muzzy and intends to major in liberal arts.

24th annual skating show

During the second half of the show, solos will be skated by Becky Wegner, Stephanie Wiseth and Leah Kenner with an opening number by the high school members of the skating group. Thief River Falls Mayor Mark Borsheim will join a quartet of young boy skaters for a Vikings number.

"The skating committee members and the participants in the show have been working hard to prepare for this annual event which is the highlight of their skating season," director Ilo Anderson said. "They would appreciate a good attendance and show of support from people throughout the area."

Tickets will be available at the door.

The information they provided media Wednesday morning was to inform the public that they are aware of concerns and are taking appropriate steps to address potential problems. They also asked that residents help by keeping them informed about ice break-ups and other problems by calling the law enforcement center.

A training session for members of the new Chaplain Liaison Program in Thief River Falls was held Thursday at the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center. The chaplains will provide comfort, help, counseling, ministry, and spiritual guidance to the citizens of Pennington county and to department personnel and their families, if they desire.

Local ministers participating in the Law Enforcement Chaplaincy Program in Thief River Falls met Thursday to participate in a training program. In the near future, chaplains will be riding with officers of the Minnesota State Patrol, Thief River Falls Police department, and Pennington County Sheriff's department, providing comfort, help, counseling, ministry, and spiritual guidance to the citizens of Pennington county and to department personnel and their families, if they desire. They will assist officers in a variety of situations, to include, but not limited to: death notification, homicide/suicide cases, fatal or serious injury accidents, critical incidents, comfort to victims and families, line of duty injury or death, and personal issues of department personnel, if requested. Pictured above are the individuals who participated in the training program Thursday: (front row, from left) Galen and Mercie Sylvester of Redeemer and Black River Lutheran churches, Terry L. Olson of Our Saviour's and Rainer Free Lutheran churches, George Davis of Faith Lutheran Brethren and Silverton Lutheran churches, and Minnesota State Patrol Lt. Marvin Field; (back row) Pennington County Sheriff Mike Hruby, Bill Kerr of United Methodist Church, George L. Bunnell Jr. of New Life Assembly of God Church, John Wollenzien of Trinity Lutheran Church, and Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschhaiser.

Qualifying for advancement to national competition at the Minnesota DECA contests recently in Duluth were four students from Northland Community and Technical College. Pictured from left are David Halsa, Thief River Falls; 10th place in Food Marketing/ Management; Instructor Ginger Kaufman; Julia Jacobs, Bedford, first place in Travel and Tourism Marketing/Management and second place in Hospitality Marketing/Management; Cassandra Knutson, Oklee, 13th place in Apparel and Accessories Management; and Jonathon Sundberg, Grygla, sixth place in Marketing Management.

Four Northland students qualify for DECA meet

Four Delta Epsilon Chi students from Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls qualified for national Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) competition at the state competition conducted recently in Duluth.

At the state level Northland students competed against more than 400 students from Minnesota two-year colleges. National competition takes place in May in Orlando, FL.

Qualifying for advancement were Julie Jacobs, Bedford, first place in Travel and Tourism Marketing/Management and second place in Hospitality Marketing/Management; Jonathon Sundberg, Grygla, sixth place in Marketing Management; David Halsa, Thief River Falls, 10th place in Food Marketing/Management; and Cassandra Knutson, 13th place in Apparel and Accessories Marketing.

Julie Jacobs is the daughter of Jim and Sharon Klein of Bedford and a first semester student in the marketing program. She is vice president of the Delta Epsilon Chi chapter at Northland.

Jonathon Sundberg is the son of Steven and Susan Sundberg of Grygla and a first-year student in the marketing program. He is president of the Delta Epsilon Chi chapter.

David Halsa is the son of John Halso and Vickie Halso of Thief River Falls and a third semester student in marketing.

Cassandra Knutson is the daughter of Don and Toni Knutson of Oklee and a first semester student in the marketing program.

Advisor for Delta Epsilon Chi is Northland marketing instructor Ginger Kaufman.

At the state competition, a comprehensive written exam was given to all students attending the competition and two Northland students placed in that phase of the competition: Sundberg in Marketing Management and Jacobs in Travel and Tourism Marketing/Management and Hospitality Marketing. They were also both finalists in their series events.

Delta Epsilon Chi is the junior collegiate division of the Distributive Education Clubs of America. It focuses on developing greater understanding and appreciation of marketing, merchandising and distribution as it increases civic consciousness and builds social intelligence and leadership abilities.

On Thursday, March 18, Marshall County Central National Honor Society held its annual banquet to induct new members. New members inducted into the honor society included Chris Moose, Andy Bjorgaard, Barry Pederson, Christa Hagan, Mandi Blawat, Kristan Muzzy, and ShawnDaa Price. Other members of the society include Andy Filer, Jessica Anderson, Danielle Rockstad, Jacob Elseth and Holly Augustina. Pictured above are those who attended the banquet: (from left, back row) Andy Filer, Chris Moose, Jacob Elseth, Barry Pederson and Andy Bjorgaard; (front row) Jessica Anderson, Holly Augustina, Christa Hagan, Mandi Blawat, Kristan Muzzy, and ShawnDaa Price. INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Gary Laidley's sixth grade social studies classes at Franklin middle school participated in a community service project to assist the Thief River Falls Friendship Club. The club holds a monthly party for handicapped adults. This month the theme is Easter, so the 44 class members each made an Easter basket. The baskets were filled with candy and 30 were donated to the Friendship Club. The remaining baskets are being sold at a silent auction at Franklin with the proceeds to go to the club. Class members are pictured in the two photos above. Left to right in the top photo are: Front row, Amanda Franks, Ali Kalsnes, Jillian Larson, Tate Sorvig and Kurt Steiboerger; second row, Laura Newton, Samantha Rader, Heidi Steele, Harline Carpenter, Nicole Larson, Jenny Grove, Justin Voecks and educational assistant Kathy Barry; back row, Gayle Pearson, Friendship club; Gary Laidley, teacher; Dean Haugen, Corey Berg, Josh Anderson, Josh Knott, Nathan Larol, and Patty Pederson and Kathy Paterson, Friendship club. Left to right in the Bottom Photo are, front row, Denny Kezar, Katie Strand, Leah Trontvet, Laura Paulson, Alison Rominski and Paul Piche; second row, Megan Bruno, Sara Kelinoski, Maggie Paterson, Kristi Joppru, Nick Norland, Harry Rybacki, Kyla Johnson, Wyatt Reed, Jared Baron and Casey Laech; back row, Mrs. Foliett, teacher; Kathy Peterson and Patty Pederson, Friendship club; Allison Dellmann, Tracy Dellmann, Chance Chambers, Michael Lunde, Kyle Dobias, Gene Jorgenson, Danialle Martin, Gayle Pearson, Friendship club, and Mr. Laidley, teacher.

Seven from Pennington advance in 4-H contest

Seven Pennington county 4-H club members advanced to cluster competition at the 4-H communications contest conducted Monday, March 15, in the courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls.

Ten participants competed in three categories and age groups at the county level, according to Van Swanson, county extension educator.

Cluster competition will be conducted Thursday, April 8, in Newfolden with the following entries from Pennington county:

Pascale Hesse of Smiley and Benjamin Carlson of Happy Acres, Public Speaking; Richard Holand of Smiley, Katie Hruby of Kratka and Teresa Friend of Happy Acres, Interpretive Reading; and Tiffany Hanson of Highlanding and Benjamin Carlson of Happy Acres, Creative Writing.

Winners in the Intermediate and Senior divisions at the cluster competition in April are eligible to enter state competition in June. Jewish Community Relations Council of Minnesota and Dakotas works with Minnesota 4-H Youth Development to sponsor the event. Six winners at the state level will earn a trip to Israel.

County participants in the various divisions included the following:

Public Speaking

Cloverbuds (Grades K-3)—Pascale Hesse, Smiley, first and Andrew Cardinal, Cloverbud, second;

Beginners (Grades 4-6)—Benjamin Carlson, Happy Acres, first;

Interpretive Reading

Cloverbuds—Richard Holand, Smiley, first and Sabine Frederick, Highlanding, second;

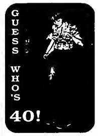
Intermediate (Grades 7-9)—Katie Hruby, Kratka, first; Rebekah Solem, Steiner, second; and Cathy Erickson, Happy Acres, third;

Senior (Grades 10-12)—Teresa Friend, Happy Acres, first;

Creative Writing

Cloverbuds—Tiffany Hanson, Highlanding, first and Sabine Frederick, Highlanding, second;

Beginners—Benjamin Carlson, Happy Acres, first.



Living Stations of the Cross at St. Bernard's

Living Stations of the Cross will be presented by youth of St. Bernard's Catholic church on Palm Sunday evening, March 28, at 7:30 p.m. The dramatic presentation is open to the public.

According to directors Valerie Larson and Nancy Hannan, the production will be about an hour in length and refreshments will be served in the church hall following the presentation.

Area counties to request CRP extension past 25%

Marshall, Roseau and Pennington county Farm Service Agency (FSA) committees will be requesting extension of the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) from the federal maximum of 25 percent of the cropland in each county to higher percentages, according to information gathered by the Northern Watch Friday morning.

Requests will be made to the Minnesota Farm Service Agency committee which is scheduled to meet Tuesday, April 6, in St. Paul.

All three counties had qualifying offers during the 18th CRP sign-up last fall which would have extended CRP acreage in each county to well over the 25 percent limit. They were the only three counties in the state to have offers in excess of the 25 percent limit.

The total qualifying acreage under the point system devised by the U.S. Department of Agriculture is 33.13 percent of Marshall county cropland, 31.3 percent of Roseau county cropland and 38.9 percent of Pennington county cropland.

Half A Million Acres Offered

Qualifying offers are those which have an Environmental Benefit Index (EBI) of 245 or higher—the number used by USDA in acceptance of offers for the 18th sign-up period. Had all of the qualifying acreage offered been accepted into the program, the total cropland enrolled in CRP for the 2000 crop year in the three counties would have been 548,876 acres.

The CRP acreage total above includes 117,778 acres in Pennington county, 259,310 acres in Marshall county and 171,788 acres in Roseau county.

As of Thursday noon, April 1, the three counties had decided to limit their requests for extension to 30 percent of the cropland in each county, having been told that the 30 percent figure would be the highest that the national office would accept.

In the absence of any written statement to that effect, however, and after consulting with the state office, the decision was made by Roseau and Marshall county committees to request acceptance of all the qualifying offers. Pennington county will restrict its request to an extension to 30 percent, which would place a total of 90,800.7 acres in Pennington under CRP contract on Oct. 1, 1999 and leave 26,978 qualifying acres offered without a contract.

Marshall county committee members were polled by phone Thursday afternoon by county executive director Jodell Poolman and agreed to request that all eligible offers be accepted.

Barb Roseen, Roseau county FSA executive director, polled her committee members Thursday evening and they agreed to follow through with their original decision to request approval for all of the qualifying offers. The difference between 30 percent and the total offers of 31.3 percent is about 7,000 acres in Roseau county.

Pennington county's intention as of Friday morning was to limit its request for extension to 30 percent, according to county executive director Glenn Schafer.

Contracts approved from the 18th sign-up will go into effect Oct. 1, 1999, with the first payments to be made in October of 2000. They will run at least through September of 2009, with some contracts having practices (such as tree planting) that extend the contracts to 15 years.

Since the 1999 crop year is not affected by the 18th sign-up contracts, landowners whose lands are not under existing CRP contracts may rent out the land, produce a crop, cut hay or otherwise utilize the acreage this crop year.

Polk county sheriff seizes starving cattle

Lengby - Responding to repeated reports that cattle were being starved, the Polk county sheriff confiscated a herd of animals on March 10 from a rural Lengby farm.

According to Sheriff Doug Qualley, the county had responded to earlier complaints and had reached a "tentative agreement" with the owner, Marlane Langemo, on how the animals would be cared for. When the agreement was not kept, the animals were seized.

Qualley speculated that the reason for the lack of feed was due to financial restraints of the owner which might be a direct result of the failing farm economy.

The sheriff also expressed concern at the cost of housing and feed for the animals and is hoping the state humane society will help with the expenses. The Thirteen Towns

Bob Johnson is Teacher of the Year

Karlstad - Bob Johnson, art teacher at Tri-County School, has been selected by his peers as Teacher of the Year.

He's been at Tri-County since 1986. Up until two years ago he taught grades 6-12, but because of increasing enrollment in his classes, Johnson now teaches grades 7-12.

About 26 of the 32 seniors at Tri-County are enrolled in art with Bob fitting them in whenever they can attend the class. Their art work will be showcased at Education Celebration on May 20.

Johnson and his wife, Christel, have two sons, Andrew, 6, and Dylan, 2, and make their home in Thief River Falls. North Star News

Stephen/Argyle student selected for honors band

Stephen - Phil Jensen, a junior at Stephen/Argyle Central, has been selected for membership in the John Philip Sousa National Honors Band. Only two students from each state are selected for the honor.

The band will perform on May 8 at Lisner Auditorium at George Washington Auditorium in Washington, D.C. under the direction of Col. John R. Bourgeois, former director of the United States Marine Band.

Jensen was selected for the band on the basis of his resume and recommendations regarding his accomplishments on the trombone. Phil is the son of Bruce and Renee Jensen of Stephen. The Messenger

Baudette - Lake of the Woods superintendent Ralph Christofferson told school board members recently that the new swimming pool could be in operation by very early summer with the target date for completion the end of May or June 1.

That was good news due to the fact that since its inception in 1996, the project has been troubled with a series of problems, and work on the project was all but shut down twice. Baudette Region

Model railroaders don't seem to lose any steam

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

For decades people of all ages have been captivated by trains, and for model railroad builders the fascination continues.

Model railroading became a popular hobby as the result of the model railroads that were shown at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago in 1933-34. Public interest in the models encouraged manufacturers to produce model railroad kits and parts.

In 1935 hobbyists and manufacturers organized the National Model Railroad Association for the purpose of establishing uniform standards for tracks, wheels and other model railroad equipment.

In 1992 Chuck Kimbrough placed an ad in The Times to see how much local interest existed in model railroading. The response he received encouraged him to open A&E Railroad, a retail store that specializes in model railroads.

After customers expressed interest in forming a club, the Thief River Falls Model Railroad Club was established. Today the club includes 18 members, and while it is generally men who attend the monthly meetings, many of the members' wives and children are involved in the hobby.

Kimbrough says that two or three younger males are currently active in the club with their dads, and his wife, Ann, is involved as she does much of the painting and detailing on their realistic system. Annual family membership dues are $15.

A monthly newsletter is sent to members containing details of the previous month's meeting and a list of upcoming events.

A major event for the club is its annual show. The organization's 7th annual show will be held October 9-10 at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls. Joining the Thief River Falls club will be six to ten other clubs from throughout the area.

Coordinating activities will include a roundhouse tour, a Canadian Pacific engine tour, and Canadian Pacific's "Operation Lifesaver" display. Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village, while closed for the season, will reopen during the show.

When they can find the time and parts, club members are also rebuilding a "speeder," the motor car that section crews once used to check the railroad tracks. The

Farmer-Merchant Mixer Monday

Annual Farmer-Merchant Mixer sponsored by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce agribusiness committee will be held Monday, April 5, beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the Eagle's hall in Thief River Falls.

Dinner menu includes ham, potato salad, beans, pickles, bread and butter, coffee, milk and one free drink ticket.

Admission is free to farmers and no tickets are required. Business and professional people purchase tickets for $9 each to cover costs of conducting the mixer. These tickets may be purchased from agribusiness committee members or by calling the Chamber of Commerce at 681-3720.

Widespread flooding caught many people off-guard. Thursday afternoon, water levels along the Red Lake river and Thief River near Thief River Falls began to reach levels reminiscent of the 1996-1997 flood. Some ice jams were contributing to the problem, but large sections of both rivers were still covered by solid sheets of ice.

City and county battle high water, power outages

Freezing rain brought down tree branches and caused a power outage Thursday night. The event was reminiscent of the power outage two years ago. Fortunately, power was restored within the city about three hours after it went out.

Arlo Rude, superintendent of utilities in Thief River Falls, said that the power outage was on the city's system. He explained that it occurred on city lines north of Long's bridge. The lines, he said, began to gallop and slap together causing the circuit breaker to trip in the substation. Rude said they did some switching and later in the evening the wind decreased and partial power could be replaced to the line. Rude said there wasn't any serious damage.

On the flood fighting front, Rude said the colder temperatures (20-30 degree range) brought the water level down by at least six inches.

On Monday, the local chapter of the Civil Air Patrol flew an airplane over the area to observe flood potential. They noted that much of both rivers were covered by a solid sheet of ice. (Officials have been observing river levels and taking precautions for the past couple of weeks.)

Leonard Zabilansky of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineer's Cold Regions Research and Engineering laboratory in Hanover, New Hampshire, was in Thief River Falls Thursday conducting the last of his examinations of a river ice dusting project conducted in early March. Zabilansky said he has collected a considerable amount of data from the ice dusting project. Preliminarily, there were some areas that seemed to be affected by the ice dusting project and other areas that did not. He did note that the ice had not lost its strength.

Pennington County Sheriff Mike Hruby said Wednesday that

Freezing rain which fell throughout most of Thursday, April 1, left every stationary object exposed to the moisture covered with a heavy coating of ice. Ice-laden branches broke from trees and fell on power lines, joining wind-whipped wires in causing power outages and line damage throughout a wide area. With the extensive power outage of early April in 1997 still etched in many minds, area residents readied generators, water supplies and auxiliary heating units in preparation for another similar event. Area forecasts call for additional rain and snow through the Easter weekend.

Much of the realism of a model railroad system depends on the creative use of scenery. This system can be seen at A&E Railroad, a Thief River Falls store that specializes in model railroads. On April 10-11 the TRF Model Railroad Club will have a display at the Home, Sport and Family Show at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Power outages affect Northwest Minnesota

Area affected by power outages due to ice covered lines Thursday and Friday included the cities of Thief River Falls and Warren, but problems spread much further. Power company representatives remained concerned about weather [illegible] Friday which predicted additional rain and snow. A strong wind could cause more power outages.

Friday morning, Minnkota Power Cooperative reported line damage to 211 miles of line, seven structures per miles, 67 to 70 (unconfirmed by field patrol) aluminum structures damage through 10 miles of line. The line was [illegible] due to icing. Minnkota Power is a generation and transmission coop-

Seven from Pennington advance in 4-H contest

Seven Pennington county 4-H club members advanced to cluster competition at the 4-H communications contest conducted Monday, March 15, in the courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls.

Ten participants competed in three categories and age groups at the county level, according to Van Swanson, county extension educator.

Cluster competition will be conducted Thursday, April 8, in Newfolden with the following entries from Pennington county:

Pascale Hesse of Smiley and Benjamin Carlson of Happy Acres, Public Speaking; Richard Holand of Smiley, Katie Hruby of Kratka and Teresa Friend of Happy Acres, Interpretive Reading; and Tiffany Hanson of Highlanding and Benjamin Carlson of Happy Acres, Creative Writing.

Winners in the Intermediate and Senior divisions at the cluster competition in April are eligible to enter state competition in June. Jewish Community Relations Council of Minnesota and Dakotas works with Minnesota 4-H Youth Development to sponsor the event. Six winners at the state level will earn a trip to Israel.

County participants in the various divisions included the following:

Public Speaking

Cloverbuds (Grades K-3)—Pascale Hesse, Smiley, first and Andrew Cardinal, Cloverbud, second.

Beginners (Grades 4-6)—Benjamin Carlson, Happy Acres, first;

Interpretive Reading

Cloverbuds—Richard Holand, Smiley, first and Sabine Frederick, Highlanding, second.

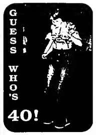
Intermediate (Grades 7-9)—Katie Hruby, Kratka, first; Rebekah Solem, Steiner, second; and Cathy Erickson, Happy Acres, third;

Senior (Grades 10-12)—Teresa Friend, Happy Acres, first;

Creative Writing

Cloverbuds—Tiffany Hanson, Highlanding, first and Sabine Frederick, Highlanding, second.

Beginners—Benjamin Carlson, Happy Acres, first.



Living Stations of the Cross at St. Bernard's

Living Stations of the Cross will be presented by youth of St. Bernard's Catholic church on Palm Sunday evening, March 28, at 7:30 p.m. The dramatic presentation is open to the public.

According to directors Valerie Larson and Nancy Hanson, the production will be about an hour in length and refreshments will be served in the church hall following the presentation.

Lorenson named GMR Teacher of the Year

Greenbush - Ardys "Ardy" Lorenson has been named Greenbush/Middle River Teacher of the Year.

Her teaching career began as a first grade teacher at Greenbush School, but since Greenbush and Middle River merged in 1992-93 Lorenson has traveled between buildings in the two communities teaching all of the kindergarten classes.

Lorenson enjoys watching the students in the junior high and senior high levels succeed in many different ways, seeing the benefits of the all the skills she taught them earlier.

Ardy and her husband, Roger, make their home in rural Greenbush, with their third grade son Dustin. The Tribune

Tomorrow is Easter Sunday. Yeast breads remind us of Jesus rising from the dead, so we'll have some yeast bread recipes for you. Some are very old from one of my mother's cookbooks, others are newer. Choose one or two for your holiday.

This old Easter recipe makes 18-20 good-sized buns for Easter dinner - and they'll taste so much better than those from the store:

HOT CROSS BUNS

1 cake (or package) yeast
1/3 cup sugar
2/3 cup warm milk
3 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup melted shortening
3 eggs (2 eggs and 1 yolk may be used, saving 1 white for frosting)
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2/3 cup raisins (and/or currents and/or candied mixed fruit)

Dissolve yeast and sugar in warm milk. Add 1 cup flour and beat until smooth.

Add shortening, beaten eggs and remaining dry ingredients. Beat well, then stir in raisins. Let rise in warm place (80-85 degrees) until double in bulk.

Punch down and roll 1/2 inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut with floured cutter and place 2 inches apart on greased cookie sheet. Let rise until double in bulk, about 1 1/2 hours).

Snip tops in form of cross. Bake 15-20 minutes at 350 degrees.

Icing

1 egg white (or use 2-3 tablespoons whole milk instead of egg white)
3/4 to 1 cup sifted powdered sugar

Beat egg white and powdered sugar and ice hot buns in form of cross.

Make your own crescent rolls this year - nothing like those in a can:

WHOLE WHEAT BUTTERHORNS

2 3/4 cups flour, divided
2 packages active dry yeast
1 3/4 cups water
1/3 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 cup butter, divided
2 tablespoons honey
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups whole wheat flour

In large bowl, combine 1 1/2 cups white flour and yeast.

Heat water, brown sugar, 3 tablespoons butter, honey and salt to 120-130 degrees. Add to flour mixture.

Beat on low speed for 30 seconds. Increase speed to high and continue beating for 3 minutes.

Stir in whole wheat flour and enough remaining white flour to form a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic, about 6-8 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning once to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place (I use my oven with the little light turned on - it's perfect as long as I don't try to preheat it while my bread is in it) until doubled, about 1 1/2 hours.

Punch dough down and divide into thirds. Shape each into a ball and let rest 10 minutes.

On lightly floured surface, roll balls into 3 12 inch circles. Cut each circle into 6 to 8 wedges. Roll wedges into crescent shapes, starting at wide end. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1 hour.)

Melt remaining butter and brush some on each roll. Bake at 400 degrees for 10-15 minutes or until golden. Brush again with butter while hot.

Recipe makes 1 1/2 to 2 dozen large rolls.

Here's the basic dough for rolls. Just make into balls and let rise, or do something more fancy with your dough - they'll be delicious no matter what you do:

PLAIN ROLL DOUGH

1 cup milk, scalded
2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cake fresh or 1 package yeast
1/4 cup lukewarm water
1 beaten egg
3 1/2 cups flour

Combine milk, shortening, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm.

Add yeast softened in lukewarm water. Add egg.

Gradually stir in flour to form soft dough. Beat vigorously, cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 2 hours.

Turn out on lightly floured surface and make regular rolls or the following variations. Let rise until doubled. Bake at 400 degrees for about 15 minutes. Makes 2 dozen rolls.

Cloverleaf Rolls

Cut off small chunks of plain roll dough or cut rounds with cookie cutter to make exactly the same size.

Shape each chunk into a ball and dip in melted butter. Using greased muffin tins, place 3 balls in each tin. Cover and let rise until doubled. Bake at 400 degrees for about 15 minutes.

Butter Flake Rolls

Roll plain roll dough 1/4 inch thick. Brush with melted butter and cut into 2-inch strips. Stack strips 4 or 5 high, then cut off 2 inch pieces and place, cut side down, in greased muffin pans. Cover and let rise until doubled.

Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. May sprinkle with cinnamon for a special sweet roll treat.

Parker House Rolls

Roll or pat plain roll dough on lightly floured surface 1/2 inch thick. Cut with 2 and 1/2 inch biscuit cutter. Brush with melted butter and crease each round through center with dull edge of knife and fold over.

Place on greased, shallow pan or cookie sheet. Brush lightly with melted butter and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake at 400 degrees about 15 minutes.

And this bread would not only taste good with Easter dinner, but it would make great sandwiches with that left-over ham:

HERBED PEASANT BREAD

1/2 cup finely-chopped onion
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons warm milk (120-130 degrees)
1 tablespoon sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon dill weed
1/2 teaspoon basil
1/2 teaspoon rosemary, crushed
1 package active dry yeast
3 to 3 1/2 cups flour
Melted butter

In skillet over low heat sauté onion in butter until tender, about 8 minutes. Cool 10 minutes. Place in mixing bowl. Add milk, sugar, salt, herbs, yeast and 3 cups flour and beat smooth.

Add enough remaining flour to form a soft dough. Turn onto floured board and knead smooth and elastic, 6-8 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning once to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 45 minutes.

Punch dough down. Shape into a ball and place on greased baking sheet. Cover and let rise until doubled, about 45 minutes.

Bake at 375 degrees for 25-30 minutes. Remove to rack and brush with melted butter.

Wild game feed, gun show slated for Newfolden

Agassiz Rod and Gun Club at Newfolden will host its annual wild game feed and gun show Saturday and Sunday, April 10 and 11, at Marshall County Central high school in Newfolden.

The wild game feed will be served from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday, April 10, at the school. Gun show hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. For further information call 874-4763 evenings.

MN Sr. Federation to meet April 8

Minnesota Senior Federation, Northwest Region, will hold its General Assembly (Convention) April 8 at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls.

Registration and coffee begins at 9:30 a.m. The call to order will take place at 10 a.m. The noon lunch will include music by Helen Munger on her keyboard. The second session will be from 1 to 2 p.m. Door prizes will be awarded at that time.

Items on the agenda include: election of officers, reports, resolutions to be voted on, a video on FDA Hearing on Prescription Drugs and an update.

Registration costs $5 which includes the noon meal. Clubs are asked to bring an item for the door prize drawings.

Marshall-Beltrami SWCD to host video demonstration

The Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District has made arrangements for a "Desktop Video Demonstration". The demonstration will take place on Wednesday, April 7, at the Grygla School from 1 to about 2:30 p.m.

Michael Wellcome of Bemidji State University, who has received a grant to assist local communities in building their technology capability, will give the demonstration. This is an opportunity to see the latest technology in promoting economic development for the Grygla area and identify needed resources for the community.

Tourism Industry Wants Twice Governor's Offer

At the state tourism conference a short time ago, Gov. Jesse Ventura expressed his support for the tourism industry by saying he favors a budget increase of $2.5 million annually for the next two years for the advertising and marketing budget of the Minnesota Office of Tourism. Folks in the industry say thanks, but it isn't enough.

"Although this is great news, the governor's request is 50 percent of what we are recommending and will only bring the State of Minnesota back to the level of buying power we had in 1986," states a letter to the industry from the Minnesota Tourism Promotion Coalition.

The coalition, which represents a number of travel and tourism-related organizations in the state, is asking the legislature for an increase of $5 million per year plus a $2 million one-time appropriation from the general fund for "the redesign and enhancement of the office's information delivery systems to improve performance, capacity, functionality and integration."

That's a lot of money to come out of the public coffers. It should be made clear that the $5 million a year requested is that much of an increase over the base appropriation for the Office of Tourism. And it should also be made clear that the intent of the coalition is that the increase should be permanent—not just for the two years of the biennium.

The coalition states that "travel and tourism is one of Minnesota's largest and fastest growing industries with an annual economic impact of $9.1 billion ($25 million per day); producing 170,300 jobs and $3.7 billion in salaries and wages; and annual tax receipts of $1.1 billion."

"The impact of a $5 million annual increase to the Office of Tourism marketing budget will result in $47 million in new tax revenues—$23.5 million more than the Administration's request," the coalition states. It also projects that for every dollar invested in advertising by the MOT, $79 in economic impact and $9.46 in tax receipts is generated for the State of Minnesota.

We don't know how the groups that kick these numbers around the Capitol arrive at them, but we would be surprised if they are accurate and shocked if they weren't skewed. Even if the claims were discounted 50 percent, however, an increased appropriation seems like it could be money well spent. Heck, maybe if we increased the allocation enough, tourism could pay all of our taxes for us.

Consider that last year, for instance, the State of Minnesota's tourism advertising budget was $2 million—a quarter of a million dollars less than the advertising budget of the Valleyfair! amusement park alone. The City of Chicago spent four times as much as the State of Minnesota at $8.3 million. There is precedent around us for spending money to attract travelers.

Ontario provincial government has committed a tourism increase of $30 million a year for the next four years, and what can a person do in Ontario besides fish ? Even the Minnesota State Lottery, which by law cannot advertise outside the state, has an $8 million advertising budget.

We wouldn't mind seeing the MOT get Gov. Ventura's offer of an added $2.5 million a year for the biennium and see what happens. If, as the coalition says, travel and tourism combine for what is already one of Minnesota's fastest growing industries, maybe $10 million in two years to promote it isn't needed. Let's give it a $5 million push and check the momentum in 2001.

Farmer-Merchant Mixer: A Nice Event Continues

Ever since it was started a number of years ago, the idea of a Farmer-Merchant Mixer has appealed to us. It is an expression of appreciation from the business people of Thief River Falls to their customers from farms in the area, of course, but it is more than that.

In the course of doing business it isn't often that a business person or a busy farmer can take the time to visit and get to know each other. Depending on the frequency and type of business, it is entirely possible the owner or manager won't come in direct contact with the customer at all, or infrequently at best.

The mixer is different. It is a time set aside for socializing, for one-on-one visiting where each can learn a little more about the other, including opinions and ideas on things of mutual interest.

We think its good when those attending make it a point to sit down next to or across from someone they previously didn't know, introduce themselves and learn as much about each other as they care to reveal. Just about everyone will be able to find a common interest with someone else, whether it's a farm childhood years ago, last fall's deer hunt, next summer's fishing, kids in school or just a desire to make a profit from your business.

The mixer is free to farmers and all are welcome to attend. Sale of tickets to business and professional people covers the expenses of the event. This year the mixer will be Monday, April 5, at the Eagles hall in Thief River Falls. Farmers: come on in. Business people: if you haven't been contacted and want a ticket, call the Chamber of Commerce office at 681-3723. Even if you just stand for a short time, you can build good will and maybe even make a new friend or two. We'll see you there.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Crop loss disaster program deadline will be next Friday

Producers are reminded that the period for applying for the Crop Loss Disaster Assistance Program (CLDAP) will end Friday, April 9.

The program provides payment to producers for either 1998 single year losses or multi-year losses for the crop years 1994-1998.

Those who have suffered both single-year and multi-year losses are encouraged to file for both programs, although payment will be made on only one. After the applications have been submitted, USDA will calculate which payment is higher and that is what the producer will receive.

For the multi-year program on insured crops, producers must have received an indemnity payment in at least three out of the last five years (1994-1998). Payments will be based on 25 percent of the total crop insurance indemnities paid during those years.

For non-insured crops, producers must have received NAP payments in three out of the last five years or two years NAP and 1994 ad-hoc disaster. Marshall county does not have anyone who qualifies for the multi-year program on non-insured crops. Eligibility for the multi-year program is based solely on the producer's ID number.

Producers who are no longer farming and have suffered a loss in at least three out of the last five years are eligible to apply for the multi-year disaster program. Heirs or estates of eligible producers should contact the local office to see if payment can be made.

Producers with single year crop losses greater than 35 percent for any crop are eligible to apply for disaster assistance. Producers with losses on crops that were not insured will be required to provide verifiable production evidence. This can include assembling sheets, sales receipts, warehouse receipts and measurement service.

Producers who receive a disaster payment and did not insure all insurable crops in 1998 will be required to carry crop insurance or CAT for the next two crop years.

Producers need to call their local FSA office and schedule an appointment as soon as possible. Producers in Marshall county should call 218-745-4251 now, according to Jodell Poolman, county FSA executive director. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

One of the pressing issues facing our Minnesota legislators is the right of a woman to be completely informed before undergoing an abortion. The Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life is backing the Woman's Right to Know bill. This bill requires an abortionist to give information about a medical procedure which affects the patient physically, mentally and emotionally.

It is good medical practice to expect health care providers to offer women all of the facts. Twenty-four hours before the abortion the woman would be given information about the baby's development, the father's responsibility to pay child support and the alternative of adoption.

Please contact your legislators and let them know of your support for this bill: Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, 624 Capitol Building, 75 Constitution Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55155 (phone 1-651-296-8660) and Rep. Tim Finseth, 253 State Office Building, 100 Constitution Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55155 (phone 1-651-296-9918

And Then There Was Maynard

I met Maynard when he was 81 years old. Sporting a thatch of hair as white as the splotch on a walleye's tail, he was a spindly five feet, six inches tall and might have hit 120 pounds in the few minutes immediately after shore lunch. He pretended to be extremely hard of hearing.

Quietly opinionated, a capable fisherman, and immensely likeable, Maynard and his journeys to Lake of the Woods always represented a highlight to my summer. He was here not so much for the fishing, but for the adventure that fishing offered. The days would pass quickly when he was aboard and the tone of the trip took on more of a day-off quality than a guide-for-hire situation. Good fishing or bad, we were always in it together rather than on two ends of the employment spectrum.

He often brought friends with him on these fishing junkets; children, grandchildren, other couples from his Grand Rapids neighborhood. He always brought his wife. If Maynard was in my boat, so was Betty. They had pursued such outings together for more than a half-century and Maynard enjoyed them less without her company.

Maynard craved competition. He actually devised games that ascribed certain point values for each fish caught. A walleye over 15 inches, for example, would count for three points. A smaller walleye, however, was only worth two points. The first fish of the day was an added bonus of two points. Larger fish released because of future egg-laying potential might get a five-point bonus. Perch were a point to the good while rock bass were a one-point negative.

It was a complex system that changed on a day-to-day basis, depending on the fishing, the weather, or who was ahead in the point totals. The updated tabulations would scroll by my head with dizzying speed even on the slower days.

Having fished with Maynard on 22 trips over our 14-year relationship, I can't say that I ever quite understood his math. He kept books for the Greyhound terminal in Grand Rapids, however, and prided himself on his accounting accuracy. To question his system and its results was taboo.

The stakes were high—a quarter a day per head plus the priceless quantity of pride that went with a loss.

Maynard loved to win, but I rarely saw him do so. The casual observer might suggest that age had diminished his fishing skills. Not true. Like a Wayne Gretzky who has slowed a step or two in recent years but still maintains the magic, a 95-year-old Maynard possessed fishing technique that most of us will only dream about. What Maynard might have lost physically, he more than compensated for mentally.

I once made the immature mistake of musing about what Maynard's fishing abilities would have been like in his prime. Several years later I realized that every morning Maynard got out of bed he was in his prime.

No, it took me a while to figure it out, but Maynard frequently lost at his own game because of his view of the bigger picture. There was more at stake in the boat than his own competitive ego. For instance, my competitive ego. Or the self-esteem that victory offered one of his less-talented fishing relatives. Or the excitement that comes from watching a novice beat a veteran. Maynard knew that there was more to get out of this fishing than a meal.

I vividly recall one such day when the combination of good fishing and questionable math had left Maynard and his wife in a late afternoon tie—a real Wide World of Sports moment! "Overtime" was declared. I watched the tip of Maynard's rod closely as his sinker bounced across the gravel bottom.

"You've got a bite, Maynard," I pointed out excitedly a minute or two later.

"What?" he deafly responded as he turned his head and body clumsily away from a certain victory. The fish was gone.

We repeated the episode several minutes later with similar results. A few minutes passed and Betty was crowned victor as she yanked a 16-inch walleye over the gunwale. Quarters and high-fives were exchanged. Maynard grumbled quietly in defeat all the way home, a bona fide sore loser. I realized that it would have been inappropriate to ever ask him why he so quietly shook off the two solid bites I'd seen him get in that last 10 minutes. He loved fishing and he loved winning, but there were obviously things he loved more.

Broken branches were common throughout the area Friday morning after an April Fool's Day rain on Thursday left all outdoor objects covered with ice. Lack of high winds reduced the potential for much more serious damage.

Outages affect MN

erative supplying wholesale electricity to 12 rural electric cooperatives serving a 34,500 square mile area in eastern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota. Minnkota also is operating agent for the Northern Municipal Power Agency, which serves 12 municipal utilities, including Thief River Falls. Together, the Minnkota-associated systems serve nearly 106,000 customers.

Minnkota Power said the line between Jamestown and Valley City (56 miles) will be out of service for at least six to eight weeks. This line is an important link for transmission in North Dakota and for the Coyote Station in Beulah. As a result of the damage, the Coyote Generating Station has been reduced from 400 megawatts to 211 megawatts.

Arlo Rude, superintendent of utilities in Thief River Falls, said that the power outage here on Thursday night was on the city's system. He explained that it occurred on city lines north of Long's bridge. The lines, he said, began to gallop and slap together causing the circuit breaker to trip in the substation. Rude said they did [illegible] evening the wind decreased and partial power could be replaced to the line. Rude said there wasn't any serious damage.

Marshall County Sheriff's department received a 9-1-1 call from a resident of a manufactured home court in Warren Thursday afternoon. A power pole was about to fall. A short time later the electrical power in the city went out. The damage was to a City of Warren line. According to the Marshall County Sheriff's department, the city was without power from about 5 to 8:30 p.m.

About 700 customers of Red Lake Electric were without power for about one and one-half hours Thursday evening. Customers most affected were in the Thief River Falls area, and portions of their service area north and east near Plummer. However, an entire substation went down, which served customers in Middle River, Holt, and Viking. Power has been restored to most of those areas. Ron Kennedy of Red Lake Electric said Friday morning he hoped that power would be restored to the rest of their customers by Friday afternoon.

Most of the damage to the Red Lake Electric area was caused by ice. Due to the ice, there were a few broken poles, and a number of broken wires from falling trees. Wires were also slapping together in the wind causing circuit breakers to close.

Kennedy asks that if customers are still without power to call 218-253-2200. He also warns customers stay away from downed lines.

Chuck Reisen of PKM said about 500 customers in the southern third of their system were without power. That area, more specifically, includes Argyle south to Crookston and west to Oslo and south to East Grand Forks. They are restoring power as quickly as they can but have to remove ice [illegible]. Reisen said he expects power to be intermittent for the next couple of days.

Reisen said there weren't a lot of broken poles like in 1997. Most damage was confined to conductor breaks, and a lot of downed trees.

Reisen asks that if customers observe downed lines to report them to their electric service provider and stay away.

Roseau Electric reported that they had quite a few power outages in the Grygla and Fourtown area starting at about 1 a.m. Friday. As of early Friday morning they still had about 80 consumers without power. Power was expected to be restored, however, by Friday noon.

Most of the power outages in that system were caused by lines slapping together, and downed trees. There weren't any reports of broken poles.

Once again, customers were asked that if they see a downed line to report it to their service provider and stay away.

ROSES YOU DON'T HAVE TO TIP.
Spring SEMINARS:
Everybody loves roses, but growing them in our roses is an exercise in frustration for northern gardeners. To get them through our winters experts suggest that you dig them up and tip them over, a lot of work in our gumbo soil.
Fortunately, there are many new hardy shrub roses from Canada which will last through our winters, no tipping necessary!
The Morden Roses from Manitoba have quickly become a favorite. They are hardy, colorful, and bloom all summer. The Morden Centennial is a dark pink and grows to 5 feet. The Morden Blush is a delicate light pink with tea rose like leaves and blooms. It grows 2-3 feet. The Morden Ruby has a deep wine-colored bloom.
Also from Canada is the Explorer series...
The old favorite Hansa and ... the roses your grandmother grew ...
The Persian Yellow is a variety ... of years old. It grows to be six feet ... June. It won't bloom the first year ...
These and other varieties of hardy roses are available bare root at Bergeson Nursery for $11.50. They can be planted soon after the ground thaws.
Seminars are held at the nursery and will start at 10:00 a.m. Saturday mornings. Coffee and donuts served.

April 24: Trees & Shrubs: A class on choosing the best ones for your yard, and a demonstration of proper planting and care.

Wrestling award goes to Swanson

Freshman Jon Swanson headed the list of award winners announced recently for Thief River Falls' 1998-99 high school wrestling team

Swanson received the outstanding wrestler award from Prowlers head coach Rick Yanke. Others awarded special recognition were Jeremy Lian, most improved; Bob Strutz, most dedicated; Beau Abrahamson, most takedowns (46); and Jeremy Anderson, most pins (12).

Colt Bergeron was named the outstanding wrestler on the junior varsity squad.

Athletic letters went to Strotz, the lone senior on the squad; juniors Josh Jensen and Jesse Lowell; sophomores Mike Hagen, Carson Comstock, Josh Mattison, and Jeremy Lian; freshmen Phillip Hermonson, Abrahamson and Swanson; eighth graders Chris Lian, Ryan Poissant, Gavin Martell, and Anderson; student trainer Dayna Holland; and student managers Stacy Kleinwachter, Jessica Kaml, Kelly Poissant, and Trisha Bergeron.

Yanke watched the young Prowlers finish with a 3-16 dual meet record in his first year as Thief River Falls head coach. The record might not have been much to write home about, admitted Yanke, but there were enough positive things in the season to make him look ahead to the future. "The number of kids in the program was the highest its been in a couple of years," he pointed out. "We lose one season – Bob Strutz, who was a good leader for our young kids. But we do have a lot of kids coming back. We can only get better because we were so young this year. Just being a year older should make them better wrestlers. It may still take a couple of years. We'll still be young next year. But we will be better, and I think the future looks bright."

Just how bright that future will be depends on the wrestlers' off-season work habits, said Yanke. "The kids have to hit the weight room this summer," he explained. "They have to get stronger."

TRF tennis team to open 1999 season with Tuesday meet

A Tuesday double-dual against East Grand Forks and Moorhead at the Grand Forks Tennis Centre will open 1999 boys high school tennis season for Thief River Falls and new head coach Troy Hanestad.

Hanestad takes over a team that was just 1-13 in dual meet competition last spring. But it's a squad that returns a batch of veterans and a group of promising newcomers.

"We should be competitive," said Hanestad. "We've got a good group of seniors with a lot of experience, and we've got a large group of freshmen who should help the program! We've got some openings, and some of those younger kids could step right in."

Hanestad succeeds Sylvin Sjoberg, who stepped down as the Prowlers' head coach following the 1998 season.

Thief River Falls boys high school basketball award winners announced at the Prowlers' 1998-99 banquet were, from left, [illegible] able player; and Brian Loe, most improved player.

Matt Myers named MVP for TRF boys

Senior center Matt Myers was selected the most valuable player Tuesday at the 1998-99 Thief River Falls boys high school basketball banquet.

Special recognition also went to sophomore guard Brian Loe, named the Prowlers' most improved player; and senior defensive specialist Darin Bjerknes, who received Hustler of the Year honors.

Athletic letters were presented to seniors Kelly Cota, Arron Hendricks, Matt Koehmstedt, Matt Myers, Collin Schafer, and Bjerknes; juniors Josh Gallagher and Seth Harlow; along with sophomores Ben Myers, John Sjoberg, Justin Skjerven, Nate Sorvig, and Loe.

The Prowlers began the year 3-10, but won six of their last 10 games to finish 9-14 this winter.

"We got off to a slow start," acknowledged second-year Thief River Falls head coach Bob Johnson. "But we started to play some pretty good basketball toward the end of the year."

The turnaround actually started at mid-season when the Prowlers, 2-8 at the time, posted a 60-49 home court win over a Crookston team [illegible] by 43 points in the season opener, 78-35. Three weeks later the improvement was in full swing as Thief River Falls made up for a earlier 57-43 loss to East Grand Forks with a 67-65 rematch win. Johnson also liked his team's performance in a late-season 61-59 win on the road against a Stephen-Argyle team that was on a roll and would eventually reach the Section 8A tournament.

"The kids started to believe in [illegible] to explain the Prowlers' improved product by year's end. "They started to believe they were going to win when they stepped on the court. They started to develop some confidence. They had a better understanding what was expected of them, and what we were trying to accomplish. I think the coaches also had a better understanding by then what the kids were capable of doing."

A couple of hitches, admitted Johnson, in the Prowlers' stretch run came in losses to Warren-Alvarado-Oslo and Detroit Lakes, when the team had a tough time of it offensively.

The finish started the program heading in the right direction, according to Johnsen, whose 1997-98 team struggled to a 4-19 record. "We had a good group of seniors who took the program another step through their leadership," he explained. "They helped bring our underclassmen along, and gave them something to build on."

The loss of the 6-8 Matt Myers in the middle, along with the play of Cota and Schafer at forward and the work of Bjerknes at guard, will be missed, noted Johnson. But Loe was a regular at guard; both Gallagher and Sorvig had been in the starting line-up before running into injury problems; and forward-center Ben Myers came up with strong late-season performances off the bench.

Statistics, kept by team personnel, were not available for the complete season.

TRF Racing Assoc. plans activities

by Terry Blacklance

Thief River Falls Racing Association an organization promoting motor sports in a positive fashion, got its re-start five years ago in 1994 with approximately 22 members in Thief River Falls. Since that time, the association has seen its membership double with increasing interest daily.

The association attributes the increased interest to the number of projects and activities the group has planned for the future, and is working on today. Some of those projects include the promotion of motor sports, not only in Thief River Falls, but within the region of Northwest Minnesota. With motor sports interest and following gaining large numbers of people of all walks of life around the world, the association wanted to improve the general population's perception of motor sports locally.

The association and its members recently adopted a mission statement, and formed goals and objectives each of its members commit to and try to follow in order to maintain and promote positive motor sports activities. The mission statement and goals were created to also do a number of other things . . including provide uniformity within the racing community, whether it be within the area of the up and coming moto-cross field, and the popular sports of auto and snowmobile racing. The group is trying to create an environment locally that benefits the local members, sponsors and communities, with hopes of becoming a valued organization that is looked at with respect and community pride.

Currently, the organization has a number of activities on the slate. They include a First Annual Swap Meet and Trade Show scheduled for Saturday, April 10, at the Thief River Falls National Guard Armory, plans for a car show that would bring 250 to 300 classic and antique cars to the community during the American Festival in June, and probably the biggest and most interesting project right now is the hope for a multi-purpose race facility in or near the city that would host a number of national motor sports events and weekly events as well. It is the group's hope that it will be able to do its part in maintaining a fun, healthy and prosperous community that welcomes people to our city and region on a regular basis.

You don't have to be a driver or crew member to be a member of the Thief River Falls Racing Association. The organization hopes to attract more interested people who mainly enjoy watching motor sports of all kinds. The association will have an information table set up at its Swap and Trade Show on April 10 and one at the Home, Sport and Family Show as well. If you would like to know more, show your support or join the group. The association meets on a regular basis, usually once a month. Meeting times and dates are normally posted via the media and mailings.

Tentative Schedule of Events for the TRF Racing Association

April 10 1st Swap Meet and Trade Show (Open to individuals and vendors of snowmobiles, motorcycles and autos)

April 14 Monthly Association meeting at Black Cat meeting room 6:45 p.m. Open to all interested enthusiasts.

April 23-24 Wissota Spring Fling at Cedar Lake Speedway, New Richmond, WI.

April 24 Bemidji Champion Auto Race Car Show, followed by practice and tune day at Bemidji Speedway.

May 2 Opening night of racing "Victory Lane Speedway", Winnipeg.

May 3 Opening day at Bemidji Speedway, 3 p.m.

May 14 Opening night at Greenbush Race Park, 7 p.m.

Mission Statement

The mission of the Thief River Falls Racing Association is to actively organize motor sports persons and other individuals interested in the promotion of racing activities, by promoting fair competition with high standards and professional sportsmanship.

Dye color not true indicator of antifreeze type

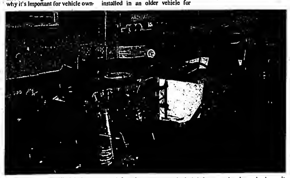
If you check under the hood of your vehicle, you could find any one of a variety of coolant colors, especially if you own a newer import. But as the old cliche' goes, "Don't judge a book by its cover." When it comes to antifreeze, it's the formula, not the color, which is most important.

The new coolant rainbow may create a potential for confusion and possible cooling system damage if antifreezes are improperly mixed, say experts at the National Automotive Radiator Service Association (NARSA). In the 14 domestic vehicle brands, green and orange are the traditional "factory fill" antifreeze colors. However, in the 22 imported vehicle brands, a wide spectrum of original equipment antifreeze colors exist, including various shades of green, yellow, pink, red and blue.

"The likelihood of color confusion and unidentifiable mixtures is considerable among consumers and professional installers alike," says Don Hart, NARSA president and a Texas shop owner. "The dye color used in coolant traditionally has signified the type of antifreeze, but that's no longer the case. That's why it's important for vehicle owners to know what type of antifreeze is used in their car's cooling system prior to having it serviced."

The best advice on deciphering what kind of antifreeze your cooling system uses is to check your owner's manual or contact the dealer. Basically there are two different types of antifreeze: silicone-silicate formulas, which contain the traditional rust and corrosion inhibitors and last an average of two years or 30,000 miles; and organic acid formulas, which are used in the new, extended-life antifreezes and rated to last five years or 100,000 miles. Each formula works differently to combat cooling system rust and corrosion and mixing the two could result in cooling system damage.

In general, NARSA recommends the following:



• If your vehicle came from the factory with the new extended-life antifreeze, make sure its cooling system is always serviced with the same type of antifreeze. The extended service life is jeopardized if a system is "topped off" with a silicate-based antifreeze;

• As long as the cooling system is completely drained and flushed, the extended life antifreeze can be installed in an older vehicle for longer coolant life, but not necessarily to the five year/100,000 mile mark. Consult the antifreeze manufacturer's recommendations for specific details;

• Do not install extended-life antifreeze in a cooling system containing a silicate-based antifreeze at the same time a new part, such as a water pump or radiator, is being installed. The antifreeze's organic acids can conflict with the remaining silicate inhibitors, resulting in inadequate corrosion protection.

Radiator and cooling system specialists offer a variety of services, including flushing and refilling cooling systems, repairing leaks and other damage to copper/brass and aluminum/plastic radiators, checking thermostats and fixing hoses and belts. They can check for corrosion and debris and often may spot and address potential problems, helping to prevent emergency repairs down the road.

To find a cooling system specialist in your area, look for the NARSA emblem in the "Radiators-Automotive" section of the Yellow Pages or visit the NARSA web site at www.narsa.org for an on-line directory of NARSA members.

You tell'em pop... and so will I

Parents tend to forget that their children are within earshot of everything that is said in the family vehicle. If parental behavior includes screaming, striking the steering wheel, erratic driving or hand gestures, children may assume this is acceptable behavior.

Not only is this socially unacceptable, it is an important factor included in a category known as "improper driving" used in National Safety Council (NSC) statistics. NSC says this category accounts for about 75 percent of highway accidents.

Make sure your children are receiving good "driver's ed" instructions by following these tips:

DO emphasize to all drivers in the family that you expect them to be responsible behind the wheel.

DO develop a driver-friendly attitude toward other motorists.

DON'T let other drivers' aggressive behavior get you into a dangerous situation.

DON'T think your children are not watching you. Expect them to behave as you do.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

High water, power outages

he was aware of only one farm near the Kratka bridge where some sandbagging had taken place, but that was only precautionary. The river, he said, was up to the driveway near his house on Tuesday. Sheriff Hruby said on Wednesday the river at that location had dropped six to eight inches. The water level seemed to drop, he said, as it began flowing over the top of ice. That all changed by the end of the week when there were numerous reports of property being threatened by high river levels.

Earlier in the week, some Sentence to Serve crews had been filling sand bags as a precaution. Sheriff Hruby said the county has a limited supply of sand bags and they want to make sure they control the inventory. They want to have some filled sand bags on hand in case of an emergency, but they also want to prevent waste. By Thursday, however, sandbagging needs became more of an immediate concern. A number of students from Lincoln High School volunteered to fill sand bags. During that long day in cold freezing rain, the Salvation Army service unit in Thief River Falls provided food for the volunteers.

Residents of the county who feel they need sand bags should contact the law enforcement center at 681-6161. Sand is available at the Eighth Street boat landing.

Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser and Sheriff Hruby announced last week that they were coordinating flood response activities. Location of sand at the Eighth Street boat landing (Centennial Park) was one of the announcements made at that time.

Local police have been keeping an eye on potential trouble spots and notifying local officials of problems.

Volunteers were used on Thursday, but Friday morning river levels had decreased and there hadn't been any calls for volunteers. That could change because of the potential for more severe weather. Officials are asking that residents who believe they will experience flooding not to believe they can rely on Sentence to Serve crews to sand bag their property. They should immediately begin taking efforts to reduce their flood risk and round up their own volunteers if they need people to help build sand bag walls.

Few Trouble Spots Within TRF

Last week, Ron Lindberg, public works director, received reports that water was flowing over the road on Oriole and Cardinal near Robin Hood, and reports of a frozen culvert on Fern road causing the water to back up. Lindberg said that it appears a plan initiated two weeks ago to steam open culverts and catch basins at certain locations or use heavier equipment to clear ditches of ice has been effective. There haven't been many problems within the city that are associated with flooding. Within the city, Lindberg said he had received at least one report of some temporary sandbagging efforts.

Friday, Lindberg said there hadn't been any additional flooding and the city is "sitting good". He conditioned that by noting that there were severe weather reports for the weekend.

Road Closures

Sections of some county and township roads were closed earlier this week due to flooding.

As of Friday morning the following list of county road closures was available from the Pennington County Engineer's office:

- A one-mile section in Reiner township on County road 97 between Highway 1 and County road 63;
- A one-mile section in Star township on State Aid 6 between County road 97 and State Aid 28;
- A section of road in Kratka township between Sections 21 and 28;
- A section of road in Smiley township between sections 8 and 9;
- A section of County road 79 between sections 25 and 26 in Rocksbury township;
- A section of County road 81 between sections 19 and 20 in Wyandotte township, and,
- A section of County road 67 between sections 22 and 23 in Bray township.

County Engineer Delton Schulz said they have had a number of road closings since last Sunday. As they hear of them they have been fixing them.

River Levels

The following river stages were reported to the National Weather Service as of Wednesday, March 31, and then Friday, April 2:

- The Snake River at Warren with a flood stage of 45 feet was at 46.70 feet on Wednesday, and unavailable Friday morning.
- The Clearwater River at Plummer with a flood stage of 12 feet was at 11.06 feet on Wednesday and 9.62 feet on Friday morning.
- The Clearwater River at Red Lake Falls with a flood stage of 10 feet was at 9.58 feet on Wednesday and 8.98 feet on Friday morning.
- The Red Lake River at Red Lake Falls was at 16.74 feet on Wednesday and 17.65 feet on Friday morning.
- The Red Lake River at the Thief River Falls dam was at 16.49 feet on Wednesday and 18.35 on Friday morning.
- The Red Lake River at Highlanding with a flood stage of 9 feet was at 10.63 on Wednesday and unavailable Friday morning.
- The Thief River at Thief River Falls was at 14.60 feet on Wednesday and 14 feet on Friday morning.
- The Lost River at Oklee was at 12.24 feet on Wednesday and 9.30 feet on Friday morning.

Area counties to request CRP extension

had indicated earlier that they expected to request acceptance of all of the qualifying acres offered in the 18th sign-up. This would require approval by the national office since the extension to 30 percent as allowable by the state office would have been exceeded. The state FSA committee has authority to extend the acreage limit per county to 30 percent.

Even with the requests for extending limited to 30 percent, however, the additional acreage involved in the three counties would have exceeded the total that is available to Minnesota. If the requests from the three counties would have remained at 30 percent and been approved by the state FSA committee at its meeting April 6, the national FSA office would have had to allocate an additional and sufficient number of acres to cover the increases for each county. This effectively would have placed the final authority for approval with the national FSA office in Washington, DC, anyway.

The Farm Service Agency expects a determination on the issue by late April if the state committee recommends the extensions April 6, Schafer said. Applicants with acceptable CRP offers from the 18th sign-up—if a higher limitation becomes effective—will be notified promptly upon receipt of the approval from the national office.

The Pennington county FSA committee held a public meeting Wednesday, March 31, and received public comment on the issue of raising the CRP acreage limitation in the county. Thirty-five people in addition to staff and committee members attended with 22 comments made by 15 people expressing their opinions. Support of the increase was expressed in 19 of the comments and opposition to the higher acreage limit in three comments.

Schafer said that approximately 200 survey forms had been returned with about 150 in favor of extending the limit beyond 25 percent and 50 opposed.

In Roseau county, according to county FSA executive director Barb Roseen, about 320 surveys were returned with more than nine out of ten favoring some type of extension beyond the 25 percent limit.

Roseen said that there will be 17,213 acres of land under CRP contract which will come out of the program on September 30 this year. Marshall county has about 9,000 CRP acres coming out this fall while Pennington county has two contracts for 405.1 acres expiring this year, one contract for 308 acres expiring in 2000 and six contracts for 1,078.4 acres expiring in 2001.

Model railroaders

speeder was donated to the club by Dennis Kezar.

Although club members come from all walks of life, they all have one thing in common. "I've always been interested in trains," says club member Carl Reed. "Everybody likes trains."

Reed is right. Most of us can reach into our past and pull out a special memory that involves a train. It might involve a memorable trip, greeting a sorely missed loved one at the train station or simply watching the formidable machine make its way toward its destination as part of the American landscape.

Model railroading enables the hobbyist to build his or her own world with the creator's imagination as the only boundary. "Let's say you want to recreate August 31, 1918 in Thief River Falls," says Chuck Kimbrough, "it's your world. You create it in your design."

The hobby appears to provide numerous options and opportunities for learning and creativity, and the first question a novice would ask is, "Where do I start?"

Model railroads can include all of the elements of a real railroad, such as locomotives, cars, signals, switches, stations and bridges. Hobbyists can also build realistic miniature towns and natural scenery as settings for their railroads.

Model railroading is not to be confused with the hobby of operating toy trains. Model railroads are made to represent real trains. Toy trains are almost always completely assembled when purchased and lack the realism, fine detail and accuracy that are features of the model railroad.

While most model railroad enthusiasts opt to build models from kits or parts and raw materials, the cars, engines and much of the other equipment can be purchased ready-made.

In addition to model making, the hobby offers a number of other activities, including carpentry, wiring electrical circuits and making scenery.

Railroad models are built to scale which is the comparison between the size of the model and the full-size railroad, called the prototype. There are five popular scales with the HO scale being the most common. Each part of an HD is 1/87 the size of the prototype. The track gauge or width in this scale is 16.5 millimeters or about 5/8-inch.

Size is a matter of personal preference and available space. The largest scale model railroads could fill an entire basement, and the smallest scale fits into an attache case.

The model railroad's power comes from household current that first passes through a separate electrical unit called a power pack. The power pack reduces the voltage of the current from 110 volts to 12 volts and also changes the type of current from alternating current, which continually reverses direction, to direct current, which flows in one direction. The power pack includes switches by which the operator controls the speed and direction of the locomotive. Control options for the model railroader have increased with the advancement of technology, and model railroads may also be operated by remote control or computers.

Much of the realism of a system depends on the creativity of the builder as he or she designs scenery. The model railroader may send the train through tunnels and towns, over bridges and highways and into passenger terminals or freight stations.

Various purchased and raw materials can be used to create terrain, buildings and miniature trees and shrubs. Detailed painting often contributes to the system's realistic appearance.

While A&E Railroad is a a well-stocked store, Chuck Kimbrough encourages special orders. It would be impossible to carry everything. For example, one distributor's catalog has 936 pages. "And that's for HO scale only," Kimbrough says. One can imagine just how many different items are available for all of the different scales from a variety of distributors.

The hobby combines art, history, electricity, mechanics and more. It can start or stop wherever one desires. "Once you stop, however, you stop learning," Kimbrough says.

Watching the model trains operate at A&E Railroad fills one with a sense of amazement and appreciation for this exciting hobby.

The Thief River Falls Model Railroad Club will have a display at the Home, Sport and Family Show on April 10-11 at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, giving everyone who attends the opportunity to see model railroads in action.

Local club members will be there, too, anxious to tell you about their exciting, and perhaps contagious, pastime. Stop and take a look. You might decide to jump aboard and create your own model railroad.

Damages, theft result from school break-in

Fosston - Damages to the District 601 junior-senior high school building and theft of equipment recently are estimated to be about $25,000. Besides damaging several door jambs, locks and breaking windows, the thieves made off with three lap top computers, one Newton computer and a digital camera.

The incident is under investigation by the Polk County Sheriff's Department. The Thirteen Towns

New resident has run of nursing home

Greenbush - With the exception of the dining room, a new resident of the Greenbush Nursing Home has the run of the upper floor.

That new resident is a cat named "Pillow," and the pet is part of a new concept in nursing home care called "Edenizing."

Studies have shown that pets add enjoyment to the lives of people living in nursing homes, making them feel more like they are living in a home, not just a dormitory. Adding animals and plants and having children visit gives residents the feeling of home security they need to enjoy life. The Tribune

LOW Historical Society to hold annual meeting

Williams - Lake of the Woods Historical Society will hold its annual meeting on Sunday, April 11, at the Baudette American Legion. The event will begin with an ethnic potluck dinner at 5:30 p.m. The annual meeting agenda will include the election of officers. The Northern Light

Win-E-Mac quilters enjoy gatherings

Erskine - Once a month, quilt enthusiasts in the Winger/Erskine/McIntosh area gather in the senior room of the Erskine Community Center to help each other and share ideas, information and patterns.

Members bring quilts, wall hangings, and quilted clothing items and share information about their offering during "show and tell," a favorite club activity.

A raffle quilt is one of the club's projects, and last year $1,163 was raised for the music department at Win-E-Mac school. Currently, the club has 20 members, and anyone interested in quilting or sewing is invited to join. Erskine Echo

B-B Cafe changes owners and name

McIntosh - B-B Cafe in McIntosh, a cafe and a name that has been in the same location since the 1930's has new owners and a new name. Howard and Sharon Knutson are the new owners, and the cafe will be called Sharon's Place. For now the hours will remain the same. The Cafe will be open from 6 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday. The McIntosh Times

Sugar in the morning, sugar in...

Wentworth family shares sugarshack togetherness

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

From the time he was old enough to help or as he puts it, "get in the way," Dave Wentworth hung out in the sugarshack.

Dave grew up in New Hampshire, and the sugarhouse that he so fondly remembers was on his grandparents' farm.

A sugarhouse is the building where maple sap is boiled, turning the sap into syrup. While there aren't too many sugarhouses found among Minnesota's agricultural structures, one can be found at Wildwood Farm near Gonvick, where Dave Wentworth produces maple syrup.

For Dave the labor intensive process of turning maple sap into syrup is much more than a business, but an important way of sharing his heritage with his sons.

Dave's family includes his wife, Tammy, and their three sons, 18-year-old Nick, 15-year-old Nate and Dustin, age 9. The Wentworths also have 17-year-old Rodney, a foreign exchange student from Germany, living with them and attending school at Gonvick-Clearbrook school.

Dave became familiar with the area in the mid-1970's when he served as a missionary here. At 21 or 22 he purchased his first over-the-road truck and set out to "see the world." Along the way he met and married Tammy, a South Dakota native, and the couple traveled together until their first child was born.

The couple resided in Dave's hometown in New Hampshire for about a year. However, Tammy was horrified by the reports of crime in nearby Boston, and demographics were rapidly changing the area. As what the locals refer to as "computer commuters" have moved to the small town where Dave grew up, the town has become one of Boston's bedroom communities, and the population has grown from about 3,000 to 6,000 or 7,000.

Yearning for a more peaceful existence, the couple decided to move to Minnesota where Dave had developed friendships during his earlier experience. For the past 17 years, they have lived on a farm two miles north of Gonvick.

Although farms are much bigger here, Dave says that northern Minnesota and New Hampshire are very similar in many ways. The seasons are very defined in both areas, and while our winters are colder, there is generally more snow in New Hampshire.

Over the years, Dave's trucking business, Wildwood Transport, has experienced significant growth, and several years ago, he says he realized he "had a handle on life" and that he himself didn't have to be in the truck all of the time.

Six years ago, Dave decided to "radically expand" his maple syrup venture. In addition to sharing this important part of his heritage with his family, he also saw it as a way of spending more time with his sons as they worked together. Beyond the gathering of sap and the sugarhouse, the whole family participated in area craft shows where they marketed Wildwood Farm maple syrup. There the youngsters learned business principles, interacting with customers and making change while enjoying the social aspects of the shows.

Dave shares the history of "sugaring" with his family and the groups and visitors that he welcomes to tours of his operation. Native Americans living near the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River produced maple syrup long before white explorers came to North America, and early French and English explorers wrote of the "sweet water" that the Indians drew from trees and heated to make maple products.

Learning the process from the Indians, early settlers also produced maple products. Unless it is vacuum sealed in an airtight container and then refrigerated, however, maple syrup has an extremely short shelf life. For that reason, early Americans made maple sugar that could be kept and reconstituted as needed.

During the 1700's and 1800's, maple sugar became an important food product. During the days of President Thomas Jefferson, beet sugar had not yet been developed, and because cane sugar was produced using slave labor, many northerners would not use it, thus developing a market for maple sugar.

The production of maple syrup is unique to a few American states and Canadian provinces with Minnesota being on the western edge of the maple belt. Today, Quebec produces about half of all the maple syrup made, and the other half is divided equally among the states and provinces. While the eastern states

State FSA approves CRP extension in three area counties

Minnesota Farm Service Agency board on Tuesday approved extending the cropland limitation for CRP acreage in Pennington, Marshall and Roseau counties from 25 to 30 percent.

The state committee's recommendation is being forwarded to the national FSA office in Washington, DC.

Glenn Schafer, Pennington county FSA executive director, reminds landowners offering acreage for the program that the national office must allocate sufficient reserve acres to cover the CRP acreage increases. Until this takes place, no additional CRP offers can be accepted. A determination is expected by late April.

Roseau and Marshall county FSA committees had asked the state committee to include all qualifying acreage offered in their counties. Pennington county had requested an extension to 30 percent.

Fifteen-year-old Nate Wentworth and his grandfather pour the sap collected from maple trees into a holding tank for transport to the sugarhouse at Wildwood Farms near Gonvick.

Grygla, EGF, TRF advance to state in Knowledge Bowl

Region 1 and 2 Knowledge Bowl Regional Competition was held on April 7 at the University of Minnesota, Crookston, with the top 12 scoring teams region-wide competing. The competition began with a written test and continued with five oral rounds.

The Regional champion teams advancing to the State Competition on May 3 at Cragun's in Brainerd are from Grygla, East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls, Win-E-Mac, and Bemidji. Other teams competing at the regional competition were from Badger, Blackduck, Crookston, Kelliher, Kittson Central, Lake of the Woods and Warroad.

The All Region 1999 Knowledge Bowl Academic Team named at the Regional Competition included two district team members of the top six scoring teams and one district team member from each team among the teams placing 7th through 12th. Additionally, one district team member from all other districts participating in the 1998-99 Knowledge Bowl season receive honorable mention. The All Region Academic Team are students recognized for their outstanding performance during the year as a Knowledge Bowl team member reflecting their ability and attitude as an individual and team member. The All Region Academic Team includes: Brian Wilhelm of Badger, Shane Wahl and Matt Williamson of Bemidji, Nathan Bennett of Blackduck, Anne Marie Hanson of Crookston, Jay Schroeder and Nick Stadem of East Grand Forks, Keith Nelson and Eric Benson of Grygla, Nils Hoyum of Kelliher, and Andy Jauholz and Chris Sugden of Kittson Central, Rod Pieper of Lake of the Woods, Nicolas Collard and Ryan Evenson of Thief River Falls, Chelsea Heppner of Warroad, and Tessa Johnson and Jeremy Gieseke, of Win-E-Mac. Receiving honorable mention for competing at the regional competition were Ian Rinde of Badger, Thomas Bechtold of Blackduck, Matthew Tate of Crookston, Robin Cribb of Kelliher, Julie Oberg of Lake of the Woods, and Shawn Tweeten of Warroad.

Minnesota Service Cooperative High School Knowledge Bowl competitions are inter-disciplinary academic competitions designed for secondary students in grades 9-12. During the meets, teams of students participate in written and oral rounds by answering questions related to all areas of learning typical of secondary educational programs. Questions test students' recall, problem solving, and critical thinking skills. The competitions consist of a written round of 60 questions and four or five oral rounds of 45 questions each. Teams consist of four members and one alternate.

Ditch 83 petitioners shown suggestions for alternatives

Potential alternatives to extensive repair of State Ditch 83—known for the most part as the Thief River—were presented at the regular meeting of the Red Lake Watershed District board Thursday, April 8, in Thief River Falls, with a number of petitioners for repair of the ditch and others interested in attendance.

Paul Swenson, regional administrator for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources in Bemidji, moderated the presentation made to the watershed district board and the assembly in the board room of the watershed district office.

The watershed district has received a petition for the repair of State Ditch 83, which covers most of the upper reaches of the Thief River flowing out of Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge to within a couple of miles north of Thief River Falls. The petition requests removal of trees, debris and silt and the side sloping of the ditch bank—all intended to increase water flow and alleviate flooding.

Thursday's presentation was made by a group of agencies which wants the watershed board and petitioners to consider alternative methods of alleviating flooding without the extensive repair work to Ditch 83 and effectively the Thief River.

Presently cooperating in the effort to develop alternatives are the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR), U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS), Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR) and the Minnesota Audubon Council (MAC).

The group had funded an engineering study to gather flow information on State Ditch 83 and its tributaries—primarily County Ditch 20 which enters State Ditch 83 from the east. Presenting information from that study were Nate Dalager, St. Hilaire field office engineer with HDR Engineering of Minneapolis and Charlie Anderson, engineer with Widseth Smith Nolting & Associates of Crookston.

Also speaking at the meeting were Cheryl Miller of the Minnesota Audubon Society and Al Kean of the Board of Water and Soil Resources.

Dalager reviewed streamflow records and studies involving Ditch 83 and Ditch 20 and preliminary computer models showing effect of upstream impoundments along Ditch 20. Anderson presented information on how a diversion channel to the east could divert water from State Ditch 83 and bring it to the Thief River below the south end of Ditch 83. Control structures along the diversion channel would be used to regulate the flow and minimize downstream flooding. Overall cost for the impoundments and diversion was placed at $5 million in the estimate presented at Thursday's meeting.

Cheryl Miller noted that the agencies involved in proposing the alternative flood relief plan are all committed to working to secure funding for project costs. It was noted at the meeting that efforts should be made to complete planning in order to make a funding request to the Minnesota Legislature in the year 2000 session.

Another meeting is expected to be held soon to further discuss the proposal and possibly other alternatives. A summary of the hydrologic

Seasonal fire restrictions include part of this area

To reduce property damage and fire suppression costs, the Division of Forestry of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources will restrict outdoor burning this spring, according to the division office in Wannaska.

Restricted burning area will be east and north of a line extending from the Canadian border south along Highway 310 to Roseau, along Highway 89 from Roseau to the Beltrami county line one mile east of Grygla, then south along the Beltrami and Pennington county line and continuing along the western boundaries of Clearwater, Becker and Otter Tail counties to Highway 94.

During the period from April 15 through May 17, no burning permits will be issued in this area except for prescribed fire projects, agricultural practices and construction projects. No permits for roadside burning or burning of yard debris, brush piles, leaves or grass will be issued. Charcoal grills and campfires are not restricted, but caution is advised.

The area west and south of the above-described line will secure burning permits as usual, from the local township fire warden, rural fire department or Division of Forestry office.

Agricultural burning which needs to be done during the restricted period can be accomplished by visiting the local township fire warden, who will phone a Forestry office for approval. If approved, the permit will be issued by the Forestry office.

According to the Wannaska office, DNR Forestry officers and local fire departments respond to more than 2,000 wildfires every year, most of which occur during April and May when vegetation is dry and very flammable. About 40 percent of the wildfires are caused by careless or unnecessary debris burning. Fires can spread quickly through dried vegetation and get out of control.

Forestry supervisor Mark Carlstrom at Bagley said that the debris burning ban should eliminate many wildfires, thereby saving taxpayers property and money.

For further information, contact any of the following area Forestry offices: Wannaska, 425-7793; Grygla, 294-6115; and Warroad, 386-1304.

he was aware of only one farm near the Kratka Bridge where some sandbagging had taken place, but that was only precautionary. The river, he said, was up to the driveway near his house on Tuesday. Sheriff Hruby said on Wednesday the river at that location had dropped six to eight inches. The water level seemed to drop, he said, as it began flowing over the top of ice. That all changed by the end of the week when there were numerous reports of property being threatened by high river levels.

Earlier in the week, some Sentence to Serve crews had been filling sand bags as a precaution. Sheriff Hruby said the county has a limited supply of sand bags and they want to make sure they control the inventory. They want to have some filled sand bags on hand in case of an emergency, but they also want to prevent waste. By Thursday, however, sandbagging needs became more of an immediate concern. A number of students from Lincoln High School volunteered to fill sand bags. During that long day in cold freezing rain, the Salvation Army service unit in Thief River Falls provided food for the volunteers.

Residents of the county who feel they need sand bags should contact the law enforcement center at 681-6161. Sand is available at the Eighth Street boat landing.

Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Fuschlheiser and Sheriff Hruby announced last week that they were coordinating flood response activities. Location of sand at the Eighth Street boat landing (Centennial Park) was one of the announcements made at that time.

Local police have been keeping an eye on potential trouble spots and notifying local officials of problems.

Volunteers were used on Thursday, but Friday morning river levels had decreased and there hadn't been any calls for volunteers. That could change because of the potential for more severe weather. Officials are asking that residents who believe they will experience flooding not to believe they can rely on Sentence to Serve crews to sand bag their property. They should immediately begin taking efforts to reduce their flood risk and round up their own volunteers if they need people to help build sand bag walls.

Few Trouble Spots Within TRF

Last week Ron Lindberg, public works director, received reports that water was flowing over the road on Oriole and Cardinal near Robin Hood, and reports of a frozen culvert on Fern road causing the water to back up. Lindberg said that it appears a plan initiated two weeks ago to steam open culverts and catch basins at certain locations or use heavier equipment to clean ditches of ice has been effective. There haven't been many problems within the city that are associated with flooding. Within the city, Lindberg said he had received at least one report of some temporary sandbagging efforts.

Friday, Lindberg said there hadn't been any additional flooding and the city is "sitting good." He conditioned that by noting that there were severe weather reports for the weekend.

Road Closures

Sections of some county and township roads were closed earlier this week due to flooding.

As of Friday morning the following list of county road closures was available from the Pennington County Engineer's office:

• A one-mile section in Reiner township on County road 97 between Highway 1 and County road 63.

• A one-mile section in Star township on State Aid 6 between County road 97 and State Aid 28.

• A section of road in Kratka township between Sections 21 and 28.

• A section of road in Smiley township between sections 8 and 9.

• A section of County road 79 between sections 25 and 26 in Rocksbury township.

• A section of County road 81 between sections 19 and 20 in Wyandotte township and,

• A section of County road 67 between sections 22 and 23 in Bray township.

County Engineer Delton Schulz said they have had a number of road closings since last Sunday. As they hear of them they have been fixing them.

River Levels

The following river stages were reported to the National Weather Service as of Wednesday, March 31, and then Friday, April 2:

• The Snake River at Warren with a flood stage of 45 feet was at 46.70 feet on Wednesday, and unavailable Friday morning.

• The Clearwater River at Plummer with a flood stage of 12 feet was at 11.06 feet on Wednesday and 9.62 feet on Friday morning.

• The Clearwater River at Red Lake Falls with a flood stage of 10 feet was at 9.58 feet on Wednesday and 8.98 feet on Friday morning.

• The Red Lake River at Red Lake Falls was at 16.74 feet on Wednesday and 17.65 feet on Friday morning.

• The Red Lake River at the Thief River Falls dam was at 16.49 feet on Wednesday and 18.35 on Friday morning.

• The Red Lake River at Highlanding with a flood stage of 9 feet was at 10.63 on Wednesday and unavailable Friday morning.

• The Thief River at Thief River Falls was at 14.60 feet on Wednesday and 14 feet on Friday morning.

• The Lost River at Oklee was at 12.24 feet on Wednesday and 9.30 feet on Friday morning.

had indicated earlier that they expected to request acceptance of all of the qualifying acres offered in the 18th sign-up. This would require approval by the national office since the extension to 30 percent as allowable by the state office would have been exceeded. The state FSA committee has authority to extend the acreage limit per county to 30 percent.

Even with the requests for extending limited to 30 percent, however, the additional acreage involved in the three counties would have exceeded the total that is available to Minnesota. If the requests from the three counties would have remained at 30 percent and been approved by the state FSA committee at its meeting April 6, the national FSA office would have had to allocate an additional and sufficient number of acres to cover the increases for each county. This effectively would have placed the final authority for approval with the national FSA office in Washington, DC, anyway.

The Farm Service Agency expects a determination on the issue by late April if the state committee recommends the extensions April 6, Schafer said. Applicants with acceptable CRP offers from the 18th sign-up—if a higher limitation becomes effective—will be notified promptly upon receipt of the approval from the national office.

The Pennington county FSA committee held a public meeting Wednesday, March 31, and received public comment on the issue of raising the CRP acreage limitation in the county. Thirty-five people in addition to staff and committee members attended with 22 comments made by 15 people expressing their opinions. Support of the increase was expressed in 19 of the comments and opposition to the higher acreage limit in three comments.

Schafer said that approximately 200 survey forms had been returned with about 150 in favor of extending the limit beyond 25 percent and 50 opposed.

In Roseau county, according to county FSA executive director Barb Roseen, about 320 surveys were returned with more than nine out of ten favoring some type of extension beyond the 25 percent limit.

Roseen said that there will be 17,213 acres of land under CRP contract which will come out of the program on September 30 this year. Marshall county has about 9,000 CRP acres coming out this fall while Pennington county has two contracts for 405.1 acres expiring this year, one contract for 308 acres expiring in 2000 and six contracts for 1,078.4 acres expiring in 2001.

speeder was donated to the club by Dennis Kezar.

Although club members come from all walks of life, they all have one thing in common. "I've always been interested in trains," says club member Carl Reed. "Everybody likes trains."

Reed is right. Most of us can reach into our past and pull out a special memory that involves a train. It might involve a memorable trip, greeting a sorely missed loved one at the train station or simply watching the formidable machine make its way toward its destination as part of the American landscape.

Model railroading enables the hobbyist to build his or her own world with the creator's imagination as the only boundary. "Let's say you want to recreate August 31, 1918 in Thief River Falls," says Chuck Kimbrough, "it's your world. You create it in your design."

The hobby appears to provide numerous options and opportunities for learning and creativity, and the first question a novice would ask is, "Where do I start?"

Model railroads can include all of the elements of a real railroad, such as locomotives, cars, signals, switches, stations and bridges. Hobbyists can also build realistic miniature towns and natural scenery as settings for their railroads.

Model railroading is not to be confused with the hobby of operating toy trains. Model railroads are made to represent real trains. Toy trains are almost always completely assembled when purchased and lack the realism, fine detail and accuracy that are features of the model railroad.

While most model railroad enthusiasts opt to build models from kits or parts and raw materials, the cars, engines and much of the other equipment can be purchased ready-made.

In addition to model making, the hobby offers a number of other activities, including carpentry, wiring electrical circuits and making scenery.

Railroad models are built to scale which is the comparison between the size of the model and the full-size railroad, called the prototype. There are five popular scales with the HO scale being the most common. Each part of an HO is 1/87 the size of the prototype. The track gauge or width in this scale is 16.5 millimeters or about 5/8-inch.

Size is a matter of personal preference and available space. The largest scale model railroads could fill an entire basement, and the smallest scale fits into an attache case.

The model railroad's power comes from household current that first passes through a separate electrical unit called a power pack. The power pack reduces the voltage of the current from 110 volts to 12 volts and also changes the type of current from alternating current, which continually reverses direction, to direct current, which flows in one direction. The power pack includes switches by which the operator controls the speed and direction of the locomotive. Control options for the model railroader have increased with the advancement of technology, and model railroads may also be operated by remote control or computers.

Much of the realism of a system depends on the creativity of the builder as he or she designs scenery. The model railroader may send the train through tunnels and towns, over bridges and highways and into passenger terminals or freight stations.

Various purchased and raw materials can be used to create terrain, buildings and miniature trees and shrubs. Detailed painting often contributes to the system's realistic appearance.

While A&E Railroad is a a well-stocked store, Chuck Kimbrough encourages special orders. It would be impossible to carry everything. For example, one distributor's catalog has 936 pages. "And that's for HO scale only," Kimbrough says. One can imagine just how many different items are available for all of the different scales from a variety of distributors.

The hobby combines art, history, electricity, mechanics and more. It can start or stop wherever one desires. "Once you stop, however, you stop learning," Kimbrough says.

Watching the model trains operate at A&E Railroad fills one with a sense of amazement and appreciation for this exciting hobby.

The Thief River Falls Model Railroad Club will have a display at the Home, Sport and Family Show on April 10-11 at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, giving everyone who attends the opportunity to see model railroads in action.

Local club members will be there, too, anxious to tell you about their exciting, and perhaps contagious, pastime. Stop and take a look. You might decide to jump aboard and create your own model railroad.

Damages, theft result from school break-in

Fosston - Damages to the District 601 junior-senior high school building and theft of equipment recently are estimated to be about $25,000.

Besides damaging several door jambs, locks and breaking windows, the thieves made off with three lap top computers, one Newton computer and a digital camera.

The incident is under investigation by the Polk County Sheriffs Department. The Thirteen Towns

New resident has run of nursing home

Greenbush - With the exception of the dining room, a new resident of the Greenbush Nursing Home has the run of the upper floor.

That new resident is a cat named "Pillaw," and the pet is part of a new concept in nursing home care called "Edenizing."

Studies have shown that pets add enjoyment to the lives of people living in nursing homes, making them feel more like they are living in a home, not just a dormitory. Adding animals and plants and having children visit gives residents the feeling of home security they need to enjoy life. The Tribune

LOW Historical Society to hold annual meeting

Williams - Lake of the Woods Historical Society will hold its annual meeting on Sunday, April 11 at the Baudette American Legion.

The event will begin with an ethnic potluck dinner at 5:30 p.m. The annual meeting's agenda will include the election of officers. The Northern Light

Win-E-Mac quilters enjoy gatherings

Erskine - Once a month quilt enthusiasts in the Winger/Erskine/ McIntosh area gather in the senior room of the Erskine Community Center to help each other and share ideas, information and patterns.

Members bring quilts, wall hangings, and quilted clothing items and share information about their offering during "show and tell," a favorite club activity.

A raffle quilt is one of the club's projects, and last year "41,163 was raised for the music department at Win-E-Mac school. Currently, the club has 20 members, and anyone interested in quilting or sewing is invited to join. Erskine Echo

B-B Cafe changes owners and name

McIntosh - B-B Cafe in McIntosh, a cafe and a name that has been in the same location since the 1930's, has new owners and a new name.

Howard and Sharon Krossen are the new owners, and the landmark cafe will have been renamed "Sharon's Place." For now, the hours will remain the same. The Cafe will be open from 6 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday. The McIntosh Times

Sugar in the morning, sugar in...

Wentworth family shares sugarshack togetherness

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

From the time he was old enough to help or as he puts it, "get in the way," Dave Wentworth hung out in the sugarshack.

Dave grew up in New Hampshire, and the sugarhouse that he so fondly remembers was on his grandparents' farm.

A sugarhouse is the building where maple sap is boiled, turning the sap into syrup. While there aren't too many sugarhouses found among Minnesota's agricultural structures, one can be found at Wildwood Farm near Gonvick, where Dave Wentworth produces maple syrup.

For Dave the labor intensive process of turning maple sap into syrup is much more than a business, but an important way of sharing his heritage with his sons.

Dave's family includes his wife, Tammy, and their three sons, 18-year-old Nick, 15-year-old Nate and Dustin, age 9. The Wentworths also have 17-year-old Rodney, a foreign exchange student from Germany, living with them and attending school at Gonvick-Clearbrook school.

Dave became familiar with the area in the mid-1970's when he served as a missionary here. At 21 or 22 he purchased his first over-the-road truck and set out to "see the world." Along the way he met and married Tammy, a South Dakota native, and the couple traveled together until their first child was born.

The couple resided in Dave's hometown in New Hampshire for about a year. However, Tammy was horrified by the reports of crime in nearby Boston, and demographics were rapidly changing the area. As what the locals refer to as "computer commuters" have moved to the small town where Dave grew up, the town has become one of Boston's bedroom communities, and the population has grown from about 3,000 to 6,000 or 7,000.

Yearning for a more peaceful existence, the couple decided to move to Minnesota where Dave had developed friendships during his earlier experience. For the past 17 years, they have lived on a farm two miles north of Gonvick.

Although farms are much bigger here, Dave says that northern Minnesota and New Hampshire are very similar in many ways. The seasons are very defined in both areas, and while our winters are colder, there is generally more snow in New Hampshire.

Over the years, Dave's trucking business, Wildwood Transport, has experienced significant growth, and several years ago, he says he realized he "had a handle on life" and that he himself didn't have to be in the truck all of the time.

Six years ago, Dave decided to "radically expand" his maple syrup venture. In addition to sharing this important part of his heritage with his family, he also saw it as a way of spending more time with his sons as they worked together. Beyond the gathering of sap and the sugarhouse, the whole family participated in area craft shows where they marketed Wildwood Farm maple syrup. There the youngsters learned business principles, interacting with customers and making change while enjoying the social aspects of the shows.

Dave shares the history of "sugaring" with his family and the groups and visitors that he welcomes to tours of his operation. Native Americans living near the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River produced maple syrup long before white explorers came to North America, and early French and English explorers wrote of the "sweet water" that the Indians drew from trees and heated to make maple products.

Learning the process from the Indians, early settlers also produced maple products. Unless it is vacuum sealed in an airtight container and then refrigerated, however, maple syrup has an extremely short shelf life. For that reason, early Americans made maple sugar that could be kept and reconstituted as needed.

During the 1700's and 1800's, maple sugar became an important food product. During the days of President Thomas Jefferson, beet sugar had not yet been developed, and because cane sugar was produced using slave labor, many northerners would not use it, thus developing a market for maple sugar.

The production of maple syrup is unique to a few American states and Canadian provinces with Minnesota being on the western edge of the maple belt. Today, Quebec produces about half of all the maple syrup made, and the other half is divided equally among the states and provinces. While the eastern states

State FSA approves CRP extension in three area counties

Minnesota Farm Service Agency board on Tuesday approved extending the cropland limitation for CRP acreage in Pennington, Marshall and Roseau counties from 25 to 30 percent.

The state committee's recommendation is being forwarded to the national FSA office in Washington, DC.

Glenn Schafer, Pennington county FSA executive director, reminds landowners offering acreage for the program that the national office must allocate sufficient reserve acres to cover the CRP acreage increases. Until this takes place, no additional CRP offers can be accepted. A determination is expected by late April.

Roseau and Marshall county FSA committees had asked the state committee to include all qualifying acreage offered in their counties. Pennington county had requested an extension to 30 percent.

Grygla, EGF, TRF advance to state in Knowledge Bowl

Region 1 and 2 Knowledge Bowl Regional Competition was held on April 7 at the University of Minnesota, Crookston, with the top 12 scoring teams region-wide competing. The competition began with a written test and continued with five oral rounds.

The Regional champion teams advancing to the State Competition on May 3 at Cragun's in Brainerd are from Grygla, East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls, Win-E-Mac, and Bemidji. Other teams competing at the regional competition were from Badger, Blackduck, Crookston, Kelliher, Kittson Central, Lake of the Woods and Warroad.

Results from the regional competition included: 1) Grygla (124 points) — Keith Nelson, Eric Benson, Melissa Verbout, Abby Schuler, Garret Anderson and Coach Orvis Haugen; 2) East Grand Forks (106 points) — Jay Schroeder, Justin Hanson, Alissa Schrage, Kevin Brandt, Nick Stadem, and Coach Sharon Budge; 3) Thief River Falls (101 points) — Nicholas Collard, Ryan Evenson, Didier Collard, Joanna Bruggeman, Andrew Solem and Coach Angie Hoglo; 4) Win-E-Mac (100 points) — Tessa Johnson, Jeremy Gieseke, Tyler Kolden, Dave Jenson, Conrad Strand and Coach Ann Vesledahl, 5) Bemidji (98 points) — Shane Wahl, Mary Johnson, Matt Williamson, Eric Cole, Sean Floyd and Coach Linda Brew.

The All Region 1999 Knowledge Bowl Academic Team named at the Regional Competition included two district team members of the top six scoring teams and one district team member from each team among the teams placing 7th through 12th. Additionally, one district team member from all other districts participating in the 1998-99 Knowledge Bowl season receive honorable mention. The All Region Academic Team are students recognized for their outstanding performance during the year as a Knowledge Bowl team member reflecting their ability and attitude as an individual and team member. The All Region Academic Team includes: Brian Wilhelmi of Badger, Shane Wahl and Matt Williamson of Bemidji, Nathan Bennett of Blackduck, Anne Marie Hanson of Crookston, Jay Schroeder and Nick Stadem of East Grand Forks, Keith Nelson and Eric Benson of Grygla, Nils Hoyum of Kelliher, and Andy Jauholz and Chris Sugden of Kittson Central, Rod Pieper of Lake of the Woods, Nicolas Collard and Ryan Evenson of Thief River Falls, Chelsea Heppner of Warroad, and Tessa Johnson and Jeremy Gieseke, of Win-E-Mac. Receiving honorable mention for competing at the regional competition were Ian Rinde of Badger, Thomas Bechtold of Blackduck, Matthew Tate of Crookston, Robin Cribb of Kelliher, Julie Oberg of Lake of the Woods, and Shawn Tweeten of Warroad.

Minnesota Service Cooperative High School Knowledge Bowl competitions are inter-disciplinary academic competitions designed for secondary students in grades 9-12. During the meets, teams of students participate in written and oral rounds by answering questions related to all areas of learning typical of secondary educational programs. Questions test students' recall, problem solving, and critical thinking skills. The competitions consist of a written round of 60 questions and four or five oral rounds of 45 questions each. Teams consist of four members and one alternate.

Ditch 83 petitioners shown suggestions for alternatives

Potential alternatives to extensive repair of State Ditch 83—known for the most part as the Thief River—were presented at the regular meeting of the Red Lake Watershed District board Thursday, April 8, in Thief River Falls, with a number of petitioners for repair of the ditch and others interested in attendance.

Paul Swenson, regional administrator for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources in Bemidji, moderated the presentation made to the watershed district board and the assembly in the board room of the watershed district office.

The watershed district has received a petition for the repair of State Ditch 83, which covers most of the upper reaches of the Thief River flowing out of Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge to within a couple of miles north of Thief River Falls. The petition requests removal of trees, debris and silt and the side sloping of the ditch bank—all intended to increase water flow and alleviate flooding.

Thursday's presentation was made by a group of agencies which wants the watershed board and petitioners to consider alternative methods of alleviating flooding without the extensive repair work to Ditch 83 and effectively the Thief River.

Presently cooperating in the effort to develop alternatives are the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR), U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS), Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR) and the Minnesota Audubon Council (MAC).

The group had funded an engineering study to gather flow information on State Ditch 83 and its tributaries—primarily County Ditch 20 which enters State Ditch 83 from the east. Presenting information from that study were Nate Dalager, St. Hilaire field office engineer with HDR Engineering of Minneapolis and Charlie Anderson, engineer with Widseth Smith Nolting & Associates of Crookston.

Also speaking at the meeting were Cheryl Miller of the Minnesota Audubon Society and Al Kean of the Board of Water and Soil Resources.

Dalager reviewed streamflow records and studies involving Ditch 83 and Ditch 20 and preliminary computer models showing effect of upstream impoundments along Ditch 20. Anderson presented information on how a diversion channel to the east could divert water from State Ditch 83 and bring it to the Thief River below the south end of Ditch 83. Control structures along the diversion channel would be used to regulate the flow and minimize downstream flooding. Overall cost for the impoundments and diversion was placed at $5 million in the estimate presented at Thursday's meeting.

Cheryl Miller noted that the agencies involved in proposing the alternative flood relief plan are all committed to working to secure funding for project costs. It was noted at the meeting that efforts should be made to complete planning in order to make a funding request to the Minnesota Legislature in the year 2000 session.

Another meeting is expected to be held soon to further discuss the proposal and possibly other alternatives. A summary of the hydrologic

Seasonal fire restrictions include part of this area

To reduce property damage and fire suppression costs, the Division of Forestry of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources will restrict outdoor burning this spring, according to the division office in Wannaska.

Restricted burning area will be east and north of a line extending from the Canadian border south along Highway 310 to Roseau, along Highway 89 from Roseau to the Beltrami county line one mile east of Grygla, then south along the Beltrami and Pennington county line and continuing along the western boundaries of Clearwater, Becker and Otter Tail counties to Highway 94.

During the period from April 15 through May 17, no burning permits will be issued in this area except for prescribed fire projects, agricultural practices and construction projects. No permits for roadside burning or burning of yard debris, brush piles, leaves or grass will be issued. Charcoal grills and campfires are not restricted, but caution is advised.

The area west and south of the above-described line will secure burning permits as usual, from the local township fire warden, rural fire department or Division of Forestry office.

Agricultural burning which needs to be done during the restricted period can be accomplished by visiting the local township fire warden, who will phone a Forestry office for approval. If approved, the permit will be issued by the Forestry office.

According to the Wannaska office, DNR Forestry officers and local fire departments respond to more than 2,000 wildfires every year, most of which occur during April and May when vegetation is dry and very flammable. About 40 percent of the wildfires are caused by careless or unnecessary debris burning. Fires can spread quickly through dried vegetation and get out of control.

Forestry supervisor Mark Carlstrom at Bagley said that the debris burning ban should eliminate many wildfires, thereby saving taxpayers property and money.

For further information, contact any of the following area Forestry offices: Wannaska, 425-7793; Grygla, 294-6115; and Warroad, 386-1304.

Nominations sought for MN volunteer award

The annual Acts of Kindness: Governor's Volunteer Award is a statewide recognition program created to recognize individuals and groups who contribute their time and service to improve the lives of others in their communities. Nominees applications are now available, and in Thief River Falls, can be picked up at The Times.

More than two million volunteers, or 67 percent of all Minnesotans, provide a multitude of service in their communities. Every day people's lives are touched by caring citizens — neighbor helping neighbor, grass-roots activism, and volunteers assisting non-profit organizations through formal programs. Volunteers deserve special recognition for their acts of kindness, and this is an opportunity to recognize them for their efforts.

Individuals or groups may be nominated. Nominees must be residents of Minnesota and their volunteer activities must have taken place in Minnesota between January 1998 and December 1998.

To insure that the award program recognizes volunteers throughout the state, Minnesota's 87 counties have been grouped into regions. One volunteer or group of volunteers from each region will be recognized and honored. Winners will be recognized at an awards ceremony held at the 1999 Minnesota State Fair in August.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

I got a letter from a reader recently about my mother's spaghetti sauce recipe that I printed around the new year. Seems I forgot to tell you to add water - a couple of tomato paste cans will do. If I remember right, my mom used home canned tomatoes, so there was more water in them. I always just add water until it is the consistency I like, so you should note this on your recipe.

Since people seem to like desserts, here are some more for you to try.

This is a very easy dessert to make with some of those lovely strawberries in the store right now, light and colorful:

CLUB MEETING DESSERT

Pastry to line 9x13 inch pan.
1 1/2 cup cream, whipped
3 cups miniature colored marshmallows
1/2 cup sugar
3 cups sliced strawberries

Bake pastry at 350 degrees until light brown.

Mix sugar with strawberries and let stand a few minutes. Fold whipped cream and marshmallows together. Fold sweetened strawberries into whipped cream mixture and place in cooled pie shell. Chill. Cut into squares to serve.

This is a fanry dessert that makes its own topping - on the bottom:

PARSONAGE MARBLE PUDDING CAKE

1 1/2 cups flour
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted butter
2 teaspoons vanilla
3/4 cup walnuts
1 1/2 cup brown sugar
6 tablespoons cocoa
2 2/3 cups boiling water

Combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt well, sifting if desired. Add milk, butter and vanilla. Add nuts. Place in 9x13 inch pan.

Combine remaining ingredients (except water). Sprinkle over batter in pan. Carefully pour boiling water over all.

Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 55 minutes or until the cake tests done.

Servo by spooning out cake and placing the chocolate sauce from the bottom on top. Serve warm or cold, with whipped cream, ice cream, or sprinkle top with powdered sugar after baking.

Use your favorite flavor of ice cream for this delicious frozen dessert - it's great to have on hand for emergencies, whatever thry may be:

OREO DESSERT

20 Oreo cookies, crushed
1/2 stick melted margarine or butter
1/2 gallon peppermint ice cream (or other flavor you like), softened
1/2 stick butter
1 cup powdered sugar
Small can (2/3 cup) evaporated milk
1 cup chocolate chips

Mix crushed cookies and 1/2 stick melted butter. Pat gently in 9x13 inch pan and freeze.

After crust has frozen, spoon softened ice cream over crust and freeze again.

Mix 1/2 stick butter, powdered sugar, evaporated milk and chocolate chips. Cook until melted. Cool, then spread over ice cream. Spread 1 large container of thawed whipped topping oves all. Freeze.

Here's a little fresh dessert that will be good for your coffee break today - use other berries too:

BLUEBERRY CRUMBLE

3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup shortening
1 egg
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
2 cups berries

Combine in order, folding in berries. Place in greased and floured 9 inch pan. Sprinklo with topping.

Topping
1/2 cup sugar
1/3 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup butter

Combine topping mix and sprinkle over batter in pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

This delicious recipe has been around for a while, but here it is again, just in case you forgot it - it's great to make ahead:

MANDARIN ORANGE DESSERT

3 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup nuts
1 cup sugar
1 cup crushed rice krispies

Best egg whites and cream of tartar stiff. Fold in remaining ingredients and spread in 9x13 inch pan. Bake 25 minutes. Cool well.

1 pint whipping cream
1/2 cup powdered sugar
1 package instant vanilla pudding (dry)
3/4 cup coconut
2 cans drained mandarin oranges

Mix whipped cream with remaining ingredients, folding in oranges and coconut. Spread over cooled crust and refrigerate overnight or at least 12 hours.

THE LITTLE APPLE THAT COULD.
In 1946, a sweet, crunchy little apple was discovered in Minnesota. Its founders named it the Chestnut. But because the Chestnut's apples were only about two inches across, university types categorized the tree as a crab apple.
What an unfair mistake. People tend to think that crab apples are sour. Some mugwumps won't even taste them. Not on a train, not in the rain, not on a bus, not in a plane, not in a pie, not off the tree, not in a crisp. "We don't like them, Sam-I-am," they say, "just let us be."
But the Chestnut crab apple is anything but sour. It is so sweet, crunchy and delicious that some have called it "the best kept secret in Minnesota."
Matters were made worse for our little apple when a university bulletin said the Chestnut fruit was ugly. Chestnut apples do have rough skin, but the plump two-inch fruits ripen to a golden yellow blushed with red, and they are anything but ugly. Actually, Chestnut apples look rustic and homey, not plastic-looking like those apples you buy in the store.
But it is the Chestnut's flavor that makes it special. As they ripen in September, Chestnut apples take on a flavor which reminds one of a good pear. They keep for weeks in the fridge and make great pink-tinted apple crisp.
Best of all, the Chestnut is hardy. In the tough winters of 1996-97, most apple trees died out. But the Chestnut didn't get damaged. While other apples failed, the Chestnut thrived.
After decades of neglect, the tasty, trusty, Chestnut crab apple has earned a place in every northern yard!
Chestnut crab apples and all bare root fruit trees, shade trees and shrubs can be purchased bare root at Bergeson Nursery. Bare root trees can be planted as soon as you can dig a hole in the ground. April is the ideal time to plant trees!
Spring SEMINARS:
Seminars are held at the nursery and will start at 10:00 a.m. Saturday mornings. Coffee and donuts served.
•April 17: Growing Fruit in the North: A class on northern hardy fruits, as well as a demonstration of proper pruning techniques.
•April 24: Trees & Shrubs: A class on choosing the best ones for your yard, and a demonstration of proper planting and care.
•May 1: Annuals & Perennials: A class on new ideas and varieties, and a demonstration of proper planting and care.

Thief River Falls wins softball JV debut 13-9

Thief River Falls out-hit East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 9-3 and went on to win a 13-9 season-opening junior varsity high school softball game Thursday.

Rebekah Solem had a pair of singles for the winners, while Sara Jensen tripled and Lindsey Nordhagen doubled.

Abbie Houske and Loretta Hruby shared the pitching duties.

are generally the ones we associate with maple syrup, it is also produced in Wisconsin and Minnesota, but not to the extent that Dave says it could be.

Syrup producers begin to collect sap from maple trees during the few weeks of late winter and early spring during what is called sapping season. Mother nature is in total control as in order for the sap to flow, a daily rise and fall in temperature is necessary. Ideally, temperatures drop below freezing and into the low to mid 20's at night and rise to thawing temperatures during the day. The process is also sensitive to wind, and sap doesn't flow on windy days.

While Dave's early experiences on his grandfather's farm included the use of "hand-carved wood spigots and buckets and number 10 tin cans," technology has changed the sapping process.

Today, a gas-powered drill is used to bore a 7/16-inch hole two inches into the tree. Traditionally, a metal spigot is driven into the hole, and covered bucket is hung on the spout to catch the sap. Smaller trees are drilled once, and larger trees have two spigots.

A more modern method of collecting sap includes the use of plastic pipeline. Plastic spouts are inserted into the drilled holes, connected to plastic hose and the sap runs through the vacuum system into the sugarhouse or, in Dave's case, a holding tank. Properly managed, a pipeline system yields more sap than the bucket method and is faster and less labor intensive.

On the 40 to 50 acre maple stand that Dave currently leases, he runs a total of about 14,000 feet of pipeline from 750 spigots and has about 900 buckets collecting sap. In addition to the traditional four-gallon galvanized steel buckets he also uses a number of two-gallon aluminum pails and 14-gauge plastic sap bags. As a dealer of the equipment, he likes to use various products, learning firsthand about their advantages and disadvantages.

On Thursday the sap collecting process began when the boys got home from school. Dave's parents come from Florida every year for the sapping season with his dad helping with the collection process and his mom, who has been banned from the woods for health reasons, helping in the sugarhouse. On that particular day, the sap collectors included Dave, Tammy, Dave's dad, sons Nate and Dustin, and three friends. With large plastic buckets in each hand, the team members went from tree to tree emptying the sap from the collection bucket into the plastic pails.

Once the pails are full, the contents are emptied into a holding tank on a trailer that takes the sap back to the sugarhouse where it's transferred into temperature-controlled tanks. The contents of the pipeline's tank is also transported back to the sugarhouse.

There is no doubt that the collection process is hard work. Those buckets are heavy, especially if you're only nine years old. Dustin and a third grade friend, however, seemed oblivious to the fact that they were working, and cheerful conversation competed with the sounds of nature.

Technology has brought advancement to the sugarhouse also, and the large old cauldrons once used to boil the sap have been replaced by long shallow pans called evaporators. Pumped in from the outdoor tanks, the sap first passes through two filters and an ultraviolet light.

Using a hydrometer, Dave first tests the sugar content of the sap. The amount of sugar in the sap determines how many gallons of sap it will take to produce a gallon of syrup.

The average sugar content in sap is 1.8 to 2 percent, and Dave was delighted to discover that the sugar content in Thursday's collection was 3.8 percent. At some time a mathematical producer developed what is called the "rule of 86," and when the sugar content figure is divided into 86, that number will reveal approximately how many gallons of sap it will take to produce a gallon of syrup.

Heat for evaporators is provided by either wood or oil, and Dave has chosen the traditional wood system. He uses a mix of wood that he and his helpers have cut and prepared throughout the year.

Once the firebox is filled and lit, it is only a matter of minutes before the sap is boiling and the most wonderful scent fills the sugarhouse. As the sap boils and most of the water evaporates, the sugar caramelizes and the maple flavors develop.

About an hour after firing up the evaporator, the first syrup was produced and was tested for density. Standards set by U.S. government require that maple syrup consists of at least 65.5 percent solids. Syrup that is too thin is boiled longer, and if it's too thick, the syrup is thinned with water. Satisfactory syrup is poured into a canner before it is filtered and packaged.

At capacity, Dave's evaporator will produce about three to three and one-half gallons of syrup per hour, and he expects to process about 400 gallons of syrup this year.

This year's sapping season began in mid-March, but was sluggish until last Sunday. Since Sunday the operation has produced as much syrup as it had all season so far. For the past few days, work in the sugarhouse has extended into the early morning hours.

As the season progresses the sap changes, altering the color and flavor of the finished product. The syrup is classified by color. The palest amber or fancy syrup has a delicate flavor. The dark amber or commercial syrup's flavor is stronger. Minnesota has no guidelines for grading maple syrup, and Wildwood Farm's syrup is graded according to Vermont standards.

The pure maple syrup is packaged in glass, tin and plastic containers of all sizes and sold for the most part by word of mouth. While some of the syrup is wholesaled, most of it is sold to retail customers. About half of the company's sales are made in the six weeks prior to Christmas.

Every year the fourth grade class from Clearbrook-Gonvick school tours the operation, and Dave enjoys sharing his vast knowledge with other groups as well. Information about tours or products can be obtained by calling (218) 487-5653.

Having lots of people around makes the sugar season more like the event that Dave remembers from his childhood when friends, relatives and neighbors gathered in the sugarshack. Dave compares the sociality of the sugaring season to what occurs at auction sales in this area.

Life came full circle for Dave last spring when he brought his grandparents to Minnesota. He took delight in sharing his family's new home and syrup operation with these special people in a timely visit. In failing health, his grandpa died later in the year.

Near Gonvick, Dave Wentworth will continue to share his special heritage — the gift his grandparents gave him— with his sons and, perhaps someday, his own grandchildren.

During the sugar season, 9-year-old Dustin Wentworth helps his family collect the sap that is made into syrup at Wildwood Farm near Gonvick.

4-H dog project meeting April 17

A 4-H dog project meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, April 17 in the horse barn at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

A demonstration of dog obedience, agility and flyball will be presented and followed by a question and answer period. 4-H members and others are welcome to attend. Those attending are also welcome to bring their dogs and stay after the meeting for some hands on time with the instructor.

Classes will be held in Fosston on May 3, Thief River Falls on May 4, Trail on May 5 and Crookston on May 6.

Youth who wish to sign up for the 4-H dog project may do so at the meeting or by calling the county extension office. For more information contact Michele Davis at (218) 268-4057 or Jeanie Andringa at (218) 926-5659.

Marshall County water testing set

Marshall County Water Plan Coordinator Danni Halvorson urges homeowner who haven't tested their drinking water in recent years to bring a sample to one of the Water Screening Clinics being conducted at the following locations in Marshall County:

- Tuesday, April 13, from 1:30 to 3 p.m. at the Middle River Community Center;
- Wednesday, April 14, from 9 a.m. to noon at the Viking Community Center.

Water screenings will be conducted by Halvorson, and Ray Thompson, Minnesota Extension Service educator. Samples will be tested for nitrate, bacteria, iron, pH and hardness. Samples should be in a one pint sterilized container and taken before the water enters a softener or any filtration system.

The water screening is sponsored in cooperation by Marshall County Water Planning and the Marshall County Extension Service. There is no charge for this screening.

Teleconference on grief offered in TRF April 14

On Wednesday, April 14, local folks can join with thousands across the country to participate in the sixth annual National Bereavement Teleconference. "Living with Grief: At Work, At School, At Worship", a live-via-satellite video teleconference, will examine the ways that grief influences us in various settings. The program will offer humane and practical suggestions for those assisting grievers and for organizations who may have those struggling with terminal illness and loss in their midst.

The program will be moderated by Cokie Roberts of ABC News, and will feature a panel of experts, including a Lutheran minister and professor of gerontology, a hospital chaplain, and hospice educator. Jack Gordon, President of the Hospice Foundation of America states, "Rarely do we consider the places where we grieve. Whether at work, at school, in our faith community, or at home, grief not only affects our moods and motivation but our relationships as well. It is essential that organizations take the opportunity to explore how we grieve has a profound effect on our abilities to function."

Locally, this teleconference will be held on Wednesday, April 14, 12:30-3:30 p.m., in the Pennington County Courthouse - board meeting room. A brief discussion will follow, for those interested. Refreshments will be provided by Hospice. There is no charge for the general conference; if CEU's are desired, a $20 charge will apply. Pre-registration is not required, however, sponsors would appreciate a phone call of your intent to attend so space arrangements can be made. Local sponsors are the Hospice of the Red River Valley and the Pennington County Extension Office. For further information or to "register", call the Extension office at 683-7030.

A Clearer View

Once again the hotly-debated subject of underwater cameras and their place in the sportfishing world has reared its ugly head. Personally, I thought we had this thing solved last Spring when the Minnesota State Legislature passed a law allowing for their use, provided the purchaser submitted to viewing extensive, commercial-free hours of Babe Winkelman reruns on the newly-acquired screen.

Such nauseating, self-congratulatory exposure, it was felt, would create an overwhelmingly negative physical response each time the camera was glanced at, and long-term, over use of the technological advantage would become an impossibility.

All this logic, apparently, is based on the assumption that the cameras offer a fish-catching advantage in the first place. Actually, all my recent experiences with this new-fangled underwater hardware have been relatively dull. That is, of course, if you don't include the one unfortunate incident that involved the experimental placement of the remote camera lens in my neighbor's bathtub (we only have shower stalls in my house). How was I to know that Sunday was his bath night? His soggy reaction was anything buy neighborly and his subsequent suggestions about where to put my new toy might have better served fat-fingered proctologists than curious fishermen.

Otherwise my actual, practically applied use of the camera has been far less eventful. Your Lake of the Woods experiences might have been similar. Compare: (1) Drop the lens down to the desired depth; (2) view a screen that looks suspiciously like the broadcast of your TV networks at 4 a.m. before they've begun their daily programming; (3) monkey around with the dials and the cable for an hour or so, or until you're sick of your fishing partner laughing about how badly you got ripped off; (4) pull up the lens and swear at it for a time; (5) go back to fishing the same way you did before the camera was purchased.

The specifics of your experience may vary somewhat, depending on who you take fishing. I've found, for instance, that if I'm fishing with my kids, the swearing part is something they like to do for themselves, just to show off to their Dad exactly what it is they learned in school that week.

Of if you're fishing with your wife, the laughing about getting ripped off might become a more physical event as she realizes that half of that wasted cash was hers, and a beating about your head and shoulders with her six-foot Fenwick might ensue.

My rapidly-aging father-in-law seems to have taken the most positive view of my investment. He has never once demanded a crystal-clear view of fish or bottom structure, but rivets his attention to the staticky screen for hours on end, toothlessly working on his over-dried beef jerky and occasionally blurting out, "Buy a vowel, you fool, buy a vowel!"

Should the negative comments about use of the camera ever become too overwhelming, the solution, of course, is fishing alone. Who needs company, I reason, if that company is nothing but naysayers?

Unfortunately, the application of this underwater camera is such a cumbersome and unwieldy process that to attempt it in conjunction with the use of a fishing pole is only possible by people who have lived much of their lives in the shadow of Three Mile Island and now possess extra limbs. For the average outdoorsman, the day reduces itself to a "one or the other" scenario, either simply fishing alone or watching a highly inexplicable TV screen without anybody else to complain to about it. Neither is fun and both were priority reasons for my marriage.

Realistically, there are distinct advantages to the underwater camera system. It's big and bulky and rivals the mass of the equally useless, oversized beast I call a tackle box. The two combined are approximately the same weight as four small New England states and become quite functional as ballast in the boat. With those items on the port side, I can safely and successfully fish several NFL offensive linemen and a female opera star or two off the starboard with little concern about capsizing.

And at the end of the day, when camera and tackle box get toted up to the shed, the arm stretch that accompanies such heavy lifting is applied to right and left equally. With the dangling matched arms of an ape, I'll still eventually have to purchase my Fall bow-hunting arrow selection from a flagpole dealer, but when the day comes that I cross paths with Babe Winkelman and the thoughts of that underwater camera cross my mind, I'll be able to grab him around the throat with equal pressure from both hands.

Preventing Child Abuse And Neglect Promoted

In 1997, more than 10,700 children in Minnesota suffered from abuse and neglect, according to the Minnesota Department of Human Services. Seven of those children died. Of the 10,700 children, 67.2 percent suffered from neglect, 29.4 percent were physically abused, nine percent were sexually abused and 1.6 percent suffered emotional abuse or mental injury.

Children between the ages of three and 10 years were the victims most often and some of the 10,700 were abused or neglected in more than one way.

April is Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention Awareness Month and its intent is to promote positive parenting and alert the public to the abuse and neglect problem and ways to reduce or prevent it.

"All families and children need support, and we can all help strengthen families," states Erin Sullivan Sutton, director of Family and Children's Services at the Minnesota Department of Human Services. "That includes ensuring children grow up in safe, healthy, nurturing families and helping prevent child abuse and neglect in our families, neighborhoods and communities."

"By supporting families in crisis and providing opportunities for them to respond more positively to their children, we can help prevent abuse and neglect," Sullivan added. "We must all work together. Parents, friends and neighbors must intervene whenever a child is hurt or in danger of being hurt. Communities must look at the needs of families to help parents raise their children in safe environments. Organizations, businesses and government must provide services and assistance to families in crisis."

Gov. Jesse Ventura, in a guest editorial written for Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention Awareness Month, takes a more direct approach:

"I've said it before and I'll say it again!" he says. "Parents are responsible for taking care of their children. That means loving them, educating them, feeding them, sheltering them and protecting them from harm. But when parents can't do this—because of financial problems, alcohol and drug abuse and other difficulties—someone else must step in. And that someone else is each one of us. We—parents, friends, neighbors, teachers, businesses, extended families, religious organizations, community organizations—are responsible for these kids."

It's not that Minnesota is without means to provide assistance or services when the need arises. According to Gov. Ventura, the state has 15 crisis nursery sites, numerous parenting and family-focused classes at community centers, home visiting and family counseling services available through community and nonprofit resources, and foster parent and adoption services coordinated through government agencies. We have state agencies— including the Minnesota Department of Human Services—87 county agencies and numerous programs and organizations devoted to helping families and children in abusive and neglectful situations.

"Government shouldn't step in where parents are in charge, but we know everyone needs help sometimes," the governor says. "A father whose wife falls seriously ill and who has no nearby support needs help to care for his three children. A mother who is juggling work, finances and housing while caring for her two children needs respite. A first-time parent who was neglected as a child needs to learn how to be a good parent."

There may be many circumstances under which children are neglected and abused, but all involve the self-centered attitude of the person or persons doing the abusing or neglecting. Children restrict freedom, compete for affection or attention, cost money, make noise, get in the way. They may be unwanted reminders of past mistakes or failed relationships. To sexual abusers they are convenient, vulnerable and exploitable.

There are some types of crime we can understand being committed. We can rationalize someone without a job committing a burglary to get the money needed for survival. We can see where spontaneous jealousy or rage could trigger an assault. But we can neither understand nor condone any adult abusing or neglecting a child. Indeed, responsible adults put the welfare of their children first—ahead of their own needs, wishes or desires.

While it is true that we must provide help to children in abusive or neglectful situations for their immediate safety and health, it is unlikely there will be any meaningful reduction in abuse or neglect until there is a change in adult attitude from self to others. And with the emphasis in recent years on "self-esteem" and "doing your own thing" and "you owe it to yourself" instead of responsibility for your actions, that attitude is going to be difficult to change.

"Government has a role to play, but only as a last resort," Gov. Ventura says. "With the help and support of friends, neighbors, communities and others, we hope government never has to get involved. But if we do, we must be prepared to provide the boost parents need to raise their children and help them become productive members of society."

All well and good, but society must also cease to be tolerant of selfish behavior which results in abuse and neglect. We must preach, teach and beseech responsible behavior toward all children all of the time. And we should be sure we look to ourselves first as models in responsible parenting, putting our children first and seeing to their care and welfare.

Torgerson named guest director at festival

Les Torgerson, director of music at Northland Community and Technical College, will be the guest director at the Missota Music Festival held in New Prague, Minnesota on Friday, April 9th.

The festival includes seven choirs (approximately 300 students) which will be performing together under Les Torgerson's direction. These choirs include Academy of the Holy Angels, Hutchinson, Shakopee, Prior Lake, Red Wing, New Prague, and Northfield.

Torgerson was involved in the pre-rehearsal at Prior Lake, as well as serving as guest clinician for the choirs working with their choral ensemble throughout the day on Friday. The final concert will be held at 7 p.m. in the New Prague gymnasium on Friday, April 9th.

Les Torgerson has been the director of music since 1972 at Northland Community College. He holds bachelors and masters degrees from Bemidji State University and has done graduate work at Indiana University and most recently, Doctoral studies at Arizona State University with Dr. Douglas McEwen. Torgerson has served on the board of directors for MMEA and Minnesota ACDA, and is currently serving as Campus Leader for Faculty Development at Northland.

Applications for energy assistance being received

Northwest Community Action office in Badger is now taking applications for the 1999 energy assistance program from households in Kittson, Lake of the Woods, east Marshall and Roseau counties. The application deadline has been extended to June 1.

Fuel assistance eligibility is based on household income, size and assets. Individuals or families who live in subsidized housing may also qualify for fuel assistance.

Eligibility guidelines for a three-month period start at a maximum gross income of $3,653 for a single person household and increase by $1,124 for each additional household member: $4,777 for two, $5,901 for three, $7,025 for four, etc.

Persons who believe they may be eligible and have not applied since July 1, 1998, may write Northwest Community Action at P.O. Box 67, Badger, MN 56714 or call 218-528-3258 and an application will be mailed to them.

Melissa Smith is B/G-MR MVP

Melissa Smith was selected as the most valuable player recently as Badger/Greenbush-Middle River named its 1998-99 girls basketball award winners.

Smith was also recognized as the Gators' best offensive player. Other awards went to Kelsey Foldesi, best defensive player, Merri Reese, best passer; and Dezi Savde, who was the recipient of the Gator Award.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River enjoyed another strong season this winter with a 19-5 record, but a 38-28 Sub-Section 32A tournament semifinal loss to Stephen-Argyle left the Gators short of their preseason goals.

Graduation had taken five seniors, four starters and three all-North Border Conference players from the Gators' 17-7 team of a year ago, and coach Tom Neibauer recalled challenging underclassmen to continue the tradition of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River basketball that has averaged over 19 wins per season in the seven years the cooperative has been in existence.

They met the challenge with a campaign that included a championship performance at the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational, a third place finish at the Northland Community and Technical College Invitational and a third place showing at the Sub-Section 32A tournament.

The five losses came at the hands of top-of-the-line competition, with the Gators losing two games each to Roseau and Stephen-Argyle, while losing once to Kittson Central.

It was an 18 percent shooting night against the Storm in the Sub-Section 32A semifinals that put a damper on things, according to Neibauer. "It was disappointing the way the tournament went," he said. "We had talked all year about facing Kittson Central in the finals. But we had some quality wins, and we lost to some good teams. We just happen to be stuck in the best sub-section in 8A."

It was the Gators' defense that made them so tough, noted Neibauer, whose team never gave up more than 56 points in a game and often held teams in the 20 and 30-point totals. "It was the best defensive team I've ever had," he said. "They worked hard."

Don't look for a drop in the Gators' program any time soon. "We will always be a contender," promised Neibauer, who played nine girls on a regular season this year, and will have five of them back in 1999-2000. Two years ago graduation took out the Gators' backcourt. This time it'll take post people like Smith, Savde, Foldesi, along with Reese, a guard.

RLCC girls have 18-6 season

It wasn't the kind of finish you hope for, but the trip to the Sub-Section 30A finals was an enjoyable one, according to Red Lake County Central girls high school basketball coach Rick Koivisto.

The Mustangs finished the 1998-99 season 18-6 with a roster that featured just one senior. "Things probably went a little better than we anticipated at the beginning of the year," said Koivisto, who pointed to the Mustangs' off-season work as a major factor in their success. "The things they did during the summer showed up right away," he explained.

Sylvia Hilgeman, a 5-6 guard, carried a team-leading 13.6 scoring average, and 5-10 forward Tracy Rosten stood out by averaging 10.8 points and 7.6 rebounds per game. "Tracy really improved this year," noted Koivisto. "She had a good season."

Hilgeman and Rosten shared most valuable player honors when post-season team awards were announced. Emily Brustad and Emily Fisher were selected co-most improved; Erika Vettleson was named Miss Hustle and the team's best defensive player; while Heather Schiefert was recognized for best free throw shooting percentage.

Vettleson was the Mustangs' lone senior this winter. Juniors made up the rest of the roster.

All-Northern Galaxy Conference honors went to Hilgeman, Rosten and Schiefert, with Vettleson given honorable mention status.

There were a couple of bumps along the way for the Mustangs. "We lost a few games where we couldn't hold on to a lead," pointed out Koivisto. And the 63-37 loss to Fosston in the Sub-Section 30A final wasn't a highlight, either. "That was our worst game of the year. That was about the only real negative thing around the season, he said."

The Mustangs' athletic efforts were complemented by the announcement that Red Lake County Central was the Section 8A academic champion for girls basketball in 1998-99 with a 3.76 grade point average.

It was the second straight sub-section tournament final for the Mustangs, who would like to take it a step farther next season when the eight juniors on this year's varsity will be back for a final run.

Early season schedule changed

■ TRF softball team starts year on the road

Thief River Falls, forced to postpone home games against Bemidji and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart because of weather and field conditions, instead opened the 1999 high school softball season on the road Thursday when the Prowlers met Sacred Heart in a game played at the Apollo Sports Complex in Grand Forks.

First-year head coach Matt Okeson was anxious to see what kind of team he has. Practice began March 15, but work has been limited to mostly indoor drills.

"We've got a bunch of seniors; but some of them are out (for softball) for the first time," pointed out Okeson, "so we're a little inexperienced. But they've been working really hard."

The Prowlers were 4-13 last spring. They will try to improve upon that behind six returning letter winners who are likely to be in the starting line-up: senior Lacey Huschle, the team's top pitcher; junior shortstop Erika Hudson, senior second baseman Becky Wegner and junior first baseman Becca Leach, who will anchor the infield; along with seniors Jackie Hoglo (left) and Jenny Swanson (right) in the outfield.

Expected to complete the starting unit will be senior catcher Andrea Stinson, sophomore third baseman Kylie Rogalla and junior center fielder Alissa Hoffman.

Senior outfielder Rachel Greelis is also a returning letter winner. Rest of the seniors on the roster include outfielders Gretchen Hanson and Bryanna Helgeland, catcher Stephanie Tveiten, pitcher Carolyn Walrath, and first baseman April Schmit.

Others looking for varsity playing time will be junior Jennifer Rude (outfield); sophomores Lindsey Nordhagen (second base), Sara Jensen (first base) and Amy Christenson (outfield); plus freshmen Abbie Houske (pitcher), Lydya Sollom (second base), Meghan Nelson (third base), and Rebekah Solem (shortstop).

A large freshman group out for the sport also includes Miriah Johnson, Nicole Ryan, Bryana Molskness, Molly Hanson, Naomi Kenner, Crissy Wegner, Kay Steiger, Emily Tweet, Jenessa Blazejewski, Cheryl Schob, Amber Gerardy, Stacy Harbott, Amy Jelle, Kari Zblewski, Loretta Hruby, Ashleigh Anderson, Janae Harlow, Mary Jo Olson, and Kayla Noreen.

Okeson said it appears the pitching and defense will be okay. It's the offense that produces the uncertainty. "Hitting is the big question," he said. "Everybody looks good in the batting cage, but sometimes it's a little different when they face live pitching."

This is the first varsity head coaching job for Okeson, who coached the 1998-99 Thief River Falls freshman boys basketball team.

Pioneers drop two in season-opening debut vs. Spartans

Fergus Falls swept visiting Northland 14-1 and 17-7 in a Wednesday Minnesota Community College Conference baseball doubleheader that reflected the differences in early-season weather conditions between west-central and northwestern Minnesota. It was not only the 1999 season opener for the Pioneers, but also the first time they've been outside this spring. The Spartans, on the other hand, have not only been practicing outdoors, they already had a couple of outings under their belt.

"It made a big difference," said first-year Northland head coach, referring to the Fergus Falls scheduling advantage. "We looked better in the second game – we made better contact at the plate. But our pitching still has a long ways to go."

Ott used six pitchers during the day, but did not throw Andy Harbott, who is listed as the Pioneers' top pitcher, in an effort to save him for a scheduled MCCC Northern Division doubleheader today (Saturday) against Hibbing. The Fergus Falls twinbill was not a division-counting match-up.

Northland ran into trouble right away in both contests. First-game starting pitcher Cole Young failed to retire a single batter, giving up four hits and five runs. Second-game starter Matt Lanctot recorded two quick outs, but then gave up nine runs before he could get the third out of the first inning. Both games ended early on the 10-run rule.

Sacred Heart handles Thief River Falls 28-3 in '99 softball opener

East Grand Forks Sacred Heart turned Thief River Falls mistakes into runs Thursday as the Eagles overwhelmed the Prowlers 28-3 in season-opening high school softball action.

"Our inexperience showed," said Thief River Falls coach Matt Okeson. "We missed the key things. We could of been out of the innings with just a couple of runs, but we didn't make the plays, and they ended up scoring a bunch of runs."

The game was played in Grand Forks.

Boys swim squad awards presented

Most valuable honors went to Zach Olson Thursday during the Thief River Falls boys high school swim team banquet.

Other special awards went to Luke Miller, most improved; Nathan Browning, most promising; and Derek Ptacek, most spirit. Dane Froiland was named most improved junior varsity swimmer, while Olson and Colin Browning received captains plaques.

Special recognition was also given to the Prowlers' 1998-99 state meet qualifiers – Olson, Sam Kezar, Colin Browning, Rory Hoven, and Nathan Browning, along with relay team alternate Aaron Field.

Letters winners included seniors Colin Browning and Ptacek; juniors Anders Brown, Hoven, Kezar, and Olson; freshmen Jason Swenson, Nathan Browning, and Field; eighth graders Cody Sorvig and Brett Reed; along with student managers Lindsay Ehrenstrom, Andi Sorvig, and Jenni Sorvig.

"I as extremely pleased with the way the season went," said John Vukmanich following his first year as Thief River Falls head coach. "Things went way beyond my expectations, both swim-wise and team-wise. It was a great bunch of kids to work with. A number of coaches during the season remarked how impressed they were with the camaraderie shown by our kids."

Nine of the 15 Thief River Falls regular season outings were multiple-team invitationals. The Prowlers were 4-2 in dual meet competition, beating Crookston 89-66, Perham 110-56, Detroit Lakes 92-88, and Park Rapids Area 94-89, while losing to Bemidji 99-65 and Moorhead 96-76.

"The kids came through," noted Vukmanich, saying the number of state qualifiers attests to the quality of the Prowlers' performances. "The kids made some great improvements this year, but you can always get better. I'm going to keep pushing them. The fast kids can still go faster."

With just two seniors on this year's squad, the immediate future looks bright for the Prowlers. "Next year is looking good," remarked Vukmanich. "We'll have most of the kids back, and we've got a good group of young kids coming up.

Others involved in this year's swim program included sophomore Neel Patel; eighth graders Gabe Carlson, Abe Lee, and Bryan Sorvig; seventh graders Nathan Bylander, Dusty Elta, Joe Hickey, and Josh Swenson; plus sixth graders Cody Jorstad and Jon Kays.

1999 high school tennis opener...

Spuds, Green Wave post wins over TRF

Moorhead and East Grand Forks handed Thief River Falls a pair of losses Tuesday in season-opening boys high school tennis.

The Prowlers lost to the Spuds 6-1 and fell to the Green Wave 5-2 in the double-dual played at the Grand Forks Tennis Centre.

Lone Thief River Falls win against Moorhead came from Darin Bjerknes at No. 4 singles. The Prowlers' wins vs. East Grand Forks were supplied by Joe Broten at No. 2 singles and Andy Janisch-Matt Lutovsky at No. 1 doubles.

Of the 12 players used by first-year Thief River Falls head coach Troy Hanestad, only three are seniors – Bjerknes, Janisch and Tom Fogarty, who played No. 1 singles. The line-up also included two juniors, one sophomore and six freshmen.

The Prowlers were scheduled to be in Detroit Lakes today (Saturday) for a double-dual against the Lakers and Alexandria beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Two arrested in TRF by Federal agents

Federal agents assisted by local law enforcement arrested two men in Thief River Falls Thursday.

Through investigation law enforcement officials in Thief River Falls learned that it was possible that there were two illegal immigrants in the City of Thief River Falls, and that one of the individuals was wanted on a Federal warrant. With the help of the Minnesota State Patrol and Border Patrol, the two subjects were located and arrested.

Louis Edward Salgado, 30, was arrested on a Federal warrant for drug trafficking, and was turned over to Federal Marshals. Heriberto Estrada-Gahera, 48, an illegal immigrant, was turned over to U.S. Border Patrol.

A search warrant was conducted of the vehicle the two men were in, but no drugs were found. No charges will be filed locally.

Cloverbuds to meet

Teleconference on grieving Apr. 14

Riverview's Community Hospice in Crookston, together with the Hospice Foundation of America, will sponsor the sixth annual National Bereavement Teleconference on April 14.

The teleconference, entitled "Living with Grief: At Work, At School, At Worship" will be broadcast in the Sahlstrom conference room at the University of Minnesota-Crookston from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. and will be shown via live satellite. It will feature four national experts on various areas of grief and be moderated by Cokie Roberts, ABC news anchorperson.

The teleconference will examine how loss and grief affect our interactions with others and the way we function in our day to day surroundings. The program will offer humane and practical suggestions for those assisting people who are grieving and is intended for both professionals and laypeople.

Fore more information about this program, contact local sponsor Riverview Community Hospice at (218) 281-9478 or call toll free 1-800-743-6551, ext. 478.

Ditch 83 suggestions

feasibility study was available at the meeting and covers the basic information presented. The text of that summary follows.

Flood Record

Streamflow records on the Thief River begin in 1909. The gaging station is located just downstream from State Ditch 83 in Section 3 of south Excel township, Marshall county. U.S. Geological Survey published data from 1909 through 1997 includes 82 years of record. The gage was not in service during 1918, 1919, 1922, 1925, 1926, 1927 and 1928.

Flooding typically occurs along SD 83 when flow exceed about 1,300 cubic feet per second (cfs). This flow was exceeded at least once during 46 of the 82 years of record. This indicates a historic flood return period of about 1.8 years.

Agricultural damages are primarily associated with summer flooding. Summer floods with peak flows exceeding 1,300 cfs occurred during 21 of the 82 years of record. This indicates a summer flood return period of about 3.9 years.

Floods on the Thief River are characterized by long duration. This is due to the large amount of natural and impounded storage. While this storage tends to reduce peak flows, it also increases the probability that a flood will occur during the flow period of a preceding flood. Five of these floods occurred during the recession period of a spring flood event, when flows in the channel were still above 500 cfs. Long duration spring flood events can also substantially delay spring planting, with a resulting reduction in yield potential.

Flood Damage Reduction Strategy

Flood damage reduction may be accomplished by different methods. In general, they fall into the categories of (1) reducing flows, (2) increasing flow capacity and (3) improving flood tolerance. This study considers (1) reducing flows by storing flood waters and (2) increasing flow capacity by constructing a controlled diversion channel.

Because SD83 is upstream from other significant flood damage areas, alternatives are necessarily limited to those that would not significantly increase downstream flooding potential. The downstream flood damages are primarily related to high peak flows during major spring floods. Increasing flood storage will tend to reduce flows in all downstream areas and is therefore a regionally preferred solution. Increasing flow capacity will tend to increase downstream flows and therefore should only be done in a controlled manner that avoids contributing to downstream high peak flows.

Controlled Diversion Channels

The diversion channels are essentially an alternative to increasing SD83 channel capacity. SD83, from Agassiz downstream, is an enlarged and somewhat straightened reach of the Thief River. Further enlarging SD83 would significantly impact the existing natural resource values of the river and its riparian corridor. It would also allow an uncontrolled increase in downstream flood flows.

The diversion avoids disturbing the riparian corridor, and flows on the diversion can be controlled to avoid downstream flood impacts. The diversion channel may also be thought of as a bypass channel. During periods of high flow some of the water will bypass SD83, entering the Thief River downstream from where SD83 ends, where the natural channel capacity is greater.

The capacity of SD83 is inadequate from Agassiz to the downstream end. However, because of the substantial flow contribution of County Ditch 20, SD83 and the diversion will be considered as two reaches. The upper reach is from Agassiz to CD 20. The lower reach is from CD20 to the downstream end of SD83.

The capacity of the upper reach is about 1,100 cfs. The capacity of the lower reach is about 1,300 cfs. Early in the flood event the lower reach is limiting because of high uncontrolled flows from CD 20. Late in the flood event the upper reach is limiting because of the long duration of flows released from storage from Agassiz and the other upstream impoundments.

The maximum desirable capacity of the diversion depends on the capacity of the Thief River downstream from the diversion. Determining this capacity would require a survey of damage prone properties, which is beyond the scope of this study. For the purposes of this study, downstream capacity has not been considered to be a limiting factor. Control facilities will be operated to prevent significant downstream flood damages.

Benefit for Aubrey Jasper set for April 11

Aubrey Jasper, daughter of Mitch and Renae Engelstad, Thief River Falls, is a 15-and-one-half year-old girl who has neurological muscle disorder, called dystonia. She underwent a brain surgery, called bi-lateral pallidotomy on March 29 in Houston, TX. Some in Thief River Falls may have attended a first benefit held on Aubrey's behalf on March 14, a second benefit will be held April 11, at Evangelical Free Church.

The second benefit, which will be a "Worship Musical Celebrating Our Risen Lord" performed by the Evangelical Free Church Choir, 211 North Arnold Ave., Thief River Falls. It is entitled "He is Worthy" and will be held Sunday, April 11 at 6:30 p.m. at The Evangelical Free Church. A free-will offering will be taken to benefit Aubrey.

Aubrey Jasper

The surgery went well with no negative effects. Family and friends are still waiting to see improvement in the dystonia. Aubrey and the Engelstads will return to Thief River Falls this week to await good results.

Meeting set on reconstruction of Hwy. 75

Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) will be holding an information meeting to discuss with the public project issues relating to the proposed reconstruction of United States Trunk Highway 75, beginning .07 miles south of the junction of Minnesota Trunk Highway 1 in Warren north to Pleasant Avenue.

The information meeting will be held on Tuesday, April 20 at the Bremer Bank Building, 202 West Johnson Avenue, in Warren. An open house format will be used so people do not have to be at the meeting at any specific time, but will be able to discuss the project with Mn/DOT personnel, make comments, and ask questions at any time between 4 and 7 p.m.

Project summary, color layout, traffic detour phasing, and other pertinent information will be available for public review at the meeting and at the Mn/DOT district office in Thief River Falls. The project is in the design phase and will include the reconstruction of the entire highway. The highway will be subcut approximately three feet with new sidewalk, curb and gutter, and bituminous pavement. Most utilities under the road will also be replaced including the storm sewer. The proposed letting date for this project is January 28, 2000, with a total proposed cost of $1,500,000. Construction will start in the summer of 2000.

If you are unable to attend the meeting or have further questions you are invited to contact Duane Hill, Mn/DOT design engineer at Mn/DOT, P.O. Box 490, Bemidji, MN 56601 or at 218-755-4521.

The meeting site is handicapped accessible. For special accommodation needs or to request an auxiliary aid please contact Duane Hill at the above address or telephone number.

Kinship Caregiver forum to be held

Minnesota Kinship Caregivers Association will host a Caregiver Forum to raise awareness of community leaders and policymakers about the concerns, challenges and barriers that grandparents and other kinship caregivers face when raising relatives' children.

Caregivers are invited to attend and voice their thoughts at a forum scheduled for Monday, April 12, from 9 to 11 a.m. at the Heritage Community Center at 301 East Fourth Street in Thief River Falls.

To register or obtain further information call the Northwest Area Agency on Aging on the Senior Linkage Line at 1-800-333-2433.

Warroad Traditional Pow Wow scheduled for June 4, 5 and 6

Sixth annual Warroad Traditional Pow Wow has been scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 4, 5 and 6 in the city park in Warroad.

Whitefish Bay Singers, considered to be North America's top drum group, will be the host drum. Vince Beyel from Bemidji and Murphy Thomas from Red Lake will share duties of Master of Ceremonies. James Boucha will be arena director.

Last year the event drew more that 550 dancers and 32 drums and attendance is expected to grow again this year. There were nine food concession stands and 14 crafts stands along with an estimated 2,500 visitors for the three-day event. The general public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Chairman Henry Boucha said the Warroad Traditional Pow Wow—as a gathering of the Anninishnabe people to socialize and celebrate through song and dance, the beginning of the growing season—is culturally relevant for the people. He said it is also a "simply wonderful experience" and has always been of positive economic benefit for the community.

Friday, June 4, will be Camp Day with a ground blessing and participation by the Indian Education Department. A grand entry will take place at 1 and 7 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday, June 5 and 6 with a feast at 5 p.m. both days.

Dance specials June 5 will be the Women's Jingle Dress and Men's Traditional and on June 6 will be the Robert Kakaygeesick Grass Dance and the Women's Traditional.

Gonvick seniors learn computer skills from 4th grade

Gonvick - On March 24 two classes of senior citizens began working with 4th grade students on basic computer skills in the computer lab at Franklin School in Gonvick. Four-week sessions will be held with the next set of sessions beginning April 21.

The course was developed by a Bemidji woman and was [illegible] successful in teaching [illegible] computer skills to [illegible] seniors. The Leader-Record

RLF students learn from Automated Weather Source

Red Lake Falls - Students in Red Lake Falls can now access up-to-the-minute weather reports from around the world, as well as study long-term weather patterns and a host of other weather-related subjects.

F.A. Hughes Elementary School and Lafayette High School received a $3,000 Goals 2000 grant to purchase an [illegible] AirWatch Weather System, [illegible] communications software and digital display. The grant [illegible] through the state of Minnesota to supplement education programs. The Leader-Record

Hallock driver's ed teacher to quit after 42-year career

Hallock - After finishing up with two students, John Money of Hallock will end his 42-year driver's education career at Kittson County Central.

Money estimates that he has taught over 1,500 students to drive since he began teaching the course in 1957. Dave Noe will take over as the driving instructor. Kittson County Enterprise

Guardsmen train in wilderness survival

Crookston - Spec. E-4 Terry Moser and Staff Sgt. E-6 Alan Melvey were among [illegible] Minnesota National Guardsmen who recently spent three weeks in Norway learning about wilderness survival.

The Guardsman trained with the Norwegian Home Guard. In Norway, every male who is physically fit must serve a year in the Home Guard. Beyond that year, regular service is voluntary. Moser and Melvey are both of Crookston and members of the Thief River Falls Unit of the Minnesota National Guard, 2nd Battalion, [illegible] Infantry [illegible] Division. Crookston [illegible]

A Thief River Falls Police officer goes through a car used by two Grand Forks men while allegedly taking stereo equipment and other items from nine cars in Thief River Falls Wednesday morning.

Alert neighbor helps in capture of thieves stealing from cars

A variety of items were taken from nine vehicles early Wednesday morning in Thief River Falls. Charges are pending against two Grand Forks men.

Charges of felony theft are pending against Michael Ryan Gefroh, 19, Grond Forks, and Kendall Scott Feist, 18, Grand Porks. The two men were taken into custody early Wednesday morning after they were observed breaking into cars, and an alert neighbor contacted police. Thief River Falls police have connected the men to thefts from nine vehicles in Thief River Falls.

At 4:33 a.m. police received a 9-1-1 call they thought was an emergency medical call for assistance. While enroute they observed a car leaving the area. When they arrived at the location of the 9-1-1 call they learned from a witness that the two occupants in the car that had just left the area had broken into a car at St. Paul and Muzzy. Police began searching the area and eventually one officer observed the car parked among other cars in a parking lot at Greenwood Apartments. While waiting for back-up to arrive, the officer observed the two men from the car go from vehicle to vehicle and looking inside the vehicles. When the second officer arrived on the scene, the two men were taken into custody. One of the men had attempted to hide under a van, but both offered no resistance. Inside the suspects' car, officers found numerous items that had been taken from cars, such as stereos, CDS, in-line skates, and a b-b pistol.

Police eventually received nine reports of thefts from vehicles, and had connected the two men to the thefts. Because the two men used a metal bar to break windows to enter the vehicles, they caused considerable damage to the cars. Damage loss was estimated at $4,322. Theft loss has been estimated at $3,512. All of the stolen items, but a few items with a total value of $712, have been recovered.

Grand Forks police have since joined in the investigation.

Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser thanked his officers for good police work, and credited an alert neighbor for helping stop crime in her neighborhood.

Red Lake Electric Trust grants $9,900 to 12 organizations

Operation Round Up funds totaling $9,900 were distributed to 12 area organizations by the Red Lake Electric Trust board of directors at its recent meeting. Operation Round Up is administered by Red Lake Electric Cooperative headquartered in Red Lake Falls.

Each month over 3,300 energy customers of Red Lake Electric voluntarily round up their billing to the next highest dollar with the difference between the bill and the payment going to fund grants. The average annual donation per customer is less than $6, but the total amount donated by all customers in the program approaches $20,000.

"The program continues to exceed our expectation," says Mark Naplin, outgoing president of the trust fund board. "Through the generosity of Red Lake Electric customers, we have been able to grant $120,605 to area community and charitable organizations since the program began in 1993. The grants have been made to help out all kinds of people and projects that really need the money."

From the latest round of grants, recipients were the following:

Thief River Falls branch of Hospice of the Red River Valley was granted $1,500 to help provide emotional and spiritual care for the terminally ill and their families, as well as bereavement care for family and friends after death of the patient. This branch has received a total of $11,300 in grants since 1993—the largest individual recipient of Operation Round Up funds.

A recently-formed organization, the Northwestern Minnesota Law Enforcement Chaplains, was granted $1,250 to provide training for area clergy to address special needs of officers, their families and the general public after a fatal or serious incident.

Red River Valley Emerging Leaders program was given $400 to provide community leadership training to selected farm families and agri-business people. The Red Lake County Chapter of the American Cancer Society received $500 for its local programs. Viking area residents will be able to use a new picnic shelter in the city park as the result of a $1,250 grant.

Grants of $500 each were made to the Little Brother/Little Sister programs in Pennington and Marshall counties. The family Advocacy Program in Thief River Falls, which provides programs for teen parents and their children, received a $1,500 grant to provide outreach training to parents, educators and child care providers.

Clearwood Group Home in Red Lake Falls was given $1,000 to construct an outdoor patio for their residents and the residents' families. Occupational Development Center of Red Lake Falls received a $500 grant to purchase equipment for their new facility that provides adaptive training to handicapped clients.

A $500 grant was made to the St. Hilaire Senior Center for repairs to its building. Rosebank Historical Association was given $500 to maintain and preserve the Rosebank School building near Viking.

Red Lake Electric trust board of directors determines grant recipients in March and October of each year. Directors include Mark Naplin, Orlan Stolaas, Joyce Johnson, Veral Mosbeck and Ron Kennedy.

Amour is the theme for Lincoln prom April 24

Amour is the theme for the junior-senior prom to be held in the gymnasium at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls Saturday, April 24. In excess of 130 couples are expected to participate in the event.

Linda Goulet, advisor for the junior class which sponsors the annual prom, said the decorations will feature the Eiffel Tower with "lots and lots of glitz and glitter." Last year the Lincoln prom placed fourth in a national competition conducted by the company supplying prom decorations, and Goulet said this year's effort will be even better.

The public has an opportunity to share in the festivities by attending the grand march. An admission of $2 per person is charged and proceeds are used to pay for decorations and other expenses. Doors to the school will open at 7 p.m. with students and their guests to use the gymnasium doors near the west end of the school and the general public asked to use the main doors at the northeast corner of the building.

Grond march will begin at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium, followed by the dance from 9 p.m. to midnight. Music will be provided for the fourth consecutive year by Billy D and the Crystals from Wahpeton, ND.

"They play music the kids enjoy and most of the students stay until the dance is over at midnight because they are having such a good time," Goulet added. "Members of the public attending the grand march who would like to see the decorations usually stop briefly at the gymnasium after the grond march."

Following the prom a post-prom party will be hosted by Elks Lodge 1308 in the clubrooms above Ekeren Drug from midnight to 4 a.m. The Elks lodge sponsors the party but is assisted in its presentation by any number of local and area businesses which have donated money and merchandise.

Recorded music will be played by a group called the Undertakers, food and soft drinks will be available and many prizes will be awarded toward the end of the evening. After 1:30 a.m. the doors will be closed and no one leaving will be permitted to re-enter, according to Steve Stone, manager of the Elks clubrooms.

Stone added that approximately 150 business and professional donors had provided prizes to be awarded and some cash donations to assist with food, entertainment and other costs. Stone said that typically about 225 to 275 young people attend the party each year.

Nominations sought for Entrepreneur, Business of the Year in TR Falls

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce is seeking nominations for a business and an entrepreneur to be recognized with the Business of the Year and Entrepreneur of the Year awards during Small Business Week May 23-29.

For the past 12 years in Thief River Falls specific businesses and entrepreneurs have received this recognition. Special recognition will be given to this year's winners at a breakfast on Tuesday, May 25, at 8 a.m. at the Evergreen Eating Emporium. The public is invited to attend.

Nomination forms are available at the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. Deadline for nominations is May 5, 1999. For more information or to have a nomination form faxed to you, call the Chamber of Commerce office at 681-3720.

Business of the Year award recognizes outstanding business owners and operators for their achievements in running a successful business that has had some impact on the community, the owners/managers of the business have demonstrated creativity (in product development, marketing, production, methods or service delivery) and community involvement. Business places in all sectors of the economy are eligible for nomination.

Entrepreneur of the Year award is for someone who has started a successful, new operation within the last seven or eight years, has demonstrated creativity, and overcome constraints or barriers.

23 Lincoln students make Washington Close Up tour

Twenty-three seniors from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls participated in the Washington Close Up tour to study U.S. government and the nation's capital March 21-27. Advisor Charlie Cornell and his wife Kittie escorted the students on the tour.

During the week the students met with Senators Paul Wellstone and Rod Grams and Rep. Collin Peterson. During these meetings the students had an opportunity to ask questions (Cornell said Kosovo was a "hot topic") of these officials.

Students also met with several lobbying groups including Major League Baseball, Mobil and others. They were able to visit major memorials as well as Arlington National Cemetery, the White House and Holocaust Museum and take part in seminars and workshops.

Activities also included attendance at a performance by the comedy group Capital Steps, a banquet and a final dance.

Students provided approximately 60 percent of the money needed for the trip individually, and raised about 20 percent in group projects including sales of coupons, candles and hockey tournament programs, baking and selling 1,500 dozen Christmas cookies and holding a group rummage sale.

Another 20 percent of the funds was received in donations from Forsberg's, Arctic Cat, Inc., Sjoberg's Cable TV, Celeste Leach

Hallock driver's ed teacher to quit after 42-year career

Hallock - After finishing up with two students, John Money of Hallock will end his 42-year driver's education career at Kittson County Central.

Money estimates that he has taught over 1,500 students to drive since he began teaching the course in 1957. Dave Noel will take over as the driving instructor. Kittson County Enterprise

Guardsmen train in wilderness survival

Crookston - Spec. E-4 Terry Moser and Staff Sgt. E-6 Alan Melvey were among 120 Minnesota National Guardsmen who recently spent three weeks in Norway learning about wilderness survival.

The Guardsman trained with the Norwegian Home Guard. In Norway, every male who is physically fit must serve a year in the Home Guard. Beyond that year, regular service is voluntary. Moser and Melvey are both of Crookston and members of the Thief River Falls Unit of the Minnesota National Guard, 2nd Battalion, 136th Infantry (Mech.) Division. Crookston Daily Times

EGF to celebrate flood anniversary

East Grand Forks - For the second straight year, East Grand Forks will have a community-wide party marking the anniversary of the flood of 1997.

This year's celebration will be held today (Saturday, April 17) and will include six ground-breaking ceremonies, a marathon, a book-signing and a community dance as well as a two-hour farm crisis listening session with the legislators that are expected to attend. The Exponent

A Thief River Falls Police officer goes through a car used by two Grand Forks men while allegedly taking stereo equipment and other items from nine cars in Thief River Falls Wednesday morning.

Alert neighbor helps in capture of thieves stealing from cars

A variety of items were taken from nine vehicles early Wednesday morning in Thief River Falls. Charges are pending against two Grand Forks men.

Charges of felony theft are pending against Michael Ryan Gefroh, 19, Grand Forks, and Kendall Scott Feist, 18, Grand Forks. The two men were taken into custody early Wednesday morning after they were observed breaking into cars, and an alert neighbor contacted police. Thief River Falls police have connected the men to thefts from nine vehicles in Thief River Falls.

At 4:33 a.m. police received a 9-1-1 call they thought was an emergency medical call for assistance. While enroute they observed a car leaving the area. When they arrived at the location of the 9-1-1 call they learned from a witness that the two occupants in the car that had just left the area had broken into a car at St. Paul and Muzzy. Police began searching the area and eventually one officer observed the car parked among other cars in a parking lot at Greenwood Apartments. While waiting for back-up to arrive, the officer observed the two men from the car go from vehicle to vehicle and looking inside the vehicles. When the second officer arrived on the scene, the two men were taken into custody. One of the men had attempted to hide under a van, but both offered no resistance. Inside the suspects' car, officers found numerous items that had been taken from cars, such as stereos, CDS, in-line skates, and a b-b pistol.

Police eventually received nine reports of thefts from vehicles, and had connected the two men to the thefts. Because the two men used a metal bar to break windows to enter the vehicles, they caused considerable damage to the cars. Damage loss was estimated at $4,322. Theft loss has been estimated at $3,512. All of the stolen items, but a few items with a total value of $712, have been recovered.

Grand Forks police have since joined in the investigation.

Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser thanked his officers for good police work, and credited an alert neighbor for helping stop crime in her neighborhood.

Red Lake Electric Trust grants $9,900 to 12 organizations

Operation Round Up funds totaling $9,900 were distributed to 12 area organizations by the Red Lake Electric Trust board of directors at its recent meeting. Operation Round Up is administered by Red Lake Electric Cooperative headquartered in Red Lake Falls.

Each month over 3,300 energy customers of Red Lake Electric voluntarily round up their billing to the next highest dollar with the difference between the bill and the payment going to fund grants. The average annual donation per customer is less than $6, but the total amount donated by all customers in the program approaches $20,000.

"The program continues to exceed our expectation," says Mark Naplin, outgoing president of the trust fund board. "Through the generosity of Red Lake Electric customers, we have been able to grant $120,605 to area community and charitable organizations since the program began in 1993. The grants have been made to help out all kinds of people and projects that really need the money."

From the latest round of grants, recipients were the following:

Thief River Falls branch of Hospice of the Red River Valley was granted $1,500 to help provide emotional and spiritual care for the terminally ill and their families, as well as bereavement care for family and friends after death of the patient. This branch has received a total of $11,300 in grants since 1993—the largest individual recipient of Operation Round Up funds.

A recently-formed organization, the Northwestern Minnesota Law Enforcement Chaplains was granted $1,250 to provide training for area clergy to address special needs of officers, their families and the general public after a fatal or serious incident.

Red River Valley Emerging Leaders program was given $400 to provide community leadership training to selected farm families and agri-business people. The Red Lake County Chapter of the American Cancer Society received $500 for its local programs. Viking area residents will be able to use a new picnic shelter in the city park as the result of a $1,250 grant.

Grants of $500 each were made to the Little Brother/Little Sister programs in Pennington and Marshall counties. The Family Advocacy Program in Thief River Falls, which provides programs for teen parents and their children, received a $1,500 grant to provide outreach training to parents, educators and child care providers.

Clearwood Group Home in Red Lake Falls was given $1,000 to construct an outdoor patio for their residents and the residents' families. Occupational Development Center of Red Lake Falls received a $500 grant to purchase equipment for their new facility that provides adaptive training to handicapped clients.

A $500 grant was made to the St. Hilaire Senior Center for repairs to its building. Rosebank Historical Association was given $500 to maintain and preserve the Rosebank School building near Viking.

Red Lake Electric trust board of directors determines grant recipients in March and October of each year. Directors include Mark Naplin, Orlan Stolaas, Joyce Johnson, Veral Mosbeck and Ron Kennedy.

Amour is the theme for Lincoln prom April 24

Amour is the theme for the junior-senior prom to be held in the gymnasium at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls Saturday, April 24. In excess of 130 couples are expected to participate in the event.

Linda Goulet, advisor for the junior class which sponsors the annual prom, said the decorations will feature the Eiffel Tower with "lots and lots of glitz and glitter." Last year the Lincoln prom placed fourth in a national competition conducted by the company supplying prom decorations, and Goulet said this year's effort will be even better.

The public has an opportunity to share in the festivities by attending the grand march. An admission of $2 per person is charged and proceeds are used to pay for decorations and other expenses. Doors to the school will open at 7 p.m. with students and their guests to use the gymnasium doors near the west end of the school and the general public asked to use the main doors at the northeast corner of the building.

Grand march will begin at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium, followed by the dance from 9 p.m. to midnight. Music will be provided for the fourth consecutive year by Billy D and the Crystals from Wahpeton, ND.

"They play music the kids enjoy and most of the students stay until the dance is over at midnight because they are having such a good time," Goulet added. "Members of the public attending the grand march who would like to see the decorations usually stop briefly at the gymnasium after the grand march."

Following the prom a post-prom party will be hosted by Elks Lodge 1308 in the clubrooms above Ekeren Drug from midnight to 4 a.m. The Elks lodge sponsors the party but is assisted in its presentation by any number of local and area businesses which have donated money and merchandise.

Recorded music will be played by a group called the Undertakers, food and soft drinks will be available and many prizes will be awarded toward the end of the evening. After 1:30 a.m. the doors will be closed and no one leaving will be permitted to re-enter, according to Steve Stone, manager of the Elks clubrooms.

Stone added that approximately 150 business and professional donors had provided prizes to be awarded and some cash donations to assist with food, entertainment and other costs. Stone said that typically about 225 to 275 young people attend the party each year.

Nominations sought for Entrepreneur, Business of the Year in TR Falls

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce is seeking nominations for a business and an entrepreneur to be recognized with the Business of the Year and Entrepreneur of the Year awards during Small Business Week May 23-29.

For the past 12 years in Thief River Falls specific businesses and entrepreneurs have received this recognition. Special recognition will be given to this year's winners at a breakfast on Tuesday, May 25, at 8 a.m. at the Evergreen Eating Emporium. The public is invited to attend.

Nomination forms are available at the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. Deadline for nominations is May 5, 1999. For more information or to have a nomination form faxed to you, call the Chamber of Commerce office at 681-3720.

Business of the Year award recognizes outstanding business owners and operators for their achievements in running a successful business that has had some impact on the community, the owners/managers of the business have demonstrated creativity (in product development, marketing, production, methods or service delivery) and community involvement. Business places in all sectors of the economy are eligible for nomination.

Entrepreneur of the Year award is for someone who has started a successful, new operation within the last seven or eight years, has demonstrated creativity, and overcome constraints or barriers.

23 Lincoln students make Washington Close Up tour

Twenty-three seniors from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls participated in the Washington Close Up tour to study U.S. government and the nation's capital March 21-27. Advisor Charlie Cornell and his wife Kittie escorted the students on the tour.

During the week the students met with Senators Paul Wellstone and Rod Grams and Rep. Collin Peterson. During these meetings the students had an opportunity to ask questions (Cornell said Kosovo was a "hot topic") of these officials.

Students also met with several lobbying groups including Major League Baseball, Mobil and others. They were able to visit major memorials as well as Arlington National Cemetery, the White House and Holocaust Museum and take part in seminars and workshops.

Activities also included attendance at a performance by the comedy group Capital Steps, a banquet and a final dance.

Students provided approximately 60 percent of the money needed for the trip individually, and raised about 20 percent in group projects including sales of coupons, candles and hockey tournament programs, baking and selling 1,500 dozen Christmas cookies and holding a group rummage sale.

Another 20 percent of the funds was received in donations from Forsberg's, Arctic Cat, Inc., Sjoberg's Cable TV, Celeste Leach

Roseau cracks down on skateboarders

Roseau - Roseau skateboarders will be charged with a petty misdemeanor, have their skateboards confiscated and be fined if they are caught skateboarding in prohibited areas of the city of Roseau.

An ordinance to this effect was passed by the Roseau City Council on April 5. Police chief Stacy Paulseth said he had received numerous complaints about skateboarders in the business district and that there had been signs of vandalism. He also told the council that young people would not take the police seriously unless an ordinance was enacted. . Roseau Times-Region

Break-in at Fertile-Beltrami school

Fertile - No dollar value has yet been determined in the recent break-in at Fertile-Beltrami School, and the incident remains under investigation by the city's police department and the Polk County Sheriff's office.

Sometime during the evening of April 12 or early morning hours of April 13 a person or persons broke into the school, gaining entry by breaking a kindergarten room window.

Four or five band instruments and one or two laptop computers are missing, and graffiti was written on the walls of the tunnel and second floor hallway in the high school area and second floor elementary wing. The Fertile Journal

Just a few more of those tasty, somewhat rich dessert recipes again this week.

Yes, it's getting to be rhubarb time soon - save this one or use up that frozen package of rhubarb you have stored in the back of the freezer:

RHUBARB TORTE

1 3/4 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Filling

4 cups chopped fresh or frozen rhubarb
2 cups sugar
2 egg yolks
1/4 cup flour

Meringue

4 egg whites
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine flour, baking powder, egg yolks, shortening, sugar and walnuts and mix with fork until crumbly. Press gently into greased 9x13 inch pan.

Combine filling ingredients and mix well. Pour over crust. Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes.

In bowl, beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually add sugar and vanilla, beating well. Spread over hot filling and return to oven for 10-15 minutes or until lightly browned.

I have a whole lot of tiny little tart pans and have no idea of what to make in them - this yummy sounding dessert might be just the thing - and wouldn't they be pretty for a party:

PECAN TARTS

1 cup butter
2 cups flour
6 ounces cream cheese

Filling

2 eggs
1 1/2 cups brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped pecans
Dash of salt

Cream cheese and margarine. Add flour.

Roll into small balls, about teaspoon size. Pat into tart shell pans.

To make filling, beat eggs, brown sugar, vanilla, pecans and salt. Pour into crust-lined tart pans.

Bake at 350 degrees the first 15 minutes, then at 250 degrees for the next 10 minutes.

I do like peach desserts and this tempting one can be made with fresh ones or canned:

PEACH PUDDING DESSERT

1 cup flour
3/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 (16 ounce) can sliced peaches, drained
1 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup boiling water

Heat oven to 350 degrees.

Mix flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Beat in milk and oil until smooth. Pour into ungreased, 8x8 inch baking pan.

Arrange peaches over top.

Mix brown sugar, nuts and cinnamon and sprinkle over peaches. Pour boiling water over top and bake until toothpick inserted comes out clean, 60 to 70 minutes. Serve warm or cold with or without whipped cream or ice cream.

One more dessert should do it - this one sounds pretty good to me - and it is something that can be made ahead:

HEATH BAR DESSERT

1 cup graham cracker crumbs
1 cup soda cracker crumbs
1 stick butter (1/2 cup)
2 (3 ounce) packages vanilla instant pudding
1 cup milk
1 quart softened butter pecan or toasted almond ice cream
1 (9 ounce) carton thawed whipped topping.
4 Heath candy bars, chopped finely

Melt butter and mix with cracker crumbs. Press gently in 9x13 inch pan and bake 10 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool thoroughly.

With mixer, combine vanilla pudding and milk. Beat in ice cream. Pour over crumbs.

Top with whipped topping and then sprinkle with Heath candy bars. Chill at least overnight.

Long ago someone e-mailed me for a recipe for soft pretzels. Well, I finally found one, and here it is:

SOFT PRETZELS

1 package active dry yeast
1 1/2 cups warm water
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
4 cups flour
1 egg, beaten
Coarse salt

In large bowl, dissolve yeast in water. Add the sugar, salt and enough flour to make a soft dough.

Turn onto floured board, knead until smooth and elastic, about 6-8 minutes.

Pinch off about 2 tablespoons of dough for each pretzel. Shape into pretzel shapes or letters or animals, as desired. Place on greased baking sheets. Brush with egg and sprinkle with salt.

Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes or until golden. Cool on wire racks. (Makes 18-20 pretzels.)

Horse Expo '99 April 23-24-25 at state fairgrounds

Minnesota Horse Council will conduct its 17th annual Minnesota Horse Expo Friday through Sunday, April 23-25, at the Minnesota state fairgrounds in St. Paul.

More than 30 breeds of horses will be on display and performing daily, more than 600 booths will feature horse products and services and a Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) rodeo will be held at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

A 4-H used tack and clothing sale begins at 1 p.m. Friday in the poultry barn on the fairgrounds and runs throughout the weekend. More than 10,000 items were sold at the sale last year. The 20 percent consignment fee goes to support the Minnesota 4-H horse program.

Hours will be from 1 to 9:30 p.m. Friday, April 23; 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Saturday; and 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $3 for ages 6 to 12, $6 for ages 13 to 61 and $4 for ages 62 and older. Children 5 and under will be admitted free of charge.

Let's make it happen

A WILLOW TO WARM THE WINTER.

After the leaves drop in the fall, the brilliant orange branches of the Flame Willow brighten even the most drab of winter days. The Flame sports the richest branch color of any available willow and has fast become a favorite of those who plant it.

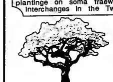
A woman from Oklee has 90 Flame Willows in her yard and plants more each year. She calls the tree the "self-cleaning" willow because it doesn't drop branches like other willows. Even an ice storm last year failed to break down the strong, compact branches of the Flame.

The Flame Willow is a Bergeson original. Since Melvin Bergeson introduced the tree about fifteen years ago, it has steadily grown in popularity. The Flame now appears in plantings on some freeway interchanges in the Twin Cities, as well as in hundreds of yards.

Unlike most willows, the branches of the Flame Willow curve up and in, making the tree look as if it has been manicured from an early age. In fact, Flame need no trimming or shaping at all to maintain a neat global shape.

Flame Willow should be planted where their orange branches can be seen from a picture window in winter. They make an ideal windbreak, but also work well as an ornamental tree in the middle of a larger yard.

Flame Willow, as well as bare root trees and shrubs, can be purchased out of the cold storage building at Bergeson Nursery. Bare root trees can be planted as soon as you can dig a hole in the ground. April is the ideal time to plant trees!



Nursery Hours:

Roseau cracks down on skate-boarders

Roseau - Roseau skateboarders will be charged with a petty misdemeanor, have their skateboards confiscated and be fined if they are caught skateboarding in prohibited areas of the city of Roseau.

An ordinance to this effect was passed by the Roseau City Council on April 5. Police chief Stacy Paulseth said he had received numerous complaints about skateboarders in the business district and that there had been signs of vandalism. He also told the council that young people would not take the police seriously unless an ordinance was enacted. Roseau Times-Region

Fertile - No dollar value has yet been determined in the recent break-in at Fertile-Beltrami School, and the incident remains under investigation by the city's police department and the Polk County Sheriff's office.

Sometime during the evening of April 12 or early morning hours of April 13 a person or persons broke into the school, gaining entry by breaking a kindergarten room window.

Four or five band instruments and one or two laptop computers are missing, and graffiti was written on the walls of the tunnel and second floor hallway in the high school area and second floor elementary wing. The Fertile Journal

Just a few more of those tasty, somewhat rich dessert recipes again this week.

Yes, it's getting to be rhubarb time soon - save this one or use up that frozen package of rhubarb you have stored in the back of the freezer:

RHUBARB TORTE

1 3/4 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Filling
4 cups chopped fresh or frozen rhubarb
2 cups sugar
2 egg yolks
1/4 cup flour

Meringue
4 egg whites
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine flour, baking powder, egg yolks, shortening, sugar and walnuts and mix with fork until crumbly. Press gently into greased 9x13 inch pan.

Combine filling ingredients and mix well. Pour over crust. Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes.

In bowl, beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually add sugar and vanilla, beating well. Spread over hot filling and return to oven for 10-15 minutes or until lightly browned.

I have a whole lot of tiny little tart pans and have no idea of what to make in them - this yummy sounding dessert might be just the thing - and wouldn't they be pretty for a party:

PECAN TARTS

1 cup butter
2 cups flour
6 ounces cream cheese

Filling
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped pecans
Dash of salt

Cream cheese and margarine. Add flour.

Roll into small balls, about teaspoon size. Pat into tart shell pans.

To make filling, beat eggs, brown sugar, vanilla, pecans and salt. Pour into crust-lined tart pans.

Bake at 350 degrees the first 15 minutes, then at 250 degrees for the next 10 minutes.

I do like peach desserts and this tempting one can be made with fresh ones or canned:

PEACH PUDDING DESSERT

1 cup flour
3/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 (16 ounce) can sliced peaches, drained
1 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup boiling water

Heat oven to 350 degrees.

Mix flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Beat in milk and oil until smooth. Pour into ungreased 8x8 inch baking pan.

Arrange peaches over top.

Mix brown sugar, nuts and cinnamon and sprinkle over peaches. Pour boiling water over top and bake until toothpick inserted comes out clean, 60 to 70 minutes. Serve warm or cold with or without whipped cream or ice cream.

One more dessert should do it - this one sounds pretty good to me - and it is something that can be made ahead:

HEATH BAR DESSERT

1 cup graham cracker crumbs
1 cup soda cracker crumbs
1 stick butter (1/2 cup)
2 (3 ounce) packages vanilla instant pudding
1 cup milk
1 quart softened butter pecan or toasted almond ice cream
1 (9 ounce) carton thawed whipped topping
4 Heath candy bars, chopped finely

Melt butter and mix with cracker crumbs. Press gently in 9x13 inch pan and bake 10 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool thoroughly.

With mixer, combine vanilla pudding and milk. Beat in ice cream. Pour over crumbs.

Top with whipped topping and then sprinkle with Heath candy bars. Chill at least overnight.

Long ago someone e-mailed me for a recipe for soft pretzels. Well, I finally found one, and here it is:

SOFT PRETZELS

1 package active dry yeast
1 1/2 cups warm water
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
4 cups flour
1 egg, beaten
Coarse salt

In large bowl, dissolve yeast in water. Add the sugar, salt and enough flour to make a soft dough.

Turn onto floured board, knead until smooth and elastic, about 6-8 minutes.

Pinch off about 2 tablespoons of dough for each pretzel. Shape into pretzel shapes or letters or animals, as desired. Place on greased baking sheets. Brush with egg and sprinkle with salt.

Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes or until golden. Cool on wire racks. (Makes 18-20 pretzels.)

Horse Expo '99 April 23-24-25 at state fairgrounds

Minnesota Horse Council will conduct its 17th annual Minnesota Horse Expo Friday through Sunday, April 23-25, at the Minnesota state fairgrounds in St. Paul.

More than 30 breeds of horses will be on display and performing daily, more than 600 booths will feature horse products and services and a Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) rodeo will be held at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

A 4-H used tack and clothing sale begins at 1 p.m. Friday in the poultry barn on the fairgrounds and runs throughout the weekend. More than 10,000 items were sold at the sale last year. The 20 percent consignment fee goes to support the Minnesota 4-H horse program.

Hours will be from 1 to 9:30 p.m. Friday, April 23, 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Saturday, and 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $3 for ages 6 to 12, $6 for ages 13 to 61 and $4 for ages 62 and older. Children 5 and under will be admitted free of charge.

Let's make it happen.

A WILLOW TO WARM THE WINTER.
After the leaves drop in the fall, the brilliant orange branches of the Flame Willow brighten even the most drab of winter days. The Flame sports the richest branch color of any available willow and has fast become a favorite of those who plant it.
A woman from Oklee has 90 Flame Willows in her yard and plants more each year. She calls the tree the "self-cleaning" willow because it doesn't drop branches like other willows. Even an ice storm last year failed to break down the strong, compact branches of the Flame.
The Flame Willow is a Bergeson original. Since Melvin Bergeson introduced the tree about fifteen years ago, it has steadily grown in popularity. The Flame now appears in plantings on some freeway interchanges in the Twin Cities, as well as in hundreds of yards.
Unlike most willows, the branches of the Flame Willow curve up and in, making the tree look as if it has been manicured from an early age. In fact, Flame need no trimming or shaping at all to maintain a neat global shape.
Flame Willow should be planted where their orange branches can be seen from a picture window in winter. They make an ideal windbreak, but also work well as an ornamental tree in the middle of a larger yard.
Flame Willow, as well as bare root trees and shrubs, can be purchased out of the cold storage building at Bergeson Nursery. Bare root trees can be planted as soon as you can dig a hole in the ground. April is the ideal time to plant trees!

In Loving Memory
of my father
Kenneth Erickson,
who passed away
on April 17, 1998.
One year ago we had to say goodbye to someone who will never be forgotten. Life has not been the same since that dreadful day. If I could go back in time I would change many things, but I believe that God does things for a reason. Not a day goes by that I don't treasure each and every moment that we had together. I know that you're in God's hands now. He will watch over you and He will guide me 'til the day that we can be together again. I love you daddy.
Sadly missed by your little girl,
Renay

THANK YOU
We wish to thank everyone who came to the surprise birthday party hosted by our children. Also thanks for cards and gifts. Special thanks to our children and grandchildren.
Thanks,
[illegible]

Basement sump pump water should be discharged to yard or storm sewer system.

Pumping into the city sewer system could cause back-ups and overloading of the collection and pond systems. Overloading will cause an increase in waste water costs which could be reflected in your city sewer bill.

If you have any questions, call 681-5816 or 681-4425 between 8 a.m. - 4 p.m., Monday - Friday. Thank you for your cooperation.

Members of the VFW club in Thief River Falls will be approaching local businesses for donations during Poppy Days April 19-24. Single poppies can be obtained in stores in Thief River Falls between May 13 and 15. Recently, members of the VFW gathered with Thief River Falls Mayor Mark Borsheim to sign a proclamation declaring poppy days. Club members also displayed some of their poppy days which have won awards. The Korean War poppy display was a first place winner in the district this year. The MIA-POW display was a district winner during 1998; and the anchor pictured behind the group was a state award winner during 1998. Pictured above are, from left: (front row) Vern Relarson, commander, Mark Borsheim, Peggy Relarson; (back row) Barb Forsberg, Ken Dunrud, and Dave Forsberg.

Chris Donarski designed a mural for the weight room at Marshall County Central. With a computer program called Poser, Donarski was able to create a basic design for the mural faster then the time it would have taken to draw.

MCC student designs mural by computer

What could make the weight room better? High School Principal Thygeson and Mr. Parker, Phy Ed teacher, had an answer for this: a mural featuring athletes of several different varieties. And who better to do the job than Marshall Count Central's very own Chris Donarski.

Ms. Dunning, the art teacher, thought that this would be a great opportunity for Chris since he has worked with photo manipulation for years. He also seems to understand the basic muscular structure.

With a computer program called Poser, Chris was able to create a basic design for the mural faster than the time it would have taken to draw.

After the okay from Mr. Parker, Chris was able to begin painting the mural in the weight room. There were other students who volunteered to help paint, but so far Chris has done most of the work, and it looks as if he has done pretty well on his own. Work on the mural is almost completed but there is still more room for improvement.

Quin County starts community health planning process

Community health services planning process is underway by Quin County Community Health Services for public health needs in Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau counties.

Input has been received from the Quin County CHS board, advisory committee and focus groups and is invited from the general public.

Five areas of special emphasis have been included in the planning process. They are:

(1) Reduce the behavioral risks that are primary contributors to morbidity and mortality (especially tobacco);

(2) Improve birth outcomes and early childhood development;

(3) Promote health for all children, adolescents and their families;

(4) Promote, protect and improve mental health;

(5) Reduce infectious disease.

Interested individuals may provide input on public health needs in the five counties for the next four years by contacting Quin CHS, P.O. Box 248, Newfolden, MN 56738. Telephone number is 218-874-7845; fax number is 218-874-7811 and e-mail messages may be addressed to quinchs@northernet.com.

THANK YOU
TO ALL AREA BUSINESSES, PROFESSIONAL PEOPLE AND INDIVIOUALS WHOSE GENEROSITY HELPED MAKE THE 14TH ANNUAL MOHA BANQUET A HUGE SUCCESS!!

In Loving Memory
of my father
Kenneth Erickson,
who passed away
on April 17, 1998.
One year ago we had to say goodbye to someone who will never be forgotten. Life has not been the same since that dreadful day. If I could go back in time I would change many things, but I believe that God does things for a reason. Not a day goes by that I don't treasure each and every moment that we had together. I know that you're in God's hands now. He will watch over you and He will guide me 'til the day that we can be together again. I love you daddy.
Sadly missed by your little girl,
Reney

THANK YOU
We wish to thank everyone who came to the surprise birthday party hosted by our children. Also thanks for cards and gifts. Special thanks to our children and grandchildren.
Thanks,

Members of the VFW club in Thief River Falls will be approaching local businesses for donations during Poppy Days April 19-24. Single poppies can be obtained in stores in Thief River Falls between May 13 and 15. Recently, members of the VFW gathered with Thief River Falls Mayor Mark Borsheim to sign a proclamation declaring poppy days. Club members also displayed some of their poppy days which have won awards. The Korean War poppy display was a first place winner in the district this year. The MIA-POW display was a district winner during 1998; and the anchor pictured behind the group was a state award winner during 1998. Pictured above are, from left: (front row) Vern Reiersen, commander, Mark Borsheim, Peggy Reiersen; (back row) Barb Forsberg, Ken Ounrud, and Dave Forsberg.

Chris Donarski designed a mural for the weight room at Marshall County Central. With a computer program called Poser, Donarski was able to create a basic design for the mural faster than the time it would have taken to draw.

MCC student designs mural by computer

What could make the weight room better? High School Principal Thygeson and Mr. Parker, Phy Ed teacher, had an answer for this: a mural featuring athletes of several different varieties. And who better to do the job than Marshall Count Central's very own Chris Donarski.

Ms. Dunning, the art teacher, thought that this would be a great opportunity for Chris since he has worked with photo manipulation for years. He also seems to understand the basic muscular structure.

With a computer program called Poser, Chris was able to create a basic design for the mural faster than the time it would have taken to draw.

After the okay from Mr. Parker, Chris was able to begin painting the mural in the weight room. There were other students who volunteered to help paint, but so far Chris has done most of the work, and it looks as if he has done pretty well on his own. Work on the mural is almost completed but there is still more room for improvement.

ELCA spring gathering April 24

New Hope Lutheran Church in Alvarado will be the site of the spring gathering of Cluster 2 Women of the ELCA on Saturday, April 24.

The event will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m. Coffee and goodies will be served by the women of Big Woods Lutheran Church. The $5 registration fee will include lunch.

The program will commence at 9 a.m. with a hymn sing. Guest speakers will be Nancy Christian of Fertile and Wenda Sang of Karlstad, talking about their experiences during a trip to Malaysia.

The gathering will conclude with a noon luncheon served by the women of the New Hope Lutheran Church of Alvarado.

Quin County starts community health planning process

Community health services planning process is underway by Quin County Community Health Services for public health needs in Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau counties.

Input has been received from the Quin County CHS board, advisory committee and focus groups and is invited from the general public.

Five areas of special emphasis have been included in the planning process. They are:

(1) Reduce the behavioral risks that are primary contributors to morbidity and mortality (especially tobacco);

(2) Improve birth outcomes and early childhood development;

(3) Promote health for all children, adolescents and their families;

(4) Promote, protect and improve mental health;

(5) Reduce infectious disease.

Interested individuals may provide input on public health needs in the five counties for the next four years by contacting Quin CHS, P.O. Box 248, Newfolden, MN 56738. Telephone number is 218-874-7845, fax number is 218-874-7811 and e-mail messages may be addressed to quinchs@northern-net.com.

Taxpayers Lament

Dreaded deadline of April 15 for payment of federal income taxes without penalty or interest has just passed and many Americans are feeling the loss of their cash. We have said many times that if it were not for the withholding of taxes from wages and salaries that gradually sips our money rather than demanding it at one gulp, there would have been a tax revolt in the nation years ago.

Withholding has created a mentality whereby taxes deducted from paychecks and delivered to the government are not considered as belonging to the wage earner. That money is not thought of as income. It is simply written off and put out of mind as workers struggle to stretch the take-home part of their earnings to cover family expenses. What an ingenious method the government has devised to support its spending habit while keeping the people under control!

With the thought of the income tax deadline fresh in our minds, we can perhaps empathize with F. R. Duplantier of America's Future who has written the following poem:

WHAT I COULD DO WITH A FEW EXTRA GRAND
by F. R. Duplantier

Of my annual earnings Uncle Sam will extract
Fully two-fifths, as a matter of fact.
That's quite a large portion, but what's got me burned:
I'll never see that much in service returned.
Domestic tranquility and the common defense
Are the only two items that are worth the expense.
And who can depend in his golden old days
On the pittance that Social Security pays?
We all know the System is not even sound;
By the time we retire, it won't be around.

What would I do with a few extra grand?
For such a sweet surplus, here's what I've got planned.
I'll feast on filets and heave out the hash;
I'll chuck my old chinos and dress with panache.
I'll make a deposit on the decent-size house
I'd love to provide for my children and spouse.
(If we just had the money, If only we could,
We'd much rather live in a nice neighborhood.)
Uncle Sam takes too much of the money I've earned.
He must have forgotten what the British Crown learned.

Life would be rosy, for the first time in years,
If I were in the black instead of arrears;
I'd pay off the balance on each credit card—
Visa, Discover and Montgomery Ward.
I'd pay off the note on my Chevy "Classique"
And buy me a car that's not an antique,
I'd undo the default at my old alma mater
And attend our homecoming a persona who's grata.
Of what would be left—a handsome amount—
I'd put every cent in a savings account!

Well, not every cent—there's so much to do
With a few grand a year, and for many years, too!
I might make provision, in case of disaster,
To ensure that yours truly remains his own master.
I might purchase a policy, term or whole life,
Benefiting my children, grandchildren and wife.
I might line up a health plan that covers things dental (Even more comprehensive, in case I go mental).
I could afford these things now, were it not for my tax—
I'm one of those wretches who fell through the cracks.

There are other investments I'd make with each grand—
If my after-tax income exceeded demand.
I'd buy stock and bonds with my yearly rebates,
Rare books, stamps and coins, and collectible plates.
I'd invest in myself, maybe learn a new skill,
Some trade to fall back on when I'm over the hill.
I'd invest in my children, to help them excel,
And then, in my dotage, they might treat me well.
(Yet another investment that pays dividends
Is to spend some time traveling and making new friends.)

With a few extra grand, I'd no longer be penniless.
For once in my life, I could afford to be generous.
I could give to my church a sizeable sum,
Or set up an annual scholarship fund.
I could sponsor a mission and some needy child,
Or save some rare species at risk in the wild.
I could hire some musicians to play in the park
Or pay pyrotechnicians to light up the dark.
I could spend my own money however I please!
Why should I scrimp to put tyrants at ease?

Volunteers, Volunteers... They're All Around Us—And They ARE Us!

Look around you and every day you will see people giving of their time and resources to help others without expecting to be financially compensated for it. They are the leaders of youth organizations, the citizen helpers in schools, the drivers who give rides to those who need them, the deliverers of Meals on Wheels, the chaperones at teen dances, the public flower garden workers, and on, and on....

It's estimated that in our country nearly one of every two persons is a volunteer. There are 93 million people age 18 and older serving as volunteers. They average 218.4 hours per year per volunteer, donating a total of 20.3 billion hours of service with an estimated value of $201 billion—based on $13.73 per hour (average non-agricultural wage, plus 12 percent benefits estimate).

In the Midwest alone, 2.3 million volunteers contribute $6.2 billion in volunteer service per year.

This coming week is designated for recognition of the service that volunteers of all types provide and how that service contributes to the betterment of all people. Margaret Mead points out an important truth when she says: "Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed citizens can change the world; indeed, it's the only thing that ever has."

And George Bernard Shaw summed up volunteerism by stating: "I am of the opinion that my life belongs to the community, and as long as I live, it is my privilege to do for it whatever I can. I want to be thoroughly used up when I die, for the harder I work, the more I live."

We salute the many volunteers in all of our communities. Thanks, folks, for all you do for all of us.

EQIP program deadline will be Friday, May 28

May 28 will be the end of the initial ranking program for the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) in Minnesota, according to Tracy Beckman, state executive director of the U.S. Farm Service Agency.

All signatures must be received at local FSA county offices no later than close of business May 28 in order for the application to be processed in this initial period. If signatures cannot be obtained by the deadline, the application will not be considered for the first ranking period. It is anticipated that most of the $4.1 million allocated for the state will be obligated in the first ranking period.

The voluntary EQIP program provides financial assistance up to 75 percent of the cost to install or apply certain conservation practices, such as grassed waterways, filter strips and wildlife habitat enhancements. Incentive payments also can be made for up to three years to encourage agricultural and livestock producers to manage certain natural resources, such as manure and nutrients, Beckman said.

A conservation plan is needed for all EQIP contracts, which cover between five and 10 years with a cap of $50,000.

For more information on the program, contact the county FSA office, Natural Resources Conservation Service office or Soil and Water Conservation District office.

Branch 9813 of AAL receives Gold Star from benefit society

Branch 9813 of Aid Association for Lutherans in Thief River Falls has received the fraternal benefit society's Gold Star award for its volunteer community service.

Alvin Rondorf is president of the branch with Evelyn Berg as coordinator, Mark Jenkins as secretary and Kathi Jenkins as treasurer.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively: letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Stuck In The Middle

In his 13th century socio-religious masterpiece The Inferno, Dante Alighieri describes a place somewhere between Heaven and Hell that the virtuous, yet unenlightened, go when they die. This would include, for example, unbaptized children or those who have led good and honorable lives, but did so before the eventual birth of Christ.

"Limbo" is neutral ground, kind of like a Switzerland of the afterworld. Things are not necessarily the best there, in this level of "non-commitment," but then again, you don't have to spend eternity pushing an oversized boulder up a steep incline or experience the never-ending pain of a burning tongue or existence beyond dismemberment like those a few levels below.

"Limbo" strikes me as a lot like living north of Highway 2—things could certainly be better, but they could also be a whole heckuva lot worse.

Rearrange the letters in "Limbo," throw in a handful of vowels and consonants, and you get "Late April and early May for the diehard fisherman of northern Minnesota."

We've reached an uncomfortable stepping off point in our annual fishing travels. We're somewhere that's neither here nor there in our usual fishing spectrum. The ice fishing season is recently behind us, the bonanza on the Rainy River is no longer in swing, and the prospect of a later than usual "Opener" (May 15) is a tiny calendar date on the distant horizon, over four whole weeks away. These are uncharted waters for us locals, and we need to take a good look around to get our bearings.

We're definitely not in the "good place," with its large number of huge walleyes and endless idyllic days in which to catch them. Oh, that's certainly out there, a mere several weeks away, but we're not there yet and walleyes should not be a dinner plate issue tonight.

In fact, virtuous fishermen that we claim to be, the mere prospect of attempting to take walleyes on even a catch and release premise does not cross our minds as it is not textbook legal and there's no way we want to descend to Dante's next level where we have our eyeballs plucked out and stuffed into piles of "fetid excrement."

Yet, this "Limbo" is certainly not the "bad place" either, as we eye the possibility of taking bass and northerns on a year-round, bonier waters basis. The average Joe with an itch to catch some fish can legitimately scratch. Realistically, the bass will be tough, accessible only on the edges of the very warmest, south-exposure spawning areas. The northerns, on the other hand, will hit a yearly peak as soon as the local tributaries spit the last of their muddy run-off into the main lake and the potential for some clear-water casting occurs again. Good numbers of smallish males keep the action going while the sporadic appearance of legitimately large females helps keep the enthusiasm up. It is historically at this time of year that Lake of the Woods puts out its biggest northerns.

And while northerns and bass might not rival walleye on a culinary basis, remember where we are, in fisherman's "Limbo," things could certainly be worse! Dante's description of the final circle of Hell, for instance, involves a three-headed Satan tearing apart and feasting upon the souls of the most wretched that humanity can dish up (Judas and Brutus, for example). His flapping wings create a gale force wind so cold that it freezes the rivers of Hell as they flow in around him. The most vile forms of sinners are trapped in the ice, with only their heads exposed. The horror of the spectacle before them, Satan's feast, causes tears which freeze the eyes open and force them to watch the grisly sight for an eternity.

Throw in some guy with a Canadian Ministry of Natural Resources jacket and it sounds a lot like mid-January on Lake of the Woods.

"Given the options, I'll take Limbo" and eat the bass.

New McVey spring wheat variety released for seed

Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Minnesota, and the Agricultural Research Service in the U.S. Department of Agriculture have announced the release of McVey hard red spring wheat to certified seed growers.

McVey was developed cooperatively and was tested as MN93413. The name recognizes Donald McVey, plant pathologist with the USDA, a long-time close collaborator with both spring and winter wheat breeding programs.

According to the Northwest Experiment station at Crookston, McVey is a tall, semidwarf, spring wheat variety first entered in Minnesota yield trials in 1994. It has yellow straw and chaff with glabrous glumes. The spike is awned, fusiform and mid-dense. Kernels are red, hard and long, not a traditional spring wheat type. It is late in maturity and adapted for production primarily in northern areas of the North Central wheat growing region.

McVey is resistant to prevalent races of stem rust and to most other virulent isolates found in low frequency in recent stem rust surveys. It has resistance to prevalent races of leaf rust and is moderately resistant to leaf spotting fungi. It has a resistant head severity reaction to Fusarium head blight but is moderately susceptible to kernel shriveling caused by the pathogen.

It is considered to be a high yielding wheat with slightly lower bushel weight than some other varieties. Milling performance, mixing characteristics and general bread making quality are satisfactory but it is lower in protein that other varieties in small plot tests.

Breeders seed of the new variety will be maintained by the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station. The Minnesota Crop Improvement Association, 1900 Hendon Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55108 has foundation seed available to qualified seed producers in 1999. Seed classes will be breeder, foundation, registered and certified.

Cahalan turns down $16,000 DU scholarship

Joshua Cahalan, son of Darrell and Kathy Magner of Thief River Falls and a senior at Lincoln high school, has been offered a $16,000 academic scholarship to attend Denver University in Denver, CO.

Cahalan has decided not to accept the scholarship and instead will attend Arizona State University in Tempe where he will work toward a double major in Finance and Spanish.

Joshua had also been approved for attendance at the University of Arizona in Tucson.

Sacred Heart sweeps MCC/Tri-County club

East Grand Forks Sacred Heart turned errors and walks into runs Tuesday in a 17-5, 20-2 softball doubleheader sweep over Marshall County Central/Tri-County.

Five Marshall County Central/Tri-County errors led to 12 unearned runs in Game 1 when the extra outs helped the Eagles collect 10 hits and draw 11 walks.

It was more of the same in the nightcap when Sacred Heart scored five unearned runs in the first inning. Another five-error game by Marshall County Central/Tri-County, along with 13 hits and 13 walks, fueled the Eagles' offense.

"Our errors were really costly," pointed out Marshall County Central/Tri-County coach Jerald Hagen. "Our pitchers did a pretty good job, but they didn't get much defensive help. Then they tried to do too much themselves, and started walking people."

Laura Myhrer was 4-for-5 in the doubleheader to lead the Marshall County Central/Tri-County offense. "Laura is hitting the ball really well," mentioned Hagen, who also said that eighth graders Kayla Berberich and Stephanie Hagen filled in for players who missed the games because of injuries, illness or scheduling conflicts, and performed well.

Upcoming MCC/T-C Schedule
- Saturday April 17 - Badger/Greenbush Middle River (at Newfolden)
- Monday April 19 - Roseau (at Newfolden)
- Friday, April 23 - Thief River Falls (at Newfolden)

Game 1

Panthers edge TRF

Park Rapids Area used a single-walk-single combination to score a tie-breaking run in the bottom of the eighth inning Tuesday as the Panthers pulled out a 6-5 high school softball win over Thief River Falls.

The visiting Prowlers had tied the game on a two-out, two-run fifth inning double by Kylie Rogalla – her third RBI double of the day.

Thief River Falls pitcher Lacey Huschle threw shutout ball in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings, but wasn't able to retire a batter in the eighth. Huschle gave up only five hits, but walked 12. The Panthers stranded 13 base runners.

There was just one error in the game, charged to the Prowlers. "Both teams made crucial outs when they needed to," said Thief River Falls coach Matt Okeson, who was impressed with the defensive effort on both sides. "It was an exciting game to watch and to play."

Scoring/Innings

Thief River Falls	2 0 1 0 2 0 0 0 -	5	6	1
Park Rapids	3 0 1 1 0 0 0 1 -	6	5	0

Pitching - (TRF) Lacey Huschle 7-L, 4 strike-outs, 12 walks; (PR) Pickett 8-W, 5 strike-outs, 2 walks.

Offensive highlights - (TRF) Kylie Rogalla 3/4, 3 doubles, 4 RBI; Erika Hudson 3/4; Jennifer Rude double.

Park Rapids tops TRF

Park Rapids came from behind to beat Thief River Falls 20-13 Tuesday in junior varsity high school softball.

Sara Jensen, Rebekah Solem and Lindsey Nordhagen had two hits apiece, while Amy Christenson had a double for the Prowlers.

Among the moves: TRF from 8AAA to 8AA basketball...

Changes are made by MSHSL

Thief River Falls boys and girls high school basketball teams will compete in Class AA instead of Class AAA beginning next year following a Wednesday realignment announcement by the Minnesota State High School League.

At the meeting, the MSHSL Board of Directors tentatively approved the placement of schools into competitive sections for the 1999-2001 school years, based upon computer-generated regional boundaries.

Board members will officially approve the sectional placements at their June 10 meeting.

Changes affecting Thief River Falls and area schools include:

Football

Sartell will go from Section 6AAA to Section 8AAAA, joining Thief River Falls, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, Rocori, Sauk Rapids-Rice, and Little Falls. Alexandria will be switched from Section 8AAAA to 8AAAAA.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River and Cass Lake-Bena will move from Section 8AA to 8A, where they will compete with Ada-Borup, Clearbrook-Gonvick, Fertile-Beltrami, Fosston, Red Lake Falls, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo, and Kelliher/Northome. Leaving Section 8A for 8AA will be Lake of the Woods, Red Lake and Blackduck.

Girls Tennis

Section 8AA will add Crookston, Park Rapids Area, Willmar, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, and Roseau. Elk River and Monticello will leave Section 8AA.

Volleyball

Volleyball will go from two to three classes next fall.

Thief River Falls will be in Section 8AAA with Albany, Alexandria, Bemidji, Brainerd, Crookston, Detroit Lakes, East Grand Forks, Fergus Falls, Little Falls, Melrose, Minnewaska Area, Moorhead, Park Rapids Area, Perham, and Staples-Motley.

Section 8AA line-up will include Bagley, Barnesville, Breckenridge, Dilworth-Glyndon-Felton, Fertile-Beltrami, Frazee, Hawley, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Menahga, New York Mills, Pelican Rapids, Red Lake, Roseau, Wadena-Deer Creek, Warroad, and Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

Section 8A will feature Ada-Borup, Red Lake Falls, Clearbrook-Gonvick, Fosston, Kittson Central, Kittson County North, Marshall County Central, Norman County East, Norman County West, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart, Stephen-Argyle, Tri-County, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo, Waubun, Win-E-Mac, Red Lake County Central, Climax/Fisher, and Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke.

Boys, Girls Cross Country

Crookston and Park Rapids Area move from Section 8A to 8AA, while Elk River leaves Section 8AA for 4AA.

Boys, Girls Basketball

Thief River Falls will leave Section 8AAA for 8AA, where the Prowlers will join Bagley, Breckenridge, Crookston, Dilworth-Glyndon-Felton, East Grand Forks, Frazee, Long Prairie-Grey Eagle, Mahnomen, Park Rapids Area, Pelican Rapids, Perham, Roseau, Staples-Motley, Wadena-Deer Creek, Warroad, and West Central Area.

Leaving Section 8AA for 3AA will be Minnewaska Area.

Elsewhere, Ada-Borup, Norman County East and Norman County West will move from Section 6A to 8A, while Blackduck shifts from Section 8A to 7AA.

Girls Hockey

Thief River Falls will begin girls hockey, a single-class sport, in 1999-2000 when the Prowlers will be in Section 8, along with Alexandria, Bemidji, Fergus Falls, Moorhead, Morris Area, St. Cloud Tech, Wadena-Deer Creek, Warroad, Albany/New London-Spicer/Paynesville Area, Rocori/St. John's Prep, Park Rapids Area/Menahga/Nevis, St. Cloud Apollo/St. Cloud Cathedral, Long Prairie-Grey Eagle/ Browerville, and Brainerd.

Wrestling

Detroit Lakes will go from Section 8AA to 7AA.

Softball

Softball will go from two to three classes next year. Thief River Falls will be in Section 8AAA, along with Alexandria, Bemidji, Brainerd, Detroit Lakes, Little Falls, Moorhead, Rocori, St. Cloud Apollo, St. Cloud Tech, Sartell, Sauk Rapids-Rice, and Fergus Falls/Hillcrest Academy.

Smaller area schools playing softball will be in Section 8A.

Boys Tennis

Thief River Falls will play in Section 8A instead of 8AA next spring, when the Prowlers will be grouped with Crookston, East Grand Forks, Mahnomen, New York Mills, Park Rapids Area, Perham, and Wadena-Deer Creek. Staples-Motley will switch from Section 8A to 6A.

Boys, Girls Track

Crookston will be switched from Section 8A to 8AA.

Baseball

Baseball will go from two to three classes next spring.

Thief River Falls will be in Section 8AAA, along with Alexandria, Bemidji, Brainerd, Crookston, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, Little Falls, Moorhead, Rocori, St. Cloud Apollo, St Cloud Tech, Sartell, and Sauk Rapids-Rice.

Section 8AA will include Red Lake County, Roseau, Warroad, Bagley/Clearbrook-Gonvick, Breckenridge, Dilworth-Glyndon-Felton, Frazee, Park Rapids Area, Perham, Pine River-Backus, Staples-Motley, Wadena-Deer Creek, Battle Lake/Henning/Underwood, and Ada-Borup/Climax/Norman County West.

Section 8A schools will be Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, Marshall County Central/Tri-County, Kelliher/Northome, Kittson Central/Kittson County North, Northland, Win-E-Mac, Walker-Hackensack-Akeley, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart, Red Lake, Norman County East, McGregor, Laporte, Lake of the Woods, Fertile-Beltrami, Cass Lake-Bena, and Hill City.

Prowlers run first outdoor meet

Thief River Falls boys and girls high school track teams competed in their first outdoor meet of the 1999 season Thursday at the Park Rapids Enterprise Invitational.

Three indoor meets preceded the outdoor debut for the Prowlers, who placed third in a field of eight girls teams and placed fourth among seven boys teams.

Bemidji won both titles. Point totals for the girls showed Bemidji with 150.5, Detroit Lakes 121, Thief River Falls 71, Battle Lake/Henning/Underwood 63, Park Rapids Area 58, Bagley 57.5, Fosston 20, and Mahnomen 16. In the boys' portion of the meet, Bemidji collected 141 points, Detroit Lakes 123, Park Rapids Area 112, Bagley 61, Thief River Falls 42, Battle Lake/Henning/Underwood 26, and Mahnomen 23.

Thief River Falls girls were led by Nicole Kopari and Chelsea Haviland, who both won two events. Kopari threw the shot 42-1 1/2 and tossed the discus 139-6. It was the first chance she has had to compete in the discus this spring – a event Kopari won in the 1998 Class AA state meet with a distance of 147-3. Haviland ran the 1600 in 5:22.71 and cleared the 9-0 mark in the pole vault.

A first place in the boys' competition was turned in by the Prowlers' Kelly Cota who went 6-1 in the high jump.

Tim Olson-coached Prowlers will run in the Crookston Invitational Tuesday and the Beaver Relays at Bemidji State University Friday.

Prowler boys win 6-1 tennis dual played at Moorhead Thursday

Poor weather didn't stop the Thief River Falls boys from picking up a 6-1 high school tennis win at Moorhead Thursday.

The Spuds tried calling off the scheduled double-dual that also included Fergus Falls, but the Prowlers were already en route to Moorhead when the call came, so they went ahead with that portion of the match.

Thief River Falls, 2-3 in dual meet competition, lost to Moorhead earlier this year 6-1. "The kids did a great job," said Prowlers coach Troy Hanestad. "I'm very impressed with their improvement. They're having fun."

TRF 6, Moorhead 1

Singles - 1. Joe Groten (TRF) def. Nick Peterson 6-1, 7-5. 2. Chris Werth (Moorhead) def. Tom Fogarty 6-1, 6-1, 3. Bailey Nordin (TRF) def. Brad Miller 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, 4. Darin Bjerknes (TRF) def. Dan Leigrid 6-2, 6-2.

Fertile-Beltrami JV beats TRF softball team by 9-8

Fertile-Beltrami was a 9-8 winner over Thief River Falls in Thursday junior varsity high school softball.

Nicole Ryan had a pair of singles for the Prowlers, who were out-hit 8-6. Emily Tweet was the losing pitcher.

Franklin pool is closed for annual spring clean

Franklin Middle School pool will be closed for its annual spring cleaning beginning Monday, April 19.

The pool is tentatively scheduled to be reopened for public use May 10.

Prowlers start year with two road wins

■ Baseball team beats B/G-MR, RLC

A six-run third inning against Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Monday and a five-run second inning against Red Lake County Tuesday carried Thief River Falls to a pair of season-opening high school baseball wins on the road.

A 3-run Joey Pribula home run highlighted the first-game outburst that wiped out a 2-1 deficit.

Thief River Falls coach Brent Polum said he was pleasantly surprised with the Prowlers' showing in their first trip outdoors this spring. "We got a solid performance out of our pitchers, played good defense, and got the hits when we needed them," he said.

Next day, the Red Lake Falls/Oklee/Plummer cooperative jumped out to a 3-0 first inning lead, prompting a quick Polum response to the Prowlers' lackluster start. "We didn't show up as mentally prepared as we were the day before," he explained. "We weren't concentrating, and I had a few choice words for them."

The Prowlers responded by building a 7-4 lead, then after Red Lake County tied it in the fifth inning, the visitors won it on an RBI double into the corner by Brett Johnson in the top of the sixth.

"We're definitely happy to be 2-0," offered Polum, "but we've got to keep getting better. Physically, we've got the tools to get the job done, but we have to come mentally ready to play."

A scheduled Thursday game vs Marshall County Central/Tri-County in Karlstad was postponed because of the weather to Tuesday, April 20.

Northland baseball squad has trouble with HCC, weather

It was a tough week for the Northland Community and Technical College baseball team. The Pioneers lost a pair of games at Hibbing Wednesday and were weathered out of scheduled twin-bills vs. Itasca Tuesday and Vermilion Thursday.

Hibbing swept Northland 6-4, 6-5 in a Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division doubleheader that was played in a steady rain.

Ryan Halvorson and Luke Hagness opened Game 1 with back-to-back singles and Kirk Beebout followed with a one-out, two-run single for an early Northland lead.

But Hibbing, after going ahead 5-4, secured the win when Northland pitcher Chris Cairns issued three straight walks and threw a run-scoring wild pitch to open the bottom of the sixth. Pete Vacha came on in relief at that point and prevented further damage, but the Pioneers couldn't come up with a seventh inning response.

It was another Hibbing sixth inning run that broke a second-game tie and completed the sweep. A hit-batsman put the lead-off man on base. A Pat Davy single put the go-ahead run at third, and a suicide squeeze bunt laid down by Sam VanderPlaats brought the game-winner home.

Northland had erased a 2-0 deficit with a five-run fourth inning that included a bases-loaded walk, a two-run error, an RBI double by Halvorson and a sacrifice fly by Hagness.

The two teams combined for 13 errors in Game 2 – eight of them charged against the Pioneers.

"We should have won both games," said Northland coach John Ott. "I was very pleased with our pitchers and with the way we hit the ball. Everything but defense went well."

The losses dropped the Pioneers to 0-4.

Northland	2 0 1 1 0 0 0 -	4	6	2
Hibbing	0 2 0 2 1 1 x -	6	6	2

Pitching - (NCTC) Chris Cairns 5-L; Pete Vacha 1, (HCC) J.J. Puzel 7-W

Offensive highlights - (NCTC) Luke Hagness 2/3, Kirk Beebout 2 RBI, Pete Mooney double; (HCC) Pat Davy double

Northland	0 0 0 5 0 0 0 -	5	6	8
Hibbing	0 1 1 2 1 1 x -	6	6	5

Pitching - (NCTC) Pete Vacha 3, Matt Lanctot 1/3, Charlie Johnson 2 2/3-L; (Hibbing) Ben Erickson 7-W

Offensive highlights - (NCTC) Ryan Halvorson 2, double; Pete Mooney 2/4, (HCC) Pat Davy 2/3, Ryan Garrity 2/4, Nick Hanson double.

Falcons win 15-14 with three runs in bottom of seventh

Fertile-Beltrami, after giving up three runs in the top of the seventh, came back with three runs in the bottom of the inning for a 15-14 high school softball win over Thief River Falls Thursday.

It was the second tough-luck loss of the week on the road for the Prowlers, who dropped a 6-5 eight-inning decision to Park Rapids Area Tuesday.

"That's the second straight game where we played really well," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Matt Okeson.

With a number of starters missing the game due to other school activities, Okeson used a patchwork line-up, and was pleased with the results. "The younger kids played really well," he said. "They stepped it up."

With the game tied at 14-14 and the potential winning run at second base with no outs in the bottom of the seventh, Okeson elected to walk the the next batter to set up a force play. A wild pitch advanced the runners, prompting another intentional walk. The Prowlers got one out at the plate, but couldn't get out of the jam.

Scoring/Innings

Thief River Falls	5 0 1 1 0 4 3 -	14	16	4
Fertile-Beltrami	1 0 1 5 4 1 3 -	15	17	6

Pitching - (TRF) Becky Wegner-L, (F-B) Kari Osmondson-W

Offensive highlights - (TRF) Andrea Stinson 4/5, 3 RBI, Kylie Rogalla 3/5, triple, 3 RBI, Jenny Swanson 3/4, Becky Wegner 2/4, Becca Leach 2/5, triple; Jennifer Rude 2-run home run, (F-B) Sara Hamre 3-run home run.

Weather effects weekend high school sports events

Weather produced a number of changes in Thief River Falls' high school weekend sports schedule.

Friday's baseball game vs. Crookston has been cancelled. A Saturday split doubleheader in Detroit Lakes vs. the Lakers and Fergus Falls was called off. The Detroit Lakes game was rescheduled for Monday, May 10. A make-up date for the Fergus Falls portion of the twinbill has not been announced.

A Friday Thief River Falls softball game at Red Lake Falls was cancelled, along with a Saturday junior varsity softball tournament at Park Rapids.

Thief River Falls' Saturday home tennis match vs. Park Rapids Area was moved to Friday, May 14.

Governor's line item veto devastates farmers, communities

Gov. Jesse Ventura's recent veto of funding to the University of Minnesota for the Center for Farm Financial Management is a true set back for Minnesota's farmers and rural communities. Rural Minnesota is on the verge of an economic depression like we haven't seen since the 1930s, and the governor doesn't seem to care.

The funding would have been used to help farmers with a financial analysis of their business, and help them prepare necessary paperwork to apply for loans through the Farm Services Administration (FSA) and local banks. In the past, employees from the federal government were hired to aid farmers in correctly filling out the complex paperwork necessary to receive loans. After the federal government squeezed the funding and laid off these workers, the state was forced to subsidized this program and hire workers to help the farmers. With this help, farmers were able to go to federal offices with all their paperwork in order which sped up the application process and got money to the farmers faster. Gov. Ventura has thrown a wrench in this system, and now if the paper work is not moved through in a timely fashion and farmers don't receive the money until later this year, it will be too late for the 1999 growing season.

In his veto message, Gov. Ventura said, "I have line item vetoed the $245,000 appropriation to provide about 500 farmers with assistance in making application for spring operating loans. In my view, all such relief proposals belong in an omnibus bill, especially now that the legislative process has already taken too long to ensure adequate and timely financing application assistance to farmers for this planting season." But he's wrong. Because of Gov. Ventura's action, the system of getting money to farmers will be slower and some farmers will not get the funds they need in time to get their crops in the field.

When Ventura was elected governor, I got the impression he was committed to farmers, and would take quick action to get them the relief they need. But here he is turning his back on at least 500 farmers. And when a farmer goes out of business an entire rural community is affected. For example, a business owner in a community in North Dakota hit hard by the farm crisis had to close his implement and car dealerships. More than 30 people lost their jobs. Situations like this lead to a domino affect where other businesses are forced to close, residents are forced to move away to find work elsewhere, schools lose students and therefore funding, and entire communities shut down.

Gov. Ventura was elected to represent the entire state, yet since he was sworn into office he has made precious few trips outside the Twin Cities metropolitan area. While he has time to travel to the West and East Coast to appear on national television and attend Oscar parties, he has shown little interest in Minnesota's vital agriculture economy. He visited one farm in the Worthington area, but has not visited Northwestern Minnesota, which I represent, to see the effects the past six years of crop disease and low prices have meant to farmers and rural businesses. I have not spoken with the governor since I met him in January, and when calling his staff to set up appointment with him, I am told he does not meet with legislators.

If the governor does not take steps to provide immediate relief to farmers, he will place the entire economy of Minnesota at risk. I encourage people to take action to open the governor's eyes to the pain and suffering our farmers are experiencing and the effects of his actions like this veto mean to the hard working men and women of Minnesota. He can be contacted at 130 Capitol, St. Paul, MN, 55155, or 651-296-3391.

Pvt. Derek Herling complete airborne training school

Army Pvt. Derek A. Herling has been assigned to the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, Fayetteville, N.C.

The new member of the division became airborne qualified after completing training at an Army airborne school. Each member of the 82nd performs duties according to the soldier's military job or duty title.

Herling, an aircraft armament and missile systems repairer, is the son of Alan and Iris Herling of rural Roseau.

He is a 1998 graduate of Roseau High School.

Tobacco Memorial Wall has been created at Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls to emphasize the health dangers of cigarette smoking.

Tobacco Memorial Wall is posted at Franklin MS

Students in Troy Hunestad's eighth grade health classes at Franklin middle school unveiled their Tobacco Memorial Wall in a hallway at Franklin on Wednesday, April 14.

Unveiling was an activity of "Kick Butts Day 1999," Hunestad said. The wall is a display of personal photos brought by students of friends and family members who have died from tobacco-related disease or who currently suffer from a tobacco related disease.

"The wall was arranged to create awareness and educate students and the community about the devastating health effects of tobacco use in Minnesota," Hunestad said.

"Tobacco addiction is the state's number one health problem by far," he added. "Each year 6,400 Minnesotans die prematurely of cancer, heart disease or emphysema caused by tobacco use.

"Unfortunately," he continued, "despite broad awareness that tobacco is harmful to their health, more and more Minnesota students are smoking and they're smoking more heavily. The latest Minnesota Student Survey shows that youth smoking continues to rise. Today, a record 42 percent of our high school students smoke—a rate that is well above the national average."

Hunestad said that the pictures on the local wall will be taken down in May and sent to the State Capitol where a giant wall will be covered with information from all of the schools in Minnesota which have participated in this project. The goal is to have 6,400 pictures displayed—the number of lives cut short by tobacco use in Minnesota each year.

Earth Day Bluebird Program at Rydell National Wildlife Refuge

A brilliant flush of blue--a sweet, warbling call—these are just a couple of the joys of attracting bluebirds to your backyard or farm. Celebrate Earth Day by learning more about bluebirds and how to attract them at a bluebird program on Thursday, April 22nd at the Rydell National Wildlife Refuge. Two programs will be offered with the first starting at 4:30 p.m. followed by a repeat performance at 6:30 p.m.

Wayne Gecken from the Friends of the Rydell Refuge Assn. will explain the life cycle of bluebirds, habitat preferences, nesting success in this area, placement and monitoring of your nest boxes, pests and much more. A fascinating video that takes you inside a bluebird box to watch the young mature from bald babies through fledgling from the nest will also be featured. An informative handout will be available to all participants.

One of the best ways to increase your chances to see bluebirds is to put out nesting boxes for them. The increasing numbers of bluebirds today is largely due to their ready acceptance and use of man-made nest boxes. For those wishing to make a bluebird house, materials will be cut out and supplies on hand for making the popular Peterson style house, just bring a hammer if you have one. Volunteers will be on hand to help make the houses. This is a fun activity for kids and parents or grandparents to work together on.

Refreshments will be served between the two programs so plan on sticking around after the first program or come early to the second program and look over the displays at the Visitors Center or hike some of the Refuge's new trails. Enjoy the sights and sounds of all the waterfowl on the Refuge including the trumpeter swans who have returned for another year. There is no charge for the program, but donations of any amount will be gladly accepted and appreciated to help defray cost of supplies for the bluebird boxes, refreshments and other costs of doing programs at the Refuge. Everyone is welcome.

This is a joint program of the Friends of the Rydell Refuge Assn., Maple Lake Improvement District, Union Lake Sarah Improvement District, and the Rydell National Wildlife Refuge/USFWS. To get to the Rydell Refuge go three miles east of Mentor or 3 miles west of Erskine on U.S. Highway 2 and turn south on Polk County 210. Follow 210 about 2.5 miles south to the large entrance sign and main gate of the Refuge. If arriving from the south, turn north off of Polk County 41 onto Polk County 210 and go about 3.5 miles north and turn left at the Refuge entrance sign. For more information call Wayne Gecken at 218-574-2622.

Mn/DOT updates road conditions in NW Minnesota

Minnesota Department of Transportation reported Thursday, April 15, that the following roads will remain closed in northwest Minnesota due to flooded conditions:

• Trunk Highway 175 bridge at the North Dakota border west of Hallock;
• Trunk Highway 317 from the Red River to Trunk Highway 220 in Marshall County;
• Trunk Highway 220 from Oslo north to Trunk Highway 11;
• Trunk Highway 11 at the Rohhin bridge into North Dakota,
• Trunk Highway 171 at St. Vincent crossing into North Dakota.

Trunk Highway 75 from the junction of Trunk Highway 171 to Noyes at the Canadian border is now open with one lane. Motorists are advised to proceed with caution.

For updated information on road conditions please call 1-800-542-0220.

Embessy Center to hold gospel music day

Embassy Community Center of Fosston will hold its monthly gospel music day on Sunday, April 18, beginning at 3 p.m.

Special musical guests will be the Johannessohn Family Singers of Bagley, Lengby and Fosston.

Area musicians are invited to bring instruments for the audience participation part of the program. Refreshments will be served.

Environmental Education group sells prairie flowers

Agassiz Environmental Education Committee has created packets of native prairie wildflower seed from local stock which are being offered for sale at $5 per packet. Each packet contains enough seed for 20 square feet of planting.

All of the species are perennial and the plants are adapted to this area and extremely hardy once they are established. They withstand full sun on drier sites and attract butterflies, hummingbirds and other wildlife.

There are seeds in the packets for a mixture of Leadplant, Purple Prairie Clover, White Prairie Clover and Wild Bergamot, also called Bee Balm or Monarda. Also in the packets are seeds for Blue Grama Grass and Little Bluestem.

Proceeds from the sales help support the programs of the committee. Pickup for seed packets will be from 9 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday, May 8, from the following people: Mary Broten at Old Mill State Park (437-8174); Gretchen Mehmel at Roosevelt, 783-2521; Betty Johnson at Roseau, 463-2181; Wayne Gecken at Rydell National Wildlife Refuge, 574-2622; Martha Minchak in Thief River Falls, 681-1476; and Gladwin Lynne at Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary, 745-5663.

Seeds are available on a first-come, first-served basis. To order, send name, full address and phone number with payment of $5 per packet to Charlene Crocker, Route 2, Box 164, Newfolden, MN 56738. Add $1 per packet for shipping if you prefer to have packets mailed to your address rather than picking them up at one of the above sites.

"The prairie is a living sense of history for those who take the time to explore it," states Mary Broten, who chairs the Agassiz Environmental Education Committee. "By planting or restoring native prairie species you can beautify and enhance your property for wildlife habitat, preserve a disappearing resource and provide a living link to and reminder of our historic past."

WESTSIDE MOTORS IS PROUD TO INTRODUCE THE PLYMOUTH...

Prowler™

The Prowler is made from new materials and technology, magnesium is used for the instrument panel crossmember construction, along with light weight aluminum for much of the body and frame, giving the Prowler a curb weight of 2,838 lbs.

The Prowler specific AM/FM cassette/remote six disc changer tuned for top-down highway travel, with function buttons on the leather-wrapped steering wheel for added convenience.

Engineers equipped the Prowler with a 3.5 liter aluminum 24 valve S.O.H.C high out-put V-6, that produces 253 h.p., power is sent through an aluminum drive shaft to the rear-mounted auto-stick four-speed automatic transaxle.

Power gets to the road via huge Goodyear extended mobility tires (P225/45HR17 front, P295/40HR20 rear) they are mounted on chrome wheels and have run-flat capability including a low tire pressure sensor system with warning lamp on instrument panel.

Motorized portage service returned to two BWCA sites

Contracts to allow commercial motorized portage operations at Prairie and Trout portages in the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness in northeast Minnesota were announced recently by the U.S. Forest Service.

The contracts will permit the operators to transport boats, camping gear and associated equipment across both portages. Fees have been set at $10 per watercraft one-way by LaTourell's Inc. at Prairie portage and $15 one-way or $25 round-trip by James Zak at Trout portage.

Reopening the motorized portage service results primarily from the efforts of Rep. Jim Oberstar and Sen. Rod Grams over a four-year period in Congress. A provision added to the 1998 Transportation Act allowed the Forest Service to restore the operations.

TRF teachers offered retirement packages; a dozen could resign

Ten full-time and two part-time teachers in School District 564 have been offered a special retirement package from the Minnesota Teachers Retirement Association. The district is anticipating that most, if not all of these teachers, will accept retirement under this package.

School District Superintendent Jerry Robicheau explained that this is not a retirement package that will have a local tax impact. It is a package offered by the teacher's state retirement association. It came about because of an offer made to teachers in 1968. Robicheau said that back in 1968 teachers were given an option of selecting an Improved Manetary Plan (IMP) or the regular retirement plan.

As explained by Loiell Dyrud, a teacher at Lincoln High School, the IMP was based on investments in the stock market. The regular retirement plan was based on the "High 5" or highest paid five years, which is a set calculation. In 1968 teachers were given the opportunity to enroll in either plan. In the early 70's however, when officials with the Teachers Retirement Association sat down to compute the results of the IMP, they were shocked. The stock market was performing poorly and many teachers would be in trouble upon retirement. They were then able to obtain special legislation offering teachers enrolled in the IMP an opportunity to enroll in the "High 5" plan. Many accepted this option, and many, like Dyrud did not.

The issue seemed to be forgotten until lately. During the 90's, the market took off. The IMP retirement plan now offers significant benefits.

This current offer is guaranteed, Loiell said. Teachers can decide to retire under the IMP at a later date, but if they don't accept this offer, they are at the whim of the stock market, of course.

Robicheau said those who have been given the option to retire under this plan have until June 15 to accept or reject the offer. He added that they don't have to be of retirement age to qualify for the offer.

It's a significant incentive, said Robicheau. From his understanding, it offers an additional $800 to $1,000 per month to what they would get under the regular retirement plan. (According to a letter received by the School District, 3,000 of the 68,000 active teachers in the Teachers Retirement Association would qualify for this retirement package.)

Robicheau said there are a lot of rumors about what it offers and who will or won't accept the offer, but on Monday night, the School Board will accept letters of retirement from Loiell Dyrud, Jan Breiland, and Bob Michalicek. Those three teachers alone, said Robicheau, have combined experience of over 100 years.

Robicheau said from the district's standpoint, there was no pressure on these teachers to do anything regarding the retirement offer.

Dyrud said that it seemed that it was about the opposite. The district doesn't want to lose these teachers.

These are highly competent teachers, Robicheau said. Economic advantage is not the significant issue to the district. The significant issue to the district, Robicheau said, is the experience and skill that will be lost. Each time a teacher retires or leaves the district, he said, a piece of history goes with them, as does their skill as teachers and the positive impact they have had on so many students. "That's something that cannot be replaced."

"Change happens," Robicheau said. "We realize that it's inevitable, but when teachers who have that much experience leave, it really causes you to stop and think of the impact they have had."

Indus NHS chapter wins top awards

Indus - The Indus National Honor Society (NHS) chapter brought honors home from the state NHS convention recently.

Indus' "Hungry and Homeless" special project earned the organization the State Special Service award, the only such award given to a National Honor Society chapter in the state this year.

The Indus NHS chapter also earned a "Star Chapter" award, and chapter president Krista Sneller was one of about a dozen "All Star" NHS members named at the convention.

With six members, Indus is one of the smallest schools in the state with an NHS chapter. Two years ago the chapter won a national service project award and won the state award for a special small project last year. The Baudette Region

Exchange student returns to visit

Erskine - Oscar Alzate of Calcuta, Columbia, South America returned to Erskine recently to Ron and Bev Nelson of Erskine. The Nelsons were Oscar's host family when he was a foreign exchange student at Win-E-Mac school in 1987.

After returning to Columbia, Oscar finished high school and then set up his own business. He now owns and operates a pawn shop and has completed college night courses and received his degree in business administration. Oscar has remained in contact with the Nelsons since returning home 12 years ago. The Erskine Echo

Lao community celebrates New Year

Warroad - Warroad's Lao community prepared for the Lao New Year on April 15 and celebrated Sunday, April 18. Of the 67 Lao families in Warroad, most are Buddhist.

Across the world Laotians held parties and festivals to accommodate tradition and spiritual rituals during the week.

Working together to make the celebration in Warroad special were the Lao Association of Warroad, Lao Women of Warroad and Warroad's Lao Buddhist Temple. Warroad Pioneer

Linda Ueland Teacher of the Year at MCC

Newfolden - Linda Ueland is Marshall County Central's Teacher of the Year for 1999. Ueland teaches Family and Consumer Science (formerly home economics) and is finishing her 18th year as a teacher, all of the years at Marshall County Central.

Among the many things Ueland has to say about her career she says, "The day I don't love it, I'm out the door. It's too important a job not to love what you're doing. Otherwise, it wouldn't be fair to the kids and their families to not give it your best effort."

Ueland's husband, Ron, is also a teacher at MCC, teaching social studies and health and coaching boys' basketball and girls' track. The couple has a four-year-old son, Kane, and Ron has four children. New River Record

Florence Silnes still volunteers at age 91

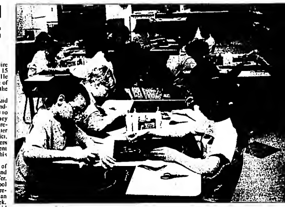
While it seems that many different types of folks make up the world we live in, people, for the most part, can be divided into two groups — givers and takers.

This week, April 18-24, we celebrate the givers during Minnesota Volunteer Recognition Week, and 91-year-old Florence Silnes of Warren is one of the many volunteers we honor.

Florence has been a regular volunteer for Lutheran Social Service's Senior Nutrition program in Warren since the site opened nearly 26 years ago.

Born west of Hallock, Florence grew up in the Lake Bronson area. During the Great Depression, she married Sig Silnes on her birthday, August 1, 1933. Skilled in auto body work, Sig had built a hearse and earned $100 so that the young couple could afford to marry during those hard times.



During his lifetime, Sig worked as a car salesman, repairman and body man. He owned Silnes Motors for many years. Florence was a homemaker, raising the couple's daughter and son. Sig died in 1990 at the age of 92. "I still miss him," Florence says of her husband of 57 years.

Florence continues to live in her home in Warren. "I do my own thing," she says. Her daughter,

An American Festival dates set for Sat.-Sun., June 26-27

Saturday and Sunday, June 26 and 27, have been set as the dates for An American Festival—the sixth annual summer fun festival in Thief River Falls sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Three special events on Saturday, June 26, will include the 50th annual Northwest Dairy Day dairy cattle show, Northern Pullers tractor pull and an indoor/outdoor flea market and swap meet, all at the Pennington county fairgrounds.

A new event also being planned for this year is professional go cart racing to be held on the Arctic Cat Inc. parking lot. Details on this racing activity which is growing in popularity will be announced in the near future.

Sunday events June 27 will begin at 12:30 p.m. with a parade in downtown Thief River Falls, followed by a number of events at the fairgrounds. Planned are a pancake breakfast, flea market and swap meet, wine tasting, kite flying, Bingo, stagecoach rides, petting zoo, kiddie carnival, amateur talent contest, Northern Pride Turkey Bowl, Kitty Cat rides and karaoke competition.

Concluding the event at dusk Sunday will be the largest display of fireworks in northwest Minnesota.

Several events and activities are in need of sponsoring organizations to supply workers, and the committee is open to other ideas and suggestions for events to add to the list. Those who have suggestions to add to the list and are willing to organize the events should contact Julie Olson at the Chamber of Commerce office, phone 681-3720.

Volunteers are needed to organize and conduct food-eating contests such as pie, corn on the cob, watermelon and others. The festival committee will work with the group to cover cost of the food. Contests would be run on the hour from 1 to 6 p.m. on Sunday, June 27. The sponsoring group would be responsible for prizes and arrangement of contests and will receive $100 from the American Festival committee.

An organization is needed to operate the turkey bowling which uses frozen turkeys as bowling balls to knock down the pins. Winners receive frozen turkeys provided by Hartz Foods and Northern Pride. The event will be free to the public from 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday, June 27. The organization will receive $125 for conducting this event.

Sponsor is also needed for the Kiddie Carnival which could include such free events for children as face painting, egg toss, sack races, ring toss, etc., from 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday, June 27. The organization would receive $125 from the committee for sponsoring this event.

Tug of War contest sponsor is being sought to make arrangements for a number of this type of contests from 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday, June 27. Several ideas are available from the committee which will provide the organizing group $125 for sponsorship.

"Sponsoring one of these events is a good opportunity for organizations to raise funds for their activities and to allow members to have a good time in a fun activity," Julie Olson said. "Be sure to call 681-3720 if your organization is willing to be a sponsor."

Subcontractors want to get paid for MEC project work

Dale Dillon and Luke Noreen appeared before the Joint Powers board for the Multi-Events Center on Monday to express their concern about a contractor who is in default. Like many subcontractors on the Multi-Events Center, Dillon and Noreen are concerned about getting paid for work they've already completed.

Last January, architects for the project in Thief River Falls, Triebwasser Helenske and Associates (THA) became aware that the firm of Stamson and Blair were experiencing financial difficulties. They have since been unable to pay subcontractors who have completed work on a number of projects. Representatives of THA said they contacted subcontractors and informed them that they needed to file against the bonding company representing Stamson and Blair.

Dillon and Noreen indicated that they had filed within the 120 days required, but were still having some difficulties with the bonding company.

Representatives of the Joint Powers Board were sympathetic to the problems of subcontractors, describing it as "a rotten deal". However, board members stopped short of adopting a resolution of support because some elements of the project haven't been completed and they still have to work with the bonding company. In addition, the building is technically owned by the state, and the state has not issued a declaration of substantial completion and has not accepted the project.

Board Chairman Orley Gunderson said he would contact their state representative to ask for an update and some assistance in working with the bonding company.

Arts Requirement

Mason Riddle, Minnesota Percent for Art in Public Places Program Associate, explained the program to the joint powers board. Since part of the project was funded by the state, the joint powers board is required to spend one percent of the project on arts. They can either purchase or commission art. According to Riddle, the board is required to spend $20,540 on arts for the project. 16 percent of that or $3,280 must be paid to the state arts board for managing the art selection process, which leaves $17,253 for the art.

Envirothon April 28 at Agassiz

Local high school students will demonstrate their knowledge of Minnesota's natural resources at the 6th Annual Area Envirothon, April 28, at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge (NWR). The Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) helps organize the event.

The Envirothon consists of four learning stations covering soils, aquatics, wildlife and forestry, as well as a fifth learning station that changes each year (this year's topic is wildfire management). Natural resource professionals at each station use the outdoors to test the students' knowledge of the natural world. Each four- or five-member student team must also give an oral presentation on wildfire management.

"We're excited to offer these students the opportunity to get outside for a day and learn about soil and water," said Gront Satre, SWCD chair. "Having the event outside makes it much more interesting than learning about resources from a book," he added.

Approximately 24 teams from the five-county area will participate in the Agassiz NWR Envirothon, which is one of nine regional Envirothons held around the state. The top teams from each regional Envirothon will then proceed to the State Envirothon, held May 18 at the Minnesota Valley Wildlife Refuge in Bloomington. The state champion will attend the Canon National Envirothon in Northern California in late July. Winners of the Canon National Envirothon will receive prizes and scholarship money.

So far, local funding for the Agassiz NWR Envirothon is provided by Marshall-Beltrami SWCD, Marshall County SWCD, Pennington SWCD, Roseau SWCD, Kittson SWCD, Foxtown Sportsman Club, Grygla Lioness Club, Sistad Trucking, American State Bank of Grygla, PKM Electric Cooperative, Marshall County State Bank-Newfolden, Valley State Bank-Oslo, Joe River, Minnesota Deer Hunters Association-Stephen, Lake Bronson Lions Club, Central Boiler, Johnson Oil Co., D&D

Not present during the ceremony were: Darin Teie, loyal knight, and Ken Frazer, tiler.

Motorized portage service returned to two BWCA sites

Contracts to allow commercial motorized portage operations at Prairie and Trout portages in the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness in northeast Minnesota were announced recently by the U.S. Forest Service.

The contracts will permit the operators to transport boats, camping gear and associated equipment across both portages. Fees have been set at $10 per watercraft one-way by LaTourell's Inc. at Prairie portage and $15 one-way or $25 round-trip by James Zak at Trout portage.

Reopening the motorized portage service results primarily from the efforts of Rep. Jim Oberstar and Sen. Rod Grams over a four-year period in Congress. A provision added to the 1998 Transportation Act allowed the Forest Service to restore the operations.

TRF teachers offered retirement packages; a dozen could resign

Ten full-time and two part-time teachers in School District 561 have been offered a special retirement package from the Minnesota Teachers Retirement Association. The district is anticipating that most if not all of these teachers will accept retirement under this package.

School District Superintendent Jerry Robicheau explained that this is not a retirement package that will have a local tax impact. It is a package offered by the teacher's state retirement association. It came about because of an offer made to teachers in 1968. Robicheau said that back in 1968 teachers were given an option of selecting an Improved Monetary Plan (IMP) or the regular retirement plan.

As explained by Lowell Dyrud, a teacher at Lincoln High School, the IMP was based on investments in the stock market. The regular retirement plan was based on the "High 5" or highest paid five years, which is a set calculation. In 1968 teachers were given the opportunity to enroll in either plan. In the early 70's however, when officials with the Teachers Retirement Association sat down to compute the results of the IMP, they were shocked. The stock market was performing poorly and many teachers would be in trouble upon retirement. They were then able to obtain special legislation offering teachers enrolled in the IMP an opportunity to enroll in the "High 5" plan. Many accepted this option, and many, like Dyrud did not.

The issue seemed to be forgotten until lately. During the 90's, the market took off. The IMP retirement plan now offers significant benefits.

This current offer is guaranteed, Lowell said. Teachers can decide to retire under the IMP at a later date, but if they don't accept this offer, they are at the whim of the stock market, of course.

Robicheau said those who have been given the option to retire under this plan have until June 15 to accept or reject the offer. He added that they don't have to be of retirement age to qualify for the offer.

It's a significant incentive, said Robicheau. From his understanding, it offers an additional $800 to $1,000 per month to what they would get under the regular retirement plan. (According to a letter received by the School District, 3,000 of the 68,000 active teachers in the Teachers Retirement Association would qualify for this retirement package.)

Robicheau said there are a lot of rumors about what it offers and who will or won't accept the offer, but on Monday night, the School Board will accept letters of retirement from Lowell Dyrud, Jan Breiland and Bob Michalscek. Those three teachers alone, said Robicheau, have combined experience of over 100 years.

Robicheau said from the district's standpoint, there was no pressure on these teachers to do anything regarding the retirement offer.

Dyrud said that it seemed that it was about the opposite. The district doesn't want to lose these teachers.

These are highly competent teachers, Robicheau said. Economic advantage is not the significant issue to the district. The significant issue to the district, Robicheau said, is the experience and skill that will be lost. Each time a teacher retires or leaves the district, he said, a piece of history goes with them, as does their skill as teachers and the positive impact they have had on so many students. "That's something that cannot be replaced."

"Change happens," Robicheau said. "We realize that it's inevitable, but when teachers who have that much experience leave it really causes you to stop and think of the impact they have had."

Valley students witness 'fatal' accident

Grafton - It's hoped that the reality of what Valley High School students witnessed recently will deter them from drinking and driving.

Operation Prom Night was a mock car accident in which students, dressed in prom attire, go through what really happens when they decide to drink and drive.

The mock accident involved four prom-goers in one car and a family in another. Making the scene as real as possible were various fire departments, ambulances, the Crystal Quick Response Unit and the Walsh County Sheriff's Department.

Once the scene of the accident was cleared, speakers gave statistics and facts on what typically happens after a real accident such as this occurs. The Walsh County Record

Thank You
Thank you everyone, and God bless you, for the overwhelming outpouring of love, support, caring and sharing at the time of Kenny's death. Where would we be without family and friends? You have made our hearts glad to hear and read the many positive comments about our Dad, Grandpa, Brother, Husband and your friend. Thanks for memorial gifts, cards, letters, flowers and the much appreciated food brought to our home. A few cards and gifts were given without a signature. If you are one who did not receive an acknowledgment, please know we do appreciate your kindness and we now say "Thank You." May God richly bless each and everyone. Our love to you.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: gabriel@northernnet.com

Spring is here and you might be out and about. These dishes can be made ahead, ready to go at the end of a busy day.

Need a little spring tonic? This one might get those taste buds going:

TACO BAKE

1 pound ground beef
1 small onion, chopped
3/4 cup water
1 (1 1/4 ounces) taco seasoning
1 (15 ounce) can tomato sauce
1 (8 ounce) package shell macaroni, cooked and drained
1 (4 ounce) can chopped green chilies
2 cups shredded cheddar cheese (divided)

In skillet, brown ground beef and onion over medium heat. Drain.

Add water, seasoning and tomato sauce and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes.

Stir in macaroni, chilies and 1 1/2 cups of the cheese.

Place in greased 1 1/2 quart baking dish. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until heated through.

Here's another tasty dish that will make a great meal - with meat or without:

BAKED SPAGHETTI

1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 (28 ounce) can tomatoes with liquid, cut up
1 (4 ounce) can mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1 (2 1/4 ounce) can sliced ripe olives, drained
2 teaspoons oregano
1 pound ground beef, browned and drained (optional)
12 ounces spaghetti, cooked and drained
2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
1 (10 3/4 ounce) can condensed cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
1/4 cup water
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

In large skillet, sauté onion and green pepper in butter until tender. Add tomatoes, mushrooms, olives and oregano. Add ground beef if desired. Simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes.

Place half of the spaghetti in a greased 9x13 inch baking dish. Top with half of the sauce mixture and sprinkle with 1 cup cheddar cheese. Repeat layers.

Mix soup and water until smooth. Pour over casserole. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes, until heated through.

Here's a quick meal that the family will love:

PRONTO PIZZA BURGERS

1 pound lean ground beef
1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 tablespoon tomato paste
1 teaspoon oregano
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
4 English muffins, split
8 tomato slices
8 sliced mozzarella cheese

In bowl, mix beef, Parmesan, onion, tomato paste, oregano, salt and pepper until just combined.

Toast muffins in broiler until light browned. Divide meat mixture among muffins and broil 4 inches from heat for 8-10 minutes, or until meat is cooked.

Top with tomato and cheese slices and return to broiler until cheese is melted. Sprinkle with oregano, if desired

Any of those spicy dishes could use something tangy and cool with them - how about this easy salad for a side dish:

FROZEN CRANBERRY BANANA SALAD

1 (20 ounce) can pineapple tidbits
5 medium firm bananas, halved lengthwise and sliced
1 (16 ounce) can whole berry cranberry sauce
1/2 cup sugar
12 ounce frozen whipped topping, thawed
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Drain pineapple juice into medium bowl. Set pineapple aside.

Add bananas to the pineapple juice.

In large bowl, combine cranberry sauce and sugar. Remove bananas from pineapple juice and add to cranberry mixture. Stir in pineapple, whipped topping and nuts. Pour into greased 9x13 inch pan and freeze solid.

Remove from freezer 15 minutes before cutting into squares to serve.

One more cool and tasty salad to go with the tangy dishes:

PINEAPPLE GELATIN SALAD

1 (20 ounce) can crushed pineapple
1 (6 ounce) package lemon flavored gelatin
3 cups boiling water
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
1 (16 ounce) carton frozen whipped topping, thawed
3/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons flour
2 egg yolks, lightly beaten

Drain pineapple, reserving juice. Dissolve gelatin in water. Add pineapple. Pour into 9x13 inch dish and chill until almost set, about 45 minutes.

In a mixing bowl, beat cream cheese and whipped topping until smooth. Carefully spread over gelatin, chill for 30 minutes.

Meanwhile, in saucepan over medium heat, combine sugar, lemon juice, water, flour, egg yolks and reserved pineapple juice. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Cook 1 minute or until thickened. Cool. Carefully spread over cream cheese layer and chill for at least 1 hour.

By the way, I made the Peach Pudding Dessert last weekend and I think the time listed (60 to 70 minutes) is too long. Change it to 45 to 55 minutes and bake at 325 if you use a glass pan like I did. I used the juice from the peaches as part of the 1 cup boiling water, so that may have made a difference too.

2 egg yolks, lightly beaten

Drain pineapple, reserving juice. Dissolve gelatin in water. Add pineapple. Pour into 9x13 inch dish and chill until almost set, about 45 minutes.

In a mixing bowl, beat cream cheese and whipped topping until smooth. Carefully spread over gelatin, chill for 30 minutes.

Meanwhile, in saucepan over medium heat, combine sugar, lemon juice, water, flour, egg yolks and reserved pineapple juice. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Cook 1 minute or until thickened. Cool. Carefully spread over cream cheese layer and chill for at least 1 hour.

By the way, I made the Peach Pudding Dessert last weekend and I think the time listed (60 to 70 minutes) is too long. Change it to 45 to 55 minutes and bake at 325 if you use a glass pan like I did. I used the juice from the peaches as part of the 1 cup boiling water, so that may have made a difference too.

Marshall co. to enforce local floodplain ordinance

In order to meet requirements of a National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) agreement, Marshall county is enforcing a local floodplain ordinance involving guidelines and permits for designated activities.

"What this means is that if you have property in a Special Flood Hazard Area (SFHA), you will have to follow the guidelines in the ordinance and obtain permits for activities within the SFHA," states Danni Halvorson, Marshall county floodplain administrator.

"A permit is required for the construction of buildings or building additions, installation and/or alteration of sewage treatment systems, modifications of feedlots and for specific grading and filling activities. Application for a permit shall be made to the floodplain administrator."

A Speciol Flood Hazard Area is defined as an area of land that would be inundated by o flood having a one percent chance of occurring in any given year (also referred to as the base or 100-year flood).

Halvorson said that development is allowed in these areas providing that the development complies with the Morshall County Floodplain Ordinance. Flood insurance is required for insurable structures within the SFHA to protect federal financial investments and assistance used for acquisition and/or construction purposes within communities participating in the NFIP.

NFIP is a federal progrom enabling property owners in participating communities to purchase insurance protection against losses from flooding. This insurance is designed to provide an insurance alternative to disaster assistance to meet the escolating costs of repairing damage to buildings and their contents caused by floods.

Marshall county's participation in the NFIP is based on an agreement with the federal government that stotes the county will enforce a floodplain management ordinance to reduce future risks to new construction in SFHAs. In return, the federal government will make flood insurance available within the county as a financial protection against flood losses.

Persons with questions or concerns are invited to contact Oanni Halvorson at 218-745-4217.

THIS TREE IS VERY POPLAR.
The fastest growing trees, hardy for our area are the hybrid poplar, and the old favorite variety is the Norway poplar.
What makes Norway so darn poplar?
• Longer-lived than the unpopular Lombardy poplar, the Norway is a seedless cross of the grand old cottonwood which thrive in our area.
• Fast growing. The Norway can grow up to six feet a year, sometimes more.
• Broader crown. Closer in appearance to the wide-spread old cottonwood, but without the mess.
• Disease resistant. The Norway fights off the few diseases which attack poplar.
• Loud, rustling leaves. It doesn't take much of a wind blowing through those big leathery cottonwood-type leaves to produce a concert.
• Inexpensive. Quality trees are available at Bergeson Nursery for a couple of bucks a plant. Bigger trees are also available, but Norway poplar grow so fast that there is no need to spend the extra money. Use as a windbreak or as a fast-growing shade tree.
Norway Poplar, as well as all bare root trees and shrubs, can be purchased out of the cold storage building at Bergeson Nursery. Bare root trees can be planted as soon as you can dig a hole in the ground. April is the ideal time to plant trees!
Nursery Hours: 8:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. Mon. - Sat. Extended Hours May 1-June 13: 8:30 a.m. - 8 p.m. Mon. - Sat. Noon to Six p.m. Sundays
OOF-DA TACOS will be available at the nursery the first two weekends of MAY!
Spring SEMINARS: Seminars are held at the nursery and will start at 10:00 a.m. Saturday mornings. Coffee and donuts served. One last seminar remaining.
•May 1 – Annuals & Perennials: A class on new ideas and varieties, and a demonstration of proper planting and care of planters. We will show you how to get your planters to last all summer.

THE LYON'S SHARE

Tim Lyon

Look to a Sturgeon for a Spring Cure

We don't really have panfish in Lake of the Woods. Oh, there are perch, but they are more of an accidental addition to a day of walleye fishing. A few bluegills exist in the clearer waters of the northern third of the lake, but they're the result of an abortive stocking effort in the late sixties and have never amounted to much of anything.

Crappies? There are a good number of crappies, but like the walleyes they're fickle and tough to catch without the softest of angling hands. No, we don't have a bona fide panfish supply in Lake of the Woods.

And what's my point? After all, I have the world's finest walleye/musky/northern/bass lake at my disposal. I shouldn't be whining, I should be fishing.

However, I also have two sub-10-year-old fishermen in my house and neither of them has reached that fishing stage where they want to catch the fish that presents the biggest challenge. We're looking specifically for "fish-on-the-line-time." So when spring rolls around and the walleye season is closed and everyone else is running south to their favorite panfish lake, this family goes sturgeon fishing.

The immediate logistical benefits are obvious. This fishing is right in my own back yard. And I'm not talking 12 or five or even two miles out on the lake; this is right in the immediate comfort of the Rainy river.

If you're lucky enough to have a buddy with riverfront property and a boat to borrow, this is a no-brainer. But if you have to trailer something, don't worry about being too lavish. Put in o 14-footer with a two-horse motor and you're ready.

The fishing style, too, is pretty rudimentary. No eight-year-olds wildly casting multiple sets of treble hooks past your ears while you struggle with engines, wind and current. Drop your anchor, drop your line. Make sure your bait's on the bottom. That's it. If the kids insist on occasional jigging, fine, but not necessary. Sit back and wait for the fish to bite.

Sound boring? Is your kid, like mine, going to mutiny mere minutes into this effort? Consider it in terms of television, only you are the TV. Remember, the anchor is out and the lines are down. Your attention can be focused 100 percent on your children, a fairly newsworthy event for both of you. Regale them with stories of the good ol' days, play card or board games, read a book, eat candy; anything is acceptable for it won't interfere with the fishing. This really is the goal, BUT...

This fishing is not boring. We've traded panfish action for sturgeon size. Set the hook and pass the pole. One midrange sturgeon (5-15 lbs.) provides more line time for a couple of third graders than 20 sunfish could ever offer. Ten-minute battles are the norm while half-hour encounters are not uncommon.

The soft mouth structure of these beasts makes them virtually unloseable, allowing for casual turn-taking on the bigger ones. At even the modest rate of six a morning, this is truly action fishing. That translates to a solid hour of bent poles. Factor in that you're in close proximity to other boats which are also quietly anchored, and every fish hooked becomes a shared event. And with the constant, almost eerie, roll ond splash of sturgeon surfacing oround you, there is very little down time.

Unlike bluegills, boating a big sturgeon doesn't signify the end of the adrenaline surge. While its size and general appearance will have a lasting impact on your now screaming kids, it's the fish's strength that will have you rolling on the boat deck more like Goldberg or Stone Cold than a calm and rational parent during the de-hooking process.

This is bonding! Kids like nothing better than witnessing the embarrassing struggles of their parents. Imagine their pride when, on the Monday morning bus ride to school, they can claim, "My Dad got beat up by o fish this weekend!"

I'll still make the occasional spring journey to true "panfish country." I've got certain deep-rooted memories I'd like to pash off on my children. The worms, the bobbers, the steps toward fishing independence. However, being rooted here in the north, with no panfish lakes in sight, will not bring an end to that nostalgic spring trend. I can get all the action I want. I can go sturgeon fishing.

Phillips travels to Winnipeg on UMC class tour

Justin Phillips of Thief River Falls, a student at the University of Minnesota—Crookston, traveled to Winnipeg, Man., Canada recently for a first-hand look at the opportunities and technologies in value-added dairy processing.

Phillips and nine other students in UMC's dairy products class went to the University of Manitoba to learn how fresh milk is processed into value added products. The class helped make Saskatoon Berry ice cream which, if successful, could create a new market for another agricultural crop.

"Students often learn more by seeing and doing than by reading and listening," states Dr. Lyle Westrom, associate professor of dairy at UMC, in discussing the trip.

Technological Progress, Prosperity Key Positive Environmental Changes

Prosperity and technological progress are the main reasons that there have been positive changes in the environment in Minnesota and elsewhere in the United States over the past decade or two. That is the conclusion of Steven Hayward, Erin Schiller and David Riggs, authors of Index of Leading Environmental Indicators for Minnesota and the United States.

While environmental activists rant and rave about the way our nation is allowing its environment to deteriorate, the authors found that objectives for protecting human health and the environment are being met, pollution and wastes are being controlled and resources and land are being sustainably and effectively managed. Environmental quality in Minnesota and the United States is improving, not deteriorating.

The findings were distributed by Center of the American Experiment with headquarters in Minneapolis. Some of the situations pointed out by the authors were as follows:

• Urban air quality, measured as the number of days per year a city exceeded air quality standards, has improved for the Minneapolis-St. Paul (MSP), Duluth and Rochester metropolitan areas. In 1980, MSP had 32 days above the standard while Duluth and Rochester had 11 and nine days, respectively. In 1997, however, the three cities did not exceed the standard for a single day. Urban air quality trends in other major metropolitan areas such as Los Angeles and New York are also improving.

• Water quality, although difficult to measure, is improving. The National Stream Water-Quality Monitoring Network of the U.S. Geological Survey shows measures of phosphorus, fecal coliform and dissolved oxygen that exceed national water quality criteria in rivers and streams decreased between 1976 and 1994. Similarly, in Lake Superior, pesticides and contaminants such as DDE, DDT, PCBs and HCBs have fallen considerably since 1974.

• Forest resources have remained relatively stable for the past 30 years. Each year Minnesota and the U.S. harvest only 60 to 75 percent of total new growth.

• Urban growth is not a threat to Minnesota or the United States; developed land, which includes urban, defense, miscellaneous farm and rural transportation land uses, takes up only five percent of Minnesota's 51 million acres and five percent of the 2.3 billion acres in the United States.

• The toxic release inventory issued by the Environmental Protection Agency does not distinguish between releases that pose an environmental problem and those that do not. Toxic waste releases, however, fell 68 percent in Minnesota and 62 per cent in the United States between 1988 and 1996.

"Although it is difficult to determine the precise contribution of regulatory programs, economic prosperity and citizen preferences, economic growth in the last 30 years has been key to improving the ability of Minnesota and the nation to protect the environment," Center of the American Experiment notes.

"By fostering a growing citizen preference for a clean environment and making more resources available for environmental protection, economic growth is the main prerequisite for environmental quality and progress."

The study by authors Hayward, Schiller and Riggs concludes that, "instead of a one-size-fits-all approach imposed by a regulatory regime, the model for future environmental policy will emphasize markets, property rights, incentives and cooperation."

No Surprise: More Farmers Working Off The Farm in 1997

Minnesota WorkForce Center in Thief River Falls notes that farmers in northwest Minnesota are working off the farm in increasing numbers. Data collected through the 1997 U.S. Census of Agriculture shows nearly 3,000 of northwest Minnesota's 5,693 farm operators worked off the farm during the year—up from 2,338 farmers who indicated in the 1992 census that they worked off the farm.

Counties included in the study are Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau.

Of the total working off the farm, 1,673 farmers worked 200 or more days off the farm. The percentage of farmers in this category ranged from a low of 19 percent in Norman county to a high of 42 percent in Roseau county. According to the statistics, 32 percent of farm operators across Minnesota worked off the farm 200 or more days per year. In the seven northwest counties, the total was 29.3 percent.

We're surprised the area number wasn't higher, although the area situation may not have been as dire in 1997 as it is today. The percentage of off-farm workers is undoubtedly higher now than it was then—and the statistics apparently don't include spouses. Farm wives in large numbers have been working off the farm more often in recent years, frequently to obtain the fringe benefit of health insurance as well as to provide money for living expenses.

The number of farm operators in this region who consider their primary occupation actually to be farming declined from 3,858 (75 percent) in 1992 to 3,397 (60 percent) in 1997.

According to the WorkForce Center, several factors drive the level of nonfarm employment of farmers. Included are the ability (or inability) of the farm to generate family income, employment opportunities off the farm, level of farm and family debt and job skills of farm operators. It is also no surprise that the largest percentage of farmers working off the farm are in proximity to major employers in Roseau, Warroad and Thief River Falls.

We believe the WorkForce Center assessment of the situation is accurate when it states: "While keeping farms in northwest Minnesota operating is important to the region, strong employment prospects have helped ameliorate the effects of the current downturn in the farm economy, thus offering opportunities for farm operators to weather the current storm.

"Given the economic conditions in agriculture and the employment market, the incidence of nonfarm employment of farmers will likely continue to grow," the WorkForce Center continues. "This is good news for employers who are looking for the skills many farm operators have to offer."

While the assessment is true, there is something wrong with a situation which does not permit a full-time farmer with a huge investment in land, machinery, perhaps livestock or other equipment, to earn enough money from his labor skills on the farm to pay for reasonable family living expenses. A country which can't pay the people who put food on its collective table is a country headed for a rude awakening down the road.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Prom, graduation and end of school parties will soon be upon us. These are just a few of the milestones parents and their children reach together and they all call for celebration. How the celebration takes place may determine true success.

Parents have worked side by side with their children in school activities from the time they began their school career. Certainly celebrations are in order, but should the celebration include alcohol? That's a question parents face this time of year, and when the choice is yes, the results can be devastating.

Teens tell us that adults are their primary source of alcohol. If adults provide alcohol to anyone under the age of 21 they could go to jail for up to one year and pay a fine up to $3,000. That would certainly put an unfavorable end to the celebration! Furthermore, the fact remains that underage drinking is illegal and unsafe. Teens who drink are more likely to have problems in school, make choices to have unsafe sex, get into fights or be involved in car crashes. These are circumstances no parents want for their children. What can parents do?

Parents can and need to talk to their children about the impact alcohol can have in their young lives. They need to share their values and let their children know what they think. Parents also can act as role models for appropriate behavior concerning alcoholic beverages.

Parents can find out about the celebrations their children will be going to, who will be there, and if there will be alcohol served. Parents must also resist the pressure from their children to provide alcohol at parties they are hosting.

Parents have a strong and important influence on their children's choices about substance use. Recent studies show that clear and consistent messages from parents and other adults about alcohol, tobacco, other drugs and violence do make a very important difference.

Everyone wants to ensure that this is a time of celebration and not tragedy. Parents can make a difference.

TRF records first softball win, 19-4 vs. F-B Thursday

Sophomore Amy Christensen hit a two-run home run to highlight a 15-run Thief River Falls fourth inning Thursday that carried the Prowlers past Fertile-Beltrami 19-4 in high school softball at the fairgrounds diamond.

It was the first win after four season-opening losses for the Prowlers, which included a 15-14 setback at the hands of the Falcons a week earlier.

Senior Lacey Huschle, who missed the previous game against Fertile-Beltrami while on a school band trip, turned in a complete-game, three-hit pitching performance. She struck out eight and walked five.

Huschle also led the Prowlers' 12-hit attack with a 3-for-4, 4-RBI game at the plate.

While Huschle was backed by an error-free defense, the Falcons were charged with eight of them, helping to fuel the Prowlers' game-breaking fourth inning.

"Lacey pitched a nice game," said Thief River Falls coach Matt Okeson. "They (Falcons) have a good-hitting ball club. Our girls hit the ball well, and the defense made the plays. It was fun to watch. We've been playing pretty good ball."

Lumberjacks defeat Prowlers 6-1 in high school tennis match

Bemidji beat Thief River Falls 6-1 Thursday in boys high school tennis.

The only win for the visiting Prowlers was a come-from-behind effort by seniors Andy Janisch-Josh Cahalan at No. 1 doubles.

"Bemidji has a very nice team," reported Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad. "Our kids are still improving with each match, and they are doing the things that we ask. If we continue to work hard, we will surprise some teams this season."

The Prowlers are 2-5 in dual meet competition.

TRF Baseball Association registration is set April 28

Thief River Falls Baseball Association registration for the 1999 season will take place Wednesday, April 28, at 7 p.m. at the Eagles Club.

The program covers players ages 13-18.

Registration fee is $55 for 13-year-olds; $80 for 14-15-year-olds; and $100 for 16-18 year-olds. There are also transportation fees involved – $35 for 13-15-year-olds and $50 for 16-18-year-olds.

Middle River hosts men's slow pitch softball event

Middle River Early Bird Invitational men's slow pitch softball tournament will be held Sunday, May 2.

Teams are guaranteed three games in the double-elimination consolation bracket ASA-sanctioned event. There will be a four home run limit.

Entry fee is $90. Send check or money order entry fee to tournament director Brett Brandon, P.O. Box 223, Newfolden, MN 56738. For additional information call Brandon at 218-874-8665 or 218-681-2850.

Central Lakes catcher Darin Prom reached out and tagged Northland runner Ryan Halvorson on a play at the plate in the fifth inning of Thursday's Minnesota Community College Conference baseball doubleheader opener in Thief River Falls. Halvorson was out trying to score from second on an infield ground-out. The Raiders began the twinbill with a 13-5 Game 1 win.

Haviland, Kopari lead Prowlers

■ Track teams score points at Crookston meet

Special recognition for Chelsea Haviland and Nicole Kopari highlighted Thief River Falls performances Tuesday at the Crookston Invitational boys and girls high school track meet.

Haviland won three individual events and ran a leg on a first place relay team, while Kopari came up with a double triumph in the shot put and discus. Those efforts produced Athlete of the Meet awards in the girls competition for both Haviland (track events) and Kopari (field events).

The Haviland wins came in the 800 (2:30.3), 1600 (5:28.14) and pole vault (9-0), plus the 4x400 relay, a unit that also included Stacia Kalinoski, Jackie Mooney and Rachel Mathson.

Kopari turned in season-best throws of 43-5 1/2 in the shot and 147-8 in the discus.

The Prowlers also got first places from Mathson, who ran a 1:04.58 in the girls' 400, and Kelly Cota, who cleared 5-11 in the boys' high jump.

Twelve teams took part in the meet, with Thief River Falls tying for second in the girls' team scoring and finishing fourth in the boys' final point standings.

Crookston girls finished with 206 points, followed by East Grand Forks with 97, Thief River Falls 97, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 40, Stephen-Argyle 32 1/2, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River/Tri-County 31, Red Lake County 26, Norman County 14 1/2, Fisher/East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 8, Waubun 4, Kittson Central/ Kittson County North 1, Win-E-Mac 14.

The Pirates also won the boys' title with 161 points, followed by Badger/Greenbush-Middle River/Tri-County 69 1/2, East Grand Forks 66, Thief River Falls 48 1/2, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 43, Norman County 40, Win-E-Mac 38, Fisher/East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 21, Waubun 12, Kittson Central/Kittson County North 10, Red Lake County 4.

"We did a lot of scoring," noted Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "That was good to see. The kids are started to step it up. We still haven't had the really nice weather where you can see the big improvements, but they're making progress."

Haviland's collection of first place finishes, Kopari's distance in the discus and Cota's climb to the six-foot area in the high jump were attention-getters, mentioned Olson.

TRF rally falls short in softball loss...

Lakers hold off Prowlers 11-7

Detroit Lakes built a 10-1 lead and held off Thief River Falls 11-7 Tuesday in a high school softball game at the fairgrounds diamond. It was the delayed home opener for the Prowlers, who were weathered out of two earlier home games.

It was also their fourth straight loss to start the year. But head coach Matt Okeson still saw reason to be optimistic. "We played pretty well," he said. "The girls are starting to make the plays in key situations. It's fun to see them doing the things in game situations that we've been working on in practice. We just have to do it on a more consistent basis."

Thief River Falls sophomore Kylie Rogalla, making her pitching debut, gave up a single, then a run-scoring triple to Becky Schons in the top of the first, but got out of the inning without further damage.

The Lakers combined three hits with two walks in a five-run second inning and were up 7-0 before the Prowlers got on the board in the bottom of the third on a bases-loaded single by Becca Leach.

Lacey Huschle came on in relief of Rogalla as Detroit Lakes hit double figures with a three-run fourth.

Thief River Falls rallied in the bottom of the fourth when Huschle and Jackie Hoglo came up with inning-opening singles and Alissa Hoffman walked to load the bases. Jenny Swanson followed with a two-run single. A fielder's choice on a ball hit by April Schmit and an error produced two more runs, making it a 10-5 game.

Two wild pitches scored the Prowlers' final two runs in the seventh.

Offensive highlights - (TRF) Jackie Hoglo 2/3, Becca Leach 2/4, Jenny Swanson 2 RBI.

Big innings decide pair of TRF games

Big innings produced a Monday loss and a Tuesday win for Thief River Falls in high school baseball games played at Moorhead and Karlstad, respectively.

Moorhead scored eight times in the bottom of the sixth inning as a two-run game abruptly turned into a 10-run rule, 11-1 Spuds win over Thief River Falls at Matson Field.

The Prowlers got on the board first with a second inning run and trailed just 3-1 through five innings before being rocked in the game-ending sixth.

It was the first loss after a pair of season-opening wins for the Prowlers.

The next afternoon a similar scenario went in the Prowlers' favor as they turned a 2-1 edge into a rout with a 13-run fourth inning against Marshall County Central/Tri-County.

Shanna Kaskitalo, a freshman from New York Mills, was the starting pitcher for Northland Wednesday when the Pioneers made their 1999 home softball debut with a Minnesota Community College Conference doubleheader against Fergus Falls. The Spartans won both games, 8-7 and 8-5.

Northland softball openers...

Cardinals, Spartans sweep NCTC squad

Nearly two weeks worth of postponements have delayed the development of a young 1999 Northland Community and Technical College softball squad. After having four doubleheaders called off because of the weather or field conditions, the Pioneers finally opened play with Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division twinbills at Hibbing Tuesday and at home against Fergus Falls the next day. They lost all four. The Cardinals won 9-1 and 10-2 in two games called after five innings due to an eight-run rule, while the Spartans pulled out a pair of close wins, 8-7 and 8-5.

"We saw a lot of positive things," reported Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We've settled into a defensive alignment that I'm comfortable with, and we won't have to do a lot of experimenting. It's just a matter of getting some games in. We have to play games to get better."

In the Pioneers' Wednesday Game 1 home opener, Northland watched a 7-6 lead fall prey to a two-run Fergus Falls rally in the bottom of the sixth (the home-team designation is a shared commodity in MCCC softball doubleheaders). In Game 2, the Pioneers were up 4-2 thanks to back-to-back fifth inning home runs by Katie Block and Terra Lorenson before the Spartans' Rhonda Blonigen hit a grand slam home run in a six-run top of the sixth.

While the Pioneers were in the process of getting their season started, it was the Spartans' seventh doubleheader of the year.

Pioneers, Vikings split decisions in Thursday softball doubleheader

Northland and Itasca split a Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division softball doubleheader played at Grand Rapids Thursday. The Pioneers won the opener 5-2, and the Vikings took the nightcap 6-3.

"They were very well-played games," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We had our chances to win the second game, but we ran ourselves out of potential rallies with some bad decisions on the bases."

Northland is 1-5.

Losses mount up for NCTC baseball team

Six games in three days tested the Northland Community and Technical College baseball pitching staff. And unfortunately for the Pioneers, the exams didn't go very well. They lost all six, and most weren't close. Doubleheader losses to Mesabi Range Saturday (6-1, 18-3), Itasca Sunday (13-4, 12-1) and Vermilion Monday (10-0, 7-1) left John Ott still looking for his first win after an 0-10 start in his first year as head coach.

"We just don't have the pitchers to handle six games in three days," explained Ott. "And on top of that, we're not hitting the ball, and we're not doing that well defensively, either. We just need to start getting better."

Ott is hoping the schedule will help turn things around. The first ten games were all played on the road, giving Northland six straight doubleheaders at home before the Pioneers finish the year against Central Lakes in Brainerd May 15.

Septic systems must protect people's health in MN

Half a million households or 27 percent of the 1.85 million housing units in the state, use an onsite sewage treatment or septic system to treat household wastewater or sewage, according to Ken Olson, extension educator for sewage treatment homeowner education with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

Not all of the systems are in rural Minnesota. The most recent census data (1990) shows there are 65,264 (more than 13 percent) of the state's septic systems located within the seven-county Twin Cities metro area. If the larger 13-county Twin Cities metro area is included, the 111,328 septic systems make up 22.6 percent of the state's total.

Olson expects that the 2000 census will document that the number of systems has increased dramatically with the movement of many urbanites to suburban and open areas.

According to 1990 census data, 13 counties in Minnesota have over 10,000 septic systems. St. Louis county leads with 33,009, followed by Crow Wing (21,151), Otter Tail (19,628), Anoka (19,242), Stearns (17,610), Cass (16,411), Itasca (15,341), Wright (14,837), Washington (13,893) Aitkin (11,278), Becker (10,863), Hennepin (10,739) and Pine (10,063).

Proper treatment of sewage by municipal treatment and on-site septic systems is important to protect human health and the environment, especially drinking water supplies, Olson notes. Recently, legislative attention reflecting public concern for these issues has focused attention on septic systems and sewage treatment.

Sewage and wastewater generated by humans contain many bacteria, viruses and fungi (known as pathogens) which cause diseases, illnesses and even death. In the late 1800s and early 1900s many people became seriously ill or died because of exposure to untreated or improperly treated sewage.

"Septic systems safely recycle water used by humans back into the natural environment," Olson explains. "When properly designed, installed, operated and maintained, septic systems treat wastewater as well as or better than municipal treatment systems. They are a cost-effective system used in locations where municipal treatment is impractical. Federal, state and local regulation of on-site systems exist to ensure proper treatment of sewage for the protection of citizens and the environment."

Components of a septic system include the home's plumbing, the septic tank and a soil treatment area usually known as a drainfield or mound. All of the "dirty" water, solids and cleaners contained in the wastewater is delivered to the septic tank where light solids float to the top, forming a scum layer, and heavy solids sink to the bottom, forming sludge.

In the tank, millions of naturally-occurring bacteria decompose organic solids. Non-organic solids must be cleaned out of the tank by regular pumping.

The septic tank delivers the partially treated liquids (effluent) which still contain pathogens, nutrients and some fine solids to the soil treatment area or drainfield.

"The soil surrounding the network of pipes in the drainfield or mound completes the treatment process by allowing naturally-occurring aerobic bacteria in the soil to destroy pathogens and forcing nutrients to come in direct contact with soil particles," Olson said.

"Phospharous and sodium attach or adsorb to soil particles. A thin layer of fine solids, dead bacteria and soil bacteria, called a 'biomat,' forms naturally where effluent enters the soil. After passing through the unsaturated soil below the drainfield, harmless water returns to the soil and groundwater system or evaporates into the air."

Olson says there are many design variations to the soil portion of the system that make proper treatment possible. The amount of wastewater produced by the home and the soil conditions on the property determine the type needed. National, state and local design standards and codes specify what needs to be done to accomplish proper treatment.

Most of the health standards established in the 1920s are still good today, but designs of septic systems have changed a great deal since then. Olson says the reason is the drastic change in lifestyles.

"People used to take baths once a week whether they needed them or not," Olson quips. "Now most take a bath or shower at least once a day. Several loads of clothes used to be washed and rinsed in the same water using a wringer washer once a week. Today we might run an automatic washer using 50 or more gallons per cycle to wash a single sweatshirt for a basketball game."

In the 1960s Minnesota started developing wastewater treatment rules to upgrade septic systems on lakeshores. In the 1970s the state began training septic system installers. Responsibilities for enforcement of septic system rules shifted from the Health Department to the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA). Revised voluntary standards were enacted in 1974. In 1989 the laws were revised and changed to the current Minnesota Rule 7080.

"Our many lifestyle changes have led to frequent code revisions until today, when statewide licensing of on-site septic system designers, installers, inspectors and pumpers is mandatory by state law," Olson said.

"State law requires homeowners, when selling a home with a septic system, to disclose everything they know about the system to the buyer. The state also requires that if a county, township or city is going to have its own ordinance governing septic systems, it cannot be less restrictive than the state rules."

Olson says that many local units of government have gone beyond the disclosure requirement to make inspections and upgrades mandatory at the time of sale of a home. Upgrades on lakeshore have been mandatory since 1972. All code enforcement is up to the local unit of government.

Several rule changes are currently being proposed by the MPCA. They affect the vertical separation of existing drainfields in certain situations, length of time that certifications are valid, adjustment of local standards and allowance of warranted systems. Information on the proposed changes can be reviewed on the State Register website at: www.pca.state.mn.us/news/ public notice/index.html or call Mark Wespetal at 1-800-657-3864.

Brandli elected chair of Wheat Foods Council

Art Brandli, a Warroad wheat producer, has been elected to a one-year term as chairman of the Wheat Foods Council. Brandli has been a member of the WFC board of directors since 1994, and is the first producer to serve as chairman.

Brandli also serves as vice president of the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion Council, based in Red Lake Falls. The MWRPC administers Minnesota's penny-per-bushel checkoff for wheat research and promotion programs, including the Wheat Foods Council, headquartered in Parker, CO.

The WFC is a non-profit organization that promotes increased consumption of grain-based food through nutrition, education and promotional programs. With an investment in the Wheat Foods Council, the MWRPC and other grain producers, millers, bakers, baking suppliers, and cereal, tortilla and pasta manufacturers work to increase domestic grain consumption. The Council's nutrition education program is designed to benefit all portions of the domestic grains industry.

Also elected to serve on the WFC's 1999/2000 executive board beginning July 1, 1999, are: Vice chairman, Dave Green, director of quality products for AOM Milling, Shawnee Mission, KS, and Secretary/Treasurer, Judy Vermulm, director of the Montana Wheat & Barley Committee, Great Falls, MT.

Member-At-Large Representative, Mark Dirkes, a board representative for the American Bakers Association, is the senior vice president and director of corporate marketing for Interstate Brands Corporation, Kansas City, MO. Member-At-Large Representative, Jack McCaffery, a representative for the Independent Bakers Association, is prior owner of Mr. Bagel in Denver, CO. Immediate past chairman, Alta Engstrom, a registered dietitian in Minneapolis, recently retired as head of nutrition at General Mills.

Brandli and the WFC officer team will be instrumental in continuing the WFC's aggressive mission to help increase the domestic consumption of grain-based foods through media and opinion leaders. Further, to educate consumers that they can enjoy more grain foods for optimum health and well-being, and debunk lingering misconceptions that grain foods are fattening.
